Mr. K. Will Not Do Any Business With Eisenhower

Will Keep Berlin Issue On Ice While Ike Rules

VIENNA (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev has washed his hands of President Eisenhower, but he stands ready to go a round with the next United States president.

The Soviet premier, here on a nine-day official visit, spelled out his position on future East-West talks in private conversations with Austria's Socialist Foreign Minister Bruno Kreisky and Vice-Chancellor Bruno Pittermann.

"Nikita told us he would not do any business with Eisenhower," Kreisky told reporters Friday night at a reception in Vienna's Schoenbrunn Palace. "He is willing and ready to go to another summit with a new United States president."

Kreisky added that Khrushchev told him he intends to keep the Berlin issue on ice until after a new U.S. president takes office in January.

EXPECTED RELAY

Informed sources said Khrushchev probably volunteered this information expecting Kreisky and Pitterman to pass it on to West Berlin Socialist Mayor Willy Brandt, a long-time friend of the two Austrians.

Soviet Foreign Ministes Andrie A. Gromyko also used the reception to play one of the Kremlin's cold war cards. Asked if the Soviet Union intends to break up the three-power Geneva negotiations on suspension of nuclear weapon tests, he said: "The future attitude of the Soviet Union will depend on the progress of these talks."

That seemed to leave the question open. The test suspension talks have recently shown some promise of progress for the first time since they started Oct. 31, 1958. On the other hand, Gromyko said, the Russians would not resume the disarmament talks which collapsed with the Soviet-bloc walkout from the 10-nation conference earlier this week.

Traffic Deaths Climb Towards Predicted Fifty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A total of 26 traffic deaths in Canada in the first 32 hours of the Dominion Day weekend pushed the number of road deaths towards the 50 mark predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Thursday to 2 a.m. EDT Saturday, showed at least 35 persons dead in accidents across the Dominion.

Six persons died in one Manitoba accident Friday night. RCMP said the victims were three women, two men and a young boy, killed in a head-on collision of two cars at Lockport, 17 miles from Winnipeg. Names were withheld.

A family of four was killed in a two-car collision three miles east of Chilliwack, B.C. Police identified them as Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey A. Kronebusch and their children Kathleen, 18 months and Kenny, six months.

Ontario had at least 12 road deaths, Manitoba and British Columbia six each.

The survey will end at midnight Sunday. It includes all violent deaths connected with weekend holiday activities.

Killed at Belleville when a car and transport truck collided on Highway 401 were Patrick Gartland, 38, Shannonville, Ont., his wife Margaret, 23, Terrance Brennan, 25, Lonsdale and John Hannafin 47 Reid. The truck driver escaped injury.

The three who died near Port Severn in the crash of a car and a dump truck were Lawson Middleton of Charlton, near Kirkland Lake, the truck driver, and John Anderson and Michael Marshall, both 19, of Toronto.

Other deaths included two in another car-truck collision near Parry Sound, where Alex Cherlinczuk, 32, and Julianna Kereliuk of Elliot Lake died on Highway 69.

Castro Seeking Tankers to Avert Oil Famine

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government was reported wooing shipping circles in the United States and Europe today in a bid for tankers to avert what could be a disastrous oil famine for Cuba.

The reports spread as Cuban officials and petroleum technicians insisted they are capable of running three foreign oil refineries seized by Castro. They claimed they could find tankers to bring in the 60,000 barrels a day to fulfil the country's domestic needs.

But Castro's government apparently must act quickly to head off disaster. The prime minister told a TV audience June 24 that Cuba had a 66-day supply of gasoline and 34-day ration of fuel oil.

The crisis threatened following the government takeover Friday of American-owned Esso Standard and Dutch-British Shell—last two foreign oil refineries in Cuba. They were seized for refusing to process state - owned crude oil Castro had obtained in a sugar-for-oil deal with Russia.

Life Sentences Suggested for Drug Trafficking

OTTAWA (CP)—A maximum life sentence, perhaps even for first offences, is the federal government's idea of a punishment to fit the crime of narcotics trafficking, Justice Minister Fulton said Thursday.

Cabinet approval has been given for such a severe sentence in the justice department's preparation of a new approach to Canadian narcotics addiction, Mr. Fulton told the Commons.

The governments of British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, as the main centres of addiction, have been or will be sounded out on the new approach first announced last month.

DIEFENBAKER CALLS ON USSR TO RESUME TALKS

Denies Canada Just Following U.S. Line

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to resume Russian participation in the 10-nation disarmament negotiations.

At the same time, he labelled Khrushchev's allegation that Canada was merely following the line of the United States as a "transparent misrepresentation of Canada's position."

Mr. Diefenbaker's statements were contained in a firm letter to Khrushchev dated June 30. A copy of the letter, in reply to one by Khrushchev to Mr. Diefenbaker June 27, was made public today.

The prime minister said he fails to understand why Russia broke off the disarmament talks when it was aware the West was about to introduce new proposals.

These proposals, together with the Soviet plan of June 2, "gave promise of bringing new life into the negotiations," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Such actions as the Soviet walkout "stand in odd contrast with your professed desire for genuine negotiations, and scarcely reflect a recognition of the urgent and importance of the work of the committee," he told the Russian premier.

Mr. Diefenbaker's 1,300 - word letter said at one point:

"If your allegations against the Canadian government are seriously meant, they constitute a transparent misrepresentation of Canada's position.

"The Canadian government has throughout adopted in the 10-nation committee a strong and independent stand in support of balanced concessions leading towards agreement.

"Furthermore, despite all setbacks we have not ceased to advocate in other fields th continuvocate in other fields the continuance of a policy of negotiation with a view to the restoration of mutual confidence between the Soviet and western worlds . . .

"The Canadian delegation made detailed suggestions designed to bring the 10-nation committee to grips with the task of real negotiation. Unfortunately, the Soviet Union and its allies did not respond to these suggestions or to a number of other Western proposals to move towards specific measures of disarmament."

Missing Man Found Dead In Plane Wreck

SUDBURY (CP) — The body of Clark H. White, a 32-year-old Toronto income tax official, was found late Thursday in the wreckage of his private plane, missing since Tuesday on a flight from here to Kapuskasing.

An RCAF spokesman said Mr. White's death was confirmed by a coroner taken to the crash scene by an RCAF helicopter. The wreckage was sighted earlier from the air near the mining town of Levack, 28 miles north of here on the CPR main line.

Senator Roebuck Says He Thinks CBC Divorce Expose 'Just an Act'

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Arthur Roebuck said Thursday he thinks the CBC's television interview with a self-styled professional divorce co-respondent may have been just an act and that the young woman interviewed was an actress.

Senator Roebuck, chairman of the Senate's divorce committee said in an interview "it was outrageous for a public body like the CBC to tell young women how they allegedly may make $100 a night in addition to their regular working salary."

He advocated prosecution of the woman interviewed on charges of fabricating evidence for which the Criminal Code provides a maximum penalty of 14 years imprisonment.

Senator Roebuck said that if the TV interview was just an act, as he believes, the CBC might be liable to prosecution under the criminal code for wilfully publishing false news or statements that cause injury or mischief to the public.

Although the interview may have been an act, he said, that does not excuse the CBC for broadcasting a report of a criminal action—the fabricating of evidence to deceive a law court.

Regarding the request of Ontario's Attorney - General Kelso Roberts to the CBC for the woman's name, Senator Roebuck said he sympathizes with the CBC officials who gave the woman assurance before she appeared on TV that they would conceal her identity. He said he understands their objection to "double-crossing" the woman.

"But if the CBC feel it is honor bound to protect her, it takes on itself full responsibility for the statements she made."

Ottawa Celebrates July 1, Dominion Relatively Quiet

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital nearly outdid itself Friday in celebrating the 93rd anniversary of Confederation.

Six hours of military ritual, gunnery and music drew crowds totalling 22,000 to the wide lawns of Parliament Hill. It was a tourist's delight. Even Ottawans, accustomed to busbies and scarlet tunics and brass bands, applauded with vigor.

For sheer pomp and color, the July 1 celebration went down in the Ottawa records as one of the longest, finest, and best-attended since Viscount Monck, Canada's first governor-general, declared the first Dominion Day in 1868.

An estimated 10,000 persons ringed the lawns for the afternoon ceremonies, beginning with a 21-gun salute and 1½ hours of music from the Peace Tower carillon and followed by the impressive trooping the regimental color by the 2nd Battalion, the Canadian Guards.

The crowd swelled to 12,000 for the evening ceremonies, when the navy rolled its 12-pound guns and

The day was marked by solemnity in Ottawa and Quebec City but Montreal and Toronto let the anniversary of Confederation slip by almost unnoticed.

In generally warm and clear weather tourists rushed to lakes and cottages for the holiday weekend. Others watched sports events and parades.

A 21-gun salute rolled over the St. Lawrence River from the Citadel in Quebec City, on the east end of the Plains of Abraham where General Wolfe fell 201 years ago in taking New France for the British.

Berthed in Wolfe's Cove, below and at the east end of the plains, the guns of the United States aircraft carrier Randolph answered the salute.

Members of the House of Commons stood in Ottawa and sang, in mixed English and French, O Canada and God Save the Queen.

French Bank Very Critical Of Canadian Exchange Fund

TORONTO (CP) — A large French banking company, Societe Generale, has harshly criticized the Canadian government's exchange stabilization fund operations.

A bank bulletin says the government spent $101,000,000 to stop the Canadian dollar falling below par in terms of United States currency last May.

The loss was sustained in operations of the exchange fund, to prevent violent fluctuations in the price of the Canadian dollar as it dropped.

While the Canadian exchange rate is free, the Bank of Canada, which operates the fund at the technical level, can influence the rate through its holding of foreign exchange.

The French bank says natural pressures would have driven the rate to a desirable discount level. The rate then was at a one per cent premium.

(The Canadian dollar Friday was at $1.02 in terms of U.S. funds).

The Societe Generale, which has a branch in New York, says a desirable discount level is the only way to solve Canada's economic and financial problems.

The bank's bulletin says the "extraordinary loss occurred when unusual support was given to the Canadian dollar by two loans raised in U.S. dollars, and by a special flow of European investment funds to Canada."

The effect of natural pressures, says the bulletin, would have helped Canada on the way to "restoration of economic sovereignty the correction of the chronic imbalance in international trade, and the renaissance of Canadian domestic industry."

"This would permit Canadians to live within their own means," it adds.

The French bank stresss that Canada should realize its economy is not growing as promised, that former prime export items such as uranium, oil and gas and iron ore now are in world glut, that Russia's export list is almost identical with Canada's and that the European trading blocs are likely to hurt Canada.

BILL OF RIGHTS BROKEN BEFORE PASSED, CLAIM

CCF-er Says House Ignored Principle

OTTAWA (CP)—For a second time, the government's bill of rights has been launched into the parliamentary forum, not without a slight procedural hitch and not without a few political recriminations.

And Prime Minister Diefenbaker, after explaining the bill's provisions, came under fire for selecting Dominion Day to debate the measure. Opposition Leader Pearson said a major criticism of his Liberals was that the bill, which was before a previous session, was held until near the end of the current session, leaving no time for a committee to hear representations.

As the prime minister opened his explanation of the bill, he was interrupted by Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) who argued on a point of order that the bill could not be dealt with at this session because its subject matter had already been decided on in a previous bill.

FEEDS ACT PROVISIONS

Mr. Peters referred to the Feeds Act passed this session which "empowers a government inspector . . . to enter private property, search the premises and any private documents and papers therein and take away samples, all without the due process of a search warrant."

Having voted those powers, Mr. Peters argued, the Commons cannot now vote the opposite way by approving sections of the bill of rights which provides that no one may be deprived of their right to enjoy property or be subjected to detention or search without warrant except by due process of law.

Speaker Roland Michener, without ruling on the merits of Mr. Peters' argument, got the debate under way again by de-

Parents Of Six Among Victims Truck-Car Crash

Two Others Badly Hurt In Accident Early Friday

Four persons were killed, including the parents of six small children, and two others were seriously injured early Friday morning when a car transport plowed into the side of their car as they attempted to cross No. 401 Highway, north of Milltown.

Dead are: Patrick Gartland, 38, and his wife, Margaret-Anne, 27, of Read; Terrance Brennan, 25, of Lonsdale, and John Hannafin, 47, of Read.

Injured and in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital, are Joan Macdonald, 23, of Lonsdale, and sister of Mrs. Gartland, and Miss Agnes McLelland, 133 Riverdale Ave., Toronto.

The two girls who worked in the same office in Toronto, had come to Belleville to be with Miss Macdonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Macdonald, for the holiday.

WERE CROSSING HIGHWAY

They had come to Belleville by bus and were on their way home when the accident occurred shortly after midnight. The car was northbound on what is known as the Milltown sideroad and was crossing 401 highway, when the eastbound transport, loaded with five new cars, plowed into the left side of the auto.

Driver of the transport, Calvin Grey of Mallorytown, saw the car at the last moment and swerved left to avoid striking it, but the front of the transport caught the car broadside, carrying it 128 feet across the highway median and onto the westbound lane.

The transport driver escaped injury.

The car in which the six people were riding was almost cut in two by the impact.

The driver of the car apparently failed to see the approaching transport as it went onto the four-lane road from the intersection, where vision is partially blocked by a low rockcut. The intersection is known to be dangerous.

TWO THROWN OUT

All three men were riding in the front seat of the car. Mr. Gartland and Mr. Hannafin were thrown out onto the highway and instantly killed. Terrance Brennan, driver of the car, died about 20 minutes later.

Mrs. Gartland was taken to hospital with head injuries and fractured ribs and died six hours later.

Miss McLelland, whose home is in Nova Scotia, suffered a fractured pelvis, while Joan Macdonald is said in critical condition with head, chest and leg injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Macdonald, parents of Mrs. Gartland and Miss Macdonald, expected their daughter home from Toronto, but when she did not arrive, decided she had remained the night with her sister at Read.

They did not know of the accident until told Friday morn-

Eaton Receives Lenin Prize At Pugwash

PUGWASH, N.S. (CP) — An American millionaire and a Russian scientist shook hands here Friday and wrote a new chapter in the history of this peaceful salt-mining and lobster fishing community of 700 persons. It is the birthplace of Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton and world famous for the "thinkers' conference" initiated by Mr. Eaton.

Friday 3,000 people of Scottish descent met for the annual gathering of the clans and fishermen's regatta, highlighted by the presentation of the Lenin Peace Prize to Mr. Eaton.

Fleming Got Surprise on Newfie Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—The fight is still on between the federal and Newfoundland governments but Finance Minister Fleming's three-day visit to St. John's produced some peaceful, almost idyllic, moments.

High point came Thursday in the provincial legislature when the unpredictable Premier Smallwood praised Mr. Fleming as "a noted statesman" and took the unusual step of inviting him to address the chamber from the legislature floor.

Evidence Reveals Amelia Earhart May Have Been Killed by Japs

NEW YORK (AP)—New evidence has been reported that Amelia Earhart, the pioneer woman flyer who disappeared 23 years ago, may have been executed by the Japanese.

The Columbia Broadcasting system said Sunday that she was seen to crash-land off Saipan during her ill-fated flight around the world.

CBS said a special news team sent to the Pacific island "found at least a dozen natives who remember seeing the famous aviator crash-land in the water in 1937, watched her taken to jail by the Japanese and then disappear."

"All the islanders," the report continued, "believe Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, were executed out of sight of the local population. The Japanese were determined that no American would ever tell the world they were fortifying the island of Saipan."

"One native said he had been invited to witness the hanging of a white woman," added the report. "He refused to go."

The blonde, boyish-looking woman with the soft smile had captured the hearts and soaring imaginations of a whole generation moving into the flight age.

Her disappearance at the age of 39 sent a wave of shock and disbelief around the world. A task force of 3,000 men, 10 ships and 100 planes swept the Pacific, to no avail.

Eventually the search lapsed but reports persisted, including rumors that she had been caught and killed by the Japanese.

CBS sent a news team of its own, plus a Times reporter, to investigate.

A generator was shown in San Francisco Friday. Paul Mantz, who outfitted Miss Earhart's craft, said it looked like the one he had installed. He planned to check his work number records to make sure.

In Tokyo, a former admiral of the Imperial naval general staff termed the execution reports incredible. Shigeyoshi Inouye, in charge of the naval affairs bureau in 1937, denied any knowledge of the subject.

Obstruction Case Adjourned Second Time

The trial of Murtagh Cain of Foxboro, who was charged with obstructing policemen, was adjourned Thursday until July 7.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills ordered the adjournment after two defence witnesses gave conflicting evidence as to the position of a woodshed door. The magistrate requested an OPP constable and defence counsel John O'Flynn, Sr., to go to Cain's house at RR 1, Foxboro, and see what can be seen through the woodshed door from the kitchen.

The Crown alleges Murtagh Cain interferred with OPP Constables Ken Williamson and Robert Grieve who were attempting to arrest Jay Cain, Murtagh's brother, following a brawl at his mother's home in Foxboro.

Mrs. Betty Cain, Murtagh's wife, said the woodshed door was open and she could see most of what occurred outside when the police arrived to arrest her brother-in-law.

Mrs. Doreen Cain, Jay's wife, said the door was closed.

All witnesses were excluded from the court prior to their testimony at the request of Crown Attorney John Pringle.

Mr. O'Flynn made a motion for dismissal of the charge, but the magistrate rejected it because defence counsel was not able to produce appropriate legal authorities to support his motion.

CROWN HEARD EARLIER

The Crown concluded its case June 16. The case for the defence was heard Thursday.

Murtagh Cain, said he and Lorne Rorabeck, a boarder at the Cain home in Foxboro, were standing outside when a police cruiser drove up. He saw one officer approach. Jay came out of the house. But when the officer said he, Jay, was under arrest, Jay turned around and ran back into the house.

The officer called: "Get him," said Murtagh. Then he saw a second policeman, whom he identified as Constable Grieve.

Murtagh said the policeman ran into the house but he remained outside.

"I heard a lot of yelling in the house," he said.

Then he walked to the front door and asked the police if they had a search warrant. They replied, "No, but we can get one."

DENIES INTERFERRING

At no time did he interfere with the police, he said. This was later corroborated by Mr. Rorabeck.

Murtagh said he did not know his brother had been accused of assaulting a 59-year-old woman, but he knew there had been a brawl at his mother's house in Foxboro.

Mr. Rorabeck said he believed Jay's wife, Doreen, had grabbed one of the policemen. Murtagh certainly did not, he said. Murtagh was never close enough to the constables to interfere.

"At no time were they closer than four or five feet," he said.

— — M O R E . . . . . . ao 6 . . . .

Mrs. Jay Cain said that when Constable Grieve entered the house in pursuit of her husband, the officer "knocked me aside. I grabbed his shirt and belt to keep from falling. When he thought he was reaching for Jay, he hit Betty in the stomach."

Both Mrs. Cains are expecting babies.

Mrs. Murtagh Cain testified that after she was struck by Constable Grieve, she went to see her doctor. She was certain, however, that the constable struck her accidentally.

Acquit J.J. Cain In Assault Case

John Jay Cain, Station St., Belleville, Thursday was found not guilty of assaulting 59-year-old Mrs. Anne Johnston of Stirling, during a brawl at his mother's home in Foxboro several weeks ago.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said he did not think Cain used "any more force than was necessary" to protect himself from Mrs. Johnston.

"The force that John Jay applied was certainly out of proportion to the provocation he received," said Crown Attorney John Pringle.

The magistrate said "it was a bad fight, but I don't think I can find the accused guilty in this case."

The Crown concluded its case June 16 and Thursday's session was given over to the defence.

"Jay used a shovel on my wife," he said.

A fight started inside the house but ended in the front yard. He said Murtagh Cain, Jay's brother, had brought the shovel and laid it against the house. Jay picked it up and struck Mrs. Johnston, he said.

Mrs. Mary Cain, Mrs. Johnston's sister, said Mr. Johnston was drunk when the fight started.

"My sister picked up a chair and hit Jay over the head," she said.

Mrs. Florence Molloy testified that she had been in Belleville drinking beer with the Johnstons earlier in the day and that Mr. Johnston was drunk and had said there was going to be trouble that night. She said Jay and Mr. Johnston got into an argument and she saw Mrs. Johnston hit Jay with the chair. But she didn't see Jay hit Mrs. Johnston.

Twenty - one - year - old Jay Cain testified that 65-year-old Mr. Johnston had grabbed him and that Mrs. Johnston had hit him over the head with the chair on which he had been sitting.

"I never kicked anyone," he said, referring to Mrs. Johnston's testimony June 16 when she said Jay had "grabbed me and jerked me and kicked me."

"Mrs. Johnston hit me over the head with her shoe. Then she picked up a club and would have hit me with it if the others hadn't taken it away from her."

Jay said he had given Mrs. Johnston a bloody nose in the house "when I pushed her. But I never kicked her."

He told Crown Attorney Pringle that the fight started after Mr. Johnston had ordered him to leave his mother's house.

Woman, Son Hurt in Crash

MILLBRIDGE — A Trenton woman and her infant son were injured Friday when the car in which they were riding went over a 30-foot embankment on Highway 62, two miles north of here.

Mrs. Lillian O'Malley, 22 Wooler Road, Trenton, suffered a broken collarbone. Her son, Charles Robert, 18 months, suffered a broken jaw.

Constable Larry Calnan of the Madoc O.P.P. detachment said today both were in Belleville General Hospital in satisfactory condition.

Police said Mrs. O'Malley apparently lost control of the car at the crest of a hill when she encountered brake failure while going downhill.

Young Matron Lands Muskie; A 32-Pounder

For Mrs. Cairns, wife of Ted Cairns, 19, caught the first fish of her life—and it was a beauty.

It was a 32-pound "musky", hooked in the Trent River, "three miles up" from Frankford. It went for a spinner lure.

Mrs. Cairns landed the fish after an hour battle with the assistance of her father-in-law, Mr. Bill Cairns.

But the story doesn't end here.

Mr. Cairns, senior, decided to go for one himself. He tossed out the same bait as young Mrs. Cairns. A few minutes later he had a sixteen-pound lunker on the hook, and 45 minutes later boated him.

"Betty's fish," said the proud young husband, who was in another boat with a friend, Harry Young of Toronto, "is the biggest fish I have ever seen.

Mrs. Cairns, senior, was an excited spectator in the boat with her husband and daughter-in-law.

FREDERICK T. SYMONS
(North Miami, Fla.—Belleville)

Frederick T. Symons, former owner of Symons Coffee Bar in Belleville, died Thursday at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, Fla. He was 53 and had been in ill health for some time.

Before moving to Florida about two and one-half years ago, Mr. Symons also had been a barber in Belleville and operated the motor vehicle licence bureau.

Born at Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William A. Symons, he is survived, in addition to his wife and son, by two sisters, Miss Helen Symons of Belleville, and Mrs. Charles (Margaret) Shedden of Waterloo.

Mr. Symons served overseas in the Second World War as a captain. He enlisted in the 3-49th Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, and later served as quartermaster in the 7th Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, RCA. He received his captaincy in 1943. After the war, he served as quartermaster with the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, RCA.

He was a member of Christ Church, Belleville, the Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite, Kingston, and was past-master of Eureka Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 283, Belleville, and was a member of Moira Chapter No. 7, Belleville.

JAMES DUNCAN MICK
Ottawa, Ont.

The funeral of James Duncan Mick, of Ottawa, was held Wednesday evening, June 29th, from the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, where service was conducted by Rev. R. A. Milley.

Interment was on Thursday afternoon in Beechwood cemetery, Ottawa.

Mr. Mick died Wednesday morning, June 29th, 1960, in Brockville, Ont. He was in his 77th year and had been in failing health for some time.

Born and educated in Ottawa, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Mick. He resided at his residence for the past twelve years and prior to that in Ottawa.

He was employed as a laborer until his retirement. He was a member of the United Church.

He was unmarried and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Govier of Madoc, Ont.

WILLIAM McGINNIS
(Roslin)

William McGinnis of Roslin died suddenly of a heart attack at his home on Thursday, June 30th in his 69th year. Born in Read, Ontario, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McGinnis, he lived in this district all his life as a farmer and was well-known throughout his community. He was a member of St. Charles Borromeo Church, Read, and belonged to the Holy Name Society.

Surviving are his wife, the former Kathleen Byrne; two sons, Leonard and John, both at home; three sisters, Mrs. Alfonsus (Agnes) Farrell of Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. Joseph (Kathleen) Coffey of Read and Mrs. Joseph (Anne) Brennan of Read; and two brothers, Hugh of Lonsdale and John of Vancouver, B.C.

Resting at his late residence in Roslin. Funeral arrangements, under the direction of George F. O'Brien, 30 West Moira Street, Belleville, appear elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. JOSEPH CLARE
Deseronto

A funeral service was held on Thursday at the White Funeral Home, Deseronto, for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Clare, College Street, Deseronto, who died at her home on Tuesday. She was 87 and had been in ill health for some time.

The service was conducted by Rev. H. M. Servage and burial took place in Deseronto cemetery.

Born at West Plain, Ont., Mrs. Clare was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mowers and wife of Joseph Clare.

In addition to her husband, she leaves one son, Floyd Marlin of Deseronto; one daughter, Mrs. Edith Budreau of Port Hope; one brother, Stuart Mowers of Napanee; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

A member of Deseronto United Church, Mrs. Clare resided in the village for the past 50 years.

TERRANCE DALE WHALEN
(Point Anne)

Requiem Mass was celebrated Friday in St. Ame's Roman Catholic Church for 15-year-old Terrance (Terry) Dale Whalen of Point Anne, who drowned in the Bay of Quinte last Tuesday.

The Mass was said by Rev. J. J. V. Buckley, assisted by Deacon Rev. W. McGee, Sub-deacon Rev. A. Colliard, Rev. F. O'Nell and Rev. Peter Murphy.

Interment was in St. James' Cemetery.

The altar boys acted as a guard of honor.

SAMUEL P. HERRINGTON

A funeral service was held Friday at the John R. Bush Funeral Home for Samuel Permenus Herrington who died Tuesday in Belleville General Hospital.

The service was conducted by Rev. C. W. Coleman.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to all friends for cards, visits, flowers, books and treats following my operation in Belleville General Hospital.

—Mr. Keith Thompson.

The boys and I would like to express our deep gratitude and apreciation to each and everyone who has helped us through these days of illness and sorrow, in the loss of our dearly beloved dad and husband; to all those who gave beautiful floral tributes, money and cards; to Rev Everett Smith and Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan for calls in the hospital and kindness during our loss; to Dr. J. D. Empson and Walter and Virginia Easton, and to the fellow engineers at the Bakelite Company, who have helped the boys and me so very much; to my mother and Aunt Laura for all kindnesses and for staying with us so long; John and Frances McLean; the neighbors, and the John R. Bush Funeral Home. We can only say to you "thank you very much." Your kindness has made our burden easier to bear.

—Eileen Pound and boys.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to my relatives, friends and neighbors, especially my former neighbors and friends from Melrose, for their cards, gifts and acts of kindness shown to me during my recent stay in the Belleville General Hospital. A special thank you to Drs. Hartt, Morphy and Empson for their excellent care and to the nursing staff of First West. I wish also to thank Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and Rev. Smith for their visits and words of encouragement.

—Mrs Allan Gardiner.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to all my many friends and customers for the lovely flowers, gifts, cards and visits to me while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and since returning home.

—Pat Nicholls.

Fraser Says He Is Not Trying to Sway Council

TRENTON — Councillor D. R. Fraser, who recently headed a fact-finding committee appointed by council, said at Thursday's committee-of-the-whole meeting that he "would like to correct the impression that he alone was responsible for the annexation program."

Mr. Fraser complained that since his efforts as head of the committee had received so much publicity, he had become known as "Mr. Annexation." This, he said, had proved to be embarrassing, in view of the fact that he is a realtor and might be accused of having a personal interest in the program.

"As one councillor, I'm in favor of annexation," he said. "But I wouldn't want anyone to think that I'm trying to sway the opinion of five other councillors.

"I think that before we go ahead with any more plans, we should formally write to the Murray township authorities and ask for a meeting with them. We could explain our viewpoint and hear their objections and perhaps this would overcome the bad publicity the whole thing has received."

Mr. Fraser added that his committee had had the part of Murray township under consideration for annexation surveyed and had made enquiries concerning the part of Sidney township considered in the proposed move.

O. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer, told council that it had been estimated that the proposed annexation would cost between $3,000 and $5,000. This amount he said, had not been provided for in the 1960 budget. He warned council members that they "might be held responsible" if they spent this amount under the circumstances. However, he said the problem was not insurmountable and that the needed funds could be allocated from some other section of the budget for the year, if council so desired.

SURVEY ENDED

Tom Ransom Jr., of John Ransom, surveyors, which has surveyed the part of Murray township suggested by the fact-finding committee as being logical for annexation, reported that the survey had been completed. However, Mr. Ransom said that the westerly boundary which would be a straight line running along the westerly boundary of the Klemencic subdivision to the bay would run through the middle of two houses. He suggested that council consider another line, west of the proposed line, which would add approximately 450 acres to the town, or a line even further west, which would bring in 500 acres.

Councillor N. J. McNair said that he thought the westerly boundary should run along 4th. Ave. and that established homes on the bay side of the highway should not be annexed.

"If those fellows who are objecting to annexation in that area want to stay in the township, let them", he said.

Councillor Fraser pointed out that a Toronto lawyer, consulted by his committee, had said that the municipal board disapproved of 'piecemeal' annexation.

Mr. Ransom suggested council ask for a large section. He said that the board would probably cut down on the request and that the cost would be the same to annex 100 or 1,000 acres. He cited the case of Belleville, which had asked for around 2,000 acres and received 1,500 acres.

Council decided to put some further thought into the problem of how much land to consider for annexation before committing itself.

Committee Heads Give Reports At Meeting

TRENTON — The Kiwanis Club held a regular committee reports' meeting Thursday night with a number of chairmen giving reports of their committees' activities over the past month.

John Saylor said his committee had arranged the inter-club visit between the Trenton, N.J., Kiwanians and his club. The committee had also been responsible for a successful inter-club golf tournament on June 23rd.

Carl Weese reported that five members of the local club had attended a Kiwanis meeting in Belleville.

Jim Walsh reported that a member of the executive of the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children had been approached and had been offered assistance by the Kiwanis Club. He said that the association member had said that such help would be appreciated in the fall. Mr. Walsh also reported that it had been suggested that the club invite new members of the high school staff to a club dinner meeting after they arrive to take up their duties in the fall.

Ted Snider said that the bicycle road-eo had been the most successful one so far. He said that 180 girls and boys had participated and that awards and certicates had been handed out to the children.

Mr. Snider also said that Rev. J. T. Irwin had asked for the support of club members in a new outdoor church venture, which will start July 17. A service will be held each Sunday at 7:30 p.m. during the summer at the Quinte Drive-In Theatre.

President Dick Burnet asked members of the peanut teams to hand in their money taken in the recent drive. The members voted for the teams lowest in peanut sales to supply a steak dinner for those who had been more successful. Mr. Burnet also reminded members that next week the club will be visited by Lieutenant-Governor Bill McNeely.

Waste Oil Dumped in River Coats Boats

TRENTON — While the majority of Trentonians were celebrating July 1 holiday several irate boat-owners spent the holiday at the river's edge equipped with mops, brooms and pails of suds, washing and scraping black, gummy fuel-oil from their craft.

Wednesday night, a scrap dealer, whose business is located on the river near the corner of Front and Division Streets in the vicinity of several boat houses, dumped an estimated 1,000 gallons of waste fuel oil into the river. Instead of floating down the river and into the bay, the oil was evidently caught in a back-eddy and floated upstream, into the boathouses, with the result that three large yachts and one cabin cruiser, as well as a number of small crafts, were soiled.

The fire department was called and the area was flushed, but the members of the department found that the old adage, "oil and water do [illegible] mix" certainly applied in this case. The boathouses and the boats remained coated.

One boat owner said that this weekend, members of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club from Toronto will be visiting the Trenton area, and said "they would have a fine opinion of Trenton."

The scrap dealer had secured a large tank containing the oil from Trenton Memorial Hospital and wishing to transport the tank to another municipality and sell it for scrap, chose the most available method of disposing of the oil. The larger boats were owned by Senator W. A. Fraser, Donald Fraser, Grant Rathbun and the Rev. J. T. Irwin.

The scrap dealer was unavailable for comment.

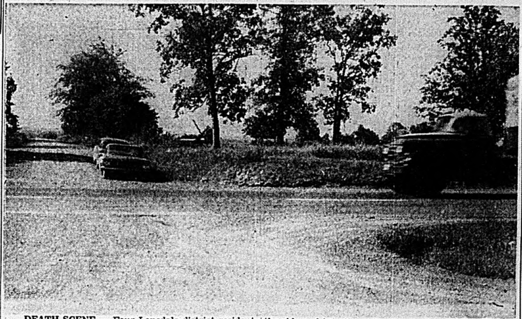
G. J. Aziz, Town Businessman, Dies Friday

TRENTON — One of Trenton's most esteemed citizens and a business man in this community for 30 years, G. J. Aziz, died Friday at Trenton Memorial Hospital. Mr. Aziz had been ill for a few weeks.

He came to Trenton 48 years ago, and was a well-known figure in business affairs, being the owner and proprietor of a dry-goods shop for many years. After the business was moved to another location on Dundas St. West, Mr. Aziz retired and the store was operated by his son, F. J. (Pete) Aziz, as the Aziz Specialty Shop.

Mr. Aziz is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Helen) Geralde of New York, and his sons, Councillor Howard Aziz and F. J. Aziz.

Funeral services will be held Monday at St. George's Anglican Church.



DEATH SCENE — Four Lonsdale district residents died and two other people were seriously injured at the above intersection on 401 Highway north of Milltown Friday morning when the victims' car emerged from the sideroad into the path of a car transport. The car was carried 128 feet across the highway median and onto the westbound lane.

DEATH CAR — This car driven by Terrance Brennan, 25, of Lonsdale, was cut almost in two when struck broadside by a loaded car transport. Two men riding with the driver were thrown out and killed instantly, while one other back seat passenger and the driver died later. The accident was the worst on 401 in this region since it was opened nearly two years ago.

RCAF Station Scene of Air Cadet Camp

TRENTON — RCAF Station Trenton's tent village will house 1,200 Ontario Air Cadets over the next two months. The first group of more than 250 arrive Sunday from hometowns as far removed as Stratford and Kapuskasing, Welland and Moose Factory.

A Weston, Ont. officer, Wing Commander A. Allan, will take command of the two-month camp. In addition, while the cadets are camped at Trenton they'll be part of the station organization and come under the jurisdiction of the commanding officer, Group Captain Williams.

The 25 cadet officers and civilian instructors who will accompany the 250 boys to each camp, have a busy and varied program slated for the campers.

Each day's program is divided into alternate periods of instruction and recreation. Under-canvas classes are scheduled in cadet leadership, general service knowledge, armaments and other optional subjects. Sports, drill and water safety make up a major part of the program. At the station pools, the boys will have an opportunity to win the Red Cross life saving certificates. Organized tours of local interest spots have been planned as well.

Scheduled flips in RCAF aircraft will highlight the two-week stay of many of the cadets.

Church services will be held in the station chapels and out-of-doors when weather permits. Roman Catholic and Protestant padres, especially assigned to the camp ,will be on call at all times.

So that medical care is always immediately available, the station hospital has set up an extensive medical centre in one of the tents. Nursing Sister Flight Lieut. Belyea and Flight Cadet Cowell are in charge.

The air cadet program stresses physical fitness, alertness and discipline. Sports and other organized group activities help to stimulate the qualities of leadership and initiative that will prepare these young Canadians for peacetime careers in the military service or as civilians.

Rednersville Rd. Barn Burns

Belleville firemen were called to a barn fire on the Rednersville Road Thursday afternoon at 1:35 o'clock. The barn, owned by Theodore Roblin, was lost to the flames along with 1,500 bales of hay and a small boat. This was the only call during the past 48 hours.

Fire Damages Rivers Home

TWEED (Special)— The second fire in Tweed within 24 hours, and next door to the Rashotte Lumber plant which was fire damaged the day previous, caused heavy damage to the James Rivers home on Metcalfe Street Friday evening.

The home was badly gutted and contents were ruined by the blaze which took firemen more than two hours to extinguish.

The Rivers family was not at home when the fire was noticed about 8:30. Firemen were quickly on the scene but had to force their way into the home to get at the fire.

Firemen were hampered in their fight by thick walls and the flames swept through to the attic and actually broke through the roof on several occasions.

No estimate of the loss was given.

STUDENT CENTRE

WOLFVILLE, N. S. (CP)— Acadia University here is proceeding with construction of a $650,000 student residence, capable of housing 118 students. The building will be ready by the start of the new term in September.

Bowling Notes

Delightful summer weather, splendid hospitality and a full entry made the Kingston tournament for fixed double for the Whig-Standard trophy an outstanding success on the holiday. Rinks were present from Brockville, Prescott, Almone, Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford, Madoc and Kingston.

The greens were slightly heavy. The club has had a trying season with plenty of winter kill, but the greens are coming back and will be excellent for the later tournaments. The Belleville club was well represented at the tourney, those present being Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, W. B. "Skit" Vandervoort and Mrs. Rita Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin and Claude D. Tice and Mrs. Thomas Mascaro.

The Kingston club ran a draw for a basket of delicacies and Orlo Smith of the Belleville Club was the lucky winner.

The bowlers were welcomed by Ed. Dennison, president of the club, and Art Armstrong, successfully conducted the double draw, which was finished in good time. The women's section of the club served sandwiches, pie and coffee and did a thriving business all day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stringer of Kingston, were the winners of the trophy, with 54 plus 10, and all the other three-game winners were also from the Kingston Club and were Lou Popi and partner, 52 plus 4; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jarvis 51 plus 10; Wm. Duncan Jr. and partner 51 plus 4; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Edney 49 plus 11; Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Parish 47 plus 1; R. B. Gage and partner 41.

The two game winners were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Galt of Kingston with 51 plus 11; Wm. Duncan and Mrs. Duncan Sr. of Kingston, 49 plus 6; Mr. and Mrs. L. Chouinard of Trenton, 48 plus five and Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Kingston, 49 plus 2.

The one-game high winners were Mr. and Mrs. B. Caltermolle of Kingston, 45 plus 3; Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Sherrell of Brockville 44 plus 1; Claude D. Tice and Mrs. Mascaro, Belleville 43 plus 3 and Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Turner of Kingston with 42 plus 2.

It was a grand day of bowling.

On Thursday afternoon the first place winners for the ladies' game at the Belleville Bowling Club were Anne Avery, lead, Irene Trudeau, vice, and Laura Hyde, skip. Second place winners were Chris Hoard, lead, Pearl Legault vice, and Thelma Fitzgibbon, skip. Joan Duggan, lead, Geneva Muir, vice, and Rhea Gerrow, skip, were third place winners.

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY — In Canada primarily for a vacation, ex-Mayor George Watson of the Middlesex borough of Hornsey in London, England, just couldn't resist the opportunity of dropping in at Belleville city hall to get the Canadian view of municipal administration. Still a member of his municipal council, where he is chairman of the general purposes and finance sub-committee on education, ex-Mayor Watson is seen signing the Belleville city hall guest book while Mayor A. McLean Haig looks on. Keenly interested in municipal planning, he also met with Alderman Dr. John Barlow, chairman of planning for Belleville. A consulting optician in private life, ex-Mayor Watson is in Belleville visiting two brothers, Lewis Watson of American Optical, and Arthur Watson of Stewart Warner in this city. No stranger to Canada, he came first to this country in 1923 and was engaged in diamond drilling in Canadian mines until 1926.

Arms Parley Dead, Anyhow

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain has described the Communist walkout from the Geneva disarmament conference as "a very great setback."

It is difficult to follow Macmillan's reasoning.

No international problem can be more difficult of solution than the achievement of an agreement to disarm and the actual putting into effect of such a decision.

Only the naive can have had any lively hopes for the Geneva talks succeeding where so many other similar conferences, interspersed over four decades, have failed. Surely even the naive lost these hopes when the summit conference broke up in a shower of verbal fireworks.

No matter what plan for disarmament may be devised, some mutual trust will be essential in putting it into operation. It is difficult to conceive of any scheme which, at some stage of its implementation, will not alter the existing balance of power, making one side relatively stronger, the other relatively weaker, for a certain period of time. It follows that any country will not accept such a change, to its disadvantage, unless it believes other countries intend to keep the peace.

What statesman in the West trusts the men in the Kremlin? We are convinced that the Russians have time and again acted in bad faith.

It may well be that Russian leaders are just as mistrustful of the intentions of the Western democracies, difficult as it may be for us to understand why this should be so.

The main ingredient lacking when the Geneva disarmament talks started was, therefore, not a meeting of minds on a schedule for disarmament but a modicum of trust, without which no disarmament blueprint would be acceptable, no matter how cleverly it technically balanced the respective fortunes of the opposing powers during the process of disarming.

That trust might have been generated, in a small degree, had the summit conference gone smoothly. But the U-2 incident and Khrushchev's reaction to its dissipated any small chance that might have existed for the growth of confidence in the peaceful intentions of the opposing power groups. The Geneva disarmament conference really died simultaneously when the summit parley died. There was little use in continuing talks and the "very great setback" to which Prime Minister Macmillan now refers had actually occurred long before the Communist bloc delegations walked out of the Geneva conference room.

Something To Chew On

A Toronto newspaper's entertainment columnist reports on the results of a survey taken—all in fun, no doubt—by bartenders at a Greenwich Village establishment, to determine whether it is possible to tell an alcoholic's troubles by what he drinks.

The way the story goes—it is. This we doubt—and we think the doubt will be strengthened in any person who takes a moment to look around him and note what his friends are drinking the next time that he is at a party.

But if it is impossible to find anything which all rye drinkers, or salami eaters or cheddar munchers have in common, surely there must be some significance in the choices which we make as individuals. Why do we elect on one occasion to quaff ale and on another to choose a Bloody Mary? What is the reason that on one evening Danish blue and crackers appeal, while a couple of nights later we decide to dig into the anchovies? Is it just chance that today we order wieners and sauerkraut and tomorrow finnan haddie? There must, surely, be different associations in our past history with sirloin steak and spare-ribs. A psychiatrist might have a field day explaining our choices of food and drink on the basis of our past experiences and prevailing mood.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE SPIRIT OF ADOPTION

"For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again unto fear, but ye have received the Spirit of adoption; whereby we cry, Abba, Father."

Here is one of the great verses of the Bible. There is a precious spiritual truth described in the word "adoption." It means that we belong to the spacious household of God. When people believe that the bondage of fear departs; the Spirit of adoption comes in to possess them.

No group of people ever had more in life to drive them to abject terror than had the early Christians to whom St. Paul wrote these words about the bondage of fear. They were rejected by their generation, scourged, despoiled of their goods, persecuted, dragged before magistrates; many of them were killed in a variety of cruel fashions. Yet in the midst of such circumstances they displayed a calm courage which astounded their persecutors and resulted, after each season of suffering, in a great increase in the number of avowed Christians. People so admired the way these Christian disciples took the tragic vicissitudes of life that many of the people who led the movement against them changed sides after the persecution ceased and became Christians.

These Christians were without fear because they were convinced that they belonged to God. You can't frighten a man who is a real Christian, and you can't frighten him because he is a Christian.

Two Communist Worlds?

Christian Science Monitor

Great events cast their shadows before them — and cast some explanations back on the past. The speech Premier Khrushchev has just delivered to a Communist congress in Romania's capital is such an event. In its light Mr. Khrushchev's American pilgrimage to Camp David appears as something more than a stratagem to befog an American President. And Chinese aggressiveness towards Tibet and India as something more serious than mere lack of co-ordination in Communist strategy.

For the Western world the implications of the Bucharest speech are profound. They come from no less an elemental political cause than a doctrinal division within the Communist world. Earlier evidence of it appeared when Chinese Communists affronted even Asian neutralist opinion by aggressive manoeuvres in Tibet at a moment when Mr. Khrushchev was trying to create a coexistor image for Russia.

And the cause behind goes even deeper. It is the same thing that has made obsolete so much prenuclear age strategy and diplomacy: the recognition that nations can no longer afford to regard war as the decisive instrument of national policy.

Back of the Khrushchev argument that war is no longer inevitable between capitalist and Communist societies is his knowledge of nuclear weaponry. At Bucharest he stated this forthrightly. He put it, indeed, courageously, when he said that Lenin's statements on inevitable Communist-capitalist war should be read today in the light of 40 years of technical advances in military power.

In going so far so frankly, Mr. Khrushchev is inviting trouble from the Stalinists at home and the Maoist-Leninist Red Chinese. But he had the open support of all Eastern European Communist Party representatives present at Bucharest. This support included, interestingly enough, the usually extrabelligerent Walter Ulbricht of East Germany. The importance of the Bucharest meeting was further emphasized when Poland's Premier Gomulka arrived to join talks reported as concerned with "new interpretations" of Communist doctrine.

If a Khrushchev victory in the struggle between "coexistence" and "conflict" is assumed, what emerges is a picture of the Communist world splitting doctrinally not into ill-assorted fragments but into two vast sections and along geographic and cultural lines.

So far the one Western leader to have offered a "grand design" equal to the proportions of the problem emerging from Mr. Khrushchev's most revealing speech is French President de Gaulle. He already has said that the West's task is to make possible a return of Russia and Eastern Europe to the Western world. He has spoken of a peace from the Mediterranean to the Urals. At Bucharest Mr. Khrushchev might have been explaining the de Gaulle thesis itself—so neatly does the situation disclosed in the Communist world support it.

But that is a long-range aim. Its practical development in more immediate situations must be stated in different terms. For Washington a recasting of diplomatic strategies toward Communist China and Russia is indicated. United States suspicion of and opposition to both those powers has usually seemed about equal and been expressed simultaneously. This approach is tactically desirable only where two opponents are inseparable.

Even the British concept of the Red Chinese and Russian split seems outdated by Bucharest. British diplomats have usually thought of the national "interests" as dividing Chinese from Russians, and have urged more friendliness toward Communist China.

• •

The speech offers no new and easy choice of sides as between free or totalitarian governments, East and West, Russia and China—for anybody. It does not mean that Mr. Khrushchev is to be regarded as anything but an opponent of the West. It does indicate that he would like to shift the struggle to a kind of competition ruling out nuclear war ,though it would still include all means short of that—nibbling aggressions and subversion as well as economic conflict—for advancing Communism.

The speech suggests there may be struggles brewing in the Communist world which could spill over into the free. It also suggests that there is material east of the curtain which leaders and peoples of the free world may want to develop for mutual security.

Worry No Bar To Happiness

New York Herald Tribune

While the University of Michigan's survey of mental health in America doesn't exactly belabor the obvious, it has come up with a good many findings that were at least reasonably predictable.

1. Children and sufficient money are the principal sources of most people's contentment.

2. Married people are happier than unmarried people.

3. Few people never worry; still fewer worry all the time.

4. Most people worry on and off, and it's perfectly possible to worry and be happy at the same time, if not about the same things.

All this, we imagine, could have been said about any kind of men — perhaps even Neanderthal men. Indeed, perhaps the greatest source of encouragement in the Michigan findings lies less in the differences between the American pattern of life and any other, but in the similarities.

Even in a world that is troubled as never before by the peril of global devastation, even in an era that stands on the verge of limitless new scientific adventures, people continue to act like people and to worry about the things people have always worried about.

The revelations that one in four have at some time felt the need of outside help in straightening out emotional problems and that one in seven have actually sought such help, may seem somewhat surprisingly. Yet one wonders whether even these proportions are markedly higher than at other epochs in civilized man's long history — epochs when no one thought to conduct surveys like this. It's interesting, too, that nearly half of those seeking advice consulted clergymen with only 18 per cent consulting psychiatrists or psychologists.

Doubtless the scientists and statisticians poring over the figures will find much ground for further discussion and speculation. For the rest of us, there will be some to find the survey's findings, alarming, and some to argue that they might be worse. Perhaps the safest conclusion is that the human animal always has been a perplexing creature, is one today and is likely to go right on remaining so.

Rolls-Royce Joins Taxis

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Quite a lot of publicity is being given in New York to the fact that, you will be able to rent the most luxurious type of Rolls-Royce seven-passenger cars, with a uniformed English chauffeur at the wheel. The driver, after he has learned his way about the area of Manhattan, will drive you anywhere for $9 an hour. List price of the car, if you want to buy it, is $25,875. The cars are equipped with telephones, cut-glass decanters in a walnut cellarette, and there is a fur rug to put your feet on.

It sounds somewhat undignified for a Rolls-Royce car to be hired out, and the chairman of the hiring company says it took him two years to persuade the Rolls-Royce Company to sell him an initial fleet of 28 cars. By comparison there are Cadillac cars in New York for rent at $7.50 an hour. The Cadillac costs just under $10,000.

The organizers of the operating company unashamedly admit they are selling snob appeal. Although all forty-five stock-holders are Americans, they are incorporated under the British-sounding name of Buckingham Livery.

A number of orders have already been received before the enterprise gets started. Among the first customers are the Duke of Edinburgh and his entourage, who required two cars during the Duke's visit to New York; Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher, and several British and American corporations who want to transport very important customers whom they want to impress.

A St. Thomas Times-Journal editorial writer says: "The innovation recalls to our memory that more than 20 years ago we were visiting in Broughty Ferry, a suburb of Dundee, Scotland, and hailed a massive-looking taxicab. We found it to be a Rolls-Royce, and the driver — or perhaps we should call him chauffeur — informed us that all the taxi-cabs in Broughty Ferry were Rolls-Royces."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 2nd., 1940

The call of the wide open spaces and the holiday spirit claimed about thirty-five Belleville boys this morning, and in company with Mr. J. E. Shortt, secretary of the "Y", journeyed to the Belleville Boy's Camp at Moira Lake where, for the next two weeks, they will enjoy the fishing, swimming and camp life about which they have been dreaming during the past months.

Locally grown new potatoes featured the Belleville market this morning, with the new 'spuds' being offered in limited quantities at 15 cents the berry box. Strawberries held steady at price of three boxes for 25 cents, with crate lots in some cases being sold for seven cents.

By kind gesture of the Belleville Council, Knights of Columbus, St. Michael's Band was enabled to take part in the Waterloo Band Festival. Upon arrival at Kitchener they were met by Mr. R. P. Uffelman, general manager, with a supply of cars and were escorted to the 68-acre expanse of Waterloo Park, where the classes already were in session. Seven children of the band took part in solo classes. Eleven-year-old Bobby Young again took the gold medal for saxophone. Delores Clapp being second in her clarinet class took the silver medal. Betty Flynn, 10 years old, lacked one-half a mark from the third medal in the same class. John Briand, ten years old, took 'honors' in coronet work. Edward Barrett, ten years old, got 'distinction' in the same class.

30 YEARS AGO

Three cows which were seeking shelter under a tree from the storm yesterday, were killed by lightning. They were owned by O. Parm, near Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grant of Toronto, spent the weekend here with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miles, Donald Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haggerty spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Healey, Grove Street, have taken a cottage on the St. Lawrence River for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack White of Lindsay, formerly of Belleville, spent the weekend here with relatives.

Mrs. Baker of Rainy River, Ont., is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, Foster Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mowat of Windsor, Ont., are visiting friends in the city. Formerly, Mr. Mowat was librarian at the Corby Public Library here.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Lowery of Port Hope are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Glover, Sinclair Street, for a few days.

Mr. Robert Empson, Jr., of Cannifton, has passed the fourth year examinations of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto.

In the five-mile road race on July 1st, which was sponsored by the Intelligencer, there were eight entries, namely, J. Alexander, C. Mikel, A. Betts, H. Boyd, A. Keeler, R. McCreary, H. Fisher, all of Belleville, and P. Sulman of Trenton. The last-named carried off the cup, his time being 30 minutes and 18 seconds.

Mr. J. Saunders of Toronto is visiting friends here.

Mr. J. Cowie has returned to his home in Brockville, Ont., after visiting friends here.

Mr. J. P. Thompson and his wife of Vancouver, B.C., are visiting relatives in the city. Mr. Thompson was in the retail drygoods business here for some years, and also served as city treasurer for a considerable time. They are enroute to the Old Country.

Whale Died From Ulcers

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Beached whales are no rare occurrence. One pops up in the news once in a while and we read about the predicament communities have trying to get rid of them.

One sick whale got stranded at Coney Island last month. It later died at the island's aquarium. What makes this particular leviathan newsworthy, however, is that a post-mortem revealed its death was partly caused by stomach ulcers.

Now what does a whale have to worry about? Increased submarine activity? Radioactive wastes in the ocean? Radar-equipped whalers?

No doubt about it, it's becoming a rough world for man or beast.

CURING CHILDREN'S DISEASES QUICKLY INSURES AGAINST COMPLICATIONS

"Dear Dr. Molner: In a fund-raising campaign for schools for retarded children, I was given some literature that claimed "high fever in childhood diseases' was one cause of retardation.

"As a young mother, I would like to know more about this. Does it mean that a child having any disease, such as measles, chickenpox, tonsillitis, could become retarded?

"Also are children who are slow to talk, but normal or above average in understanding words, directions, etc., and quick to 'catch on' to just about everything, a cause for worry? —Mrs. J. D."

• • •

Illness in childhood can be the cause of mental retardation, but perhaps the way of saying it is a little too brief to give an adequate idea of where the danger lies.

In fact, I think we could say that high fever, all by itself, does not cause mental deficiency at all.

However, some of the so-called children's diseases like measles and mumps — especially measles —can occasionally cause inflammation of the brain. Technically, this is encephalitis, of course, and not just the original disease —measles or whatever.

If this brain infection is severe (and it usually is accompanied by high fever) it is possible for it to do enough damage to leave permanent impairment of some function of the brain.

On the other hand, there is no reason for mothers to be unduly alarmed if fever accompanies one of the ordinary diseases, sore throats, tonsillitis, ear infections, and so on.

I don't mean, naturally, that mothers should ignore these diseases, or regard them lightly. Such infections should be cleared up as rapidly as possible. Clearing them up without delay is the most effective way we have of insuring that they don't lead to other complications.

As to the question of the child who is slow to talk, within reasonable limits, but is quick-witted in general, I see no reason for being worried. Some are "late bloomers", so to speak.

After all, children vary quite widely in the rate at which they develop "motor skills", that is, the skills involving some physical movement. Some walk sooner than others, some are quicker about learning to use their hands. It is not at all uncommon for a child to be early in some skills and late in others. So there's no reason to be disturbed by moderate variations. Some children start using a few words very early, and keep adding to their vocabularies. There are other youngsters who seem to learn to use only a bare minimum of baby words — and then abruptly start talking at a great clip, almost overnight. Apparently they have been learning the words, and what they mean, but just haven't decided, until then, to start using them. Don't ask me why, because I don't know. But I've observed it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is lung cancer contagious? If so, what precautions should be taken? The patient has a very bad cough — H. H."

No, it is not contagious, and hence no precautions are needed. However, anyone, including this patient, might at times have a cold, and the cough could spray cold germs around. Hence he should use a handkerchief or tissue to shield his mouth when he coughs — but because of ordinary throat germs, not because of the cancer.

Note to Mrs. G. R.: If bunions are so severe that non-surgical methods don't afford relief, it is reasonable to consider surgery. Ask your physician about referring you to an orthopedic surgeon or to a foot specialist.

Once Houses Cost $1,000

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Perusing our files of 50 years ago we noted an advertisement of a house on East Street "Double-sized parlors, dining room, four bedrooms, kitchen, large bathroom and full-sized basement." And the rent? Just $18.50 a month. We looked at the brick house as we went by the other day and it still looks in fine condition. What would be the rent asked for it today? Much more than when new.

Talking to an old resident of East Street some time ago he told us that he had been offered $12,000 for his house which he had bought 30 years ago for $2,500. He did not accept the offer because, he said, "I needed the home more than I needed $12,000.

Young people will be surprised to know that the price of a brand new house 50 years ago was around $1,000 to $1,500 for a frame house, and $2,000 to $2,500 for a brick house. If asked the price today, the owners of these brick houses would not think of mentioning a sum less than $10,000, after having lived in them for 30 years or more.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WE MUST BUILD

I am always fascinated at the sight of the most recent skyscraper under construction in my City of New York. I love to watch the great supports of steel find their way to bed rock! I envy the builder. His must be a life of constant inspiration.

But we may all be builders in our own way. Unless we are, we must fall out of the contest and be forgotten. We must build!

In nature — which is so much the expression of the thought of the greatest Builder — there is no inactivity. Building is but another name for growth.

We must each of us grow — or die. It is the law of life. But let us build for a long time. Let us loan our personality to the ages! It isn't necessary to upset a world in order to impress your worth through unborn time.

It's the thing you do, the spirit in which you do it, and the great Why, that carves folks memory into stones. We must build — if we would be remembered. And a sound foundation counts for far more than all the fancy clap-trap and ornamentation that some seem to think is so important, but which in reality detracts and deceives.

We must be builders worthy of the material given us!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It would be hard to say how many men, women and children at this minute all over Canada are fishing. Would it be hundreds of thousands? It certainly is tens of thousands; for even if you are reading this in bed in the middle of the night, anywhere in this broad realm, it is still merely twilight in the westermost, and already the break of dawn in the eastermost reaches of Canada. And those are the two witching hours during which fishing is best. And you can bet the number right now who are out in either Vancouver Island's bays and rivers in the dusk, or on Newfoundland's salmon rivers or Nova Scotia's trout streams in the dawn, is countable in the thousands.

What a wonderful expansion in the sport of fishing there has been in this country in the past twenty to thirty years. Today, it is for everybody and anybody. But as far back as fifty years ago, the really privileged class of anglers were the country dwellers, the farmers and villagers who lived within reasonable buggy ride of stream and lake. Next to them were the well-to-do who could afford the time, rather than the money, to take a train into the country, and then be met at the railroad station by horse and buggy to be driven to the fishing. Indeed, in 1900 there was a fairly large section of the respectable community that looked upon fishing as an idle and wasteful activity, unless it were conducted as a mere incident of a two week holiday at a summer resort.

Today, with the fantastic development of techniques in spinning, bait casting, outboard engines, highways, cars and aircraft, fishing is the passion of the largest sporting cult in the entire 18 million of us. Copyright: Canada Wide

STORIES OF FAMOUS HYMNS

By HORACE B. POWELL

"THE STRIFE IS O'ER, THE BATTLE DONE"

Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!
The strife is o'er, the battle done;
The victory of life is won;
The song of triumph has begun,
Alleluia!

Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!
The powers of death have done their worst,
But Christ their legions hath dispersed;
Let shouts of holy joy outburst;
Alleluia!

Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!
The three sad days have quickly sped;
He rises glorious from the dead;
All glory to our risen Head;
Alleluia!

Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!
Lord, by the stripes which wounded Thee,
From death's dread sting Thy servants free,
That we may live and sing to Thee.
Alleluia!

Christians of the world have been singing this triumphant Resurrection hymn for centuries.

Until about one hundred years ago when it was translated for use by English-speaking worshipers by the Rev. Francis Pott, it was sung only in Latin. Since 1861 it has been an Easter favorite with choral groups and congregations in churches of many lands.

The hymn has come down to the modern church from the Middle Ages and its origin is obscure. But its message is confident and clear . . . it voices for Christians of all the ages to come the hope and joy of everlasting life through Christ.

Mr. Pott was born at Southwark, England in 1832 and was serving as parish rector at Northill, Bedfordshire when deafness compelled him to retire from that post. He turned to the development of hymnology and in the years that followed became widely known for his accomplishments in this field. He helped produce "Hymns Ancient and Modern" and a little later he published "Hymns Fitted To The Order Of Common Prayer". One of his own hymn creations entitled "Angel Voices, Ever Singing" is still widely used by the singing church of our day.

SALEM W. A.

MINTO — The June meeting of Salem W. A. was held in the church hall on June 10. The president, Mrs. Mel Wickens, opened the meeting by an appropriate verse.

As this was guest night, there was a large attendance and the president extended a warm welcome to all; also would welcome anyone wishing to join the W.A.

Some correspondence was read and business discussed. Invitations were received from Carmel to attend their meeting and bake sale; also an invitation to St. Thomas' W. A. which is celebrating its 50th anniversary at the home of Mrs. Lindsay Tanner.

Mrs. Ivan Sarles took charge of the meeting with Mrs. Bert Heagle, Mrs. Lorne Hagerman and Mrs. Ern Broadworth taking the devotional service.

Mrs. George Wood, of Ivanhoe gave an accordion solo which was enjoyed by all.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Maurice Bell, of Stirling, took the W.A. on a trip to the East Coast and P.E.I. by giving a vivid talk on their trip to this new province.

Thanks go out to Mrs. Bell for this most interesting talk. Mrs. V. Hagerman favored wih a piano solo.

A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served which brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

A Lift for Living

Modern Minds and Superstition

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Most of us would deny that we are superstitious. A superstition is a belief resting on emotion or fear rather than reason. It is a kind of cobweb in the corner of the mind, and we like to think that our mental attics have been swept clear of such cluttering falsehoods.

Of course, we might plead guilty to a few trifling superstitions. Many of us dislike to sit down at the table in a company of 13 or live on the 13th floor of a hotel. Some have a strange fear of Friday, others avoid walking under ladders. But by and large we pride ourselves on not being gullible or credulous. We no longer believe in ghosts or witches.

The feeling is widespread that religion, as well as ignorance, has been responsible for keeping superstitions alive. The man on the street and the student on the campus are inclined to look upon the church as the home of many fears. And the church must frankly confess to having harbored many an irrational idea which should have been discarded with the Dark Ages.

But how much freer from superstition is the street than the sanctuary? If we could analyze the contents of a typical mind in America, would the proportion of falsehood found be much smaller than in the days of our grandfathers? We know more, but we also know so much more that isn't so.

Despite the spread of education, we are still the easy victims of subtle propaganda. We are bedeviled by a swarm of foolish ideas, false ideals and stinging fears.

OUR LIMITED MINDS

With all respect to the amazing powers of the human mind, we have to admit its limitations. We can talk ourselves into believing almost anything. We can deceive ourselves with wishful thinking. We can be scientists in the laboratory one day and savages the next. We can fool ourselves with what Galsworthy called our "cockeyed cocksureness." All these states of mind may be called "wisdom" at that time.

And being thus "wise in our own conceits," we superstitiously call many things foolishness which God calls wisdom.

One of our superstitions is that we are afraid to trust the power of God. We fool ourselves as to what is weak and what is strong. Saint Paul said, "God hath chosen the foolish things of this world to confound the wise." We think ourselves very expert in this matter of strength. We have become specialists in power. We have learned how to improve on the slow forces of nature. We no longer leave the lazy currents of rivers to their natural pace; we change their channels; we dig mill-races, we build Boulder Dams. We do not leave fruits and vegetables to ripen with the seasons; we speed them with hothouses. We try to put "punch" and "pep" into the processes of nature and human nature.

But there are some processes into which "punch" cannot be put. One can hardly speak of putting it into one's love, friendship or sympathy. No, in growing the fruits of the spirit, which are love, joy, peace and their like, the Creator has to keep to His old pace of "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." There are some areas in life where we cannot say "step lively" to the Almighty. We may grow mushrooms in a hothouse, but we cannot rear oak trees overnight. Hence, we, who have become so clever in generating horsepower and building time-saving devices, often fool ourselves in discounting God's old-fashioned quiet inner forces.

PESSIMISTIC FOOLS

Another superstition is that we are afraid to trust what is not yet established and recognized. We think we know what is real and what is not, and we are determined to be realists. We are going to face facts. But in all this, we may forget that it is possible to fool ourselves by believing too little as by believing too much. There are pessimistic fools as well as optimistic ones.

There is a difference between an optimistic temperament and godly faith. Optimism may underrate the size and strength of the obstacles to be faced. FFaith can look at them with unbandaged eyes and be undismayed because it sees beyond to the resources of God. Optimism may be the product of a sanguine temperament plus defective eyesight. Faith is "vision plus valor."

As the Apostle said, "God chose even things that are not to bring to nothing things that are." Hence, we are superstitious when we stubbornly insist that "seeing is believing." It was said of Moses that "he endured as seeing Him who is invisible." If that be superstition, make the most of it. Moses did.

Betty Ingram Top Winner At Kingston

Only two Bay of Quinte lady golfers came home with awards from "foreign pastures" the other day.

Mrs. Betty Ingram of Quinte, who is slated for the "Open" this month, won the low net for the field.

Mrs. Ena Corke came home with the putting prize for the first flight.

HOT WEATHER NOTE

People should drink more water in the summer heat, to balance the loss through perspiration.

Raising Horses More Worry Than Betting Says Couple

BENTLEY, Alta. (CP) — Lord and Lady Roderic Gordon say the business of breeding and looking after race horses is more anxiety-ridden than betting on them.

Operators of the largest breeding farm in Western Canada, they said in an interview that headache tablets are on the bedside table the year round for breeders.

Last year 84 mares were bred to their own stallion, Blended, and three on lease from E. P. Taylor of Toronto—Chain Reaction, King Maple and Tournoi.

TOO MUCH TENSION

"The tension of seeing our horses run makes me physically ill," he said. "We usually stay at home and work and get the reports second hand."

Both have been with horses all their lives. Lord Rod worked with horses in private life in England and with the cavalry. Lady Joan was entered in a riding academy in her native Romania at five.

Now they operate a stable where valuable horses are boarded the year round, where young horses are "green - broken," bred and delivered.

While the two-year-olds are going through their pre-racing rehearsals for 100 days in the spring before the Prairie racing season opens, Lord Rod keeps a vigil in the maternity wards of Shady Spring Farm.

"It would be so easy to lose a colt and the mare too," Lady Joan pointed out, "but one can't afford even to entertain such a thought."

"WE CHEATED"

Once the difficult days of foaling are passed, the Gordons are faced with the breeding season.

In addition, they have to attend horse shows with their jumpers.

Last year when horsemen congratulated Lady Joan on the showing of Greensleeves at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, she was asked what factor contributed most to success.

"We cheated," she confided. "The horses are not allowed to become familiar with the jumps set up before the trials.

"I had them photographed and smuggled the pictures to our horse. After studying them, he won easily."

Wedding

LANGLOIS — HALSEY

Trinity College chapel, Toronto, was the setting on Thursday, June 30, at 7.30 p.m. for a lovely wedding when Sylvia Mary Halsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy John Halsey, of Toronto, Ontario, became the bride of William Robert Langlois, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Langlois, of Belleville. The Reverend A. Challacombe officiated before a background of pink and white summer flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her full-length bridal gown of candle-white faille and Alencon lace fashioned on empress lines with fitted bodice feautring a scoop neckline outpire lines with fitted bodice lace and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented by princess panels flaring into a chapel sweep. She wore a finger-tip veil gathered into a half-hat of net, and carried a bouquet of pink roses mingled with white stephanotis.

Miss Wendy Halsey, as maid of honor, sister of the bride, was gowned in short length nylon chiffon in lilac shade having a bodice softly molded into swirls of crushed pleats with period neckline and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt fell in soft graceful folds, and she wore a bow-knot headdress formed on a bandeau.

Miss Janet Halsey, also a sister of the bride, was attired in short-length nylon lace in white with fitted bodice having puffed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was gracefully full. She wore a wreath of white roses in her hair. Both attendants carried bouquets of deep pink Sweetheart roses and hyacinth-blue agapanthus.

Mr. Peter Lawrence Langlois attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. John Buell and Mr. Richard Verity ushered the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Langlois will reside in Toronto.

WCTU Announces Winners In Essay, Scrapbook Contest

The W.C.T.U. Poster, Essay and Scrap Book Contests for 1960 have been conducted with five of Belleville schools participating in the County of Hastings as well as a number of schools in the County of Prince Edward.

WCTU officials are greatly pleased with the interest and co-operation of the principals, teachers and pupils who are to be commended for the high quality of the entries submitted. This was reflected in that in addition to the local prizes, Belleville public schools also won nine county prizes, three provincial prizes and a national prize.

A highlight of the contests was a reference scrap book submitted by the senior girls' handicraft class of Queen Mary School. This excellent entry won a local, a county, a provincial and a national prize. The class and their teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Blakely are to be congratulated on this fine piece of work.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Whither O Canada?

Ninety-three years ago the Fathers of Confederation wrote a blueprint for the future and set it forth in the British North America Act. In their wisdom, they set a course which followed the rising sun from the Atlantic shores to the promise of a Canadian sunset beyond the broad Pacific. Their visions were for the future as far as the setting sun of their foreseeable horizons would permit.

Many of their visions have come to fruition. Indeed, the western Canadian sunset now promises hope to our mighty west which to those foundation builders was but a challenge. And, too, their dreams have been enlarged because the rising sun now shines on Newfoundland, Canada's proud newest and oldest province.

Then too, these early wise men were statesmen, the stature of which is so sadly lacking today; so firmly were their principles established they set a precedent that probably never occurred to them.

It is not too much to accord the fathers of the Canadian nation to grant them in retrospect the bottom bricks of what has become known as the Commonwealth of Nations. They were conservative in their basic responsibilities and they were courageous freedom seekers. Holding firm to the integrity of their visions, they dared to break with tradition. Demanding independence they resisted fanaticism. 'We are of age', they declared, 'and we shall think for ourselves; in our maturity we will hold safely the precious inheritance of the long struggle of our mother lands, France and Britain, for the dignity of man and liberty'.

Whither O Canada? Where has our maturity brought us, and whither are the set of our sails? How well have we built from our firm foundation; or have we permitted the foundation to crumble a little because our leaders, and we have lost the spirit of the pioneers, whose blood flowed in our forefathers' veins?

These and many other indigenous thoughts raced through our mind as we sat quietly in a cove on the shore of an Onatrio lake watching the sun set beyond our sight in the west. The sky where millions of planets roam around billions of suns, our sun, the clouds, the lapping water, the forest and some of the oldest rocks on our earth were conducive to rambling thought and disturbing conjecture. Maybe our legislators would do well to retreat to a quiet spot where nature and the universe can prick their consciences and nurture a cure for indifference. How immature we are before the laws of nature, how small in the scheme of things how inadequate some are before the responsibilities they are chosen to accept, and how dangerous in these days of restless humanity.

We are ninety-three years old, yet maturity seems to have gone into reverse. Ninety-three years ago politics were brutal and promises were free, but today we have become smooth and resigned; we wonder why truth and integrity are words that are losing their meaning in our language.

Sitting by the lake it came upon us that we were surrounded by nature in its beauty and in its unpleasantness too. The dualism of nature is expressed in a setting sun and in the pesky mosquito. But it also came to us that nature is honest, and there exists no expedient or way out. Nor is there an easy out for Canada.

In an age of world-wide revolution in the minds of men and a global rising of aspirations and a universal demand for a place to live decently, it is time that Canadians take on the mantle which the Fathers of Confederation bequeathed them, and dare to take independent stands, brave the disapproval of might in the interest of freedom. The people have throughout history risen to leadership. Let us have a ninety-third celebration by reinstating leadership which we will respect and follow because it is fearless, honest and independent.

Whither O Canada?

A Simple Cure for Apathy

By ALMA MASON

The words, "I'm too busy", continually uttered by parents can make the road of life slippery and hazardous for young feet.

The finest happiness exists among members of a family who have learned that loving and sharing and sacrificing and working for each other can be profoundly satisfying.

The sharing of projects, creative activities and excellent literature can draw families together in a satisfying circle of joy and can mould great men and women who will contribute a vast share of beneficial propulsion to a suffering and bewildered humanity.

A little boy lost his parents when he was only seven years of age. He became an unwanted child in the home of an aunt and uncle. Without the encouragement and love and interest of parents, he worked his way through law school, entered politics and eventually became a leader in world affairs.

One day he sat chatting with a group of colleagues. Someone enquired about the source of his grit and determination, the fortitude and application to study that had won him success.

He told of the humble, wholesome experiences of the first seven years of his life before he was deprived of his parents.

He belonged to a large family. Money was scarce. Lack of worldly goods didn't deprive the family of simple pleasures. He and his brothers and sisters were a vital part of the home in every way. Each was made to feel important as an individual and as a necessary revolving part of the family machinery.

Each had tasks to perform in keeping the home attractive and clean. Each child helped entertain the many welcome guests who poured in and out of the busy shabby old house. Each child was taught that courtesy and reverence were to be administered to the older and wiser relatives and friends who visited the home.

The younger members of the family were always at liberty to entertain their own young friends. When they did so, they helped prepare the food and wash the dishes.

Simple pleasures were highlighted and enjoyed and were indulged in and shared by parents and children. Walnuts and hickory nuts were gathered in the fall and resulted in many a candy making bee and many a taffy pull. Popcorn parties were held periodically. Gallons of ice cream were concocted in the old wooden freezer as each one took a turn at revolving the handle.

When a particularly fine concert or stage drama or opera was scheduled to visit the city, pennies could be heard clanking into banks months ahead. Then the family would attend en masse, breathless with delight. The joy of anticipation could not rival the delight of revelling in discussions pertaining to costumes and scenery and fugues and concertos and arias months after.

The famous politician told of the books he and his brothers and sisters received as Christmas gifts. They realized that their parents had sacrificed many little personal pleasures to buy them. They were introduced to the wonders and beauties of nature, the arts, soul stirring biographies. This outer protective film of good reading brought the greatest book of all, the family Bible, into keener and finer focus.

The girls and boys in that home learned to take avid delight in fashioning things with their fingers. To some, the Christmas gifts that hung on the towering tree might have seemed crude and cheap. To them, they spoke of love and creative honest effort.

As the statesman talked, the recipe for blending the finest ingredients that would result in greatness of soul for the young, unfolded before the eyes of his associates.

MEDITATION

Each man sat for a time, deep in thought. One man quoted—"Where your treasure is there shall your heart be also."

Don't give them gold;
Gold will not buy
A fleecy cloud, a slice of sky.
Gold will not heal
Your daughter's heart,
Or make your son a vital part
Of earth and home;
But you will find
That understanding love will bind
Them in a bond
That none can break;
No one can take
The loveliness
Of heart and soul
You shared with them to make them whole.

SHIP TRAFFIC

Vessel arrivals and departures at Canadian ports in 1959—both foreign and coastal service—increased to 288,182, a 10-per-cent gain over the previous year.

Honor Couple With Party And Gifts

RAWDON — A large number of folk from Mount Pleasant, Hoard's and Carmel, along with relatives from Campbellford, Toronto, Trenton and other points, gathered in Mount Pleasant Church Hall on Saturday evening and tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Martin, a shower party.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, was chairman for the occasion and spoke briefly. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen conducted the sing-song, with Mrs. Carleton Potts as accompanist.

Piano solos were contributed by Misses Carolyn Merrick, Linda Potts and Barbara Williams. Selections were read by Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Burton Sharpe and Lyle Couch. A trio comprised of Diane, Fred and Betty Mcadam, rendered a selection. Mrs. William Mcadam contributed a novelty number.

Mr. Mac Sharp read an appreciative address which welcomed the bride to the neighborhood.

On behalf of the community, Mr. Harry Mcadam made the presentation of a space-saver studio, a step-up coffee table, and an electric lamp. There was also a large arraay of individual gifts from relatives.

Douglas and Daisy expressed their thanks for the lovely gifts and invited the group to visit them at their home.

The committee in charge served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Woman Has Embroidered For 35 Years

For 35 years she has been spending every minute of her free time embroidering paraments for Lutheran churches.

Paraments are the cloths that cover the pulpit, lectern and altar as well as the minister's stole. Churches may have as many as four sets, white, violet, red and green, for the four seasons of the church calendar.

It takes Mrs. Stroh 2½ months of painstaking labor to work Christian symbols into each set. The church's pastor usually chooses the symbols from a book on ecclesiastical art published by the United Lutheran Publication House.

The illustrations are just about postage stamp size so Mrs. Stroh copies them freehand to the proper dimensions, then sets to work with single strands of embroidery floss to apply such designs as crosses, palms and crowns of thorns.

Assembling the materials for her work is often a problem. The heavy silk brocade which costs $18 a yard must be brought in from New York. She refuses to use anything but real silk floss which must come from Quebec. The gold fringe is purchased from a regalia company.

Churches may order machine-made embroideries from suppliers but Mrs. Stroh says with pride, "They're nothing compared to my work."

Married 53 years, she lives with her husband, 75, in this community a few miles north of Waterloo where they resided before moving to Conestogo 24 years ago.

Tourist Need Never Be Lonely, Hungry or Dry in Copenhagen

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Copenhagen, Denmark — Once there was an oddball named Hamlet, a murky morass of Freudianisms that neither Shakespeare nor anyone since has fully understood. Unfortunately, Shakespeare chose to depict him as a Dane, and the Danes have been trying to live him down ever since.

They are the kind of people who will charter a streetcar for a party and go clanging merrily through the streets of Copenhagen; whose women smoke cigars in public; whose king sometimes goes for a walk alone in the streets; and whose princess got her picture in the papers recently by being spotted with some girl friends at a shooting gallery in Tivoli Gardens.

They are a people who could, and did, almost drive their Nazi conquerors crazy less with sabotage than with outrageous pranks. Their most famous piece of statuary is not a monument to a king on a horse but a wistful little mermaid sitting on a lonely rock in Copenhagen harbor.

And to round out their anomalies, their national hero is a horse-faced egocentric bachelor who failed at everything he ever tried except writing fairy tales. Why a hero? Because, the Danes will tell you with tongue characteristically in cheek, "Hans Christian Andersen was the only Danish writer who was fortunate enough to have his works translated."

REFRESHING DANISH OUTLOOK

A more thoughtful but just as interesting explanation is that he reflected the refreshing Danish outlook on life—that the Danes are no more important than any other people in the world, and possibly a shade less so. As open as their famous open-faced sandwiches, the Danes themselves are their own best tourist attraction.

Which reminds us of a story they love to tell — they are always telling stories — about how the students at an international school were asked to write an essay on the elephant. The Frenchman wrote "The Love Life of the Elephant," the German wrote a 30-volume "Short Introduction to the Elephant," the Russian wrote "The Elephant in a Socialist State" and the American wrote "How to Breed Bigger and Better Elephants." But the Dane wrote "One Hundred Ways to Prepare Elephant."

If the French make an art of eating, the Danes make a hobby of it. There are at least 100 ways of preparing everything in Denmark. Most of them are likely to be offered at any given meal, which could be and usually is at all hours of the day or night. And most of them are sandwiches.

The Danes, Europe's greatest trenchermen, are absolutely obsessed by the idea that the only proper way to serve food is on bread, and if a dish is not proferred that way they can be observed slyly slipping a slice on to their plates. They eat so many of these so-called hors d'oeuvres that main courses are anticlimactic, sometimes served without even potatoes and like as not — you guessed it — on a slice of bread.

This time of year it never gets very dark in this northern city, so the "night restaurants" stay open until 5 A.M. on the grounds that daytime activities such as cycling, hiking and motoring (which all Danes do with the fanatic zeal of racing drivers just released from prison) may go on until nearly midnight. At 5 the "day restaurants" open for those who are still weak from hunger and thirst.

For snacks there are smorrebrod (the Danish word for their open sandwich) stands at every corner, with sidewalk cafes, vending machines and "take-out" bars in between. Most of them are so busy with Danes who can't make it to the next restaurant that you have to line up.

THIRST IS TRADITION

Danish thirst has an equally honorable tradition. King Christian IV so fancied beer that he built his own brewery in 1620. Today Copenhagen's two famous breweries, Tuborg and Carlsberg, fill no less than 4,000,000 bottles daily. We've double-checked that fantastic figure, though it is still not beyond the realm of possibility that the impish Danes are pulling our unhollow legs.

What's more, only a little more than half of that is exported. Most of the rest is consumed in and about Copenhagen, leaving an average of almost two bottles per man, woman and child daily (they've got to be pulling our legs!) If all these bottles were laid end to end they would stretch for 25 miles and if they were uncapped they'd flood the country. But what Dane would be guilty of such waste?

Much of this guzzling is justified on the grounds that all of Carlsberg's profits go to charitable and cultural endeavors. But this doesn't begin to explain all the bottles of akvavit, the caraway flavored "Scandinavian martini," consumed in endless "skaal" toasts at dinner parties. They say they need it as fortification against the onslaughts of herring, sausage, cheese and pate they must face at dinner, but we can feel a tug at our legs again.

Since the Danes themselves are the best part of Denmark, they have made themselves easy to know. If one doesn't buttonhole you on the street as you step out of the railroad station or airline terminal and ask you home for dinner, you can walk a block to the Tourist Information Office and ask about the "Meet the Danes" program, whereby you will be introduced to a Danish family of similar professional or cultural interests to yours and entertained warmly.

"Imagination; honorable aims;

—Coleridge.

"This young man was a student of Albert College but left six years ago to study opera in New York and Rome," said Miss Jessie Tuite, former dean of women, as she introduced us to Charles Kingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kingsley, former owners of the Belvedere Hotel of Belleville, but now of Picton. The sunny countenace of this young man seemed to speak of delight in living; of a definite purpose and goal in life.

Intrigued, we sought to learn more from him later, at his parents' home, sequestered in a pine grove that faces Lake Ontario.

"Even as a youngster in Belleville, I had my own radio program, for ever since I can remember, I've wanted to become a singer," he decladed.

This was explained in a series of articles he wrote recently for the Picton Times, from which we quote: "Over the past six years many people have asked me what I do at a singing lesson. Many people think, all you have to do is open your mouth and sing. I wish it were that easy. It has been my privilege to study with one of the greatest teachers in the world, Mary Ludington (of New York City).

"Invested in each one of us is a musical instrument that is equal to a full symphony orchestra. Our physical bodies are capable of more wonderful things than we can imagine. Sound is produced by two great forces trying to come together, 'The mind and the physical body.'

"There are a few keys to the success of this creation of sound, one is to be happy every day. This trains your mind to rule in the needed way (you must sing every day no matter how you feel.) Another key is to be able to relax completely. This is very necessary.

Love of music should be instilled, especially in young people wherever possible, he feels, and last year he gave a series of lectures in Quebec on music. "The first night, there were only three or four, but by the end of the series, the auditorium was crowded". Winners of the Charles Kingsley Award at Albert College are invited to spend time in his home to discuss music with him.

At present, Charles motors to New York City once a month for a lesson with his teacher, Miss Ludington, then returns to practise, to continue to memorize five operas, including Manon Lescaut and Rigoletto, and to strive to perfect and establish his technique which will enable him to reach E above high C. His youth is a decided asset toward accomplishing this goal as a tenor. He is only 23 years of age.

In the near future, then, he hopes to return to his studies in Rome. (We thought it most thrilling to learn he has sung in St. Mark's Cathedral in Venice!). The warm and music loving Italian people create a fine and ideal musical climate and take much pleasure in "lots of volume" from all singers, he commented. Rome and music, indeed, are wedded.

In his article on music, he stated: "In the city of Rome there are many fountains. In almost every square you find water gushing forth from some beautiful fountain adding life and color to the surroundings. The Fountain of Trevi is one of the largest, before reaching this fountain you pass through narrow streets where you begin to hear sound, sound of running water. Louder and louder like the growing finale being played by some great symphony. Then suddenly you emerge onto a square where you see water bursting with life in rhythm and melody."

Nor would our visit here have been possible had not Miss Leona Riggs driven us there, nor would we have had the pleasure of hearing Charles Kingsley sing had she not accompanied him so ably on the piano, and thus in the atmosphere of his home we well understood his meaning in his article when he said "every sound from movement creates vibration which can turn into music, and bring a new kind of meaning to all that is around us. Walking through a wood we hear the rustle of grass beneath our feet, the sway of branches above our heads, the songs of birds all around. We are awed by this majestic power of silent melody playing on the strings of the breeze."

How glorious is youth, youth full of promise, youth that sharpens one's perceptions to the sheer joy of living. May all your dreams come true, Charles Kingsley, tenor.

Sunday School Picnic

HOLLOWAY ST. UNITED CHURCH S.S.

On Saturday afternoon Holloway St. United Church Sunday school held the annual picnic at Presqu'ile Park. A strong wind was blowing from Lake Ontario but this did not prevent some of the hardier youngsters from venturing into the water for a short time. The majority, however, enjoyed the sunshine from the shelter of the trees.

The races on the beach proved quite an attraction and some keen competition was seen.

Following the races everyone sat down to a picnic supper. For this, several private barbeques were brought along. Soft drinks and ice cream were provided for the kiddies and the affair wound up with the usual candy scramble.

Despite the coolness of the weather a large crowd turned out. This was rated by most to be the best picnic for some years and the committee of Phyllis Lucas, Marjorie Miller, Jean Townson and Doug Ptolemy and their many helpers are to be congratulated on a job well done.

RACE WINNERS

Winners of the various races were as follows:

Wheelbarrow race — Girls, Sandra Cone and Bonnie Carr-Braint, Susan and Sally Craig, Paula Murphy and Carol Gray. Boys, Monty Flindall and Robert Fletcher, Fred Ellis and Don Desaulniers, Allen Chamber and Jerry Palmateer.

3-legged race—Girls, Sandra Cone and Carol Gray, Ann McCorquodale and Allison Mueller, Kathy May and Linda Waters. Boys, Paul Williams and George Campbell, Fred Ellis and Don Desaulniers, Allan Chambers and Lloyd White. Mixed, Linda Fairman and Jerry Palmateer, Harold and Marilyn Townsend, Valerie Burnett and Roger Palmateer.

Sack race—Girls, Sally Craig, Sandra Cone, Linda Waters. Boys, Monty Flindall, David McCormick, Robert Fletcher.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marian S. — We can each make a happier life apart.

Edwin S. — What about the children?

• • •

Marian S. — My husband and I have been married 15 years and have four children. We have never been very happy together and I think we've now come to the parting of the ways.

The trouble seriously started about four years ago when Ed became involved with another woman. He wanted a divorce and I refused to give it to him. Finally the affair petered out.

In the meantime, however, we each went our separate ways and I tried to involve myself in community activities. Through these I met a man I love. Now I want the divorce, but Ed doesn't. I feel now I was wrong about not giving him the divorce when he wanted it. After all, we don't love one another and we are both still young enough to make a separate, happier life.

• • •

Edwin S. What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Why should I grant Marian a divorce just because it happens to suit her convenience now?

I lost the woman I cared about because of Marian. And it was Marian's fault that I got involved in the first place. Her coldness and constant nagging drove me to it. The woman I cared for was warmhearted and generous, but didn't want to live a "back street" existence. She wanted marriage.

As far as I'm concerned, Marian can just suffer now the way I suffered. At that time she kept saying, "What about the children? What about our home?" Well I say the same thing now. She told me I should make sacrifices for the children. Well how about her doing the sacrificing now?

• • •

The Council: This is a case of two individuals doing some right things for the wrong reasons and it can't work out well.

Both Marian and Ed are motivated by spite and they can only make life more miserable for one another and their children. Divorce wouldn't solve their problems because individuals bitten by the virus of hate and spite aren't cured by a simple change of partners.

The happiness of children is a good reason to keep a marriage together, but it is the height of cruelty and cynicism to use this as a camouflage for spite.

If Marian had kept her children's interest uppermost, she would not have closed the door to reconciliation with her husband and gotten herself involved with another man. This involvement was not accidental. It had to be desired. We suspect that this relationship has more to do with Marian's desire to hurt her husband than with love or even liking for another man.

The children, who are being used as pawns in this ugly battle, are not blissfully unaware of everything. They may not know all the details, but Marian and Ed may be sure that their children sense the emotional setup in their home. It is robbing them of a happy childhood and is likely to have long-lasting effects.

If Ed really wants to keep the marriage together for his children's sake, he will not stop simply at withholding a divorce. He will make an active effort to win back his wife and start the marriage again in the spirit that moved him when he took his wedding vows.

QUESTION BOX

Question: Please tell us what to say to the parents of the bride and bridegroom when we greet them in the receiving line. We have never been to a wedding before.

Answer: As you shake hands with the mother, who will be first in line, give your name as "Mrs. Doe" (if she knows you well, of course this is not necessary). Then say how pleased you are to be there — and keep moving! Don't hold up the line to chat. Say approximately the same thing to the others in the line. That is all that is expected of you.

Question: I am attending a wedding next week. There is to be a "cocktail hour" (7 to 8 P.M.) before the reception. Is it proper to wear a hat during this cocktail hour? If so, should it be left on during the reception? The wedding itself is to take place at 6 P.M.

Answer: Frankly, I never heard of a "cocktail hour" being included in a wedding reception invitation. The usual procedure is to serve refreshments, liquid or otherwise, at the reception itself. As far as wearing a hat is concerned, I would suggest doing so.

Question: Recently, in one of your columns, you came out strongly against people chewing gum. I like to chew gum, so does my boy friend, and I can't see why it is wrong. We chew it all the time when we are on dates and we think you are being stuffy in your opinion.

Answer: Stuffy or no, I will stick to my guns. Not only is the up and down movement of the gum-chewer's jaws most unsightly to the beholder, but the snapping noise that invariably accompanies it is most unpleasant. I still think gum should be chewed in private. I'm positive of one thing: Any girl who hopes to be thought glamorous will certainly refrain from indulging in this pastime when in public.

QUESTION:

A friend of mine has recently taken on the responsibility of cooking for twenty-five guests at a fishing and hunting lodge in Muskoka. Could you help her with recipes and suggestions for good, wholesome meals such as one would expect at a first-class lodge? — Mrs. H. H. G.

ANSWER:

I would advise your friend to write for a publication entitled "Feeding Twenty Campers" to Nutrition Division, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, Canada. It is excellent and costs 1.25.

LODGE DINNER MENUS:

CHICKEN FRICASSEE (for 25)

15 lbs. dressed chicken, 5 oz. flour, 1 1-2 tablespoons salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons pepper, 9 1-2 oz. melted fat, 3 quarts boiling water, 5 1-2 oz. flour, 1 pint hot milk, 1 1-2 tablespoons salt.

Cut chicken into portions for serving. Dredge with 5 oz. flour. Heat fat in roasting pans. Add floured meat and brown lightly in oven. Transfer chicken to stock pot. Add boiling water, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer until tender (2 to 3 1-2 hours). Remove from heat, drain off stock, retaining 1 1-2 quarts. (Reserve remaining stock for use in soups or sauces.) Measure fat from roasting pans — there should be 3-4 cup. If there is less add necessary quantity of some kind of fat to make up to this amount. Add flour to fat and blend until smooth. Add chicken stock and hot milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add salt. Cook slowly until no flavor of raw starch remains. Pour over meat. Reheat before serving.

COLE SLAW WITH PINEAPPLE (for 25):

4 1-2 lbs. shredded cabbage, 1 1-4 oz. finely chopped onions, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 cups French dressing, one 20-oz. tin drained pineapple chunks.

Shred cabbage finely and soak one hour in ice-cold, salted water. Drain well and dry. Add chopped onion. Sprinkle evenly with salt. Add drained pineapple chunks and French dressing and mix lightly. Chill.

Need Beavers' Assistance In Controlling Coarse Fish

EDMONTON (CP) — The industrious beaver is helping the Alberta fish and game department kill off coarse fish in the province's numerous streams.

The beavers are doing it unwittingly but their contribution is an essential part of the department's stream-reclamation program, aimed at ridding waters of such fish as chub, suckers and pike.

Restocking streams populated by these fish is usually difficult. Only a few trout survive the voracious appetites of the coarse fish.

Poison known as Rotenone is being used to kill them and that's where the beavers come in.

DAM-BUILDERS

In many areas beaver dams have backed the water up to such an extent that normal doses of poison have little effect. The current is slowed so much that it won't carry poison to the deadwater areas favored by the coarse fish.

In such situations fish and game workers move in with dynamite and remove the dams. When the water starts moving again the streams then are ready for poison treatment.

After about a week the waters are safe for fish again and in about the same time the beavers have rebuilt the dams.

With the coarse fish gone, the streams are then ready for restocking with yearling and fingerling trout. The dams keep the coarse fish from entering the streams from lakes and rivers and killing off the young trout.

QUICK KILLER

The poison is reported to be devastating. Within 10 minutes of application on a recent pilot experiment the dead fish were starting to bob belly-up to the surface. The poison attacks the gills, causing suffocation. It is not harmful to animals or humans in the doses used.

The fish and game department is trying the pilot run on Lobstick Creek near Rocky Mountain House. If efforts to clear some 12 to 15 miles of the creek are successful, the program will be expanded.

Lobstick is the second such reclamation experiment. Sheep Creek near Calgary was also treated. It will be some time, department officials say, before results are known.

One threat to the program may be spring floods which could wash out the beaver dams and open the way to the coarse fish. But by that time the department hopes the trout will have had time to establish themselves.

What Color Is Best for Hunters?

For many years the hunters of our nation depended upon red to protect them from accidental shooting in the woods. Red hats, red coats and trousers, red patches across the back — all were recommended safeguards to enable a hunter to stand out against the backgrounds of the fall and winter woods.

But there are a great many reds in the foliage of the autumn woods, so the armed forces and the conservation people decided to look further in the matter of color safety. They found that bright yellow was even more effective than red.

Then the fluorescent materials came on the market and these, with their shiny "firelight" quality, were a big improvement over former dyed materials. I have, and still use a fluorescent pink (of all things) hunting cap that stands out in high contrast in the October woodcock covers, particularly on gray days.

Not long ago a color test was conducted at Fort Devens, Mass. Seventy-eight riflemen were stationed in position to fire at disappearing targets. They were instructed to shoot only at white targets, but nine of them shot at yellow ones, mistaking them for white.

More tests are planned. Meanwhile the present recommendations are that hunters wear brilliant shades of red or yellow, the more brilliant, the better.

LITTERBUGITIS

Now that the summer months are here, that ubiquitous pest, the litterbug, will be with us once more to mess-up our countryside. Why it is that so many folks insist upon leaving trash at parking places and campsites and throwing unwanted refuse out of car windows, I am sure I don't know. The fact remains that all too many of them do, regardless of the heavy penalties imposed for such acts.

Few people realize what a tremendous task is imposed upon the highway and conservation authorities whose job it is to keep our outdoors clean and tidy. Visit the litterbugs' homes and you will find clean houses and neatly trimmed yards and lawns. Yet the moment they find themselves in the country they have no hesitation in scattering sandwich papers, chicken bones, paper cups, beer cans, etc., to the four winds.

So this summer when you are on outings try to be considerate and to bear in mind that any trash which you discard must be picked up by somebody. Also remember that the "somebody" who picks up your leavings is paid to do so, as a rule, out of public funds which could be used to much better advantage for other purposes.

The outdoors, a great deal of it, belongs to the public and that includes you. All right, treat it as you would your own private property. Let us use that clean-up money for something that will benefit all of us.

AUTOS AND DEER

Every spring, summer and fall come the inevitable collisions between automobiles and deer. A goodly share of these, of course, are unavoidable, but a considerable portion of them are not. Regardless of fault, the sad fact remains that all too many deer are killed every year on the highways of our deer states.

Here and there along the highways you will see signs marked "Deer Crossing." These signs are not placed there for fun or to decorate the scenery. They mean exactly what they say and the prudent driver slows down when he sees one.

One of our Pennsylvania Game Wardens gave me an invaluable tip on deer, one that has saved my car from damage many times. We were driving through heavily wooded country when a doe bounded across the road ahead of us. "Hold it," shouted the warden, and I stepped on the brake pedal — just in time.

Seven more deer crossed the road not 50 feet from the car. If I had not stopped I certainly would have hit one of them.

"The one you see," said the warden, "is not the one you worry about. Almost always there are more to come and those are the ones you hit if you don't slow down or stop as we did now." It is a good thing to remember in deer country.

All of us know how the eyes of animals reflect the light from the glare of headlights. When driving through deer country, ask your companion to watch for the eyes of deer shining in the brush well off the road. Once these are sighted, you can handle your car accordingly. And you will be surprised how many deer you can spot that way — deer that do not but which might decide to cross in front of you.

Sport in Brief

AMERICAN FAVORED

JARVIS (CP)—An American is favored to win Canada's 24th annual national championship motorcycle races to be run at nearby Harewood Acres Saturday. Ed LaBelle of Philadelphia, just returned from a year of successful competition in Europe, has been tabbed the man most likely to capture the event.

SIGN EX-ARGO

CHICAGO (AP)—J. C. Caroline, a University of Illinois great on offence who has become a defensive ace in professional football, has signed his 1960 contract with Chicago Bears. Caroline, who formerly played Toronto Argos, signed for his fifth year with the Bears.

TRADE WITH ALS

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the WIFU have traded end Jerry Janes to the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four. Janes, a three-year veteran with the Lions, was traded for future player rights and undisclosed cash.

FOLLOWS IN FOOTSTEPS

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Twenty-year-old Bill Lefebvre, infielder son of former Red Sox pitcher Lefty Lefevre, has signed with St. Louis Cardinals. Young Lefebvre is to join the Rochester team of the International League. He has been with the Dennis Clippers of the lower Cape Cod league for the last three years.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Interference on television is often blamed on the power tools of the "handyman" next door. Actually, home workshop equipment rarely causes trouble unless it is defective and this is easily and inexpensively corrected. More often the culprit is a defective home appliance (such as a heating pad) somewhere in the neighborhood.

A filter on the television lead-in will stop only a small portion of most interference — the only sure cure being to eliminate the trouble at its source.

A television set that needs adjustment or repairs is often more sensitive to outside interference, CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. can restore peak performance to your set so that you always get the best reception possible under adverse conditions. For fast service phone WO 8-6791.

Big Three Warms Up At St. Andrew's

ST. ANDREW'S, Scotland (AP) The big three in the British Opens Arnold Palmer, Peter Thomson and Gary Player, warmed up Thursday and showed why they will be favorites when the qualifying round begins Monday.

Palmer, U.S. Open champion, played with Gene Sarazen and equalled par-73 even though he three-putted three greens.

Palmer smashed the ball well over 300 yards on every long hole. His long game was nearly perfect. His only troubles came from pitch shots which ran off the smooth, dried-out greens.

Thomson, four time champion from Australia, went around in a steady 71. His foursome, ignored by the gallery, could well have produced a dark horse in Ireland's Joe Carr, the curent British amateur champion.

Carr and Guy Wolstenholme, English amateur, defeated Thomson and Ken Nagle 2 and 1 in a match dominated by Carr's brilliant 69. The last amateur to win the Open here was Bobby Jones in 1927.

Harness Racing

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Tar Boy, who was not invited to the recent International Pacing Series, Thursday night won the $25,000 International Encore by a length over Bye Bye Byrd at Yonkers Raceway.

Tar Boy was clocked in 1:59 1-5 for the mile, two-fifths of a second off the track record, and returned $9.50. Third place went to Speedy Pick.

MOUNTAINOUS LAND

The four main islands of Japan are so mountainous that only about one acre in seven can be farmed.

Jockey Says Fellow Rider Saved Life

BOSTON (AP) — Jockey Tony Despirito credited another jockey with saving his life Thursday when he nearly fell from his mount during the third race at Suffolk Downs.

"There's no doubt about it," Despirito said. "(Henry) Wajda saved my life."

It happened this way:

There was some crowding on the far turn of the five furlong race ("nobody's fault," Despirito said later) and Tony was knocked from the saddle. His left foot was entangled in the stirrup, and he was clinging to the right side of the neck of his mount, Color Bearer. Wajda quickly moved his mount alongside, reaching frantically for Tony.

The horses ran about another 50 yards before Wajda had Tony safely back on top. By that time, both his feet were out of the stirrups, and he coasted home.

"Whatever I did must have been just by sheer instinct," Wajda said. "I don't remember all those things."

Piersall May Return Monday

BOSTON (AP)—Jim Piersall, colorful Cleveland Indians centrefielder who took a week's rest on a doctor's orders, plans to return to American League action next Monday.

The fiery competitor plans to rejoin his team in Cleveland in time to play in a July 4 doubleheader against Kansas City.

Dr. Don Kelly, the Indian's team physician, advised a rest last Sunday after Piersall was ejected from the second game of a doubleheader with the Yankees in Cleveland.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Anita's Son, owned by M. J. Boylen of Toronto, ran the greatest race of his career to win the $29,600 Dominion Day Handicap Friday.

The four-year-old Irish colt, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, carried top weight of 128 pounds and defeated Grey Monarch by half a length as he ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:49 4-5, only two-fifths of a second behind the Canadian record. Moony closed a big gap to finish a distant third.

It was the fifth successive win of the season for Anita's Son. In three seasons of racing, the Boylen colt has started 26 times and has won 16 of these races. He picked up first money of $16,750 and boosted his total earnings to $86,080.

The crowd of 21,861 made Anita's Son a slight favorite over Grey Monarch, holder of the Canadian record for the 1⅛ mile. The winner paid $4.60 straight.

GREAT DAM

The Hoover dam on the Colorado River, irrigating vast stretches of Arizona and California, marks its 25th anniversary in 1960.

AT THE McCARTHY — Burt Lancaster and Audrey Hepburn, stars of "The Unforgiven", shown here in the film's dramatic highlight when Miss Hepburn, as a young girl of a pioneer family is forced to face the true origins of her mystery-shrouded past. This story of conflict between a tribe of Indians who claim the girl for their own, and the pioneer family willing to fight a war of extermination for her, was directed by John Huston. The picture, filmed in Technicolor and Panavision on location in Mexico, closes tonight at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Washington's Pedro Ramos throws a spitball and American League umpires are lax in calling him on it, White Sox manager Al Lopez charged Friday.

"Everybody will be throwing them," Lopez said after accusing Ramos of tossing spitters at Jim Landis and Nellie Fox Thursday night as the White Sox defeated the Senators 4-2 in 10 innings in Washington.

Lopez said he protested to plate umpire Larry Napp after Ramos struck out Landis with a pitch that "broke about a foot."

Although Napp talked to Ramos, Lopez said the umpire was not forceful and apparently afraid of antagonizing the crowd.

Roger Maris Ahead of Babe Ruth Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris, New York Yankees outfielder, is ahead of the home run pace set by Babe Ruth in 1927, the year Ruth hit his record 60.

Maris hit his 25th in Thursday's game against Kansas City and moved five games ahead of Ruth. The Bambino got his No. 25 June 30, 1927, but it was the Yankees' 70th game of the season. Thursday's contest was the Yankees' 66th. Maris has played in 63 of the games.

Movie Column

Satirical Mort Sahl Aiming Arrows at Mule and Elephant

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As if the Democrats and Republicans don't have eenough trouble fighting among themselves, now they'll have Mort Sahl aiming his slings and arrows at them.

Satirical Sahl has been doing this in night clubs and on rare TV appearances — not rare enough for some thin-skinned citizens. Now he'll do it on a regular, national scale. He is negotiating to deliver commentaries on the national conventions over TV.

ALL FAIR GAME

All the candidates are considered fair game by Sahl, as evidence by his current comments.

Nelson Rockefeller—"The man who could run the country as a hobby."

Lyndon Johnson — "Can we offer the proper incentive to get him to step down and run for the presidency?"

Adlai Stevenson — "Half the Democrats say, 'He can win;' the other half say, 'Yes, but he can't be nominated.'"

John Kennedy—"He wants us to stop talking about matters of faith. He isn't concerned about the hereafter, but what will happen in November is driving him out of his mind."

UPHILL FIGHT

Such commentaries are earning Sahl a pleasant fortune, but he admitted that it is sometimes an uphill fight. He faces the double jeopardy of anger and silence. The anger often comes from persons who object to his deflation of their heroes, as with his Gen. MacArthur crack a year ago. He mentioned that at the triumphant return to the Philippines, it wasn't certain whether the general would walk through or on the water.

The silence is even more disconcerting.

"The problem is that only a few names get immediate recognition," the comedian complained. "If I tell a joke about Nixon or Kennedy, I get laughs right away. But I don't have much luck with Johnson or Stevenson."

Records Go At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Jerome, 19-year-old North Vancouver speedster, cracked the Canadian open and native 200-metre record Thursday night in the Vancouver police track and field championships.

Jerome, hustling to an almost certain spot on Canada's Olympic team, covered the distance in 20.9 seconds, three-tenths of a second better than the open mark set by Mike Agostini of Trinidad here July 2, 1956.

Jerome's time was three-tenths of a second off the world record for the distance on a curved track.

Don Trethowey, 23, of Kamloops, B.C., cracked the Canadian open steeplechase mark with a time of 9:44.4, well under his 9:21.9 time in the recent U.S. small college championships. However, it was 19.5 seconds faster than the 10:25 record of H. C. Davidson of Listowel, set July 16, 1932.

Fred Sontag, giant RCMP constable from Williams Lake, B.C., equalled the Canadian native discus record of 190 feet, six inches, set by Roy Pella in the British Empire Games here in 1954.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The bass and "musky" season opened on the holiday and on this early post-holiday morning, there has not yet been any evidence of little ones, big ones or the giants that got away.

To the "Three Musky-teers," we regret the tardiness but the research staff took a week off and left this department holding the creel, so to speak.

However, the muskies should be running in the Bay of Quinte around Muscote Bay area, Stoco Lake, the Moira River in various parts, and the Trent.

Incidentally, a look-see at the records decided an often-argued point. The real name of the "musky", and the official spelling given in the statutes of Canada is "maskinonge." This name is derived from the Indian words "mashk" (deformed) and "kinonge" (a pike.)

Many prominent writers use "mascallonge" or "muskelunge." Dr. A. B. Henshall, an authority on the subject states there is no authority or precedent for the word "muskelunge."

Be that as it may. If we can haul in a beauty weighing between 20 and 30 pounds, they can call it "Dillinger" or "Margaret Rose" as far as we are concerned. "A musky by any other name would weigh as much and taste as sweet."

The muskies spawn in shallow water during the spring and about this time of the year they withdraw to deeper water near rocky ledges and shoals, out from the shallows.

At this time the musky is rarely caught on a full stomach probably because it feeds only at certain times. In August, trolling in deep water from weedy shores or off rocky shelves is more fruitful.

During the latter part of September and early October when the leaves are turning you'll find Mr. Musky in shallow water, one or two feet deep, alongside logs or stumps, amidst lily pads and rushes.

He is predacious and essentially a fish eater. He preys upon a wide variety of fishes, such as perch, suckers, shiners. He likes frogs and crawfish with an almost insatiable appetite. It has been estimated that 10 to 15 pounds of food are required to add one pound of fish flesh to any member of the pike family.

A yearling musky will measure from 12 to 14 inches and weigh two pounds. A three-year-old measures 26 inches and weighs five pounds. At ten years he is 41 inches long and tips the scales at 21 pound, and four years later he stretches into 48 inches and weighs 32 pounds.

But you needn't worry about the age. After all none of the finny Floyd Pattersons carry a birth certificate.

And if you are a musky lover, your favorite fillet likes color. Two years ago down east of here, a young lady sat on a rocky ledge with her pretty feet laving in the water. Her toenails were tinged a bright red. Suddenly she screamed. Later it was discovered a musky had taken a nip at a scarlet toe.

Heavy casting tackle is invariably used due to the great strength of the fish. Large wooden plugs, spoons, combinations of spoon and feather, huge bucktail bait and surface lures are good. Large bass plugs have been used with success, so have spinners.

The largest maskinonge recorded was caught Oct. 20, 1949, in Chippewa Flowage, Wisconsin. It weighed 69 pounds 11 ounces. Its length was 63½ inches and girth 34¼ inches.

Ontario's largest maskinonge was caught in 1940 in Eagle Lake, Kenora District. It tipped the scales at 61 pounds, nine ounces, was 59 inches in length and had a girth of 31 inches.

As is well known in this district, "muskies" weighing 20 to 40 pounds are not uncommon.

Unkown Stuns Flint Tourney

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Davey Hill, a youngster just a few years out of caddy ranks, stunned a star-packed field in the first round of the Flint open golf tournament Friday with a four-under-par 68 to hold a one-stroke lead in the $52,000 tournament.

Hill's only victory in two years as a professional was in the 1959 Michigan Open. He plays out of Denver, Colo.

Trailing Littler with two-under-par 70s were Tommy Bolt, Fred Hawkins, Ted Kroll and Johnny Pott.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Gerry Magee of Toronto each shot a two-over-par 74. Amateur Bob Panasiuk of Sandwich, Ont., fired a 79.

Braves Slump; Pirates Tops For 'Fourth'

Orioles Gain On Yankees

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Milwaukee Braves, after winning six straight and closing within 2½ games of the National League lead, suddenly have lost six of their last nine. As a result Pittsburgh Pirates are sure of being in first place on the fourth of July for the first time in 28 years.

While the Braves lost a doubleheader to the Cardinals at St. Louis Friday night, the Pirates defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in 10 innings for a 4½-game lead. The Bucs can't be dislodged before Monday.

The Braves were beaten 8-7 in 10 innings in the first game with the Cardinals and lost the second game 7-5 for their third loss in a row.

In the only American League gam played, second place Baltimore beat the Chicago White Sox 4-0 behind righthander Milt Pappas, who hit a two-run homer and gave up just six hits. That pushed the Orioles within one game of the front-running New York Yankees, who were idled by rain with the rest of the AL.

CUBS LOST 5-3

Cincinnati clipped Chicago's Cubs 5-3 in 12 innings in the other NL game. San Francisco and Philadelphia were rained out.

Righthander Ernie Broglio (8-4) won both games in relief for the Cards, now back in fourth place. They took the opener when rookie Julie Javier doubled off loser Joey Jay (2-3) an scored on rookie Johnny Glenn's two-out single against Lew Burdette.

The Braves were blanked on two hits by Larry Jackson until the seventh when they scored four unearned runs after Javier's two-out error. Milwaukee tied it with three in the ninth, again with two out, off relief ace Lindy McDaniel. St. Louis' first seven runs were off Don Nottebart in his major league debut.

A two-run double by Joe Cunningham beat reliever Ron Piche (1-4) in the nightcap eighth. Broglio, following Curt Simmons and McDaniel walked in the tying run in a five-run Milwaukee eighth triggered by Hank Aaron's two-on homer.

Dick Stuart capped a two-run 10th against the Dodgers with a single that scored Roberto Clemente from first base for the win. Reliever Larry Sherry (6-5) was the loser.

Fred Green (4-2) won it in relief of Vern Law, who gave up a tying two-run homer by John Roseboro in the seventh and then fell behind on Charlie Neal's home run in the 10th.

Roy McMillan's sacrafice fly broke a 3-3 tie in a two-run 12th for the Reds and gave reliever Bob Grim (1-1) his first NL victory. Don Elston (4-4) lost it.

Pappas' homer, his first hit of the year, beat Billy Pierce (6-4) in the fifth inning. It was one of but three hits Pierce allowed in his seven frames. The Oriole righthander, now 7-5, walked three and struck out two.

Thursday in the American League the Yankees sprayed five home runs, two of them by Bill Skowron, to beat Kansas City 10-3. Chicago edged Washington 4-2. Boston, aided by Ted Williams' 13th home run, downed Detroit 11-7 despite Rocky Colavito's two homers. Cleveland was swamped 9-1 by Baltimore.

In the National, Stuart hit three home runs as the Bucs beat San Francisco 11-6 in the second game of a double bill. The Giants won the opener 11-0 behind Jack Sanford's three-hit hurling. Chicago topped Milwaukee 11-5 and Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 10-6 in the other scheduled games.

At Wimbledon

Fraser Wins, Bueno Favored

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—With Australian Neale Fraser's victory in the men's singles final far from forgotten, tennis fans turned out today to see Maria Bueno of Brazil defend her women's singles crown at the Wimbledon tournament against Sandra Reynolds.

The Brazilian girl is a strong favorite to retain her crown, and at the same time she has a chance to pull off a rare triple on this, the final day of the tournament.

Along with Darlene Hard of the United States, Maria meets Miss Reynolds and her South African partner, Renee Schuurman, in the women's doubles final.

IN MIXED FINALS TOO

Then Miss Bueno is teamed with Australia's Bob Howe in the mixed final against Australian Rod Laver—the man Fraser beat 6-4, 3-6, 9-7, 7-5 in the men's final Friday—and Miss Hard.

The men's doubles final saw Dennis Ralston of the U.S. and Mexico's Rafael Osuna matched against Britain's Davis Cup team of Bobby Wilson and Mike Davies.

Fraser, who turned down a $50,000 offer to turn pro last year, made good on his sixth try for the championship, relying on his booming service and crushing volleys to carry him to victory in the battle of lefthanders.

A crowd of 18,000, including the Royal Family, watched him beat the red-haired Laver, runnerup last year to Alex Olmedo who won the singles crown for the U.S.

Race Track No Place For 'Hearters'

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Here's a tip straight from the paddock: If you have a heart ailment stay away from the track.

"Racing fans are a strange breed," says Dr. Wilkins. "They have an amazing disregard for their own afflictions, and it's sometimes fatal."

An average of four persons die at Monmouth Park of heart attacks each season, he says. In one season, 12 persons died, most of them cardiac cases.

The physician said he remembers one case of an inveterate horseplayer who retired from his job because of a serious heart ailment.

"His wife pleaded with him to stay home, but he came to the track anyway saying he'd rather die here than any place," Dr. Wilkins said. "He did."

'Trots' Bodies' Hassle

May Cancel Old Woodbine Meet

TORONTO (CP) — A struggle for power between the Ontario Racing Commission and the Canadian Trotting Association has cancelled indefinitely the 53-day harness racing meet scheduled to have started Friday at Old Woodbine track.

A track spokesman said Friday night: "There is no indication when, if ever, racing will resume."

Hugh Proudfoot, CTA president, announced five hours before post time that the ORC would not allow the CTA to supervise the races. Anyone holding a CTA licence who participated in the meet would be suspended, he said.

Support for the trotting association was announced by the Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association, whose members belong to the CTA.

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the ORC, a provincial government body, said the strike is detrimental to the horsemen and the public.

There were signs of bitterness among the horsemen, who were on hand and ready to compete.

Leslie Ehrlick of Toronto, OHHA president, said: "The horsemen are caught in the middle. Let them fight in hotel rooms or court rooms. But let the races go on."

The dispute, which leaves about 200 standard-bred horses idle, arises from an 88-point directive the ORC issued this year setting out rules for harness racing.

The ORC regulations resemble CTA rules in many respects. The CTA has governed harness racing at Old Woodbine for many years.

But some of the new rules give over-riding power to the ORC, such as the one on discipline which allows the ORC to suspend drivers without provision for appeal. The CTA has allowed appeals from its suspensions.

Proudfoot expressed concern that if the ORC wins control, other provinces will start racing commissions and a multiplicity of jurisdictions and rules will be faced by drivers.

Royals Take Two From Jets; Leafs Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Altobelli, a 180-pound, six-footer who toils at first base for Montreal Royals of the International League, may be the hardest-hitting .240 batter in organized baseball.

The 28-year-old Detroit, Mich., native has crashed 20 home runs and driven in 59 runs for the league lead in both departments.

With Algobelli slugging Columbus pitching for a two-run homer in the second game of a doubleheader and a total of four RBIs for the twin-bill, the Royals defeated the Jets 9-2 and 5-0 Friday.

The victories gave the Royals, who earlier in the season lost 14 in succession and plummeted to last place, an eight-game winning streak and possession of sixth place.

LEAFS SPLIT WITH VEES

League-leading Toronto Maple Leafs raised their bulge to 7½ games by splitting a doubleheader with Richmond Virginians while second-place Buffalo Bisons were beatn 10-1 by Miami Marlins. The Leafs dropped the morning game 5-3 but won in the afternoon 10-2 behind Steve Ridzik's four-hit pitching.

Rochester Red Wings ended Havana's six-game winning streak with a 7-3 triumph in the first game of two but the Sugar Kings won the nightcap 5-3.

Thursday night, Columbus shut out Toronto 2-0, Montreal blanked Richmond 1-0, Havana edged Buffalo 6-5 and Rochester defeated Miami 8-3.

The Royals received route-going pitching performances Friday by Nelson Chittum (2-1) and Ron Perranoski (4-5).

Blasting 14 hits in support of Ridzik (9-2), the Leafs came from behind to win the second game. Steve Demeter drove in four runs as Toronto rapped Bob Wiesler (2-1).

The Vees won the opener with three runs in the sixth on four singles wrapped around a walk to winning hurler Jim Bronstad (5-7).

Leo Burke went 5-for-6, including two solo home runs, to pace a 14-hit Miami attack against the Bisons, who lost their 11th in 15 games. Jim Archer (4-7) picked up the victory; Warren Hacker (4-4) took the loss.

A home run average — Leon Wagner's three-run blow in the first, Ellis Burton's two-run shot in the second and Bill Harrell's solo in the third—gave the Red Wings the first game. Deane Stone (5-3) won it.

The Sugar Kings took the nightcap as Orlando Pena (6-5) notched his second victory in four nights with relief help from Luis Arroyo, who worked out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the eighth by getting pinchitter Ben Mateosky to hit into a double play.

Little Guys Beat Big Guys In Hard-Hitting Main Bout

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Rock Hunter and Rip Hawk discovered last light that two little men cannot whomp two big ones.

So they figured two smaller men can kick the stuffing out of one big one.

They were right. They did.

They teamed up in a one-man gang to flatten big Ed Miller in the first fall after six minutes of terrific duo punishment.

They went down under the battering rams and pile-driver attacks of Big Ed and partner huge Don Leo Jonathan in the second fall.

And they pulled one out of the hat to fool Referee Joe Golab in the third chapter and before the 310-pound Miller could unwind his eyelashes the Rip-n-Rock couple had him down long enough to win the fall and the bout.

It was one of those hot-action bouts with never a dull moment. In fact all three items on the card were crowd-pleasers.

Referee Golab had a tough night.

The Mutts and Jeffs of the main bout had him in a tizzy when they decided to use ganging tactics — and there wasn't much Joe could do about it.

In the first fall the Rock-n-Rip pair really gave Big Ed the works. They worked in pairs and singly staged a steady parade in and out of the ring. They whomped, stomped and cromped the hugest of the Miller boys until he relaxed long enough for "three".

The second fall was different. Miller and Don Leo held the miniature blonde-pates at arms length and literally played with them.

They bumped, crumpled and slumped 'em. They tossed, heaved and hurled 'em. They laid 'em on the canvas and fell on 'em. When it was over the doughty pair of silver-topped "little guys" went out of the ring like a couple of wilted flowers.

The third fall began like a repetition of the second. Jonathan proceeded to plaster the Rock. Then Miller took over.

But the "little guys" ganged up again on Miller while Golab was holding Jonathan at bay and when he turned Miller was cowboy-ridden by the Rock. That was it.

Karl Kulaski and John LeRock went to a time limit battle in a lively semi-finals while John Leipler took the decision from John Pye after twenty minutes of spirited battling.

Lone American Boat

Oxford Crew Defeats Yale

BULLETIN

HENLEY, England (CP)—The Molesey Boat Club of Britain today won the Grand Challenge Cup for heavyweight eights at the Henley Royal Regatta today.

HENLEY, England (CP)—Oxford University's heavyweight crew meets the Molesey Boat Club, another English eight, today in the final for the Grand Challenge Cup after eliminating the only American entry in the top competition at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Oxford heavyweights defeated Yale University in Friday's semi-finals, moving into the lead from the start and winning comfortably by two lengths. The winning time for the mile and 550 yards was six minutes, 43 seconds.

Yale had hoped to retain the cup for the United States. Harvard University won it last year.

The Oxford-Molesey match ensures an English victory in the competition for the first time since 1953.

OLYMPIC HOPEFULS

Both clubs hope to represent Britain in the Summer Olympics in Rome.

Molesey gained the final by beating the Lady Margaret Boat Club of Cambridge by 1¾ lengths in six minutes, 54 seconds.

Meanwhile, Harvard's lightweight crew is favored to win the Thames Challenge Cup on this last day of competition.

Harvard, aiming for a record-tying third straight victory in the lightweight event, defeated a heavier Kent School of Connecticut in six minutes, 52 seconds Friday to gain the semi-finals against Britain's Tideway Scullers' eight.

DETROIT OUTSIDERS

Not to be overlooked is the darkhorse entry from the Detroit Boat Club which meets the Thames club in the other Thames challenge semi-final. Detroit, looking more impressive every day, Friday defeated Eliot House of Harvard by 1¾ lengths in seven minutes.

Tideway won its quarter-final in 6:59 while Thames registered seven minutes, 15 seconds.

Stuart Mackenzie, an Australian who rows for the Leander Club of Henley, meets Poland's Teodor Kocerka in a bid for his fourth straight Diamond Sculls trophy.

Austin Paces Trenton Win Over Deseronto

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Guy Austin's two home runs and strong pitching by Ron "Chief" Wannamaker sparked Trenton Halloran's to their ninth B. and D. softball league victory in 12 starts Thursday night, a 10-1 win over Deseronto.

Austin opened the game's scoring with a line drive in the second frame, then crashed his second hit with teammate Billy Mitts aboard during a four-run rally in the fifth.

Deseronto had tied the score 1-1 in the top of the fourth on Trenton's lone error, a fielder's choice, Detlor's fly ball and Vern Green's solid single.

Wannamaker pitched three-hit ball for his second win, both over the Athletics, striking out 12 and walking only two in a fine job.

Pat Maracle gave up 12 hits over the route for Deseronto. He whiffed nine and walked five.

Prior to Austin's second homer the homesters had scored two runs on base hits by Burns, Drake and Mitts and Alexander's fly ball. Ron Wannamaker ripled and scored on Drake's fly out in the sixth.

The loop leaders completed their scoring with four in the eighth on two errors, two walks and base hits by Drake and Wickson.

Austin's twin homers, a pair of walks and a hit-by-the-pitcher gave him a perfect night at the plate. Roger Drake and Bob Burns had two singles each and Ron Wannamaker a triple. Singles went to Doug Alexander, Billy Mitts, Harry Wickson, LeRoy Wannamaker and Don Cole.

A double by Pat Maracle and single by Bob Huffman in the first frame and Vern Green's run-scoring single in the fourth accounted for the visitors' hits.

Denies Terms Completed

For Moore-Schoeppner Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — William Fugazy, a director of Feature Sports, Inc., denied Monday that terms for the light-heavyweight title fight between champion Archie Moore and Erich Schoeppner had been completed.

The match originally was scheduled for Toronto July 18 but Moore asked for a postponement because of his difficulty in making the weight.

"Feature Sports holds the contract for the fight," Fugazy said, "and no contract has yet been signed for the TV rights. The announcement that the ABC network has wrapped up the television rights is premature. No TV deal has been made.

"We hope to iron out all the details next week. No terms have been agreed on since the postponement, although a story from Toronto announced a new date and an agreement with ABC on the television rights.

"Any official sanction will have to come from the executive offices of Feature Sports."

In Toronto Thursday promoter Dave Rush said the fight would be seen on home TV in the United Stats Aug. 8, and that ABC had guaranteed $165,000 for the TV rights.

An ABC spokesman in New York said that network had taken an option on the show but had not as yet exercised it.

Rush said that TelePrompTer, the closed-circuit TV firm, had asked for a release of its contract when the fight date was shifted from July 18.

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — Dave Rush, co-promoter of next month's light-heavyweight title fight between champion Archie Moore and Erich Schoeppner, confirmed Friday night that the bout will go on Aug. 8 in Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

"If it rains on the night of the 8th, the fight will go on on the 9th. If that's rained out it will be on the 10th," he said.

He confirmed a New York statement by Feature Sports, Incorporated, which said that despite reports to the contrary, no television contract has been signed.

Breaks Record For 880 Event

TORONTO (CP)—Ergas Leps of the East York Track Club Friday broke the Canadian open and native track records for 880 yards. His time was one minute, 49.8 seconds.

He was competing in a Dominion Day track meet at East York Stadium.

Previous open record was 1:50.7, set by Derek Johnson of England at the 1954 British Empire Games in Vancouver. Previous native record was 1:51.8, held by Joe Mullins, Glace Bay, N.S.

Stan Worsfold, of the East York club, was also inside the native record with 1:51.5.

Bruce Kidd, 16, of the East York club, did the mile in 4:19.7 to better Canadian juvenile and junior records for the event. But the record does not count because he was running in a senior race.

Kidd also won the three-mile event.

Russia Files Olympic Entry

ROME (AP)—Russia, one of the favorites to take the lion's share of medals at the Summer Olympic Games, officially filed its entry Thursday hours before the rather flexible deadline.

The Russian entry for the games, which opens Aug. 25, was received shortly before noon. Sixty entries, including Canada already had been received.

The Soviet Union will enter a team of 303 men and women.

Evgenny Valuyev, deputy chairman of Soviet sports organizations, said in Moscow the Soviets will be strong in track and field, except for the sprints, men's basketball, gymnastics, and will be good in swimming, sailing, cycling and wrestling. He said they might show up with some pretty good rowers, too.

Says Braves Tried to Steal Cub Signals

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Milwaukee Braves, armed with field glasses, tried to steal Chicago Cub pitching signals from the Wrigley Field bleachers Thursday, Cub officials said Friday.

Pitchers Bob Buhl and Joey Jay, who hurled for the Braves in Wednesday's double header, were named by Cub officials as the spies-in-the-stands.

A fan spotted them stationed in the centrefield bleachers, ostensibly peering through field glasses at El Tappe, the club catcher, and wig-wagging signals with white scorecards.

The fan hastened to the Cub bullpen to report the chicanery and pitcher Bob Anderson sprinted to the Cub bench to tell manager Lou Boudreau. Trainer Al Scheuneman was dispatched to the bleachers and confirmed that the snoopers were Buhl and Jay.

This all happened in the sixth inning when the Cubs rolled up five runs on seven hits. That was enough to chase Buhl and Jay from their bleacher seats and propel the Cubs to a 11-5 victory.

SQUABBLE ENDS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The squabble over a Pittsburgh-Philadelphia postponed game ended Thursday with agreement that only one game will be played between the teams Sunday, July 10 at Philadelphia.

Player representatives had protested against a doubleheader on that day, following a night game on Saturday.

It was a reversal of a previous decision by Warren C. Giles, National League president.

Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast baseball league, credits his recent success as a hitter to a diet of wheat-base food-supplement pills. The six-foot-three Oklahoman began taking the pills last summer. His batting average was .400 during the last month of the 1959 season. He hit six home runs in the first seven games this year and has been batting close to .300.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Howie Goss insists that the reason he has become the surprise power hitter of the 1960 Pacific Coast League baseball season is a regular diet of food-supplement pills.

Goss, six-foot-three, 200-pound native of Wewoka, Okla., is so firmly convinced that the pills are dirctly associatd with his sudden improvement as a batter that he has spread the "pill gospel" up and down the league.

The result is that all teams but Portland Beavers now use the same supplement for their players.

Goss, 25, and with rejuvenated hope of reaching the major leagues, said in an interview his introduction to the pills marked the "crossroads of my career."

In July, 1959, just before Salt Lake City of the PCL sent him to a lower league because of poor hitting, Walt DeLand, told Goss of the effects of the pills on University of Utah athletic teams DeLand coached.

"For example," said Goss. "Utah's basketball team went through an entire season and finished third in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's invitational tournament using only six players. And the sixth man saw only 40 minutes of action all year. They called Utah's team the Iron Five and no wonder."

Goss decided to try the pills just before being shipped to Gastonia, N.C., of th South Atlantic League. He improved gradually and by the end of the season was hitting the ball well. For the last month his average was .400.

He signed with Vancouver Mounties this spring and hit six home runs in seven games before running into a three-week slump that almost cost him his llace in the PCL. Then he bounced back, hitting an 11th-inning home run that gave Mounties a 3-1 win over Spokane Indians, and has been batting well ever since.

13 HOMERS

Up to June 20 he had 13 homrs, good enough for a fourth-place tie with Seattle's Joe Taylor in that department and was batting .290.

"The pills have really helped me. At first I was a bit skeptical so I went to a library to read up on the pills. I learned a lot about the importance of our diet.

"The fast pace of today's life makes it almost impossible to get a properly balanced diet and that's why the pills are the answer, especially for professional athltes.

"The pills have a wheat base and contain all the minerals and vitamins the body needs. I take two a day, one in the morning and the other at night.

"Even my wife takes them and she, too, has found a terrific improvement in her physical condition. We both have more energy, feel more mentally alert and face up to the strains of family life more easily."

WILD AS PITCHER

Goss signed with Pittsburgh Pirates in 1953 as a pitcher. But because of wildness — he once walked 15 in five innings—and his power at the plate he was shifted to the outfield.

His best season was 1955 when he hit .306, including 36 doubles, 11 triples and 25 runs batted in, for Salinas of the class-C California League and was named all-star centrefielder.

"With a bit of luck, regular playing and the pills I can still become a good major league player."

Tiger Manager Puzzled by Mass Slump

"The team just isn't hitting, and there's nothing a manager can do about that," he said.

"For a while he used moving pictures to try to show the batters what they were doing wrong, if anything. That didn't work, so now we pay no attention to them and just let them fight their way out of their slump.

"This is the first club I've had where all eight regulars went bad at once. I've benched most of the players at one time or anothr, but th bench mn I've put in their places get sympathetic or something, and they do just as bad."

"I'm suffering," he moans, "and there's just no answer to it. The batters have the potential. The team hit .258 last year. Now it's hitting about .220. When Al Kaline hits hard, it's caught. Rocky Colavito is a streak hitter. When he's not hitting he can look terrible on balls right across the centre of the plate.

"It's a shame to waste the pitching we've been getting. The earned run average for the staff is around 2.60, I think. Jim Bunning has won four in 15 starts, yet his ERA is 2.48."

So Jimmy is just waiting it out. The batters have the potential, he says. If only they wouldn't take so long realizing it.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, July 4

General tendencies: This as a very strange day. A smile will remove all opposition, but if you attempt to in any way force changes, you can certainly have a difficult time. One of those days to be very careful that you do not have accidents on the highway and when you do nothing to disturb any relationship. Show patriotism, good citizenship.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Being very active is excellent today, provided you work constructively and seek all obligations you have made. Don't go off on some spree which would be most expensive. Also steer clear of envious individual.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Leave house early and avoid argument with close tie. Get into your most constructive outlets and produce. Also don't neglect your civic duties — be sure you enjoy that wonderful parade. Keep on your toes.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day for rest and relaxation — work only at what is absolutely necessary. This will give you an opportunity to think about your goals and aspirations and how to attain them more quickly. P. M. have fun socially.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You are full of magnetism today which will bring you success in just about anything you attempt, but take care you are not extravagant in matters of pleasure. Be with fascinating people also in p.m.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— This is the ideal day to come to those who live under your roof. Later get out and be in the company of progressive people so that you have an opportunity to increase income in the early future. Listen.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Private worries may loom larger than their actual proportions, if you permit. Forget them and go on a trip, or visit with those you truly like — do something constructive and be happy. Grow.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Every chance is yours in a. m. to impress important persons with your special talents and magnetism. Later, however, do not permit envious friends to spoil the progress you have made.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you don't follow regulations, you may jeopardize very important interests today. P. M. if you think out intimate problems carefully, you can handle them very intelligently now. Do not jump to conclusions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 32 to Dec. 21) — Be sure you follow through on what you have started instead of allying yourself with persons you hardly know. Hence, you do what is right and can also get important civic duties attended wisely.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Make it a point to get together with influential comrades so that you can work out any important affairs you have in mind. However, avoid that overly dynamic individual who would cause you to dive into water that is too deep.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Concentrate upon your most important goals today and be sure you get together with those individuals who can help you to advance ethically. Steer clear of dominating associate who could limit your activities considerably.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget dull duties today and get out into the world of pleasure and constructive activity for real happiness and soul pleasure. However, be cheerful or you may lose out on some excellent chances to advance.

If your child is born today ... there will be a tremendous amount of perseverance in the nature, so it is important you give early training in whatever most interests your progeny so that the fine talents in this chart can be brought out to full advantage. Also impress upon your child that what is once begun must be completed. Teach discrimination too, so that your youngster will not be taken in by persons who are unworthy and superficial.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, July 3

General tendencies: All sorts of confusion is apt to be in effect today and your would be wise to live according to the accepted principles under which you were raised and to do nothing that will annoy or vex anyone else. Living the Golden Rule eases much heartache now. Be sure you do back away from arguments, disagreements. Be gentle, kind and considerate.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Go along with tried and true friends today instead of following that erroneous hunch. However, do not be extravagant in any way. P. M. be affectionate and kind with closest of kin.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Take care you are not taken in by close ties or associate today, simply because you feel sentimental. This would not be fair to you or good for them. However, carry through with any obligations you have, religiously.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Others can be rather annoying today and you could easily go off on a tangent which would not be good for your health or your pocketbook. Take it easy, rest, and be sure you eat well-balanced meals.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You arise feeling very happy and gay, but those about you want to bicker and be irritating. Don't permit them to daunt your spirits. A charming smile will relieve them of their worries and this can be a most happy day after all.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — There could really be a battle royal at home if you don't curb your own temper now and add fuel to the fire. Try to be helpful instead with your innate spirituality. Live the Golden Rule — give a helping hand with dishes, etc., too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Important you use care in speaking or in motion today so that you will avoid trouble. The day is ideal during spare time for study of orthodox and proven methods in whatever is of current interest.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— You must be particularly careful in handling all financial affairs today. Try not to invest beyond your means or you will jeopardize the secure position which you now enjoy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You are very much enthused to go after new interests today, but you would be wise to remain steadfast to what has been found true and dependable. Look to improving your health and good looks. Be poised.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Some time spent today thinking constructively about your goals and how to gain them more speedily would be very wise. Be certain you assist those who look to you for help in P. M. Be generous.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure you act wisely where troubled comrades are concerned today or you can cause rifts that would be most unfortunate. Follow the Golden Rule and act kindly, thoughtfully. Make this a blessed Sunday.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be very certain you are loyal to those who have power over your affairs instead of being critical. Also, attend to any civic affairs with enthusiasm and alacrity — become a power for good in your own community.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Make it a point to so start living your life now that others may be inspired and you will be able to obtain your objectives through faith. However, be very careful while out driving today and tonight.

If your child is born today ... early in life there will be a slight tendency toward selfishness, so it behooves you to teach quickly how to co-operate with others. This will not be difficult since the innate nature is very kind and sweet. Also inculcate early the greatest philosophy of life, viz., that absolute honesty brings the greatest rewards in due course of time. Then this will evolve into an extraordinarily promising chart.

Large Crowd Attend Lions' Carnival

FRANKFORD — In spite of the chilly wind and sprinkles of rain last Friday, Frankford Lions Club proceeded with its annual carnival which took place in the Frankford Park. This year the Lions Club included a parade in its carnival and, because of this fact, drew a large crowd. crowd.

The parade began at the Lions Skating Arena and proceeded to the C.N.R. station and back to the Cenotaph by way of Flanigan Drive. At the end of the participants in the parade rode "The Rose Queen" and her attendants, in three convertibles.

Following the parade was the highlight of the evening, the crowning of the Rose Queen, and the presentation of prizes to her runners-up. The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Mrs. Goodfellow, the "Queen", and her attendants, were called to the platform, set up outside, where Mr. Goodfellow made the presentations and crowned the Rose Queen. The beautiful crown placed on the Queen's head was designed by Paul Mercier from Belleville, a replica of Queen Elizabeth's coronation crown.

Her Majesty was Miss Vlasta Rabel, and her attendants were Miss Jean Caldwell, Miss Judy Whitmore and Miss Sharon Rogers, all from Frankford.

Next on the program was the judging of the best entries in the parade.

With the program part of the carnival over, everyone enjoyed the games set up in the brightly-lit park.

Free ice-cream was given to the children and following, a whistle scramble was enjoyed.

Bingo was played inside the community hall and many lucky people came out winners of several lovely prizes.

To climax the evening, a dance in the community hall commenced at 11 p.m.

MAN'S BODY FOUND

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Provincial police Wednesday night recovered the body of Arthur Cousins, 51, of Gormley from the Otonabee River near here where he was drowned Saturday with his wife. The body of Mrs. Cousins, 49, was recovered shortly after the drowning. The couple was believed to have drowned in a boating accident.

BILL OF RIGHTS

ciding that Mr. Peters should raise his points when the Commons studies in detail the specific clauses involved.

SUMMARY OF BILL

Mr. Diefenbaker summarized his bill's provisions in this way:

"The bill of rights as I see it will deny the right of any government to interfere with my right to speak within the law, my right to be free from the threats of the activities of a police state, whether consciously or unconsciously administered.

"It will deny anyone the right to prevent me living my own life within the limits of the law without regard to race or color or creed. It will deny any Parliament the right to deny me the right to belong to an unpopular minority anywhere in the country.

"It will deny any parliament, however powerful in the future, the right to deny recourse to the courts."

It will assert the individual's right to life, liberty, security of person, enjoyment of property and to protection of law without discrimination as to race, national origin, color, religion or sex.

It further will assert freedom of religion, speech, assembly and association and the press.

FEDERAL MATTERS ONLY

Mr. Diefenbaker, saying the bill applies only to matters within federal jurisdiction, offered to sponsor a constitutional amendment at any time in the future that all provinces agree to a bill of rights applying to both federal and provincial jurisdictions.

He said it will be the first step by Canada to carry out the United Nations' declaration of human rights and will for the first time recognize freedom of the press, "this bulwark of freedom."

It also provides that any past or future parliamentary act must be interpreted so as not to abridge the freedoms guaranteed in the bill of rights.

Only 105 of the 262 MPs were present but the public galleries were filled.

LIBERAL VIEWS

Mr. Pearson indicated the Liberals will propose several amendments, mentioning three specific points in which he argued the bill is inadequate and can be made more effective by change.

He said the bill should contain a provision limiting the cabinet's power under the War Measures Act so that the cabinet could not deprive a Canadian of his citizenship.

"We also believe that the governor-in-council (cabinet) should be expressly forbidden to act under the War Measures Act to banish or exile any citizen of our country in any circumstances."

Provision also should be inserted to "limit the power of the governor-in-council, even under the War Measures Act, to detain any person for more than a stated period — say some few weeks—without a hearing before a superior court judge and without having satisfied that judge that there were serious grounds for believing that the detention of that person was essential for the security of the state."

PAST ACTIONS RAISED

Both Mr. Pearson and Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) objected to some of Mr. Diefenbaker's references to past government actions which the prime minister described as examples of abridgement of rights or discrimination by cabinet order.

The prime minister said a cabinet order passed after Second World War hostilities ended would have exiled 11,000 Canadians of Japanese origin though "the only offence committed by these people in 99 per cent of the cases . . . was their color."

He also referred to the Russian spy ring investigation, when persons were detained, held incommunicado and denied counsel by cabinet order. And he said the Foreign Exchange Control Act had permitted persons to be searched and examined without right of legal action.

Mr. Pearson said such incidents as the move to expel Japanese Canadians would still be possible under the bill of rights. He recalled that some present cabinet ministers had supported this course.

No Canadian was proud of what was done at that time. But it was done in complete good faith.

WHEAT CRISIS LOOMS

Before the Commons embarked on the rights debate, which will resume Monday, Trade Minister Churchill said in reply to opposition questions that Canada's wheat sales to Europe may suffer in the next five-years from the internal tariff cutting by members of regional trading blocs.

For that reason, Canada was trying to boost wheat exports to Asia, Africa and Latin America.

ONTARIO GRANT

TORONTO (CP) — Welfare Minister Cecile announced Wednesday a $200,000 Ontario government grant to the Salvation Army for its new harbor light centre for alcoholics in downtown Toronto. The three-story building is expected to cost $550,000 and will accommodate 72 patients.

Lightning Bolt Strikes Plant, Boiler Damaged

TWEED (Special) — Lightning was believed responsible ofr starting a fire which Wednesday damaged the boiler room in the Rashotte Lumber Company on Metcalfe St. during a severe thunderstorm.

There were no injuries. The damage although covered by insurance, was not immediately known.

The fire started shortly after 5 p.m. when most of the employees had left the factory. It was extinguished about two hours later.

Clarence and Kenny Rashotte were still at the factory when the fire started. They pulled a loaded lumber truck to safety from the boiler room where the fire was confined because of a thick fire wall. The boilers had been off for two weeks.

Fire Chief Clarence (Mike) Moon drove his car to the fire hall and went to the scene alone in a fire truck. He was met at the fire by other members of the volunteer brigade. Firemen laid four hose lines and were hampered by high winds and driving rain.

DOMINION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker introduced his bill of rights in the House as another 21-gun salute thundered outside.

Downtown Toronto was Sunday-quiet but bars, theatres and several stores remained open. There were few flags.

Along Canada's highways the long weekend saw 26 traffic deaths by morning today.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Dominion Day took on a sombre hue in Newfoundland where July 1 is the solemn day of remembrance for the day in 1916 when 700 Newfoundlanders fell in a First World War engagement at Beaumont Hamel, France.

About 1,500 guests, including British cabinet ministers and diplomatic corps members, joined Canadians in celebrating Dominion Day in London. George Drew, Canadian high commissioner, and Mrs. Drew received the guests.

Along the Detroit River, citizens of Windsor and Detroit honored the day in flag-raisings and band concerts as part of an international freedom festival.

Sports days and pageants were the order of the day across the West although scattered showers struck through the central Prairies.

APPROVE LIQUOR STORE

OMEMEE (CP)—Residents of this village 15 miles west of Peterborough voted Wednesday in favor of liquor and beer stores. With 434 of 495 eligible citizens casting ballots, the vote was 290 to 131 for liquor stores and 287 to 132 for beer stores.

The two injured girls had declined a ride home in a car sent by their father, Alex Macdonald, Lonsdale station agent, and instead chose to ride with the Brennan youth, and Mr. and Mrs. Gartland.

Police said an inquest has been ordered.

MR. AND MRS. GARTLAND

Joseph Patrick Gartland was born near Read, Ont., a son of the late Patrick Gartland and of Mrs. Patrick Gartland of Deseronto. He lived in this district for most of his lifetime and was employed as a plumber and was working on the new county court house building project in Belleville.

Mrs. Gartland, the former Margaret-Anne Macdonald, was born in Willowdale, Ont., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Macdonald of Lonsdale. She had lived in this area for the past 19 years and her father is the station agent at Lonsdale.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gartland were members of St. Charles Borromeo Church, Read, where the former belonged to the Holy Name Society and the latter to the Catholic Women's League. They are survived by six children, Paul, eight years; David, four; Michael, one; Brian, three weeks; Patti Anne, six, and Marianne, three.

Also surviving Mr. Gartland are two brothers, David of Lonsdale, and John of Frankford, and three sisters, Bessie (Mrs. Frank Power) of Toronto, Annie (Mrs. Mack Wringe) of Marysville and Mary (Mrs. Ed Abrams) of Shannonville. Mrs. Gartland is also survived by a brother, Barry Macdonald, at home, and a sister, Joan Macdonald, also of Lonsdale, injured in the accident and now in Belleville General Hospital.

T. V. BRENNAN

Terrance Vincent Brennan, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brennan of Marysville, and is survived by his parents, five brothers, Timothy of London, Ont. and Donald, Gerald, Adrian and Larry, all at home; and three sisters, Mrs. Gerald (Bernice) Bradley of Peterborough, Audrey and Barbara, both at home. Mr. Brennan was unmarried.

Mr. Brennan was a cheesemaker by trade and had recently joined his father at the Kingsford cheese factory.

Mr. Brennan was a member of Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, and was a member of the Holy Name Society.

JOHN HANNAFIN

John Hannafin was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Hannafin of Read and had resided in the community all his life.

He is survived by three brothers, Joseph and Vincent of Read and Frank of Port Arthur, and three sisters, Mrs. Daniel (Mary) Gaffney, Belleville, Mrs. Arthur (Stella) Latierre, of Detroit, and Mrs. Hubert (Rita) MacDonald of Belleville. He was unmarried.

Mr. Hannafin was a member of St. Charles Church, Read.

limbers onto the lawn for the traditional sunset ceremony. Four bands then massed in a twilight concert, followed by an encore from carilloneur Robert Donnell in the tower.

The cermony is expected to become an annual event, marking the proclamation of the British North America Act in 1867 by Queen Victoria.

Main question raised by Friday's ceremonies was how they could get much bigger or better in the years leading up to the 1967 Centennial.

SHIRT-SLEEVES CROWD

For the most part, the crowd turned out in sport shirts and sun dresses, babes in arms and youngsters with pets. They mingled with the diplomatic set, military officers and cabinet ministers in striped trousers and silk hats.

Perfect mid-summer weather prevailed.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in formal attire, inspected the troops, and took the salute at the marchpast and a flypast of a three-wing squadron of 12 of the RCAF's CF-100 jets.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Phamphlet 'Do You Need a Will?' Includes Data That May Help You

By THOMAS COLLINS

People continue to grow old without making a will. That is all right if it's what they want. Certainly it is their own business. But letters on this subject come to me by the score, and it seems fitting that I pass on to retird people the best information I can get on the subject.

The New York State Bar Association has a pamphlet called "Do You Need a Will?" It is a common-sense discussion of the reasons for making a will. It is concerned only with the laws of New York state, but its message has meaning to people everywhere.

(Q) Doesn't the law take care of things without a will?

(A) "Yes, and it's possible that what the law provides would meet your needs. However, the chances are very great that it would not."

(Q) Wouldn't my wife and son get everything if I didn't leave a will?

(A) "Yes, though hardly the way you would want it. Your wife would get one-half, your son one-half — or your wife would get on-third and your childrn two-thirds, should you have more than one child. . ."

RELATIONS GET SPLIT

(Q) For a married man without children, I suppose it would work out all right without a will.

(A) "If (the husband) didn't leave a parent, brother, or sister, nephew, or niece, his wife would be sure to get his whole estate. But if he left an estate of any size and any of these relations, his wife would get only a little more than one-half."

(Q) What about putting things in joint names? If I put our home in my wife's name and mine and opened joint savings accounts, won't my wife be protected?

(A) "Very often a person relies on a joint or trust account in place of a will and then transfers the funds to, say, a brokerage account or takes the money out to buy something, intending to replace it someday, of course, but forgetting to do so. Then the survivor finds she is getting a bank book with her name on it but little else. As for other jointly owned property, experience shows that the person who puts property in another's name jointly with his own has occasion to regret it but can't do anything about it. Joint ownership and joint accounts are sometimes desirable as a convenience but they should never be used as a substitute for a will."

(A) If I get one of those printed forms for a will and copy it out in my own handwriting, will that do the job for me?

(A) "You won't have a will. The fact that the intended will was in your own handwriting wouldn't make any difference."

NEED FURTHER PROOF

(Q) If I make it plain what I want done with my property, why won't the law see that it's done?

(A) "The law is so anxious to make sure that your wishes ar followed that it will not accept directions even in your own hand-writing without further proof that they are really yours. After all, it is possible that you might be forced by someone to write out or sign the paper or that you might do it at someone's suggestion when you were in a state of mind where you did not fully realize what you were doing."

(A) In that case I'll have some member of my family or relatives witness it.

(A) "Not witness whose testimony is necessary to prove the will can receive any benefit from it. So you may well be cutting off one or more of those you love by asking them to witness it."

The purpose of this pamphlet — and I repeat that it is based on the laws of the New York State and may or may not be applicable in other states — is to urge people to go to an attorney to write their will. It is a job for a professional, not an amateur. In small estates the ew York Bar insists the fee a lawyer charges for making a will is small. I think this is true everywhere.

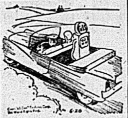
Your Car



Good Car Care Will Increase Gas Mileage

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

"How can I improve gas mileage?" is a familiar appeal. In most cases, better car care is the answer — and the following brief rundown should emphasize this.

You can waste as much as a gallon of gasoline per tankful by running your car on underinflated tires. Another gallon penalty can be imposed by a clogged air cleaner. Faulty spark plugs can cost you up to two gallons of every tankful, and so can neglected ignition points.

A dirty or poorly adjusted carburetor or malfunctioning choke will really hurt gas economy, average by one-third. Even a faulty cooling system can waste one out of 15 gallons you buy.

These are but a few examples. Incorrect ignition timing, poor alignment, faulty shock absorbers and inadequate lubrication are further gas-wasters.

B. D. asks: "What would cause the power-operated front seat adjuster to turn on without warning and change the seat position?"

(A) Faulty control wiring is the probable cause.

From O. H.: "The automatic top of my convertible always goes down unevenly and I have to help it along by hand. What's the trouble?"

(A) Check for binding at one of the pivot points. If no trouble is evident here, have the power line inspected for kinks or crimps.

L. P. writes: "My car runs all right until I try to go above 55 mph. Then it just dies out on me. However, it will always restart quickly enough and does not stall at other speeds."

(A) Apparently, full [illegible] delivery is restricted in some way. Carburetor, fuel pump, filter bowl and fuel line may have to be checked.

Mrs. T. W. asks: "When I park my car and turn off the engine after a long ride, I can hear a buzzing noise under the hood. What could this be?"

(A) Steam escaping from the cooling system can cause the radiator pressure cap valve to vibrate. Thus the buzzing is heard even with the engine off.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

SHOWING AFFECTION

Inhabitants of Birdland are just as affectionate as we are. Both banding and offering food on shelves have helped to bring this fact to our attention, and careful observation has proved it to be true. Many birds keep the same mate year after year, and parenthood is taken very seriously.

Those of us who have banding permits know that when a bird has discovered a trap contains much desirable food it will come again and again, often bringing its mate along to enjoy the banquet. Indeed, sometimes the mate just follows the loved one in, evidently not wanting to be parted. Feeding trays, too, give us a close-up of family life. Birds dislike seeing others of the same species eating in their restaurant, but husbands and wives not only feed happily together but sometimes stop to kiss one another. Running a bird restaurant for years gives the opportunity of seeing the same pairs come back season after season.

Cedar waxwing husbands and wives are noted for kissing in public, and they are devoted parents. If not affection, what causes waxwings to pass a berry from bill to bill as they sit in a row?

Mr. Nuthatch and Mr. Chestnut-sided Warbler are examples of attentive husbands. If their wives are busy with home building or child care they bring food to the mother bird as well as to the youngsters.

MATE FOR LIFE

A number of birds are positively known to mate for life. Good examples are three absolutely different types: nuthatches, screech owls, and Canada geese. The last mentioned are particularly affectionate, and if anything happens to one of a pair the survivor will never take another mate. We cannot duplicate that among human beings. Canada geese are also especially good parents. When the family swims together one parent leads the way and the other brings up the rear so that the goslings are well protected. When migration time comes, they fly "en famille".

Parent birds will go through a lot to protect their young. Kingbirds and tiny hummingbirds will tackle crows, and cause the big birds to flee from them, yelling. Mother killdeer tries her best to distract you if you seem to come too near the children. Running off, she simulates a broken wing; but if you are not frightened away, she stands up to you and tries to bite you.

Both cold and intense heat are hard on unfeathered nestlings. At this season parents are often seen with wings extended, sitting on the babies to protect them from a hot sun.

STIRLING

Former Rector Dinner Speaker At Centennial

STIRLING — A centennial dinner was held Tuesday in the hall of St. John's Anglican Church.

Mrs. Frank Harding and members of the Afternoon and Evening Guilds arranged the dinner and the Young People's group served.

Among the guests were the Venerable Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, representing Southeast Ontario; Rev. Peter Tett of Parham and Sharbot Lake; Rev. Richard Fleming of Marmora; Mr. Paul Packman of St. Paul's United Church, and Mrs. Packman; Mr. Roy Eggleton, representing Rev. Kenneth Rooney of Stirling's Presbyterian Church. The guests expressed their best wishes to St. John's Parish and wished them well in the years ahead.

Guest speaker was Canon A. S. McConnell of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, who, from 1933 to 1940, was the rector of St. John's.

He spoke of his affection and esteem for the late Dr. Alger and Buttimer Belshaw and referred to the work of Bert Bedford. He told of the time a group of Stirling residents barbecued a whole ox over an open pit at the village fair grounds, and he recalled when a few persons helped build him a cottage at Plevna.

Canon McConnell remembered how his mother liked Stirling, and he expressed his gratitude to those who gave her love and comfort in her last years.

Other persons he mentioned included Joe and Olive Whitehead, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Carleton, the Morrows, Mrs. Graver and Mrs. Sybil Smith, Fred Houchin and Frank Harding.

He said that although St. John's had stood for 100 years and appeared as though it would remain standing for many years to come, it was people who made a church.

Earl Morrow expressed appreciation on behalf of congregations from Stirling, Frankford, and Glen Miller for the dinner and address by Canon McConnell.

JAYCEES PRESIDENT

Garden Notes

Hardy Asters for Late Summer

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Perennial or hardy asters, also known as Michealmas daisies have long been a favorite in English gardens but they are slow to gain popularity here in Canada.

They provide a wonderful fillip of color to the late summer and fall garden. You can buy them in two and a half inch pots from your nurseryman. They will make considerable growth and show some bloom the first year, then improve with age. They last for years but most of them are best divided and reset every three or four years.

Large beds show them off best with the higher types in the centre and the dwarf types as a border. They are also at home in the border where they should be planted in groups of three to be effective.

Most of them like full sun but there are those that will do well in semi-or even deep shade. They are not particular as to soil but will thrive well in soil that has plenty of humus such as peat incorporated at time of planting. They need good drainage.

The tall types range from 30 to 45 inches tall and the dwarf types from one foot to 15 inches. The tall ones grow in spires and the dwarfs in mounds.

LAST LONG TIME

The colors are white through delicate lavender, light blue to deep purple,, apple blossom pink to carmine, scarlet to burgundry. Some have double, others semi double or single daisy-like blooms borne in profusion. The plants are compact and the flowers last a long time [illegible] in the garden or as flower arrangements.

Aster Baby's breath looks very much like Gypsophyla used by florists for filling in bouquets. It will serve the same purpose in the garden or in flower arrangements for you. It has myriads of tiny white blooms on wire-fine stems. Blooms from August to frost, 20 inches tall.

Little Red Boy is an old favorite one foot tall with bright rose red blooms that last and last. A new outstanding plant is Crimson Brocade. This is three feet tall. Eventide is a tall erect plant with violet blue bloom, very showy, three feet tall. Princess Margaret Rose is a dwarf type one foot tall a rich pink mound of bloom.

City Resident Is Kidnapped, Robbed Of $565

A. W. Lewis, 66, Victim Of Four-Man Assault

Belleville city police are looking for four men who Saturday night kidnapped and robbed an elderly City Public Works Department employee of $585, and then kicked him out of their car on the 2nd concession of Thurlow near the coal chutes.

Arthur William Lewis, 66, South Church Street, told police that as he was going home, three men grabbed him and forced him into their car, while another man watched from behind the wheel.

The car was then driven to the second concession east of the city where the men took Mr. Lewis' wallet and then shoved him out of their car. Minutes later they returned and searched him, apparently looking for more money.

Confused in the darkness and afraid that the men might return again, Mr. Lewis walked south through the fields and Sunday morning was seen walking east on No. 2 highway.

Police learned of the man's disappearance at five o'clock Sunday morning when Mr. Lewis' daughter, Mrs. B. Hyderman called to say that he had not returned home.

Mrs. Hyderman said she was worried about her father as he was subject to epileptic fits.

A radio alarm was put out and a resident along No. 2 highway saw Mr. Lewis and called police.

Inspector J. Clair Hayes said Mr. Lewis was unable to give any description of the four men who kidnapped him and took his wallet.

Unwanted Negro Hotel Guests Take Cottage

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Three Negroes refused accommodation at a Kawartha Lakes resort Saturday have been settled in another cottage and happily went fishing today.

The cottage was found by Stan Shippam, secretary manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, after Charles Calhoun, Kelly Barton and McKinloy Stevenson, all of Akron, Ohio, complained of discrimination.

They said they were refused accommodation at the Windsor Hotel near Buckhorn after they had paid a $10 deposit by mail and their booking was accepted. The money was returned.

The men now are settled in Tonibee cottages, about three miles north of here. Mrs. Walter Killoran, wife of Tonibee's owner, said the attitude of Buckhorn owners who operate a color bar is "wrong morally and in every other way."

"As far as I am concerned, if a guest objects to being placed next to colored people, they can just go ahead and object," she said. "But all our guests are Canadians. The Americans are more difficult."

Youths Throw Union Jack in Indian Ocean

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The Union Jack was torn down, stamped on, spat on and thrown into the Indian Ocean at Durban Saturday by a group of South African nationalist youths.

The demonstration came as tempers rose in the battle over whether this country should become a republic divorced from the Commonwealth.

About 200 people at an outdoor meeting of the Jeugbond (the Nationalist party's youth organization) witnessed the flag incident on Durban beach. The young nationalists, in a mock ceremony, proclaimed "a republic" on the beach, then seized an ensign from the promenade and threw it into the sea.

Some bathers later recovered the flag and returned it to shore.

Prime Minister Hendrig Verwoerd called for a republic before a big crowd in Groblersdal Saturday.

The leader of the opposition United party, Sir de Villiers Graaff, called Verwoerd's speech misleading and damaging to the nation. Graaff denounced the government's domestic and foreign policies as mad and stupid.

Verwoerd told a big "republican rally" the West is foolishly over-bidding against the Communist east for the friendship of newly-independent African states and was even prepared to sacrifice South Africa "for this purpose."

FIND MAN'S BODY

BURLINGTON (CP)—A diver searching Saturday for the body of a man who leaped from the Zurlington Skyway June 15, found the body of another man missing since June 17. The diver, hired by the family of the man who leaped from the bridge, recovered the body of Gregor Kulczyckyj, 50, who failed to return home after going out for a walk.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies remained clear overnight in Southern Ontario and fine, sunny weather is forecast to continue today and Tuesday with temperatures in the low 70s. Considerable cloudiness persisted as far south as the Muskoka region overnight but except for general cloudiness near and just south of James Bay skies are expected to be mainly sunny today and Tuesday in the North.

Lightning Bolt Kills Six, Injures 20

CUNEO, Italy (Reuters)—Four persons, including two priests, were killed and 20 injured Sunday when lightning struck a huge metal crucifix protecting them from a storm.

The lightning struck minutes after the 40-foot crucifix on top of nearby Costarossa Mountain had been inaugurated at a mass attended by hundreds of faithful.

A policeman said: "It was like a scene from hell.

"Huge flames shot from the crucifix when the lightning struck The air was filled with an acrid smell from the smoking metal. many covered with blood.

"Others fell to their knees to pray. There were people lying everywhere on the ground.

Most of the inhabitants of the nearby village of San Giacomi di Boves had climbed the slopes of the 7,884-foot mountain to attend the mass, celebrated by Archbishop Guido Tonetti of Cuneo.

CONGRESS GIVES IKE CONTROL OF SUGAR IMPORTS

Had Wanted Weapon To Deal With Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — After the longest Sunday session veteran attaches could remember, Congress headed today into a month-long recess for the presidential nomination conventions.

An all-night wrangle preceded passage Sunday of a bill giving President Eisenhower the authority he demanded to cut imports of sugar from Cuba.

The measure was aimed at cutting off U.S. funds from the anti-American regime of Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro. Senate Republican leaders Everett Dirksen of Illinois told the Senate the White House has information "which we do not possess" making it urgent that Congress act promptly.

WANTS WEAPON

He said Eisenhower was "quite insistent that he have a weapon to deal with the situation," which he did not outline further.

Eisenhower was reported ready to call Congress back into special session if it quit without providing that weapon.

Action before the convention recess was demanded lest Cuba complete its 1960 sugar quota before August. She already has shipped to the U.S. more than two-thirds of her 1960 quota of 3,119,000 tons.

(Reports from Havana said demands for cargo space to complete the quota shipments quickly had boosted shipping rates more than $1 a ton in some cases.)

The president "shall determine . . . the quota for Cuba for the balance of calendar year 1960 and for the three months period ending March 31, 1961, in such amounts as he shall find . . . to be in the national interest."

It also gives authority to take from Cuba the 156,000-ton extra quota to which she would be entitled under existing law to make up for anticipated deficits in 1960 production in Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

This tonnage would be allocated to the United States producers—if they can produce enough to fill it. Any amounts they can't supply could be purchased from other countries.

Plan Apartments For Older Folks

TORONTO (CP) — The formation of company to build apartments for older citizens at Toronto, Orillia, Orangeville, Dundalk, Shelburne, Ayr, Clinton, Petrolia and Corunna was announced Saturday.

The announcement followed a meeting between Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the department of planning and development and the Ontario Society on Aging.

The firm, Twin Pines Apartments Limited, which will be backed by the United Co-Operatives of Ontario, will build 11 blocks, except Toronto where a 50-suite block is planned.

The buildings will be financed by a mortgage of up to 90 per cent of cost, granted under the limited dividend section of the National Housing Act. The Ontario government will contribute 50 per cent of the remainder.

Marijuana-Smoking Jamaican Cult Dreams of Pilgrimage to Ethiopia

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) —One of the weirdest stories in the history of the colorful Caribbean is unfolding here in an atmosphere of bullets, blood, intrigue and marijuana.

Americans are playing major roles in a plot worthy of Graham Greene. And Fidel Castro's name also has entered the picture.

The movement was set up about two years ago by Rev. Claudius Henry, 57, now in jail here charged with treason and felony as violence swirls around his cult.

The cultists sport beards and long, matted hair. They believe the use of marijuana — known locally as "ganja"—is ordained by the Bible.

And as they smoke their ganja and crouch in the doorways of their squatters' shacks, the Rastafarians dream of going to Ethiopia.

Trouble began brewing last October when Henry returned from Ethiopia and announced—with no apparent confirmation—that Ethiopia would welcome Negroes from Jamaica.

The Rastafarians harvested their ganja, packed their meagre possessions into a few battered suitcases and gathered in a church here to await the trip. But they dispersed disillusioned when Henry told them, "The time is not yet ripe."

Then cult members began clashing with police. Finally, police raided Henry's headquarters here in April, arresting him and 15 followers under the treason law.

Police said the headquarters was "like a trained army camp" —complete with small arms, dynamite and crude swords, plus men who had been assigned uniforms and ranks.

On June 21, a party of British soldiers was investigating reports that a submarine had landed arms in the Red Hills area of

Dominion Day Weekend Toll Is 112, Half Dead on Roads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada chalked up the worst weekend accident toll in its history during the three-day Dominion Day holiday weekend.

The count of at least 112 dead topped the previous high of 111, set during the Dominion Day period of 1958 when a Tuesday celebration stretched it to a four-day weekend for many holidayers.

Carnage on the highways claimed 57 lives across the country and water mishaps killed 41, a Canadian Press survey showed. The count began at 6 p.m. local times Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Another 14 persons died in other types of accidents.

The highway toll topped the 50 deaths predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

The province-by-province toll with traffic deaths in brackets: Newfoundland 3 (1); Nova Scotia 5 (1); Prince Edward Island 0; New Brunswick 2 (0); Quebec 29 (14); Ontario 41 (24); Manitoba 11 (7); Saskatchewan 2 (0); Alberta 6 (2); British Columbia 13 (8).

Multiple fatality accidents swelled the toll of traffic deaths as the warm weather weekend saw many United States tourists in Canada on their Independence Day weekend.

Fourteen of Ontario's accidental deaths were by drowning. Quebec reported 12 drownings, British Columbia four, and Manitoba and Nova Scotia three each. Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Alberta each had two drownings.

The 14 other deaths included two tractor accidents, one each in Ontario and Quebec. A man was crushed beneath the wheels of a fairground ride in Manitoba. A sky diver fell to his death in British Columbia when his parachute failed to open and a girl in Saskatchewan was strangled by a swing rope.

The survey includes deaths in holiday weekend activities including driving, swimming and boating. Industrial or criminal deaths are not counted.

Six of Manitoba's seven traffic deaths resulted from a two-car head-on collision near Winnipeg Saturday. Ontario had four- and three - fatality accidents in its highway total of 24. In Quebec five died in a three-car collision near St. Raphael Saturday night.

Ontario dead included:

David Reid, 50, of Orillia, drowned Sunday when a boat overturned in Bass Lake, three miles west of Orillia.

Living Costs Slightly Up Mainly Due to Food Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Higher consummer prices, especially for fruits, vegetables and meats, pushed Canadian living costs up slightly during May, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The consumer price index climbed by one-fifth of a point to 127.6 on June 1 from 127.4 on May 1. It was only the second monthly rise in the last seven months, a period in which the index has generally declined from its peak of 128.3 last Nov. 1.

The index—a yardstick based on 1949 prices equalling 100—was 1.2 per cent higher than its level of 125.9 on June 1 last year.

Food prices rose by half of one per cent during May, with the food index climbing to 120.8 from 120.2, as prices were marked up on most fresh fruits and vegetables and most meats. Apples, cabbage, tomatoes and potatoes were the fresh produce most affected. Price declines were generally limited to eggs and butter.

However, there were also fractional gains in most other sectors of the consumer budget—shelter and clothing costs and miscellaneous other commodities and services. But the index for household operation costs declined slightly.

The May increase in living costs was preceded by a small rise in industrial wages during April. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at May 1—latest figure available—was 176.9 compared with 175.4 on April 1 and 170.5 a year ago. The index is based on 1949 average wages equalling 100.

This wages index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 10 persons, and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total wages paid.

The rise in shelter costs resulted from increases in both rents and home-ownership costs. The shelter index climbed to a record high of 143.8 on June 1 from 143.5 a month earlier.

A slight increase in the clothing index during May, to 110.9 from 110.8, reflected some price increases from spring sales prices and higher prices for some other items including men's work pants.

Meanwhile, wholesale price trends were mixed.

The index of 30 industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, eased to 243.3 on June 17 from 244.4 on May 27. But the index of Canadian farm product prices increased to 224.7 from 222.9 in the same period.

FUEL FOR PLANES IS PROBLEM FOR CASTRO REGIME

Hates to Part With U.S. Dollars

HAVANA (AP)—Some cracks are beginning to appear in the veneer of Cuban economic self-reliance despite the Castro government's declaration it can solve its oil and sugar problems "with the help of friends."

Pro-government radio stations said other markets would be found if the United States slashes imports of Cuban sugar, and made it clear they were referring to markets in the Communist bloc.

The Castro regime appeared to be running into trouble on contracts for refuelling of its planes on foreign bases, apparently because of unwillingness to part with scarce U.S. dollars for foreign exchange.

A spokesman for the government-controlled Cubana Airline, while insisting flights were normal, conceded planes are flying between Havana and Miami carrying extra fuel for round trips to avoid giving up dollars for refuelling in Miami.

PLANE STRANDED

A Cuban airliner Sunday was stranded in Madrid, apparently by lack of fuel. The line has a contract with Esso for refuelling, but as a result of government seizure of the Esso refinery in Cuba last week the Madrid branch refused to refuel the plane. Representatives of other oil companies would not supply any gasoline.

The Cuban government has seized the Esso, Shell and Texaco oil plants for refusing to refine Russian crude oil.

The government's new oil monopoly awaited arrival of a Soviet tanker said to be carying 10,000 tons of crude for refining in the confiscated refineries now being operated by Cubans. The National Petroleum Institute said more Soviet tankers are coming from the Black Sea.

The government - controlled newspaper El Mundo said Cuba already has opened talks with several Latin-American countries concerning the possibility of forming a Latin-American "oil bloc to compete with the world's major oil companies." The paper said representatives of Cuba, Peru, Mexico and Venezuela have discussed the proposal.

Barrette Ready To Quit Office

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Antonio Barrette is scheduled to return to his government office today to prepare for a last cabinet meeting and the formalities of handing in his government's resignation.

There was considerable doubt last week about just when Liberal Leader Jean Lesage and his party would take over the reins of government following their victory June 22 over the 16 - year administration of the Union Nationale.

Mr. Barrette made a statement saying his government would not resign until official returns made it clear the Liberals had won the close election.

Mr. Lesage said later that he and Mr. Barrette had tentatively agreed on July 5 for the Liberal take-over and he would be ready to proceed on that date.

All official returns will not be available for several weeks.

Riots Ruin Newport Jazz Festival May Sue City for Four Million

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The colorful Newport Jazz Festival, disrupted when thousands of clamoring youths touched off riots Saturday night, plans to sue the city of Newport for $4,000,000.

The city council declared a state of emergency Sunday and revoked the festival's entertainment licence. The action cancelled performances for Sunday night and today.

An estimated 12,000 youths swarmed into the city Saturday night. When they couldn't get into the already-packed festival grounds, many turned on police, using bottles and beer cans for weapons.

Local officers aided by firemen, state troopers and 50 Marines from the Newport naval base finally restored order early Sunday.

Festival President Louis L. Lorillard put the blame for the outbreaks directly on the city In a statement after Sunday's board meeting, he said city officials had frequent warnings there might be trouble but had neglected to act. He said the festival suffered financial loss and damages from the cancellations. The festival itself, he added, was blameless.

More than 100 persons were treated for bruises and cuts in the wake of the clashes. More than a dozen youths were arraigned on assault and revelling charges. Some 170 others rounded up in the melee were released with orders to get out of town.

Not Yet Decided Whether To Get Nuclear Weapons

Diefenbaker Reports No Agreement Reached

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the government has not yet decided whether to equip Canadian forces with nuclear weapons.

He said in the Commons that if and when such a decision is taken, the weapons must be under Canadian control and used in Canada only as a result of a decision by the Canadian government.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that Canada and the United States are endeavoring to arrive at a formula for joint control of nuclear warheads which would be stored at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon Field, Nfld., for use of American interceptors based there.

CONTINUE TALKS

The prime minister, replying to a question put last Friday by Opposition Leader Pearson, said discussions are continuing with the U.S. on acquisition of nuclear warheads.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue asked whether the government is considering abandoning its negotiations with the U.S. on the matter and whether it would oppose storing nuclear warheads on Canadian soil.

Mr. Diefenbaker did not give a direct reply. However, he said that on the one hand the government desires disarmament and on the other hand it must discharge its responsibility for national security.

In his reply to Mr. Pearson, the prime minister said that he is in no position to advise that there has been any final determination made so that the external affairs department and U.S. state department could enter conclusive negotiations.

He said the discussion so far have been confined to the two defence departments.

When any basic agreement was reached, external affairs would conduct the necessary negotiations for an exchange of diplomatic notes.

Ghana to Propose Non-Nuclear Bloc of Nations

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — President Kwame Nkrumah told first National Assembly of the new Ghana republic today he would soon formally propose creation of an international "non-nuclear" bloc of nations. Nkrumah spoke before the first session of the National Assembly since Ghana gained the status of republic July 1.

Fishing Vessel Reported Safe

HALIFAX (CP)—The fishing boat Olga Ann, missing since Saturday night in the fog - shrouded Atlantic, arrived safely in her home port of Port Bickerton on Nova Scotia's east coast this morning, an RCAF Search and Rescue official here said.

The spokesman said the ship apparently had engine trouble while fishing for cod. She was due back in port Saturday night.

Democratic Chief Denies Meet 'Rigged'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Has the Democratic national convention that opens a week from today in Los Angeles been rigged in favor of Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts?

Former president Truman says it has, National chairman Paul M. Butler says it hasn't.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, a main rival of Kennedy for the presidential nomination, agrees with Truman. Governor Leroy Collins of Florida, the convention's permanent chairman, says the rigging charge is not true.

Kennedy arranged to fly to New York today from his summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., for a press conference to answer the charges Truman made Saturday. He is sure to deny strongly that the convention has been "pre-arranged" in his favor.

Johnson, in a radio-TV interview Sunday, said "I don't think it's any secret that the national chairman of all the members has been somewhat active in Senator Kennedy's camp. He no longer is really a judge, or impartial chairman. He is an advocate of Senator Kennedy."

Johnson said he has not been consulted about any of the convention arrangements, and added that it seems "a little unfair for Mr. Butler as national chairman to say that he doesn't think a man who has a residence in a certain section of the country can be selected and he thinks a man who has a residence in New England ought to be selected."

Butler declined comment on Johnson's remarks, but he has denied any convention rigging and says all candidates will get a fair shake. Butler has conceded that last March he made what he calls a qualified prediction that Kennedy would win the nomination.

British Star Smashes Mark At St. Andrew's

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) Peter Alliss, 29-year-old British Ryder Cup star, smashed the record for St. Andrews' old course with a seven-under-par 66 today in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the British open golf championship.

The previous mark of 67 was held by Dai Rees of Wales and Fred Bullock of Scotland. The old course plays to a par of 36-37—73.

On the par-72 new course among the early finishers, four-time champion Peter Thomson of Australia had a 69.

TRIM FIELD TO 100

Today's qualifying play was the first of two 18-hole rounds to trim the field from 388 to 100 for the championships proper starting on the old course Wednesday.

George O. Tice Former Mayor Passes Away

Former alderman and mayor of the city, George Oliver Tice, 3 Bridge Street west, passed away early today in Belleville General Hospital.

Ex-Mayor Tice had been in failing health for some time, and had been hospitalized some two weeks prior to his passing.

Born in Mountain View, Prince Edward County, the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jason Tice, Mr. Tice received his early education there, later attending the Ontario Business College.

The sole survivors are Mrs. Tice, the former Noreen Shephard, and an only son, ex-Alderman Claude D. Tice, city editor of The Ontario Intelligencer. Mr. Tice's first wife, the former Margaret McCann, passed away in 1935.

Two years prior to his passing, Mr. Tice retired as harbormaster of the city. He was the oldest living mayor of the city.

Tall, with a quiet disposition, Mr. Tice enjoyed the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. He had many interests in life that lessened but slightly with the passing of the years.

He had a natural keen interest in municipal affairs, sport, and the well-being of his fellow man. One of his greatest contributions to the life of the community came when he guided the destinies of the city and that part of the population hardest hit by the times in the well-remembered depression years.

George Tice will be missed. His life was well and truly lived. He has gone to his reward with the knowledge that he did his best. He was quiet, unassuming and always worked for what he thought was the best for his fellows and his city.

In the nineties Mr. Tice took his family to the western provinces where he became engaged in the hotel business. He returned to Belleville in 1920, where he acquired the National Billiards business.

He took up auctioneering, and became one of the better known of this profession. His services were sought from a wide area. Later he became associated with the J. B. Boyce Company as a car salesman.

His sports loves were harness racing and baseball. His name became a household one in racing circles, and his ability as a starter brought him recognition from all districts of this part of the province.

He was an ardent baseball fan and he followed the Grand Trunk and Nationals baseball teams of four decades ago, both at home and away.

He was the bursar of the Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, for two years, returning to Belleville to take over the position of vendor of the Liquor Control Board branch here.

Later he was appointed harbor master of the city, a position he held until 1958.

Mr. Tice early developed a keen interest in municipal affairs. He was elected an alderman in 1927, a position he maintained until 1932. In that year he was elected mayor and conducted the chief magistrate's office faithfully and efficiently until 1935.

As was noted some of his finest mayoral administration came in the depression years.

He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and of United Lodge, No. 29, A.F. and A.M., Brighton. He was a past Noble Grand of Brighton Lodge, I.O.O.F., and an honorary life member of A.N.A.F. Branch, No. 202, in this city.

Congo Rebels Are Arrested

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo Republic (Reuters)—Leaders of a rebel government set up in diamond-rich Kasai Province in defiance of the new Congo Republic government have been arrested, it was learned today.

The Kasai government was set up by Albert Kalonji, bitter rival of Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo Republic, who was defeated in the provincial elections by an alliance of Lumumba's party and several others.

U.S. Group Impressed by Housing Project

TRENTON — Several members of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Handicapped Club today visited Trenton while observing the July 4 holiday in the United States.

Club president Mrs. May Ashby said the group was interested in the low-rental housing project of the Quinte Disabled Persons' Club. The Quinte club will erect low-rental homes for disabled persons in Dixon-Whitley Heights.

After interviewing Miss Eva Morrison, president of the local club, the visitors left town eager to start a similar project at Grand Rapids. They did not know of any similar project anywhere in the U.S., although in some areas homes of handicapped persons have been modified to fit their needs.

Ask Approval To Combine Police, Firemen

TRENTON — The city of Peterborough has approached the town of Trenton to ask for the endorsement of a resolution recommending that provincial permissive legislation be sought for a recommendation that the police and fire departments of any municipality so desiring, may be combined.

The scheme has been tried out in several large centres with good results. Costs have been cut down and extra man hours gained. The combined department would be under one chief.

Trenton council approved the recommendation for permissive legislation on the subject.

"We can't close our eyes to the fact that it might be a success here, as it has been in such places as Royal Oaks, Michigan," said Mayor James MacDonald.

"It's a good thing," said Councillor Whitley.

"It might prove to be a hot issue here," was the comment of Councillor C. V. Graham, chairman of the protection to persons and property committee.

Want Awnings Erected Higher Than 6½ Feet

TRENTON — Council tonight is expected to pass a by-law governing the erection of awnings in front of downtown businesses. The town has a by-law covering canopies, but it does not include awnings.

Several complaints have been received from citizens claiming they have been cracked on the head by low hanging awnings.

Supervisor Moved

TRENTON — Robert Rutherford who, since September, 1952, has been supervisor of maintenance for military contracts at 6 R.D. for Field Aviation, has been transferred to his company's hangar at Malton Airport. He will assume his new post Aug. 1st.

Council Told Cost of Gas Will Be Raised

TRENTON — The Lakeland Natural Gas Company, through its solicitors, McCarthy and McCarthy of Toronto, has notified Trenton council that "seasonal gas service," which council interprets as summer service, will cost the consumer an extra 60 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, as a minimum and not more than $1.10 as a maximum. This is in the nature of a formal notification, which the company is obligated to give to the municipality by law, and council can do little else than note the increase.

P.U.C. Wants To Buy Lots

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission has asked the town to sell the commission certain lots, which are either near the commission's present holdings or through which the commission may wish to run water mains in the future.

One lot, near the Sidney St. well is 198 feet by 668 feet. Other lots which the commission is desirous of owning are lots 16 and 18 on the west side of McLellan Ave., north of Spring St., lot "E" at the south end of McLellan, near the Downs-Coulter plant, part of lot 28 on the west side of Victoria Ave., and part of lot 27 on the east side of Lorne Ave.

Councillor D. R. Fraser said that the question of the P.U.C. "buying" the lots from the town raised the interesting counter-question of whether the commission really "owns" its holdings or whether the town legally owns all lands under the jurisdiction of the commission.

"Do we have the legal right of control over P.U.C. property?" asked the councillor. "Can they dispose of it without our permission?"

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell has been asked to enquire into the legal aspects of the matter.

Toronto Lawyer Dies at Picton

PICTON (CP)—John Robertson Robinson, 64, senior partner in the Toronto legal firm of Robinson and Haines, died of a heart attack Saturday at his country home near Picton, 16 miles southeast of Belleville.

Mr. Robinson, born in Toronto, was the only son of John Robinson a former editor-in-chief of the Toronto Telegram. He graduated in absentia from the University of Toronto while serving with the Canadian Field Artillery in France in the First World War. He won the Military Medal at the Battle of Amiens in 1918.

Mr. Robinson was called to the bar with the khaki class of 1920, and returned to Europe soon afterwards to write for The Telegram the first stories by a Canadian soldier to revisit the battlefields.

He leaves his wife and six sons and a daughter.

Chinese Will Stay Away From Borders

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Communist China has promised to stay about six miles away from its border with Nepal, following a shooting incident in the area, authoritative quarters said here Sunday night.

They said the promise was contained in Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's letter of apology to Premier B. P. Koirala for the shooting of a Nepalese and the capture of 16 others in the frontier incident last Monday.

Hangs 2 Hours From Plane as Chute Catches

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP)—A Richmond commercial artist making his first parachute jump dangled helplessly 2,000 feet above the ground for nearly two hours Saturday when his chute snagged on an airplane.

Clovis C. Coffman finally was freed when the pilot, Mrs. K. R. Bradley of Richmond, smashed an instrument dial with her shoe and used the broken glass to cut the cords. Coffman pulled his emergency parachute and floated down, spraining both ankles when he hit the ground.

Parade Marks All-Star Game At Wellington

WELLINGTON (Special) — Wellington Bantam baseballers defeated the Eastern Zone Bantam All-Stars 6-3 here Saturday in an exhibition game that was part of a special program to raise funds for the Wellington Athletic Association.

A gala parade, from the Legion Hall to the ball diamond, preceded the game. Included in the parade were the participating teams and the village's peewee teams, the Colborne Trumpet and Baton Band and majorettes. The majorettes put on a colorful display at the diamond prior to the game.

A large crowd watched the parade and game and greatly enjoyed the work of the Colborne band. Activities carried over into the evening when a street dance was well attended on Wharf Street.

Immediately following the ball game trophies were presented to the "Most Valuable Player" on each team. Donnie Ogilvy was the winner for the Wellington team while Ronny Davis, of Colborne, took the All-Star award.

Deaf Teachers Recommended

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario schools for the deaf should have one deaf teacher for every four with normal hearing, the president of the Ontario association of the Deaf, said Saturday.

Dr. David Peikoff told the association's diamond jubilee convention that he believed this ratio would cause educational standards to "zoom to an unbelievable level."

He said schools for the deaf at Milton and Belleville would increase efficiency and service to deaf children if they took on brilliant deaf teachers.

Holiday Death Toll Reaches Six, Boy, Girl Die in Motor Accidents

The Dominion Day holiday traffic death toll in the Quinte district mounted to six with the weekend deaths of a two-year old girl in Hungerford township and the death Sunday night of an Erinsville youth.

Early Friday morning four persons were killed in a car transport crash off 401 highway east of Belleville.

Saturday afternoon Jean Anne Maria O'Coin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Coin, died under the wheels of her father's car as it was being backed out of the driveway on the 11th concession of Hungerford.

The little girl had apparently darted out from the house and ran unnoticed behind the car as the father started the vehicle. The right rear wheel passed over the little girl.

Madoc Provincial Police investigated. There will be no inquest.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Coin reside two miles west of Tweed on the Lodge Room Road.

The young victim was one of eight children and is survived by four brothers and three sisters. Her mother is the former Theresa Cassibo.

Interment was in St. Carthagh's Cemetery, Tweed, at 10 a.m. today.

North of Napanee, Allan York, 17, of Erinsville died instantly in a truck accident.

Police said the three boys were riding on an old car seat on the back of a platform truck driven by Edward O'Coin of Tweed. The truck was southbound on 41 and was turning right onto the 3rd concession of Sheffield township when he lost control and swerved throwing the three boys off the truck. The York boy died of a broken neck.

Drs. Dominic and George Hunt of Marlbank, attended at the scene. Dr. Cameron Wilson of Napanee, was called as coroner.

Gene Fowler Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Fowler, a newspaper man who often spoke lightly of death and once described heaven as "that great city room in the sky," is dead at 70.

Fowler, reporter, author and screenwriter, died in his garden Saturday of a heart attack only seconds after he complained of indigestion pains.

City Recreation Playgrounds Get Under Way

The city's Recreation Committee's summer playground got underway this morning with registration at the 13 playgrounds being the highest on record.

It was stated that up until 11 this morning that a total of 1,100 children had registered. Registrations were tremendous, reported Miss Jacqueline Watson, who is supervisor in charge. However, she won't know the total first day registrations until closing at 5:00 p.m.

Playgrounds will continue through July and August with an organized program supervised Monday through Friday during the hours of 9 to 5.

Belleville Girl Saves Life of Ottawa Boy

Although said to be "not a very good swimmer," Miss Carol Wishart, 24-year-old daughter of Alderman and Mrs. George Wishart, was credited with saving the life of a five-year-old Ottawa boy when he slipped into the Rideau Canal near Ottawa Friday.

Carol, attracted by the shouts of children with whom the youngster, Roger L'Ecuyer, had been playing when he slipped off the steps at the canal, jumped into the canal and held the boy above water until the rescue was effected by a passing motorist.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L'Ecuyer, of 125 Russell Avenue, Ottawa, had been playing on the steps near the canal with three other boys.

Kiwanis Club Will Sponsor Circus July 12

The Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus, one of the world's largest amusement organizations, will exhibit at —Zwick's Island July 12. The circus is being brought by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Proceeds will go towards the many organizations sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. A committee headed by Kiwanian Ken Pinder is making arrangements for the circus.

Ron Keel, committee member, reported that advance ticket sales are good. The club today opened a downtown ticket office next to the Bank of Montreal.

More than 150 performers representing the best talent obtainable from the five continents of the world are to be seen with the big show this season.

As a prelude to the circus performance, a gloriously enchanting spectacle entitled "La Persia," a gorgeous fiesta, is unfolded. To those who love fairy lore, it far exceeds in magnificence, brilliance, gorgeousness and beauty the glories of any spectacle yet staged by this circus.

There will be dancing girls; great companies of trained singers, orchestras of vast size, grand golden-toned organs and the crash of cymbals. Yet this colossal production which has amazed thousands, is but one feature of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus.

Clyde Beatty, the famous wild animal trainer, will appear at each performance in the big cage, battling 40 lions and tigers. Beatty has appeared as the star in more than 30 feature films.

There are 600 people with the big show which recently returned to America after a tour of South America. The 150 performers represent eight foreign countries. Twenty-two tents covering 12 acres of ground.

The performances will be given at 2 and 8 p.m. The doors will open at 1 and 7 p.m. to permit an inspetcion of the zoo or to enjoy a concert of popular and operatic music by a military band.

Youth Lands 18½-Pound Lake Trout

If you're around Kawagama Lake near Dorset drop into the Helm cottage and you'll find a pretty proud and excited youth.

He is Ted Butcher, 16, of 325 Coleman Street, and his lifetime thrill so far is the catching of an 18½ pound lake trout.

Ted was trolling in a canoe with his chum Glen Helm, when the big fellow struck. It went for a worm - laden wobbler.

Drivers Defy Highway Ban, Use Road

WAWA, Ont. (CP)—Scores of motorists from this northern Ontario mining community defied a highways department ban and drove along an uncompleted section of the Trans-Canada Highway during the Dominion Day weekend.

A watchman listed numbers of about 50 vehicles that drove through a gate erected to keep them off the highway. The list is expected to be sent to the highways department for possible prosecution.

The mass defiance of the order culminated nearly a month of protests against the ban, imposed by the department on the grounds that motorists were delaying work on the highway. Construction crews complained of having to waste time pulling cars through bad sections of the road.

Residents of the community 150 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie countered that they were being denied the outside road link when it was most needed for holiday travel. They asked to be allowed to use the road at night and during holidays and offered to travel in convoys at times suitable to the contractors and escorted by their own tow truck.

The suggestion was turned down by Highways Minister Cass.

At a public meeting June 29 residents unanimously approved a resolution calling for an immediate opening of the road, even though this might mean delaying the scheduld Sept. 16 official opening.

Kingston Family Crash-Lands at Elliot Lake

Miners stood anxiously by as Pilot Milton Fraser, 33, of Kingston circled overhead. Fraser's wife Thelma, 32, and their two children, Blair, 9, and Susan, 7, were other occupants of the plane.

They were flying to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., on the first leg of a holiday flight to Vancouver, when they lost radio contact.

After circling the area for an hour, Fraser was forced to land on a 300-foot roadway on mine property. Security policeman Mark Tinkis directed the miners to light the road with their cars.

Minor damage was done to wingtips, propeller and engine mounts when the plane skidded into a ditch of the road's soft shoulder.

Fraser, a salesman, has been a member of the Kingston Flying Club for the past year. He returned to Sudbury Sunday to obtain another plane for the flight to Vancouver.

Bevan Is Ill

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's No. 2 socialist, Aneurin Bevan, critically ill for about three weeks, spent a "comfortable night" at his country home, it was announced today.

A few of the anglers who lined the shores Lake-on-the-Mountain, near Picton, opened for fish July 1st after being closed since 1910.

Fish in Lake-on-Mountain For First Time in 50 Years

PICTON (Special) — Fishermen from many sections of Ontario and neighboring States of the USA, blanketed Lake - on - the - Mountain with boats over the weekend. The picturesque lake, located near the edge of a cliff, 170 feet above the Bay of Quinte, five miles east of Picton, was opened July 1st for fishing by anglers for the first time in 50 years. The mile-long lake has been used in the past by the Department of Game and Fisheries to harvest fry and adult large and small mouth black bass. The Glenora fish hatchery, located at the bottom of the cliff, is the headquarters for fisheries work in the Bay of Quinte district.

Officials of the Glenora Research Station took a creel census during the weekend and many excellent catches were reported. Outboard motors are prohibited on the lake and fishermen resorted to old - fashioned row boats, while others fished from canoes and off shore. Largest fish caught were a 4½ lb. large mouth bass, a 4 1/4 lb. small mouth bass and a 9-lb. northern pike. Length, weight and scale sample of each fish were recorded by department employees, under John Christie, biologist in charge of the research station, and Claude Winter, Prince Edward County conservation officer.

Lake - on - the - Mountain, which has no visible inlet or outlet, has been a major tourist attraction in Prince Edward County for many years. It is one mile long by a half mile wide and reaches a depth of 96 feet.

A Vigorous Mind

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan recently made three statements, apparently in a press interview, any one of which could be guaranteed to stir up a lively controversy in any gathering.

Field Marshal Ayub said that Pakistanis were "beginning to doubt" that the governmental machinery of the United States was attuned to the requirements of the nuclear age. He made it clear that his reference was, at least primarily, to the question of whether the "cumbersome, sluggish and clumsy juggernaut" could react quickly enough in a military emergency. But his criticism is valid in other fields, too, and applies to other countries besides the United States. Indeed, one of the most difficult problems of the age is how the democracies can devise a system of government which makes possible fast, vigorous action to meet rapidly changing conditions, while at the same time preserving the safeguards essential to government by the people.

Field Marshal Ayub, of course, does not have this problem. His government is one of those "benevolent dictatorships" which have sprung up under military auspices in recent years in an effort to cure the sloth and indecision resulting from democratic regimes in lands new to such a form of government.

* * *

Field Marshal Ayub's second controversial statement was a bitter attack on the reluctance of the U.S. to provide information on birth control. He denounced this as "very selfish" and "very unwise." Pakistan, of course, is predominantly a Moslem country and we had always thought, perhaps without any foundation in fact, that those of the Moslem faith were opposed to contraception. If there was any ground for this view, it is doubly interesting to note that Ayub declared that if the U.S., like Pakistan, was faced with a population growth that threatened its economic development there would be no controversy. In any event, Ayub here seems to be supporting the view that a country's moral standards depend upon the circumstances in which it finds itself, a highly materialistic doctrine but not one which ought to be lightly dismissed solely for that reason.

* * *

Ayub's third observation, unlike the first two quoted above, was more in the realm of the theoretical than the practcial. He described the intellectual as a "dangerous chap who may be good at debating but cannot make up his mind." It is nothing new for the intellectual to discover that he is held in low esteem by the military—the feeling is frequently mutual—but we fancy that many an intellectual will be surprised to discover that he is a man who cannot make up his mind. The record seems to go against Ayub here. True, the intellectual is likely to be cautious, to require proof of statements advanced in the advocacy of any course, to demand that the other side of the controversy be given a hearing. But once a question has been subjected to full examination, many an intellectual has in the past demonstrated a clear ability to make up his mind—and to keep it made up despite all attempts to persuade him to alter the convictions he has reached on the basis of careful study. Einstein, Bertrand Russel, Linus Pauling, Dr. Oppenheimer—are these men skilled only in debating a question but without any conclusions to offer?

* * *

One thing, though, must be said of Ayub—he has a lively mind and any mistakes he may make in his hard task of providing the base on which Pakistan can eventually build a prosperous democracy—for such is the avowed aim of his dictatorship—will not be for want of vigor of thought or by reason of timidity.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

REAL ILLNESS

Emotional disease.

Some people have just that — emotional disease. Such diseases are not caused by germs, they are not contagious, and, for the most part, they do not involve medical care or hospitalization. Yet many a person is definitely sick emotionally. And because he is sick (or she, as the case may be), everybody else in the household, the office, the shop, and the bridge club is exposed to this sickness.

The emotionally sick can stir up more perdition within their circles than anyone else excepting Old Nick himself. The emotionally diseased quickly lose their tempers. If they cannot have their own way, they become despondent. Everybody is against them — in fact, plotting to rob them of happiness. Nobody can be trusted.

So reason the emotionally diseased. Scores of good people scurry around trying to please these pestiferous persons. They often give them what they want. They agree with their arguments. They warn everybody not to say anything which will stir up the anger and bitterness of these people. "They're just nervous, you know."

So Polite, Yet So Cruel

Montreal Gazette

Nothing may be so cruel as politeness, when it is used to injure. For it injures insidiously, scarcely allowing the victim to strike back, or even to be aware that he is being harshly used.

In the days of the Regency, Samuel Rogers was one of the politest men in London. A man of wealth, ease and learning, he was asked to dine out by all who sought accomplishd guests.

Yet none could be sure when his flattery might be cynicism in disguise. He is said to have paid vast and extreme compliments, but in a measured and serious way. Then he would go away, and boast how much he had made his victim swallow.

Polite Samuel Rogers was polite — often exquisitely polite. But were he not so polite he could not have been so cruel.

A century earlier, Lord Chesterfield had also debased politeness. He, too, advocated flattery, but believed that it should be guided by a cynicism so subtle that its victim would never learn he was being deceived.

"A man of the world knows the force of flattery . . . but then he knows how, when and whre to give it; he proportions his dose to the constitution of his patient. He flatters by application, by inference, by comparison, by hint, and seldom directly."

The important thing, he believed, was not to flatter a man's strong points, but those in which he is weak. For a man knows wherein he is strong, and needs little reassurance. But all men are striving after something for which they are ill-fitted. They are "best flattered upon those points where they wish to excel, and yet are doubtful whether they do or not."

All this is politeness, of course. But, as with any vice, it is never so repellent as when it is discovered. For it has the quality of treachery.

Politeness may be insidious, too, when it almost disarms its victim, in preparation for a deadly blow. William Hazlitt used this method in his lectures on the poets of his day.

He rejected Wordsworth's theory of poetry. But he would begin his lecture by praising Wordsworth highly. He would proclaim him to be "the most original poet now living." Then he would move gradually into his attack. And the attack would show no mercy.

Some of his listeners, it is true, found the opening civility suspicious. As a barrister remarked, when Judge Campbell pronounced sentence on a criminal named Palmer in a famous Stafford murder: "I knew Jock Campbell meant to hang him from the first. He was so confoundedly polite to the prisoner."

Politeness, too, is a weapon of pain, when it pretends that all is well, while making its hatred known. For the icy affability, offering no cause for objection, may burn like a hot iron.

Gladstone suffered from this use of politeness in his dealings with Queen Victoria. The Queen had never liked him. Towards the end, when he almost craved some word of warm gratitude for his long services, she seemed to take satisfaction in refusing to gratify him.

In his diary on November 30, 1831, Gladstone wrote: "Off to Windsor. Much civility . . . but I am always outside an iron ring." Again on July 15, 1893, he wrote: "In the main interview the Queen was certainly polite, in nothing helpful. Not however captious, perfect in temper, not one sympathetic word. . ." When he resigned his prime ministership, and took his farewell, the Queen's politeness pursued and persecuted him to the end.

Gladstone himself, an old an aggrieved man, never put it quite so frankly as did his son, when he wrote: "There was the same studious politeness. . . It was a woman's art, impossible to understand, designed, persistent, remorseless."

Yet Gladstone, pained and puzzled as he was by the Queen's coldness, had to admit that all his relations with th Queen had been "absolutely unattended with the smallest ruffle on their surface."

Politeness can be a terrible weapon.

Two Different Worlds Exist Side by Side

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Two different worlds exist side by side, at the same time; and the greater world knows little, if anything, of the lesser.

These two worlds are not geographic, or political, or social, or racial. They cross all such boundaries — but they separate humanity more surely than any of these ancient and familiar divisions.

Communications from the smaller world cross my desk weekly. These are papers and journals in ethics, psychology, sociology, anthropology and the medical and biological sciences.

In their pages, we learn what a tiny band of men and women are doing and thinking in such diverse areas as cancer research, delinquency, prejudice, food supply, housing and the functions of the brain.

These journals and papers are engaged in probing into the dark corners of human life. There is in them (along with, of course, some technical or trivial material) a passionate search for light, for truth, for disinterested knowledge.

This small and dedicated world consists of a great deal of dogged research, and an occasional magnificent discovery. It analyzes human behavior, correlates the habits of different cultures, sifts and tests the conflicting evidence that history and experience provide us with.

Alongside this small world is the great world to which most of us belong. We live in darkness and fear, among unregulated passions and brooding superstitions. We are, in a real sense, strangers, also, to the world of research and investigation and discovery.

We benefit enormously from the practical results obtained in the other world — but their theoretical conclusions scarcely touch us. The other world is operating in the vanguard of the twentieth century, while we are still moving in the Dark Ages, emotionally, morally, spiritually and sometimes intellectually.

We may soon conquer cancer, but we are just as far from conquering bigotry as we were a thousand years ago; the black plague is no longer an international menace, but we are no closer to a solution of the international plague of war. Yet we know enough about the causes of bigotry and war to eliminate them or reduce their prevalence; only this knowledge is limited to the small world and has not yet seeped into the great one.

It must give a feeling of tragic impotence to belong to that small band of intellectual pioneers, armed with knowledge they can neither use nor pass on to the men and women who lead governments or who follow them, and who are now sleep-walking to their own possible destruction.

Writes Poem About Stalin

Montreal Gazette

In 1956 Premier Khrushchev made his famous speech to the 20th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. This was the speech where he attacked the reputation of Stalin.

But, while Mr. Khrushchev's speech was widely publicized in the West, it was never officially published in the Soviet Union. Recently, however, a Soviet literary figure, A. Tarnovsky, was permitted to publish a poem in Pravda that has come as a considerable surprise to the paper's readers. Although it does not mention Stalin's name, it obviously refers to him, and is in the same spirit at Khrushchev's famous speech.

When alive, yet from life separated
By the Kremlin Walls,
He was above us like a terrible ghost
We did not know any other names. . .
So it was: for a quarter of a century
The name of a man
Resounded together with the name of our country
As a call to struggle and work.
And it seemed a natural thing
That through the smoke of his pipe
He saw personally everything in the world
And ruled over all, like God . . .

The poem goes on to point out that there was no one who had the courage or ability, to stand up to Stalin and that all in the Soviet Union must collectively bear the guilt of tolerating him. "Who among us is fit for the part of a judge, to decide who is guilty or not guilty. We are talking about men and don't men create gods?"

It is certainly a remarkable poem. And, that it should be freely published in the Soviet Union is even more remarkable.

A better conception of citizenship and what it means to be a citizen of Canada was exemplified by Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, when he addressed the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at the Queens Hotel on the subject "Citizenship Today". The occasion was the celebration of Citizenship Week inaugurated by Kiwanis International to make the members more conscious of the fine heritage it is theirs to enjoy. The speaker explained that in the totalitarian states the individual is the slave of the state and of the dominating minds thereof; but in our system of citizenship the boundaries are not limited to local conditions, but reach out to the whole civilized world.

Walk in Rain Invigorating

Windsor Daily Star

It is not pleasant to be out in the rain yet there is something strangely exhilarating about a storm. This was demonstrated during the heavy thunder storm.

A lass was walking to visit a girl friend when, about half way, the rain teemed down. She was soaked to her sleek skin. Upon her arrival, however, she was exuberant. She had enjoyed it, she said, as she shook the rain off her locks—and she meant it.

The girl was not stupid. Walking through the downpour had been an experience. She had found, as many others have found, that there is a sort of invigorating challenge in facing up to a storm, even a cold storm of winter.

It is not an experience one would wish every day. The occasional one is enough. But walking through heavy gusts of rain can be enjoyable, strange as it may seem.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

MENOPAUSE ITSELF DOES NOT SEND WOMEN TO MENTAL HOSPITALS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do many women land in mental hospitals while going through the menopause? I recall hearing of several cases. I'm afraid that is where I'm heading. Is this the normal average feeling of women at this time of life, or am I really way off the beam? - - - Mrs. R. D."

Just as, to take a well-known example, the adolescent goes through some worrisome times in the teens, so, too, some women may worry their way through menopause.

But remember this: It is a natural experience, one which comes to all women, and there is no reason why you or anyone else should "land in a mental hospital" because of it.

When a woman at this stage does land in a mental institution, it is found that the menopause is not the cause. Almost invariably it becomes apparent that the woman had some emotional disturbance or irritability of long standing, and should have sought help earlier.

To be sure, it may be that the stresses of menopause prove to be the final straw, the final pressure that triggers an emotional or mental breakdown. Or, to use a current expression, the stresses may be the "trigger" for such a breakdown, but they do not cause it all by themselves.

For menopause does bring some temporary stress in many cases. Because there are glandular changes at this time, a variety of symptoms are apt to appear. Some women escape very easily. The majority will have some symptoms — hot flashes, irritability, occasional palpitation, fatigue, or the like.

Proper understanding that these symptoms are a natural result of the glandular changes that are taking place, and the knowledge that the body presently will regain its equilibrium, helps women to go through the phase without undue worry. Sometimes mild sedatives and the use of hormones for a limited period may be helpful. Presently the symptoms fade away, and conditions are back to normal.

However, the woman who does not realize this often tends to become panicky. If she has spells of being irritable, or depressed, she fears that menopause is a sign of something worse. She can make life miserable for herself, not to mention those close and dear to her.

Let us also face this fact: By the time a woman reaches menopause, often her children have grown up and started homes of their own. Her husband is not the slim, romantic fellow he was 30 years earlier. There's a feeling of aging and loss of feminity — this latter not justified, but the fear gnaws, all the same.

I've noticed that business women or women with jobs, have less trouble, in general, with menopause than others. Women engrossed in club work, or hospital auxiliaries, or other projects, have less trouble. The women whose busy tasks at home (with children, etc) have suddenly lessened, without hobbies or projects to fill the void, have more trouble.

And the women whose married lives have been happy and contented seem to have far less trouble. The ones whose lives have led to emotional instability find the instability intensified by the stress of menopause. The others are more likely to take menopause in stride. You see, stress adds up. Menopause doesn't upset the mental balance, but a long accumulation of stresses is something else.

"Dear Dr. Molner: To settle an argument, can lung cancer paralyze legs and blind people? - - - A. A. W."

Not directly. But remember that cancer, if not treated, spreads. It can spread anywhere. Hence it might spread to areas which would, when damaged, prevent use of legs, or eyes. It could happen, but it would be unusual.

Tooth Prints Trap Thief

Montreal Star

The London police, those indefatigable searchers after truth, have come up with a nice solution. A dishonest Londoner, bent on larceny, was foolish enough to be tempted by the vice of gluttony and paid for it.

Apparently he was engaged on an eleven thousand dollar "job" (we believe that is the correct term of art) when he succumbed to the temptation of a bit of cheese, and bit it, thereby leaving enough of his toothprints to secure his arrest.

The best laid schemes of mice and men gang oft a-gley, and this is a good example of what the poet meant. Whether the cheese was left by a psychologically inclined night watchman, in the earnest hope of fooling the plans of both these forms of larcenous life, the story does not relate.

But it gives rise to one interesting speculation. Will the police start keeping tooth prints? If so, when those dreadful pictures of criminals are taken, it will at least permit the prisoner to say "Cheese."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE A SUPERIOR PERSON

We have all experienced the joy and inspiration of those who lift us, and who — at times — seem a part of us, as they perhaps are! At any rate we feel their kindliness and interest, and bask in the sunlight of their personalities.

How wonderful it is to feel that there are superior persons in the world, and that there are those who invite us in to be warmed by the glow of their minds and the beauty of their character.

One of the finest essays by Charles Lamb was his "Dream Children." I read it time and again. It is one of those immortal writings that came from the heart, and which never die. Such writing is the product of an inspired human being — superior to so many whom we meet as we journey through life, and meditate upon the undying pathway of beauty.

What a loss to us all were there none of these superior people about to soften the everyday with understanding and kindly thoughts. How we all need the best in life so as to create more and more of these superior persons to light up the way ahead for us all!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A newspaper colleague of mine is home from Britain after a year's assignment there and he is filled with enthusiasm for the British people and their recovery from the ruin and exhaustion of war. As a pilot in the RCAF he was stationed three years in Britain during the war, saw England and Scotland slowly converted into an armed camp, witnessed the suffering of the people under bombing and rockets, observed with reverence their personal sacrifices, the decline of their economy, the rising poverty of their utilities, services, railways, the invading shabbiness of their cities and towns, their submissiveness as their country slowly filled with Americans, Canadians, French, Poles and other troops.

"What they suffered," he says "has enriched their character. I believe the British, by and large, are more British than ever, by which I mean they have to a greater degree than ever the qualities for which, in the past, we admired them. The one that appeals first to me, now that I am home, is that they have a sort of individual personal pride that requires of them that they give more than they receive. What shocks me in my fellow Canadians is their cheerful daily determination to get more than they give. There are exceptions, of course; but my warmest impression of the new-risen Britain is the multitude of people at all levels determined to live generously simply out of self-respect. It is time we undamaged North Americans started to worry about out private personalities." Copyright: Canada Wide

Hope for Crew Of Plane Fades

BODO, Norway (AP) — Hope faded today for six crew members of an U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane missing over the Arctic Sea as the search entered its third day.

The airmen would have spent more than 60 hours in the sea if the plane went down near the last known position—about 300 miles north of the Kola Peninsula in the Soviet Union.

Norwegian experts said that a man could live only 20 to 30 minutes in the sea in these waters, and even if the airmen managed to get into one of the dinghies their plane carried the period now passed would be too long for survival.

5 Vancouver Blocks Levelled By Worst Fire of Century

VANCOUVER (CP) — Firemen stood guard early today over the smouldering ruins of Vancouver's worst fire this century which caused more than $2,000,000 and levelled five blocks in the city's industrial False Creek district.

Twelve firemen and three civilians suffered minor injuries during the blaze and were treated at hospital, then released.

At the height of the five-alarm inferno every available man of the fire department's 450 - man force and all available equipment were at the scene.

Fire Chief Hugh Bird, who estimated the damage, ordered Martin Mars - water - dropping aircraft of Flying Forest Tanker Incorporated of Vancouver to stand by. However, the planes, recently purchased to fight forest fires in the province, were not needed.

Two city fireboats and another from the RCAF battled their way through scores of pleasure craft in the vicinity to aid land equipment.

More than 10,000 persons swarmed to the scene to watch the desperate battle. The intense heat kept even the most hardy two and sometimes three blocks from the scene.

Twenty - four of the city's 60 policemen on duty were called to the area to unsnarl huge traffic jams and reroute traffic.

The fire, first five - alarm fire in Vancouver's history, started from a short circuit in a motor at the B.C. Forest Products' planer mill.

The mills sprinkling system did began beneath the floor. Before firemen arrived at 5 p.m. PDT winds gusting to 35 miles an hour sent the flames roaring through the mill, a nearby saw mill and a lumber yard.

When weary firemen, working 30 - minute shifts on the hoses, finally contained the fire and broke it into several pocket blazes five city blocks stretching upwards from the waterfront were levelled.

Also destroyed were B.C. Forest's office building, a large dry kiln, a boiler room, 1,000,000 feet of lumber, a nearby industrial equipment firm, several large wooden warehouses and railway boxcars.

Less Than Third Of Rubber Firm Workers Report

KITCHENER (CP)—Less than one-third of 700 Kaufman Rubber Company employees went into the plant today, first day of a Supreme Court injunction limiting picketing to four persons at each of three entrances to the plant. There were no incidents as 208 workers went by picketing United Rubber workers, on strike for union recognition.

The union estimated that 150 had gone into work. Some of these, a spokesman said, had been "almost dragged in" by foremen.

Union officials said they were jubilant at the showing in the trial of strength.

A. R. Kaufman, owner of the plant, also expressed satisfaction with the turnout.

"It's pretty good for the first morning," he said. "I expect more in tomorrow."

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT Public Beaches
• Exercises For Cramps

Q. Is overcrowding of beaches a health hazard to swimmers?
A. The Public Health Laboratory Service Of England made a 7-year study of this problem. Samples of sea water were collected from over 40 different beaches. The English investigators seemed to agree that while heavily contaminated sea water (but not fresh water) at certain beaches could theoretically cause a great deal of disease, the fact of the matter is that it doesn't.

Q. Are exercises helpful in overcoming cramps and discomfort during certain days?
A. Some doctors advocate stretching exercises for dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation). Others either are not so sure that it helps or attribute the good results simply to enthusiasm for this method of treatment.

NEIGHBORS' AID

SECOND THURLOW — The June meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the Hall on June 22 with 21 adults and several children present. The president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, presided.

Mrs. Earl Grills acted as pianist for the meeting and Mrs. M. David as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Lazaruik.

Letters were read, and $10.00 was voted to be sent to Salvation Army. The treasurer, Mrs. R. T. Boldrick, gave the financial report. About $246 was taken in from various euchres held last winter. The hall has been redecorated which has made a great improvement. It was decided the bill for painting be paid. Thank-you notes are to be sent to Mr. R. T. Boldrick and to Messrs. Gerald and Gene Stratton for work done for the Aid. A picnic was discussed and it was decided to have it at Point Anne, on July 27th, with a pot luck dinner at 12.30 sharp, members to bring food as on previous occasions, also to buy drapes for the hall and prizes for the picnic, with the treasurer and president to look after same. Fifty dollars was handed in to the treasurer for quilting a quilt, recently.

The following program was arranged by Mrs. B. Portt, and Miss Sarah Stickney with the latter in charge: community singing was enjoyed: readings, "Odd Moments", Mrs. Gene Stratton: "How to Cook the president". Mrs. Belnap; Music, Instrumental Melodies, Mrs. Earl Grills: reading "What is Earth?" Mrs. M. Dent.

Contest, guessing the amount of beans in a jar, with Mrs. Earl Grills guessing the closest amount. She received a gift.

Miss Stickney thanked those who helped with the program. The picnic will replace the July meeting. Mrs. Belnap to be in charge of the August program with Madames J. Milne, O. Stratton, Robert Atkins, and to furnish the lunch.

After the meeting closed, lunch was served by Madames J. McCormack, M. Dent, B. Portt and G. Stratton, and a social hour spent.

Weddings

REID — BATEMAN

MARMORA — A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, on Saturday June 25th, when Almeda Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bateman, of Marmora, became the bride of Glen Douglas Reid, son of Mrs. Albert Reid and the late Mr. Reid of Madoc. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. D. McLeod

SHANNON — YENTA

MARMORA — In St. Mary's Catholic Church, Campbellford, Mary Joyce Yenta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Yenta, of Campbellford, became the bride of John Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shannon, Sr., of Marmora, on Saturday, June 18th. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Maloney. The Rev. W. P. Healey, of Marmora, was present in the sancturary.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Marie Crossen.

A crown set with baby seed pearls and rhinestones held her finger-tip silk illusion veil and she carried white gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Loraine Yenta, and Miss Joan Shannon, were bridal attendants. They wore gowns of shrimp organza over taffota featuring deep collars tight bodices and bell-shaped skirts. Tiny frilled hats were made of organza and they carried white shasta 'mums.

Mr. Leo Shannon was groomsman and Messrs. Glen Yenta and Clarence Shannon, were ushers.

The reception was held in Sky View Lounge at Havelock, where Mrs. Yenta received in a dusty-pink sheath with matching flowered hat and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

For their honeymoon to the Muskoka district, the bride wore a dress of brown and white pure silk with green and tangerine hat and white accessories, Her corsage was white Sweetheart roses.

The young couple will reside in Marmora.

International Reading Assoc. Names Officers

At a special meeting of the executive of the Quinte Branch of the International Reading Association recently, the following slate of officers for the year 1960-61 was presented and accepted:

Past president, Mr. C. W Sloan; president, Sister Mary Andrew; first vice-president, Miss Daisy Young; secretary, Mrs. Pauline Hutchinson; treasurer, Mr. C. M. Irwin. Chairmen of standing committees — program, Mrs. Barbara Brown; primary division, Mrs. Orma Slack; junior division, Miss Thelma Prest; intermediate division, Lt.-Col. E. S. Fairman; senior division, Mrs. Jeannette McKibbon; social, Mrs. Dorothy Blakely.

Early in the fall plans will be formulated for an interesting and stimulating year's program in the local Quinte branch.

ROYAL FARM

CASTLE OF MEY, Scotland (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth has purchased a farm adjoining her ancestral home in this Caithness community. The farm covers about 100 acres, and local residents say a cave nearby is haunted by the ghost of a Scottish piper.

Energetic Club Holds Fine Family Picnic

On July 1st, the Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church held its annual family picnic at The Outlet.

After a most delicious lunch the group gathered on the beach where the various races were held. The results are as follows:

Boys and girls under 5; all were winners. Girls 6, 7, 8—Catherine Ford and Marilyn Townsend. Boys 6, 7, 8—Keith Wilson and Dwayne Dryden. Girls 9-12, Marilyn Parks and Elizabeth Ford. Boys 9-12, Harold Townsend and Trevor Wilson.

Father and son race, Frank and Trevor Wilson. Mother and daughter race, Marianne and Catherine Ford. Children's 3-legged race, Harold and Marilyn Townsend. Adults' wheelbarrow race, Wade Hayes and Cam Hitchon. Children's wheelbarrow race, Trevor Wilson and Harold Townsend.

There was a peanut and a clothes pin scramble, which was much enjoyed.

Hold Special Services at Three Charges

RAWDON — The six men from Rawdon United Church circuit who had attended a recent Laymen's Conference, were in charge of the three services at the charges at Bethel, Mt. Pleasant and Wellman's.

At Mt. Pleasant, Mrs. Mac Sharp officiated at the console of the organ, and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver was pianist. The men sat in a group on the west side of the church and sang "God of Glory, God of Grace." Misses Judy Cooney and Mary Ellen David sang "Hold Thou My Hand."

Mr. Robert Merrick, president of Rawdon circuit, AOTS, presided over the service.

The Bible lessons and prayers were given by Messrs' Allan Reid, Glenn Heath and Ross Hoard.

The leader said 600 men were in attendance at the recent Laymen's Conference held at Keswick House in the Muskoka Lake area.

Mr. William McAdam in his report, said this was the eighth national conference and he gave an outline of the program on Saturday. He said there are 17 men employed on the United Church board on a full-time basis, and there are 500 organized OTAS clubs. Holy Communion was served in the chapel to 587 men by 30 elders.

Mr. Ross Hoard gave a resume of the duties of the elders as they visit all the people in their area. Various ideas were given for making the visit a success, and it was urged that a telephone call be made first to make sure the hour chosen would not conflict with other plans.

Mr. Orno Sharp gave the highlights of the conference based on friendship and fellowship. He gave a descriptive account of the outstanding speakers. One of the addresses was on the theme, "Man, Are You Sick?" was an hour in length and very interesting. The main thought was "Be willing to share your blessings with the diseased and homeless in other lands."

Smart Beachcomber

By TRACY ADRIAN

If you are favoring the bikini for swimming this season you'll need a bit of coverage for lounging by the pool or on the beach. Here's just the blouse for it, designed by Macshore.

Sleeveless with a Johnny collar and button front, it comes in a wide variety of fascinating colors. Two huge patch pockets placed below the waist are spacious enough for change purse, lipstick, cigarets and compact.

Pacific Coast Plane-Watcher Loses Job But Still Does It

TIMBER BAY, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Veronica Dowling lost her job when the Ground Observer Corps was recently disbanded in favor of radar. But she continues to do the same work because she isn't convinced the task can be handled completely by science.

From her home on Cortes Island in the Gulf of Georgia she reported 17,777 aircraft over the years to the Vancouver RCAF filter centre.

Her office-living room has 40 scale models of aircraft and a library of posters and magazines on aerial matters.

Miss Dowling—prefers miss although she is a widow and a grandmother—is also a farmer, fisherman, logger and blacksmith. She insists a human observer can do things that radar cannot.

As an example, she recalls once seeing a plane that appeared to be in trouble. Later the RCAF air-sea rescue service reported an aircraft missing. She was able to give directions that narrowed the search area. The pilot was found alive.

Another time she heard a faint cry for help. It turned out to be a fisherman who had lost his boat in rough seas and was attempting to swim ashore. He was rescued.

However, she has had her difficulties. She once reported to her superiors in Vancouver that she could not go out to check the exact direction of a passing aircraft because cougars were roaming nearby.

WED 73 YEARS

BUCKINGHAM, Que. (CP)—A double celebration was observed by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lenaghan here. Their 73rd wedding anniversary was also Mrs. Lenaghan's 97th birthday.

Sunday School Picnic

FULL GOSPEL CHURCH S. S.

FRANKFORD — The Frankford Full Gospel annual Sunday School picnic was held on Dominion Day, in Tweed Park, on Stoco Lake.

Cars left the church at 9.15 a.m. and the day's activities began with a softball game. Captains Keith Helm and Austin Watson's teams tieing 11-11.

At 12 noon, all sat down at tables, following the singing of grace, each one enjoyed a sumptuous dinner.

RACES

At 1.30 races began. The winners are:

Mrs. Gerald Curry's class — Earl Chapman and Ruth Elliott; Mrs. Gordon Pierce's class — Cheryl Robinson, and Patti Brown; Mrs. Mary Patrick's class — Bobby Lockwood and Sandra Brown; Mr. Ray Walker's class: potato bag race — Frankie Payne and John Robinson; Miss Marjorie Forbes' class — Betty Ann Lockwood and Janice Lockwood.

Mrs. K. Wright's class: apple race winners — Helen Patrick's team.

Following the races, several Sunday School scholars enjoyed swimming.

All report a good day of fellowship.

Mr., Mrs. Arthur Morden Mark Sixty Years of Married Life

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morden, Wellington, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last Sunday. The weather was perfect, but a little cooler than it was 60 years ago.

They were married June 26th, 1900, in Rochester, N.Y., by the bridegroom's brother, the late Rev. D. M. Morden, BA, BD. DD. The bride was formerly Linda Knight of Rochester.

Mr. Morden is of U.E.L. descent, one of the first vice-presidents of the Quinte Branch. He was born on the 260-acre homestead at Christian Street, where they resided until moving to Wellington in 1954. The farm is now owned by a niece, Mrs. Gwen Trebell.

They have one son, Norman of Kingston. Mr. Morden has one brother, Mr. Clayton Morden of Picton, and Mrs. Morden has two sisters and two brothers in Rochester. Her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Knight were present for the celebration.

ACTIVE CHURCH WORKERS

During the past 60 years they have been active in church work, serving on the church boards and Sunday school organizations, W.M.S., and W.A. of the United Churches at Bowerman's and Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Morden were "At Home" Sunday afternoon, when they welcomed some 114 friends, neighbors, old and new. The rooms were gay with many bouquets of colorful flowers.

Mrs. Hugh East introduced the guests and looked after the signing of the guest book.

The dining room table was covered with a lovely lace cloth and centred with a breath-taking arrangement of gorgeous colored roses (a gift from their niece, Mrs. George Morden's garden), a decorated white three tiered anniversary cake was on the buffet.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were neighbors: Mrs. Leonard Palmer and Mrs. Ida McFaul. Serving the dainty refreshments were relatives and neighbors, Miss Viola Valleau, Miss Dorothy Trebell, Mrs. R. C. Pyne, Mrs. Everett Lavender. Replenishing the plates were: Mrs. Clayton Morden, Mrs. Geo. Morden, Mrs. Beth Morden and Mrs. Gwen Trebell.

MANY GIFTS

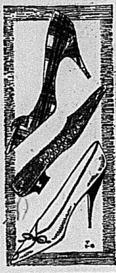
Among the many gifts were two basket chairs from their Wellington neighbors; a lovely white chenille bedspread from the Bowerman's WA and church board. The beautiful flowers were from a neiece in Chicago, Mrs. Evelyn Swanborn; a plant, Mrs. Gertrude Boussum, Normal, Ill.; roses on the coffee table, Rev. and Mrs. Poulter's garden; roses, Mrs. George Morden's garden; bouquet, Mrs. Hugh East's garden; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton; plant, Wellington WA.

There were over 100 cards of congratulations and best wishes from friends far and near.

Also in honor of this happy occasion were greeting from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, Buckingham Palace; Prime Minister Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker, Ottawa; Premier of Ontario, Hon. Leslie Frost, Q.C., Toronto; Mr. Norris Whitney, MPP, Prince Edward-Lennox; Mr. E. J. Chard, Stirling, president of the UEL Association of Canada, Bay of Quinte branch.

This celebration was given by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Morden, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Morden, of Picton.

Pretty Pumps



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Among the new footwear is a pump of brilliant red, yellow and green plaid silk with a fringed buckle at the instep. This one would do a fine job of brightening a dressy all - black costume for a big little evening. Then, for daytime comfort, how about a pump of cool, woven nylon straw in natural color with a small heel of black patent? White silk linen is the fabric for a dressy daytime pump with a narrow piping of black patent which continues down the vamp in a scroll effect with a shoestring tie of the same.

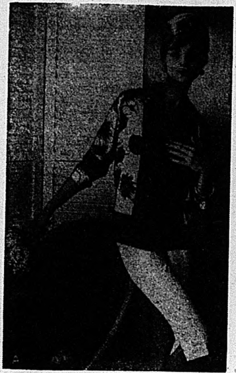
Smart Scarf Top



By ALICE ALDEN

From sunup to sundown, it's the extras that count—the flashing accessory, the jacket that is different, the top that is colorful. One such is this sleek and sophisticated scarf shirt, composed of brilliant scarf-print squares—paisleys, florals, abstracts —ideal topping for skirts or slacks. In this example exotic blooms give an Oriental flavor to a feminine, easy-fitting top that could also serve as a jacket. The solid sections certainly show up the brilliant blossoms to perfection.

Topeka Mental Hospital Gave Idea to Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — The volunteer mental health movement in Manitoba owes its beginning to the grim, fortress-like appearance of the state hospital in Topeka, Kan.

Mrs. Walter Rice of Winnipeg lived in Topeka in 1943.

"I used to pass the hospital but there were never any people around, although there were 2,000 patients inside. It gave me a creepy feeling."

That year three doctors and one registered nurse at the hospital resigned becaus of bad conditions, and newspapers carried stories on the institution which resulted in a reform movement.

Mrs. Rice became part of the volunteer reform group which changed the "fortress" into a hive of activity. She was asked to teach finger painting to the patients.

"FRIGHTENED CATTLE"

Her first class "shuffled in like a herd of frightened cattle," Mrs. Rice said, but within six months they were transformed into interested persons.

When she returned to Winnipeg the following spring she attempted the same thing at the mental hospital at nearby Selkirk.

"I went dashing out to Selkirk to see if they could use volunteers," Mrs. Rice said. "The answer was no. I went to the minister of health. He was sympathetic, but nothing could be done."

Eventually, through the persuasion of friends, relatives and former mental patients the Selkirk hospital superintendent asked for volunteer workers.

MANY CHANGES

At Christmas, 1950, the volunteers obtained gifts for all the hospital patients through a pyramid club scheme. The volunteers called their friends and asked each to donate one small gift, and to make the same request to four others.

Mrs. Rice has seen many changes in attitudes towards mental health since she began her volunteer work, but she believes much more can and should be done.

A psychiatric day centre is needed in Winnipeg and other Manitoba centres, she says, to provide early treatment in non-hospital setting.

Every mental hospital needs its own corps of volunteers serving as an auxiliary.

"Volunteer groups humanize the whole thing."

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last meeting for June and the year of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue, recently.

Before the meeting, a lovely cold plate supper was served by the W.A. of Centre St. mission.

The meeting opened with Sr. Rgt. Nellie Shandraw presiding.

The auditing committee was chosen and are to meet at Nellie Scrymgeour's home on July 5th.

The installation ceremony was read by the installing Rgt., Peg. Jeffery; chaplain — Nora Kiser; chairman — Isobel Phillips; pianist — Dorothy Potter; guide — Gladys Ritch.

The officers of the preceedings year were retired with the new officers taking their stations Sen. Rgt., Bernice Prindle; Jr. Grad. Rgt. — Nellie Shandraw; Jr. Rgt. — Evelyn Rollins; chap. — Selina Isles; recorder — Nellie Scrymgeour; treasurer — Ruby Stapley; Nellie Burd — Sentinel; Annie Young — Guide; Marg. Johnson — assistant Guide; Nellie Burke — chairman; Clara Seames — publicty; Audrey Donnolly — Mooseheart; Pearl Walsh — library; Hilda Whittaker — social service; Georgina Ptolmey — child care; Isobel Phillips — hospital chairman; Barbara Farnsworth — Moosehaven; Edith Meeks — home making; Ruby Morris — membership.

The four draws were won by: Bernice Prindle, Hilda Whittaker, Anne Davidson, Aletha Craighead.

The retiring workers were presented lovely gifts.

CHILLY DUTY

DUNDEE, Scotland (CP)—By nine votes to five, the Angus fire area joint committee decided that women members of the fire corps should be issued with pullovers. The women had complained they were constantly shivering when on night duty.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

ON REMEMBERING NAMES

What is your most precious possession? Your name. Why? Because it is your identity. It means you and all you stand for, not only with your family, but with your friends and acquaintances, business or otherwise.

Because this is true, we all have a warm feeling when an acquaintance has thought us important enough to remember our name at second meeting. I can't think of a more valuable social accomplishment than this ability to remember names. Unfortunately, it's an accomplishment which most of us lack! Many an embarrassing episode occurs just because we won't apply ourselves.

How to go about training oneself in this social grace that pays such big dividends? My mother used the idea of association very successfully. For example, if the name was "Fisher," she would think of a fisherman and be able to tie the name up with the person the next time she saw him. Unfortunately, this system never worked with me! Invariably I'd call him Mr. Mackerel!

A cover-up device which is apt to end in embarrassing confusion is to say, "How do you spell your name?" in a frantic effort to conceal the fact that one has forgotten it. Invariably the name will turn out to be Smith or Jones.

I saw a hostess meet this situation with admirable tact the other evening. When a new arrival, whose name she could not recall, came up to be presented to her group of friends, she greeted her warmly with, "Oh, how do you do, I'm so glad to see you. I want you to meet Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Greene, and Mrs. Smith." Whereupon, one of the latter could be depended upon to say, "I'm sorry, I didn't catch your name." The newcomer should, of course, oblige.

However, the safest course to pursue would seem to be that of training oneself to repeat aloud the name of the person to whom you are being introduced. Say it over a few times in your mind, while trying to pick some characteristic of the person to associate with the name. Make every effort to keep it from going in one ear and out the other.

Regardless of the system you use to train yourself, if you persevere you will become proficient in a social accomplishment that will be worth its weight in gold.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I received a birth announcement recently that really shocked me! It was not only vulgar, it was downright nasty. It certainly wasn't funny. I could not understand it, because the family that sent it usually show good taste. As I am expecting a baby soon, please tell me the right way to send out the announcement, because I'm sure the above mentioned method is not.

Answer: It has always been a mystery to me why some people, who ordinarily display good taste, can lower themselves by sending out some of these so called "funny" announcements. It is so much more appropriate, particularly on this wonderful occasion, to approach the announcement with dignity. There are several ways this may be done.

First, the formal method is to have the child's name and date of birth engraved on a small card which is tied with a small white satin bow to the card on which the name of his parents is engraved. For example: the parents' card would be "Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Proper" and the baby's, "Robert James Proper (and, under the name) June 20, 1960."

A less formal way to handle it is to choose one of the attractive announcement cards that can be obtained at all stationers, on which may appear the picture of a baby with blank lines on which to place your information. These little cards are perfectly proper, but stay away from those that are suggestive in any way.

THE WISDOM OF SILENCE

Plutarch said, "It is a point of wisdom to be silent when occasion requires." Today, many articles are written by learned and brilliant people on the subject of marital dissension and its causes. I certainly do not claim to be either "learned" or "brilliant," but it is my opinion that many arguments between married couples are caused by their failure to follow these wise words of Plutarch. Let's consider the husband's angle today. Later, we will discuss the so-called "better half's" side of the picture.

Remember that there are times when nothing a woman can say will be appreciated by her husband as much as her silence! Here are a few of those times:

When he first wakes up and starts the morning ritual of showering, shaving and dressing, chit-chat about household affairs, Junior's tantrum of the day before, and the fact that the roof has sprung a new leak are best left for later discussion. A cheerful "good morning," then silence at least until after the first cup of coffee is definitely the safest course to pursue.

When he is having trouble repairing the electric mixer, or any household gadget that has broken down, offering bright suggestions will confuse the issue and cause tempers to boil over.

When he is reading the newspaper, listening to a favorite radio commentator; or watching a prize fight on television, silence is more than golden, it's priceless.

When he is discussing his job with someone else, your opinions are definitely unwanted.

When he is playing the role of host, directing his efforts will only result in putting him on the defensive. An embarrassing argument before the guests will undoubtedly be the result.

When he comes home from the office, bemoaning the fact that it has been a hard day, and stretches himself out on the sofa, trying to relax, the urge to question him about what has gone wrong should be stifled, for a time at least. At any time, when he seems to have something on his mind, it is better to wait until the spirit moves him to tell you than to nag him about it.

When he comes home from the office, and all is well, don't greet him by pouring out all of your woes of the day. While he will want to be greeted by the children, make every effort to curtail their deluging him with, "Daddy, can I do this," "Why, Daddy?" and "Daddy, can I have?"

When he is telling a story, and you think you know it better than he does, keep quiet even if he misses the point entirely!

These are just a few suggestions for times when a wise woman will hold her tongue (even if it hurts)!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Peggy N. — I can't stand my parents' fighting.

Mrs. L. N. — She is the trouble-maker!

* * *

Peggy N. — I am 16 and the eldest of four children. My problem is not the usual teenage stuff. It is far more serious.

I am worried about my parents. My mother and father fight all the time and it just drives me crazy. My father usually starts it. He always picks on my mother. He doesn't like to drive, but he keeps finding fault with Mother's driving and picks at her if there is the tiniest scratch on the car. This is just one example. He finds fault with everything she does.

I try to act as peacemaker between my parents, but then they both yell at me and tell me to keep out of it. They don't realize the harm they are doing us children.

* * *

Mrs. L. N. — Peggy is the real troublemaker in the family! My husband and I do squabble occasionally, but to say we fight all the time is ridiculous!

It is true my husband has always had a tendency to pick on me for little things and complain about decisions I make, but he has been worse than ever since Peggy has been putting in her two cents. He used to just throw up his hands and say he wanted to forget the whole thing. Now he harps on one small thing for weeks.

I have tried to explain to Peggy that occasional squabbles between husband and wife don't amount to anything, but she can't seem to understand. The younger children never pay the slightest attention to us.

* * *

The Council: The problem in this case is not the squabbles in themselves, but what they represent to Peggy.

Peggy, like any normal 16-year-old, seeks an image in her father of the man who will someday be her husband. She would like him to be strong, manly, protective, a person to respect. Instead she finds a man who must resort to petty bickering to have some say in family life.

This father appears to have handed over the reins of the family life to his strong-minded wife. Possibly he is ashamed for having done so. Undoubtedly he is resentful at having to take the back seat — and the car has become a fitting symbol of the situation. He frankly admits he does not like to do the driving, but he can't preserve his self-respect by taking a completely passive role in the matter.

Although Peggy takes her mother's side, we suspect that she would much prefer to see her father in the driver's seat. Of course, it is quite unimportant who actually drives the car, but it is important that the father assume an active role as head of the family.

After many years of acting as head of the family, Mrs. L. N. may find it difficult to learn to discuss things with her husband first and let him make the decisions occasionally. It won't be easy for Mr. L. N. either, but the effort should be made to achieve a better male-female balance in this home.

As the oldest child, Peggy is more sensitive to the relationship between her parents than the younger sisters and brothers. Yet they are undoubtedly affected as well.

Women's Activities

MISSION BAND MEETS

RAWDON — The Sunbeam Mission Band convened in Mount Pleasant Church Hall on Sunday morning with 27 children in attendance.

Joyce Cooney opened with a flower hymn of thanks and all repeated "The Mission Band Purpose" and sang the theme, "Little Sunbeams". Barbara Williams gave her report, and also played a piano solo.

Karen Summers gathered the offering which was dedicated by saying "The Lord's Prayer".

Kalvin Sharp read the Bible and Sally McAdam gave the prayer.

Mrs. Harry McAdam read a few items of interest and synopsized the study chapter based on the story of Kamba and his experiences at the Johannesburg Gold Mines in the Union of South Africa.

Carolyn Merrick played a piano solo, and Joyce Cooney sang a solo. Jean Sharpe and Sally McAdam played a piano duet. The service closed with a children's hymn.

The next meeting will be held July 13 at the church hall when the Woman's Missionary Society holds their annual family party. The children will provide the program.

To Be Frank — It Is Wiener Time

by Mary Moore

Complaints: 1) "Mary, I love reading your recipes. I take the paper to bed and read it before "lights out" But frankly many of your recipes are too expensive for my tight budget. 2) "Mary, I know you give us lots of economical recipes, but still there are not enough down-to-earth cheap foods in your column."

Now what's to do? I think I harp on economy until you are fed up to the teeth with my saving ways.

So today I'm dwelling on wieners. I am imagining that many of these wieners will be cooked out-of-doors, but all of the recipes may be adapted to your kitchen stove and served at your dining-room table indoors.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

OUT - OR - INDOORS BARBECUED WIENERS:

One cup catsup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce. Mix ingredients. Dip one or two pounds wieners in sauce before grilling over out-door fire or under hot broiler.

CORPORAL'S BUNS:

To serve 6 people two each you will need 12 wiener buns, split and toasted, 12 fat broiled wieners, salad dressing, pickle or dill slices, catsup, process cheese cut into long strips. Spread each bun with salad dressing. Cover the bottom half with pickle slices, then a broiled wiener. Top with catsup. Place 2 strips of cheese diagonally over each wiener. Broil just until cheese melts, clap on the top and serve at once.

WIENERS AND CHEESY RICE:

Lightly toss 4 cups hot cooked rice with 1-4 cup each minced parsley and green onions and 1 cup grated old Cheddar cheese. Turn onto hot platter and arrange wieners, which have been heated in hot water, on top. Serve with Mustard Sauce made by blending 1-2 teaspoon each prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce and a dash of cayenne into 1 cup medium white sauce.

WIENER BEANERY:

To serve six to 2 cans of pork and beans add 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 1 cup canned or fresh chopped tomatoes. Turn into large casserole. Arrange over top one pound wieners that have been cut into 1" pieces. Bake in oven of 350 deg. F. until wieners are browned and beans are bubbling. Good with cole slaw, dills and thick slices of fresh, buttered French bread.

Students whose names appear in the Honours groups have obtained an average of at least 75 per cent on the aggregate and not less than 50 per cent in any subject.

Where a subject is listed in brackets following a student's name it indicates that the student has failed in this subject. In the case of Ancient History, Geometry, Physics, French, Latin and Spanish in Grade XI he will be required to repeat the subject. In other cases he will be allowed to proceed to the work of the next Grade and will be expected to exert extra effort in the subject.

Pupils who have completed satisfactorily the work of Grades VII, VIII, IX and X will be awarded an Intermediate Certificate. Requirements for this certificate in the General Course include completion of Grade X courses in English, Social Studies, Health and Physical Education, and at least four of the optional subjects: Mathematics, Science, French, Latin, Art or Music, Shop Work or Home Economics, or Commercial Work.

Students who have failed to obtain clear promotion are invited to discuss their programme of studies for next year with the Principal or Director of Guidance during the first week in July or last week in August.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Romeo-Juliet love affair of the Dodgers and the Flatbush Faithful is not dead—just dormant. It came to life with startling suddenness the other day when the "Bums" played an exhibition tilt with the Bronx Bombers in Yankee Stadium.

Peever should have been there. The crocodile tears would have rolled down his Dodger-scarred cheeks and cascaded over his midriff.

A story from New York says some 53,000 turned out for the fray and if the decibel content was any criterion, 50,000 of them were from the banks of the fragrant Gowanus. "The joint was jumping with 'em and there could be no mistaking the object of their affections — the Dodgers."

They rooted furiously for strangers in Dodger uniforms. But when an old favorite, like Gil Hodges, or the "Dook" Snider flicked a muscle, they split the air with raucous glee, rang cowbells and whooped it up with no restraint.

The story said: "The lovesick Brooklynites were out there to root for the Dodger Rogers. No one bothered to root for the Yankees."

Their love is so imperishable they'd even welcome back Walter O'Malley on a permanent basis.

There were thunderous cheers when Snider, the idolized "Dook", singled in each of his first two times at bat. The rafters reverberated when the even more popular Hodges doubled in the second and tripled in the winning run in the seventh. Gil boomed one to the race track in deepest centre and was out at the plate trying for an inside-the-park homer.

It may have been the first time in baseball history that a ballplayer received a standing ovation for getting thrown out at the plate. To the love-blind Brooklynites, the Dodgers could do no wrong.

The sedate Yankee Stadium hasn't seen such a madhouse since the Dodgers last played the Yankees in the 1956 world series.

That was the year this agent mingled with the Flatbush faithful in venerable Ebbet's Field—and the elite of the Bronx in Yankee Stadium.

That was the year of Gilliam, Reese, Snider, Robison, Hodges, Furillo, Campanello, Amaros and never-to-be-forgotten Barber Sal Maglie who hurled that 5-3 victory in the series opener.

That was the game "Ike" toured the infield, heading a fleet of Cadillacs and a crew of secret service men. The Duke of Windsor was there. And the "guys in do goider seats" shrilled "Go home yuh dam Yankees" when the Bombers trotted on the field.

The Dodger Symfony gargled off-chord "melodies" from their bandstand in an upper tier. Three hundred newsmen were there from 27 countries. We sat between a sports editor from Panama and a poker-faced Japanese from Tokyo.

"We salute the press," shouted a gravel-voiced public address system announcer, "They are here from 27 nations and Joisey City."

"We salute the President of the United States (cheers), also his challenger, Mr. Adlai Stevenson (louder cheers. It was election year). Also the leader of the third party. I forget his name, but he's sitting in the bleachers," went on the announcer.

The steel "goiders" of ancient Ebbet's rocked with the thunder of the faithful when their beloved Bums trotted on the field to open the game. There was a graveyard silence when Yogi Berra blasted one into Bedford Avenue, driving home Mickey Mantle who had singled ahead of him.

But the "goiders" bent nearly double in the second inning when Jackie Robinson homered, Hodges singled and Furillo doubled to tie the score. The thunder crashed in ear-splitting detonations in the third when Hodges' homer sent home Reese and Snider who had hit safely ahead of him. That was the ball game. The Barber had covered himself with glory.

Perhaps the foam-topped schupers were raised again in the bistros from Greenpernt to Canarsie the other day when the exhibition victory against the "hated Yankees" brought waves of nostalgia.

And perhaps the faithful returned home and put candles in the window, just in case Mr. O'Malley would ever be willing to bring the "Bums" back where they belong. It's quite a love story.

Quinte Trap And Gun Club

Doug Johnston, J. Shortt and J. Walsh turned in perfect scores of 25 during the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's regular shoots this past week.

Johnston had his 25 on Sunday, followed by C. McCoy, 22; R. Rosatte, 22; R. McKinnon, 22; Denny Rosatte, 21 and Jackie Wardhaugh, 20.

Divers Retain Tower Titles

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Irene Macdonald of Hamilton and Ernie Meissner of Kitchener retained their Canadian tower diving titles Saturday at the Canadian championship and Olympic diving trials.

Meissner had 153.52 points to win by more than 30 points.

Meissner and Miss Macdonald will now take part in the Canadian springboard diving championships at Winnipeg in efforts to qualify for the Olympic Games.

Yankees Stretch Lead; Tribe Hops Birds

Maris, Mantle 'M' for Murder

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Is it time to dust off the old refrain, "Break up the Yankees?"

With Casey Stengel's crew on a six-game winning streak and New York's American baseball League lead now measuring three games, there is a suspicion that you have seen all this before.

Perhaps Baltimore can steady itself. Perhaps Cleveland is ready to make its move. Maybe Chicago is ready to play 1959 brand ball. But there is no "perhaps" about the Yanks on this July 4th.

Cletis Boyer won Sunday's first game with Detroit 7-6 with a three - run homer and Roger Maris saved it with a clothes line peg to the plate. Mickey Mantle won the second game 6-2 with another three-run homer while Art Ditmar took charge of the Tiger batters.

Cleveland bounded into second place on the strength of two victories over Washington, 3-2 and 11-5, as Baltimore was losing to Chicago 2-1 in 11 innings. Rounding out the Sunday schedule was Ted Williams' 506th home run in Boston's 13-2 rout of Kansas City.

On Saturday the Yanks beat Detroit by another 7-6 score, Kansas City walloped Boston 10-6, Cleveland shellacked Washington 12-2 and Chicago edged Baltimore 8-7.

BOMBARD FENCES

The Yanks have won 23 of their last 28 since Maris and Mantle began to bombard the league fences. They came from behind in the first game and then fought off a ninth-inning rally by the Tigers. After Maris threw out Casey Wise, trying to score from second on a single, Detroit kept going and loaded the bases with two out, Ryne Duren, third Yank pitcher of the inning, wrapped it up by striking out Charlie Maxwell.

Art Ditmar had things well in control in the second game after Mantle's three-run homer in the fifth. It was Mantle's 19th of the year, No. 299 of his career and the Yanks' 93rd of the season.

Woody Held and Harvey Kuenn hit homers during a four-run first inning by Cleveland that beat Washington in the opener. Vic Power drove in four runs in the second game with two singles with the bases full. Johnny Briggs, finally getting a start after 14 relief jobs, won the second. Jim Perry took the first.

SIEVERS BANGS 'EM

Roy Sievers was the big man for the White Sox at Baltimore. Jack Fisher had a no-hitter for 5 2-3 innings and a shutout until the seventh. Then Sievers hit his ninth homer into the left field bleachers. In the 11th Sievers scored from first when outfielder Jim Busby made an error on Sherm Lollar's single.

Gerry Staley, working two hitless, scoreless innings in relief of Herb Score, won his eighth. Score allowed only five hits, including Gus Triandos' homer, in nine innings, walked six and struck out five.

Williams, near 42, moved closer to Mel Ott's total of 511 homers, third behind Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig on the all-time list. Ted drove Dick Hall's first pitch into the right field pavilion in the fifth. Vic Wertz hit a three-run homer and Willie Tasby a grand slammer for the Sox. Norm Siebern slammed on for Kansas City. Ike Delock, making his first appearance since his three-day suspension for making an objectionable gesture, was the winner.

Wins Over Detroit

Harvard Takes Thames Cup

HENLEY-on-THAMES (CP)—For the third straight year, Harvard University's lightweight crew has captured one of rowing's top trophies—the Thames Challenge Cup.

Dog - tired but magnificent, Harvard decisively defeated the Detroit Boat Club Saturday by 1½ lengths in the all-American final of the competition in which 39 hopeful crews started last Wednesday.

Harvard's time over the one mile, 550 - yard course on the River Thames, was six minutes, 47 seconds.

A smartly-dressed crowd estimated at 30,000—making Henley a fashion parade as well as a regatta — gave polite, impartial cheers to the U.S. crews.

CLOSE CALLS

On the first day Harvard had to break the Henley Thames Challenge Cup record to defeat the Isis Boat Club of Britain.

Kent school gave Harvard another tough race and on Saturday Harvard had to race twice. It defeated the eight of Britain's Tideway Scullers' School earlier in the day.

Harvard's three wins in a row has been matched only once before, by the Thames Rowing Club in 1872-73-74.

The chief British event Saturday was the final competition for the Grand Challenge Cup, senior trophy of the regatta.

It was won by the Molesey Boat Club in a terrific race with the Oxford University Boat Club. The Oxford oarsmen moved into the final by defeating the heavyweight crew of Yale University.

NEW-TYPE OARS

Both the British crews used the new broad and stubby oars, and American coaches watched the performance with interest.

The Diamond Challenge Sculls competition was a duel between Stuart A. MacKenzie, an Australian rowing for the Leander Club of Henley, and Theodore Kocerka of Poland. MacKenzie glided in half a length ahead in 8:03.

B. Mounereau and R. Duhamel, of Rouen, France, were beaten in the Double Sculls Challenge Cup by British oarsmen G. Justicz and N. J. Brikmyre in the record time of 7:17.

Dress Sells Player 'Short'

WIMBLEDON, ngland (AP)—Darlene Hard staged Wimbledon's biggest sensation in the dying moments of the tournament Saturday night by walking off the centre court without permission at a critical point of the mixed doubles final.

The reason for the California girl's sudden exit in defiance of the rules came out at a press conference 45 minutes after Darlene and Australia's Rod Laver had won the championship by defeating Maria Bueno of Brazil and Bob Howe, another Australian, 13-11, 3-6, 8-6.

Col. John Legg, the Wimbledon referee, explained:

"Miss Hard's dress had become maladjusted."

Howe and Miss Bueno were leading 5-2 in the final set when Darlene strode off. She came back to a cheer from the crowd —but from then on Maria seemed to lose her touch and her concentration.

"Maria was mad as heck," Howe said afterwards.

The loss of the match deprived Miss Bueno of a rare Wimbledon triple—the women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles titles.

Bucs Lose Weekend Pair To 'Bums'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Pirates beware! It ain't necessarily so that the 4th of July leader wins th National League pennant. Just ask Billy Rigny. He had his San Francisco Giants on top last year at this time and you know what he is doing now.

Dave Grote, the National League's publicist-historian, reports that 60 per cent of the Independence Day leaders make it all the way into the world series.

But last year San Francisco was first, Milwaukee was second and Los Angeles, the eventual winner, was third on July 4.

Pittsburgh lost a game of its lead Sunday when they bowed to Los Angeles Dodgers' Don Drysdale 6-2 while Milwaukee edged St. Louis 4-3 in 14 innings. The Braves now trail by 3½ games. San Francisco closed to within 5½ games of the top by thumping Philadelphia Phillies 11-5. Chicago Cubs got out of the cellar by topping Cincinnati Reds 7-5.

Los Angeles downed the Pirates 6-1 Saturday and Cincinnati walloped Chicago 13-6. Milwaukee lost 7-1 to St. Louis and San Francisco lost to Philadelphia 3-2.

SEVEN-HITTER

Drysdale had lost six straight before he finally knocked off the Pirates with a seven-hitter. His mates blasted Vinegar Bend Mizell in a four-run third inning.

Del Crandall's infield hit with the bases loaded and two out in the 14th did the job for the Braves at St. Louis. Singles by Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock and a walk had loaded the bases.

Earlier the Braves' Billy Bruton hit his sixth homer and Hank Aaron added No. 20 and No. 21. Rookie Don Nottebart got his first major league victory with 3 2-3 innings of scoreless relief. Larry Jackson was the loser.

Willie Mays had a spectacular day for the Giants with his 17th homer, triple, two singles, a walk, four runs batted in and his 19th stolen base. He now has hit safely in the last 17 games. His batting average is .369.

NEEDS RELIEF AID

Despite the hitting by Mays and homers by Felipe Alou and Bob Schmidt, Sam Jones needed relief help from Mike McCormick to nail down his 10th victory. Chris Short was the loser.

The Giants held a pre-game meeting after it was reported manager Tom Sheehan caught several of his men violating the curfew Saturday night.

Ron Santo, Chicago's rookie third baseman, never will forget Sunday, July 3. He hit his first big league homer with two on in the first inning of the game with Cincinnati. Harry Anderson and Wally Post homered for the losers. It was Post's sixth home run in the last seven games. Glen Hobbie was the winner over bridegroom Jim O'Toole, who was married Saturday.

Leafs Extend Margin to Nine Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's league-leading Maple Leafs have ballooned their bulge in the International League pennant race to nine games and thrown the race for playoff berths into a wide-open scramble.

The Leafs continued to move ahead Sunday, rapping third-place Richmond 3-1 and 5-0, while the runner - up Buffalo Bisons broke out of a five-game losing streak.

The Bisons, 3½ games in front of the Virginians, beat Miami 4-3, then settled for a 6-6 tie with the Marlins in the nightcap, suspended to let Miami catch a plane.

The fifth-place Rochester Red Wings moved within a half-game of fourth - place Havana by thumping the Sugar Kings 8-1 and 8-6. Columbus took both ends of a doubleheader with Montreal 9-5 and 4-0.

Saturday, Toronto blanked Richmond 2-0, Miami beat Buffalo 8-4 and Havana walloped Rochester 10-6 in the only games scheduled.

Catcher Tim Thompson wielded a strong bat for the Maple Leafs in the opener, tying the game 1-1 in the third inning with a homer and knocking in the winning pair in the seventh with a double. Rip Coleman (2-3) went the distance against the Vees, scattering eight hits. Zach Monroe (5-8) lost it.

Then righthander Frank Funk (5-2) spun a three-hitter while the Leafs got him the only run they needed off loser Art Ceccarelli (3-3) in the fourth on a single by Sparky Anderson, an infield out and Allan Jones' sacrifice fly.

Home runs by Buffalo's Don Landrum, Joe Lonnett and Bobby Morgan paved the way for Art Mahaffey's ninth win against five defeats.

Solly Drake's three-run homer and a two-run shot by Fred Hopke brought the Bisons a tie in the seventh inning of the second game. Drake also homered in the sixth.

Willard Schmidt (3-0) pitched a three-hitter for Rochester's first-game triumph, but lost his shutout when Lou Jackson homered in the sixth.

Ben Mateosky tripled home the clinching tallies as the Wings rallied with a four-run sixth to take the nightcap from the Sugar Kings.

A two-run homer by Dick Barone, a three-run triple by Roman Mejias and a triple by Johnny Powers paced the Jets' 12-hit attack in the opener.

At Wimbledon

Champions Won't Turn Pro

WIMBLEDON, England (CP)—The 1960 Wimbledon championship, possibly the last the amateurs will have to themselves, has ended with both champions announcing firmly that they won't turn professional.

Modern practice for some years has been for the new champion either to announce he or she is turning professional, or to act coy and refuse to confirm any rumors.

But this year it's different.

Australia's Neale Fraser, 26, who added the Wimbledon title to his United States crown, said he hadn't had any pro offers and didn't intend to take them up if he did.

Furthermore, he added firmly, in his opinion Wimbledon was going to stay strictly for the amateurs, no matter what the International Lawn Tennis Federation decides about open tournaments in Paris this week.

Maria Bueno, 20, the Brazilian bombshell who won the women's title for the second straight year, admitted she has had pro offers, but "I'm going to stay amateur —and I hope to play here next year as an amateur."

TURNED PRO

The last four men's champions here: Tony Trabert, Lew Hoad, Ashley Cooper and Alex Olmedo, have all joined Jack Kramer's play-for-pay squad. Althea Gibson, who won the women's crown in 1957 and 1958, followed Pauline Betz Addy, Doris Hart and Maureen Connolly into the pro ranks.

Miss Bueno nearly pulled off the rare feat of winning all three titles but lost in the mixed doubes when she and Bob Howe of Austraia were downed by Miss Hard and Austraian Rod Laver 13-11, 3-6, 8-6.

In the men's doubles Dennis Ralston of the U.S. teamed with Mexican Rafael Osuna to defeat Mike Davies and Bobby Wilson of Britain 7-5, 6-3, 10-8.

Sheehan Slaps Curfew on 'Playful' Team

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Baseball, late hours and high - stake card games don't mix in Tom Sheehan's book. As a result, the San Francisco Giants manager has slapped a curfew on the team.

Sheehan laid down the law to his players Sunday in a lecture just before a game with Philadelphia Phillies. His orders: Be in the hotel two hours after night games on the road.

Sheehan indicated he had caught several players coming in late after Saturday night's game here against the Phillies. He said he was also concerned about high stake card games.

Sheehan didn't single out any individuals, but writers travelling with the club said Willie McCovey was the principal transgressor. McCovey, rookie of the year in 1959, has been a big disappointment this season at the plate as well as at first base.

Weekend Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Willie Mays, San Francisco Giants, stretched consecutive hitting streak to 17 games with homer, triple and two singles in 11-5 romp over Philadelphia Phillies. Also drove in four runs and stole a base, his 10th.

Pitching: Don Drysdale, Los Angeles Dodgers, broke no-winning streak stretching back to May 25 by holding league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates to seven hits for 6-2 victory.

MANY TONGUES

India's 408,000,000 population speak 179 languages and 544 dialects, English being one of 15 major tongues recognized for official use.

Many Honor Memory of Frank Patrick

VANCOUVER (CP) — This bustling seaport city bade a quiet farewell Sunday to one of Canada's all-time hockey greats, as less than 100 relatives, former hockey stars, newspaper men and citizens attended Memorial services for Frank Patrick.

Patrick, 74, died June 29 from a heart ailment that had confined him to hospitals much of the last decade. His death came exactly four weeks after that of his brother, Lester, 76, who died of cancer in Victoria June 1.

Patrick's body was sent to Victoria following the service in St. Andrew's Wesley United Church here and he was buried in the family plot alongside Lester.

Both brothers were members of Canada's Hockey Hall of Fame and were credited with many of the rule and tactical changes in the game.

Weather, Course Ideal

388 Tee Off In 100th British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) —Qualifying for the British open golf championship started promptly today in both the old and new courses in ideal weather conditions.

Three local Scots, two of them amateurs, started the parade of 388 entries on the famed old course while two Britons and a German had the honor of opening up at the new course just down the road.

A gentle breeze came off the bay, scarcely rippling the leaves of the trees and the sun made itself felt through a light overcast.

The great field, headed by U.S. champion Arnold Palmer, defending British champion Gary Player of South Africa and four-time winner Peter Thomson of Australia, could have asked nothing better in way of conditions.

The schedule is rugged. For two days the big field will have to compete in qualifying rounds over 36 holes for 100 places in the actual 72-hole title play. Single rounds Wednesday and Thursday reduce the field further to 50 for the 36-hole final Friday.

Goes Fishing And Gets Paid for It

GANANOQUE (CP) — An enterprising 10 - year - old has the job most small boys dream about. He goes fishing every day and gets paid for it.

Gregory Westwood slipped unnoticed into rehearsals for Gananoque 1960, a water musical scheduled to open here July 6. He noted that one scene called for two men, dozing on a raft to catch a fish and promptly suggested to the management that they employ him to catch the fish for them.

The show had planned to use plastic fish, but organizers were intrigued by the opportunity to add some realism to the scene. Gregory came back with a lawyer and a contract was drawn up.

Under the contract, Gregory is to supply two fish a day, one for the matinee and one for the evening performance. He will receive $5 a week. So far he has no problem fulfilling his part of the bargain for rehearsals. He also has landed a big role as an Indian boy.

Gananoque 1960 features the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club. If the show is a success the management plans to make it an annual event — which should keep Gregory Westwood in summer pocket money for a few more years.

Juniors Down Shannonville By 13-3 Score

By PETER CARVER

Despite the fact they committed nine errors the Belleville Juniors clustered four runs in the fourth, seventh and eighth innings and added one in the third to defeat Shannonville 13-3 yesterday.

The losers plated single runs in the sixth, eighth, and ninth innings.

Glenn Dainard went all the way in the winning cause allowing seven hits, walking three and whiffing five.

The Juniors touched three Shannonville hurlers for twelve hits. Dave Lewis started and took the loss whiffing one and walking one. Hill came on in the seventh, followed by Reid in the eighth and then Hill again halfway through the same inning.

An error in the third and Soden's long double gave Belleville a one run lead. In the fourth Follwell singled advanced on two ground balls and scored by an error. Mavety on board by an error and Moxon hit by the pitcher, scored on Goyer's hard triple. Goyer scored on a wild pitch to up the lead to 5-0.

Three singles, a walk and Soden's triple accounted for four more Belleville runs in the seventh.

Dafoe's double and two singles accounted for Shanonville's first run in the sixth. In the eighth three Belleville errors and a walk plated another run.

Goyer and Clapp were hit by the pitcher, a single, a walk and Soden's second triple accounted for the Juniors' last four runs. A double and three errors scored Shannonville's last run in the ninth.

Soden with two triples and single, Goyer with a triple and Clapp and Kellar with two hits each were the best for Belleville.

Stewart connected for two singles, while Dafoe had a double in the losing cause.

Aussie Wins Grand Prix

REIMS, France (AP) — World champion Jack Brabham of Australia won the Reims Grand Prix auto race in record time Sunday and moved into a tie for the lead in the world driving title with Bruce McLaren of New Zealand.

Brabham roared his Cooper to the finish by half a lap over the second - place Cooper Climax driven by Belgium's Olivier Gendebien. McLaren came in third, also in a Cooper. All shattered the old record of 130 miles an hour set last year by Tony Brooks of Britain in a Ferrari.

Brabham's winning speed was 131.7 miles an hour and he also set a lap record of 135 m.p.h.

TORONTO (CP) — Harness racing is to begin at Old Woodbine Raceway tonight following settlement of a jurisdictional dispute, between the Ontario Racing Commission and the Canadian Trotting Association, which forced cancellation of last Friday's scheduled opening.

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, ORC chairman, and J. Hugh Proudfoot,, of Port Coulogne, Que., CTA president, announced the agreement Saturday.

Agreement followed a meeting of the four commission members and the association directors. The two groups will meet today to work out details.

Last Friday the CTA forced cancellation of the card that was to open the 53 - day meet by threatening to suspend horsemen who competed.

OVER DIRECTIVE

The dispute arose from an 88-point ORC directive which set out rules and regulations for harness racing. In recent years Woodbine races have been held under CTA rules.

ORC regulations resembled CTA rules in many respects, but some of the regulations would have given power to the commission.

The Jockey Club, which operates harness racing at Old Woodbine, said the card scheduled for Friday will be raced tonight and the card which should have been raced Saturday will be raced Tuesday.

ANCIENT ISLAND

Settlers from mainland China first moved to the island of Formosa about the 6th century.

Americans May Find Trouble At Olympics

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Although a weekend tryout showed that the United States has assembled a strong, fast track and field team for the Olympic Games, the 1960 squad may have trouble winning as many as the 15 medals taken by the U.S. in Australia in 1956.

It won't be Russia that will cut into American strength, as much as a variety of stars from such places as South Africa, The West Indies, Germany, Poland, and Australia.

Two world champions appear to have medals in the bank. There is no one to challenge the incredibly consistent John Thomas of Boston University, who raised his high jump world record to seven feet 3¾ inches, and Don Bragg who pole-vaulted 15-9¼ for another record.

And Pincus Sober of New York, chairman of the Olympic track committee, thinks the U.S. has a chance in such hitherto lightly considered events as the hop, step, jump (Ira Davis won the trials in 53-1½), 5,000 metres (Jim Beatty, 14:13.6), and 1,500 metres (Dyrol Burleson, 3:46.9).

"A great team, this, but the individual competition will be mighty tough. I don't dare hope for 15 gold medals."

BUY RELIEVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators have purchased relief pitcher Rudy Hernandez from their Charleston, W.Va., farm club of the American Association. To make room for Hernandez, the Senators assigned the contract of righthander Dick Hyde to Miami of the International League.

They Should Hear Some Baseball Fans

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —Millions of British television viewers were shocked Friday when a voice uttered the sort of words one doesn't associate with staid Wimbledon or the equally staid British Broadcasting Corporation.

A couple of the words were short, sharp and very Anglo-Saxon.

"Well, that's that," said the commentator.

But it wasn't.

"For — sake, boy,— off."

The BBC said it wasn't one of its commentators or engineers. The phrase picked up by one of the microphones apparently was aimed at a ball boy who dodged on to the court while groundsmen pulled the covers into position.

FOUR TIED

FLINT, Mich. (CP) — Four players were tied for the leadership at the end of the third round Sunday of the Flint $52,000 open golf tournament. Gen Littler, Gary Brewer, Mason Rudolph and Don January all had 212 for 54 holes. Gerry Magee of Toronto has a card of 74-69-72—215, and Stan Leonard, Vancouver 74-71-71 —216 while Bob Panasiuk of Windsor was fourth in a field of nine amateurs with 235.

Floyd Patterson Stitch Named Boxers of Month

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — the world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, who regained the championship with his knockout of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, and the late Rudolph Stitch of Louisville, ranking welterweights before his death by drowning while trying to save the life of a friend, are honored as boxers-of-the-month in the June ratings of the National Boxing Association.

Sonny Liston of Philadelphia held the No. 1 spot behind the champion in the heavyweight division while Johansson dropped to No. 2 position.

Edmonton's Willie Greaves took seventh position in the middleweight class as a result of his conquest of Nigeria's Dick Tiger for the British Empire middleweight crown.

Swimmers Set 23 Records at Outdoor Meet

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-three outdoor swimming records were set at the new 55 - yard Thames Park pool here Saturday at the Ontario senior and age group outdoor swimming championships.

Ten Canadian and 13 Ontario records were shattered and three combined Canadian and Ontario marks were established in events in which records did not previously exist.

All but one of the records were recorded in the age group classifications with two 10-year-olds leading the way with two combined Canadian and Ontario records each.

They were Louise Kennedy of London who smashed Ontario and Canadian standards in the girls 10 and under 55-yard backstroke and 55-yard breaststroke events and Jim Shaw, Toronto Aquatic Club, who set provincial and Dominion records in the boys 10 and under 55-yard backstroke and 55-yard freestyle.

Other combined Canadian and Ontario record-breakers included Sara Barber of Brantford with a time of 1:14.1 in the women's 110-yard backstroke.

The Ontario three-metre diving championships held in conjunction with the swim meet were won by Judy Shoaf of Etobicoke Georg Huovinn of Toronto's University Settlement in the men's section.

Brantford was fourth with 104 and Galt was ninth with 11 points.

WORLD RECORD

She was Ludmilla Shevtsova-Lysenko, who ran the course, a gruelling one for women, in 2:04.3. The old world record of 2:05 was held by Nina Otkalenko, also of Russia.

Iolanda Balas of Romania, holder of the women's high jump world record, again cleared six feet. She has a leap of 6-0¾ awaiting ratification.

FRASER LOSES

SCHEVENINGEN, The Netherlands (Reuters)—Neale Fraser, Australian lefthander who won the Wimbledon men's singles title Friday, was beaten in straight sets Sunday by Barry Mackay of the United States in an exhibition lawn tennis match here. Mackay won 6-3, 6-4.

PITCHER TO BISONS

BUFFALO (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies have assigned Al Neiger, 21, a lefthander, to Buffalo Bisons of the International League. Neiger was with Williamsport of the Eastern League where he had a 8-3 record.

WAS FAMED CATCHER

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Bill Killefer, famed major league catcher of yesteryear, died Saturday night aged 72. Killefer was part of the famous Philadelphia Phillies battery with the late Grover Cleveland Alexander when the Phils won their first National League pennant in 1915. Their sale to Chicago Cubs for $60,000 in 1917 made headlines. Killefer later managed the Cubs and the old St. Louis Browns.

DEVOTION

BY BOB HESKETH

Man's devotion to golf, often to the exclusion of all else, is illustrated in this story about the chap who had just winged one off the first tee in an awesome slice. The ball entered the open window of a passing car.

The car stopped and the driver came storming back to the golfer who was standing on the tee studying his grip.

"You just hit a ball," he said, "that came right through my car window and knocked my wife senseless. Now what are you going to do about it?"

"I think," said the golfer, still looking at his grip, "that I'll just turn my right hand over a bit and see if that straightens out that slice . . ."

The Firemen Were Burned up In This Case

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—King Solomon had an easy problem compared with the one tossed in Superior Court Judge Nelson K. Mintz's lap Friday.

All Solomon had to do was determine the rightful mother of a child claimed by two women.

Mintz has to decide how to divide a Cadillac among 37 firemen.

The firefighters chipped in $2 each to buy a $100 car raffle ticket for a charity sponsored by the Rotary Club. They donated the extra $14 to the club.

On May 20 a drawing was held and the firemen won.

Judge Mintz urged the firemen to try to get together on a sale and report back to him July 12.

CIRCULATION UP

CHICAGO (AP)—Daily newspaper circulation in the United States and Canada has risen to a record high of 63,534,551 copies per average issue. The figure was obtained in a study by the Audit Bureau of Circulations over a six-month period ended March 31, 1960. It is an average of morning, evening and all-day edition figures.

Records Topple At Canadian Track Meet

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—Records toppled like tenpins Friday and Saturday when some of Canada's top track and field athletes met in the St. Lambert Legion's annual meet, one of the largest affairs in the country.

Three Canadian open records were broken Saturday and a total of 22 Quebec provincial open marks were established.

They were checking the weight of the javelin thrown by young John Metras of London, Ont., a distance of 195 feet, three and one-half inches—a Canadian open record in the junior class. The former record was 186 feet, six and one-half inches.

The butcher's scales showed the javelin to be more than a quarter-ounce over the required one pound, 12¼ ounces.

Sandra Barr, a tall 14-year-old from St. Stephen, N.B., cleared the bar in the midget girls' high jump at four feet, 10½ inches, a half-inch better than the record height for all girls' classes under senior.

A juvenile boys' relay team from the Toronto Olympic Club ran the 880-yard relay in one minute, 32.6 seconds, 1.4 seconds under the present open mark, but the time may not stand as a record since an 880-yard mark of 1.32.4 turned in by a Windsor Legion juvenile team June 4 is awaiting confirmation.

Venetian Way 'The Winnah'

NEW YORK (CP) — Venetian Way, with Eddie Arcaro in the saddle, equalled the track record in winning the $46,650 Warren Wright Memorial at Chicago's Washington Park Saturday.

Run for Nurse put on a great drive to press the winner at the wire. Heroshogala was third and Hillsborough fourth. Venetian Way ($3.40) ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:48 1-5.

At Hollywood Park, Silver Spoon ($3.40) won the $38,450 Vanity Handicap. Johnny Longden piloted the four - year - old daughter of Citation to win by a length or more over Tritoma, with Honeys Gem third.

Bovine Comedy ($14.90) won his first rich race of the year in the 53rd running of the $27,950 Saranac Handicap at Aqueduct. John William was second and Brush Fire third.

Alhambra ($18.20) won the $28,650 Rumson Handicap at Monmouth Park with Seven Corners second and Tempted third.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — Navy Wun, ignored by a crowd of 16,135, hung the initial defeat on Victoria Park's half sister, Victoria Regina, in the 35th running of the $7,500 added Clarendon Stakes at the New Woodbine Park Saturday. Navy Wun paid $81.80 to win.

Hidden Treasure won the day's co - featured Woodstock Stakes, clocking a rapid 1:10 flat for the six furlongs.

SUES CBC

MONTREAL (CP) — Accra Investments Co. Ltd., a Montreal real estate agency, has launched a $287,000 damage action against the CBC on grounds that the corporation improperly backed out of a studio-building project last year.

177 Tee Off In Record Canadian Open

By MILT MacPHAIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A field of 177, many of them Americans celebrating their Independence Day, was to tee off here today in the first-ever qualifying round for the $27,000 Canadian open golf championship.

The low 40 scorers and ties from the 18-hole scramble over the 35-37 par 72 St. George's Club course join 110 automatic qualifiers for the tournament proper starting Wednesday and continuing through Saturday.

Today's qualifying play, first in the 50year history of the Open, was made necessary when the Royal Canadian Golf Association received a record entry that topped 250. Eighty - one Canadians, and 94 Americans are in the qualifying field.

The cream of Canada's professional brigade led by veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto, together with the stars of the U.S. tournament circuit, were not required to qualify.

SNEAD, MIDDLECOFF

Among the late entries in the formidable field shooting for the first prize money of $9,000 were Cary Middlecoff and Sam Snead, golf's all-time top money winner. U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer, Snead's partner in the Canada Cup at Portrush in Northern Ireland, is playing in the British Open this week.

Snead has won the Canadian Open three times, in 1938, 1940 and 1941.

Most of the top U.S. pros will be on hand, including defending champion Doug Ford, Dow Finsterwald, Tommy Bolt, Ken Venturi and Art Wall Jr.

TENDERS
CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian National Railway Company is offering for sale approximately 0.24 of an acre of land contiguous to its southerly boundary in Lot 5, Concession 6, Township of Thurlow, County of Hastings, at Foxboro, Ontario, together with two-storey frame dwelling and outhouse, located thereon.

A plan showing the parcel of land, together with the section dwelling thereon, may be seen in the office of the Railway's Agent at Belleville, Ont.

If you are interested in the purchase of the above, kindly forward your offer, addressed to the undersigned, in a sealed envelope, marked distinctly on the outside "Offer for property and dwelling, Foxboro, Ontario" so as to reach this office not later than 12:00 noon on Tuesday, July 26th, 1960.

All offers must be accompanied by a cheque or money order for 25% of the tender. All offers submitted must allow sixty (60) days from the closing date for tenders for acceptance or rejection.

The sale of this property will be subject to the following reservations respecting mineral rights and grade separation:

MINERAL RIGHTS RESERVATION CLAUSE

Excepting and reserving thereout and therefrom all mining rights, mines and minerals, whether solid, liquid or gaseous, already found or which may hereafter be found to exist in, upon or under the lands herein described, together with full power and right to enter upon and use or occupy the said lands or the surface thereof to such an extent as the Grantor herein, or its assigns, may consider necessary for the effectual working of the said mining rights, mines and minerals.

GRADE SEPARATION CLAUSE

In the event of any future separation of the grades of the intersection easterly of the said lands, of the road allowance indicated on the said print of plan, and the Railway tracks of the Grantor, the Grantee in consideration as aforementioned, hereby releases the Grantor from and against all claims and demands for damage to the said lands or the then use of same sustained by reason of the said separation, however, excluding therefrom physical damage sustained by reason of negligence on the part of the Grantor, its servants or agents, in the performance of any work in connection with the said separation, and hereby agrees to indemnify and save harmless the Grantor from and against all loss and expense howsoever sustained by the Grantee, by reason of any said claim or demands of any subsequent owner or occupier of the said lands.

The sale of the above land and dwelling will be subject to consent being received of any Planning Board having jurisdiction over this area.

The highest or any offer will not necessarily be accepted.

NUCLEAR REACTOR — Workmen stand beside one of the components of the nuclear reactor at Canada's first atomic power station near Rolphton, Ont., on the south bank of the Ottawa River. The huge, circular section is one of two ends of the horizontal reactor vessel which is to be housed in a concrete vault 50 feet below ground level. The reactor, known as Nuclear Power Demonstration (NPD), is expected to be in operation by July 1961 and will have a capacity of 28,150 horsepower. (CP Photo).

$32 Million Atomic Furnace Is Experiment in Developing Large-Scale Nuclear Power

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROLPHTON, Ont. (CP)—About this time next year a nuclear furnace in a concrete vault deep underground will set out to determine whether Canada is on the right track in the development of large-scale atomic power plants.

The reactor will generate vast quantities of heat which will be used to turn ordinary water into steam. The steam will drive a turbine hooked to an electric generator with an output of 20-000 kilowatts and a capacity of 28.150 horsepower.

The reactor is the heart of Canada's first atomic power station, a $32,000,000 project known as Nuclear Power Demonstration. The station will not produce power at a cost competitive with coal-burning electric plants but scientists hope it will provide the information to make future plants of its type economic.

Construction of the test station, located on the south bank of the Ottawa River about 150 miles northwest of Ottawa, is nearing completion and most mechanical and electrical equipment has been installed. The big job still to be done is installation of complicated equipment to operate and control the reactor.

NATURAL URANIUM

The station, expected to go into operation in mid-1961, has been built for one main reason—to prove that large-scale plants using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water to transfer heat from the reactor to raise steam offer the best promise of economic atomic power.

The product of the plant—electricity—will be fed into the Ontario hydro-electric system soon after the plant begins operating. This will be an historic occasion because it will mean that at least some people in Ontario will be lighting their homes or cooking their food by nuclear power.

The Canadian heavy-water, natural-uranium approach has been attacked in recent months by outside critics but officials of crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Limited are more convinced than ever that they are right. Many countries, including the United States and Britain, are expressing growing interest in what Canada is doing.

Information gained from the operation of NPD will be incorporated in the design of Canada's first large-scale atomic power station to be built nine miles north of Kincardine, Ont. Known as the Douglas Point Nuclear Power Station, this plant is expected to be in operation in late 1964.

NOT COMPETITIVE

The Douglas Point station will cost about $60,000,000, not including development costs. While the plant—if all costs are considered—will not be competitive with conventional power plants, scientists at the Chalk River establishment are confident that later models of this type of nuclear plant will be competitive.

The start of NPD's operation next year will be the culmination of nearly eight years of painstaking work by teams of scientists and engineers from its joint builders, Atomic Energy of Canada, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and Canadian General Electric.

NPD is housed in a modern L-shaped building similar in appearance to the low-slung factories being built on the outskirts of many Canadian communities.

However, its appearance is as deceiving as that of an iceberg. Except for the turbine and generator, most of the plant is located below ground.

TRIPLE CONTROLS

The reactor vessel itself is 50 feet below ground level. But a special tank into which the reactor's heavy water can be drained to shut down the plant quickly is 85 feet down.

Complexity of the NPD reactor can be illustrated by its elaborate control system.

All controls—geared to detect every possible thing that might go wrong—are triplicated. They are arranged in such a way that if one control signal is tripped an alarm is sounded. However, if two control signals are tripped the reactor automatically shuts down.

This arrangement makes it possible to test and maintain controls without disturbing the operation of the reactor and without sacrificing any safety.

FUELLED IN OPERATION

A feature of the reactor is that it will be refuelled with uranium while operating at full power. This will eliminate the necessity of shutting down the reactor for refuelling and causing an interruption in its power output.

Refuelling will be accomplished by two special remote control machines. One will insert a fuel rod into one end of the horizontal reactor vessel while the second will receive a used rod from the other end of the reactor.

When NPD is in service it will need a staff of about 68 to operate it on a 24-hour basis.

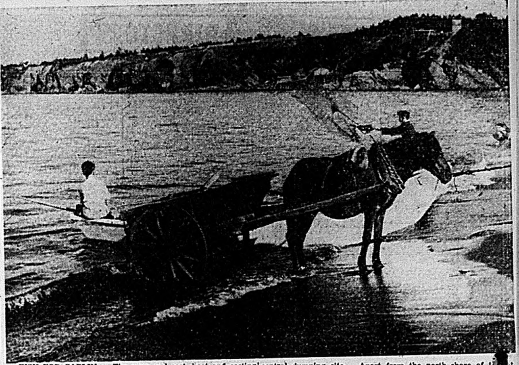
Meanwhile, five men — three Negro Americans and two Jamaican Negroes — were being sought in connection with the deaths of three Rastafarian leaders whose bodies were found shortly after the ambush.



FISH FOR CAPLIN — The pony and cart, boat and casting net, all have a part in Newfoundland caplin fishing. The net is used to cast for fish which invade Newfoundland coastal waters by the millions each June, the boat comes in handy when the fish are lying offshore and the horse-drawn cart hauls the catch to a central dumping site. Apart from the north shore of the St. Lawrence River and the Quebec Gaspe coast, Newfoundland is the only place in the world where the smelt-like fish are found in quantity. (CP Photo).

CAPLIN CATCH — Caplin, finger-sized fish found in droves along the coast of Newfoundland each June, are an excellent source of organic fertilizer. The smelt-like fish are also used as bait by cod fishermen and can be dried, corned or smoked for winter eating. Here a boy stockpiles freshly-caught caplin for later removal to the fields. (CP Photo).

Newfoundlanders Scramble For Their Share of Caplins

By JAMES HUSSEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

BURIN, Nfld. (CP)—Have you ever seen a caplin?

If you have never visited Newfoundland, chances are you have never seen this tiny fish of many uses.

But they're a familiar sight each June along the indented shoreline of this island province.

During the month thousands of Newfoundlanders are out scrambling for their share of the finger-length fish that scientists call "mallotus vellosus."

The caplin is an excellent source of organic fertilizer and has been used for centuries by Newfoundlanders. It is also useful as codfish bait and can be dried, corned or smoked for winter eating.

With the exception of the north shore of the St. Lawrence River and Gaspe coast in Quebec, the coves and harbors of Newfoundland are the only places in the world where the caplin is known to come each year in quantity. They roll landward by the millions to spawn on sandy beaches.

Spawning usually occurs when the water is at a temperature of about 45 degrees. The eggs are left to cling to the tiny grains of sand and beach rock by means of a sticky substance and hatch in about two weeks.

The young caplin is about three-sixteenths of an inch in length, growing to about three or four inches by the following season.

A five-inch caplin will deposit about 15,000 eggs, and one eight inches long will lay as many as 50,000. Spawning also occurs in deep water when the Atlantic warms up during July and August.

RESEMBLE SMELT

Not much is known about the fish beyond the fact that it is said to belong to, or at least resemble, the smelt family.

Fishermen - farmers use cast nets and barrel tubs to haul the silvery fish ashore for use in their gardens. Commercial fishermen take advantage of the cod's insatiable appetite for caplin in using it as bait.

Under normal conditions, the caplin and cod trap can provide fantastic returns. Fishermen who landed their catches at one of Newfoundland's modern processing plants last season grossed as high as $3,500 a week for a three-man crew.

Nikita Warns Germans Against New Anschluss

USSR Will Not Permit Any Union With Austria

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev continued his attacks on West Germany Monday night, raising the spectre of a new anschluss that would return Austria to German domination.

In contrast to the lighthearted tone of his motorbus tour through Austria's lederhosen and yodeling country, Khrushchev warned that the Soviet Union would not sit still if Austria's neutrality is violated. He used these words to revive the memory of Hitler's takeover of Austria in 1938:

"There are quite a few (in West Germany) who have not given up plans for the creation of a greater Germany, who are not satisfied with the existence of an independent Austrian state."

RENEWS TREATY TALK

He also repeated the Soviet threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany "with all the consequences resulting from that," if the West does not agree to peace treaties with both Germanys and to make West Berlin a demilitarized, so-called neutral city. As in the past, Khrushchev did not put any time limit on his plans.

This is the sixth day of Khrushchev's nine-day state visit to Austria and the Soviet leader is playing a variety of roles. Sometimes he issues stern warnings to President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. His voice husky with emotion, he talks of his great strivings for world peace.

He is also a critic of modern art, a judge of Austrian livestock and a joker with startled pedestrians he meets on morning walks.

Monday night the old gay Nikita took over. At a reception given by provincial governor Josef Klaus the Soviet leader was as happy as a lark—after making his remarks about West Germany.

The more the wine flowed, the happier he got. Finally Mrs. Khrushchev helped him home to bed.

Railways Given Right to Boost Passenger Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian railways were granted authority today by the board of transport commissioners to boost passenger rates to five cents a mile from 4.4, an increase of .6 cents a mile.

An order issued by the board requires the railways to publish the rates they propose to increase in the Canada Gazette and to announce the date they will be effective.

A board official said the order gives the railways authority to increase passenger fares by a maximum of .6 cents a mile if they desire to do so. Commuter fares are not included in the order.

It was expected here that the railways would increase rates only in areas where such action would not adversely affect current traffic.

The order also gives the railways authority to continue to charge a minimum passenger fare of 25 cents, exclusive of commuter rates.

Barrette Quits, Lesage Called To Form Govt.

Mr. Barrette called on Mr. Gagnon following a cabinet meeting that lasted nearly two hours.

Mr. Gagnon immediately called Liberal Leader Jean Lesage to his office, presumably to ask him whether he was ready to form a government.

Mr. Lesage emerged from the lieutenant - governor's quarters five minutes later.

"I've agreed to form a government," he said to reporters with a smile.

Mr. Barrette told reporters the cabinet's last orders - in - council dealt almost entirely with arrangements for new posts for his administration's "chief collaborators" in the civil service.

It is tradition in Quebec that ministers' secretaries and the premier's staff are appointed to new posts without loss of pay.

Mr. Barrette said he and Mr. Lesage, the new Quebec premier, had reached agreement over these appointments.

Arrested as Drunk, Dies of Hemorrhage

TORONTO (CP) — An autopsy Monday night showed that an Indian woman who died in hospital Monday while under arrest on a drunk charge died from a brain hemorrhage.

Police had taken Patricia Meawasige, 48, of Toronto, to hospital Saturday after jail officials refused to admit her on a drunk charge. She was returned to the jail then taken back to the hospital where she died.

An inquest will be held.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:—Cool air still covered Ontario this morning producing overnight temperatures in the 40s and low 50s. Cloud persisting from the north country through to the southeastern portions of the province was still able to produce a few showers. However high pressure building in from the west promises to bring clearing skies to these areas leading the way to sunny weather and higher temperatures on Wednesday.

Pension Boost Not Retroactive

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming said Monday night that the higher pensions provided in the revised Public Service Superannuation Act will become effective the day the bill is given royal assent.

He told the special Commons committee on public service superannuation that there was no thought of making the measure retroactive. Retroactivity could never be made equitable.

Chief change, apart from the increased pensions, is that contributions of male civil servants is increased to 6½ per cent from six. Pensions are to be based on the best six years of service in terms of pay, instead of the best 10 as at present.

Mr. Fleming said the higher pension contributions will not be collected until regulations are written after passage of the bill.

DIEFENBAKER'S BILL OF RIGHTS CALLED 'SQUIB'

Opposition Attacks Language of Measure

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker heard his cherished bill of rights attacked Monday as a dull and uninspiring document.

"Dry." "unexciting." "a fizzling squib." were some of the words used by opposition MPs to describe the measure about which Mr. Diefenbaker has talked so often and which carries his personal sponsorship.

The prime minister listened as a series of speakers picked the bill apart. Occasionally he made interjections but mostly he just listened.

Government backbenchers were just as warm in their praise of the measure — up for second reading—as the opposition was vehement in criticizing it. The prime minister's parliamentary assistant, Paul Martineau, called it a "beacon and inspiration."

SCOLDS OPPOSITION

Art Smith (PC—Calgary South) scolded those who found fault with the language of the bill.

"We are obliged to ask these gentlemen, I suggest, whether indeed they want an exhibition of literary prose or whether they want a bill which is in fundamental principle going to mean something to the Canadian people."

Mr. Smith said the "unusual sensitivity" of the Liberal opposition speakers was understandable. Having contributed to a government which to some degree ignored liberties and freedoms, they now took offence against action to protect "the little man" against bureaucracy.

Auto Workers Ask Inquiry Into Their Ailing Industry

OTTAWA (CP) — A full-scale government inquiry into problems of Canada's ailing automobile industry was sought today from Prime Minister Diefenbaker by the powerful United Automobile Workers (CLC).

At the same time, a UAW brief presented to Mr. Diefenbaker ticked off the auto industry itself for not meeting small-car foreign competition with a smaller, cheaper Canadian model of its own.

"Our whole point in being in Ottawa today is that we believe that if the government acts—and management co-operates — the Canadian autmobile industry can produce a car which will suit Canadians better than any now on the road at a price which will increase sales and considerably cut back the serious inroads that small foreign cars have made into our industry," said the brief from George Burt, UAW Canadian director.

He told Mr. Diefenbaker to get after the automobile manufacturers and let them know that "a great deal of the cure lies within industry itself and that Canadians expect the industry to act like a Canadian industry and do everything in its power to compete from a Canadian base."

Text of his brief was released to the press in advance of delivery.

It contained a number of specific proposals aimed at revitalizing the automobile industry, which last year had 8,000 fewer factory jobs than in 1953—its best year. In 1959, there were 93,745 fewer cars and trucks built in Canada than in 1955—yet motor vehicle sales were down only 1,900 last year from four years ago.

Kennedy Says Emphatic 'No' To Truman's Plea He Quit

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy has replied with an emphatic "no" to Harry S. Truman's suggestion that he drop out of the presidential race for 1960.

"I do not intend to step aside at anyone's request," the Massachusetts Democrat said Monday. "I was the only candidate to risk my chances in all the primaries —the only one to visit every state."

Two supporters of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate majority leader from Texas, said Kennedy is suffering from Addison's disease, which is defined as a chronic ailment usually resulting from tuberculosis, involving insufficient production of adrenalin.

A Kennedy aide called this "despicable tactics."

Kennedy told a nation-wide television and radio audience he is ready for the presidency because a new generation of leadership is needed to cope with new problems and new opportunities.

After reading a prepared statement, he answered questions at a press conference.

Thus the front-runner in the Democratic party nomination race replied to the former president's statements that he is too young and inexperienced for the country's highest elective office.

"I have encountered and survived every kind of hazard and opposition," Kennedy emphasized, "and I do not intend to withdraw my name now, on the eve of the convention."

Truman made his charge Saturday and threw in the implication that the party's nominating convention, which opens July 11 in Los Angeles, seemed rigged in Kennedy's favor.

To that, the senator replied: "To the extent that I have anything to do with it, it will be an open convention."

Algerian Rebels State Conditions For Peace Talks Not Acceptable

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Algerian rebels are demanding concessions from the French government as the price for peace talks to end the war which has taken more than 150,000 lives in the last 5½ years.

The Nationalists said Monday that only if France revises its stand would they be willing to send another delegation to arrange for rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas to go to Paris for ceasefire negotiations.

A rebel communique said the French government had laid down conditions for the peace talks which would deprive the rebel peace mission of "all liberties compatible with the dignity and equality of negotiators."

The rebels claim the conditions made by Paris would forbid their negotiators making contact with anyone in France or elsewhere except for communications with the rebel provisional government in Tunis.

The Nationalists also interpreted the conditions as forbidding their delegates to contact colleagues jailed in Paris.

The Algerians also would be denied access to the press. There was no immediate reaction from Paris to the rebel announcement. But it was good news for the French settlers in Algeria, who oppose peace talks with the Moslem Nationalists because they fear such talks would be a preliminary to the ending of French rule in Algeria.

The rebel delegation, headed by Ahmed Boumendjel, spent three days at Melum, outside Paris, last week in talks with French representatives. They returned to Tunis Friday with a gloomy picture of the ceasefire talks.

Red Chinese influence in the Nationalist rebellion has been worrying Western diplomats in North Africa for some time. Rebel missions have travelled to Red China during the last two years and a good part of the rebellion's budget is said to be coming from Peking.

Seaway Helps U.S. Wheat Meet Canadian Competition

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been of more benefit to American wheat producers than to Canada's prairie farmers, R. W. Milner, chief of the board of grain commissioners, said Monday.

He told the Commons agriculture committee that it has narrowed the American transportation cost figures, and put American wheat in a better competitive position in world markets.

Prior to completion of the seaway, U.S. wheat moved from Duluth to Buffalo by lake ship, and by train or canaler to New York, where it was transferred to ocean - going vessels bound for Europe. This increased the cost of 5½ to 5¾ cents a bushel over comparable shipments of Canadian grain from the Lakehead to Canadian east coast ports.

"The seaway has been of more assistance to American growers than to Canadians," Mr. Milner said. "We were more favorably situated relative to them, and the seaway has made it possible for them to come closer to us in the cost of moving grain."

It was Mr. Milner's last appearance before the Commons committee. He expects to retire before Parliament meets next year. He said he did not know who his successor would be. He was appointed to the board in 1950 and now is 68.

Mr. Milner said the board could never hope to operate in the black without increasing the charge for its services on the farmers. Former Auditor - General Watson Sellar had recommended that the board increase its inspection and weighing fees, but Mr. Milner said he opposed it.

U.S. UNWILLING TO MEET TERMS ON A-WEAPONS

Nuclear Warheads For Bomarcs Are Out

OTTAWA (CP) — As matters now stand, Canada won't get American nuclear weapons for Canadian forces in this country, it was reliably reported today.

The United tates has apparently been unwilling to accept the conditions laid down by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

These terms, as expressed in the Commons again Monday by the prime minister, are: Any nuclear weapons obtained for Canadian forces "would be under Canadian control and would be used in Canada only as the result of a decision by the Canadian government."

Current U.S. law holds that American nuclear warheads must remain under U.S. control. Washington, especially Congress, has shied away from changing this law.

NOT FOR BOMARC

If both sides continue to stand firm—discussions have been going on between the two countries for some 18 months — Canada won't arm its two Bomarc antiaircraft missile squadrons with nuclear warheads.

As Mr. Diefenbaker said Monday, repeating a previous statement, the full potential of defensive weapons such as the Bomarc is achieved only when they are armed with nuclear warheads.

In short, the government as of this moment would rather accept the Bomarc with a conventional high-explosive warhead than permit the U.S. control over nuclear warheads for the missile.

Defence planners are said to disagree with this view on the grounds that a nuclear - armed Bomarc would be used only after an attack on North America was under way and hydrogen bombs raining down.

STORING PROBLEM

Mr. Diefenbaker also said today Canada and the U.S. are endeavoring to arrive at a separate formula for storing, under joint control, nuclear warheads at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon Field, Nfld., for use by American interceptors based there.

The U.S. holds a 20-year lease on part of the Goose Bay base and a 99-year lease, dating back to 1910, on Harmon Field, one of the three Newfoundland bases leased to the U.S. in 1940 by Britain in exchange for destroyers.

The Liberals have said an impossible situation would be created if American interceptors in Canada were equipped with nuclear weapons and Canadian interceptors were not.

Charge Pedestrians

TORONTO (CP) —Summonses will be sent to 63 Toronto pedestrians caught crossing against red lights Monday as a police crackdown on jaywalking began.

Deputy Chief John Murray said the public had a full month's warning that jaywalking would not be tolerated. During June, civil defence workers handed out 200,000 warning pamphlets to pedestrians seen violating traffic laws.

Find Way to Restore Heart Beat Without Operating for Massage

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johns Hopkins Hospital doctors have developed a simple method for restoring heart beat by applying pressure on the chest.

They say it does away with the need for opening the chest and massaging the heart of a person when the vital organ has stopped beating.

The Johns Hopkins team which worked out the method included Dr. W.B. Kouwenhoven, lecturer in surgery and professor Emeritus of electrical engineering, instructor in surgery.

Their technique has become standard procedure in the Hopkins operating room. It has been used on more than 50 patients ranging in age from one month to 82 years.

In 72 per cent of the cases patients were restored to their former condition and survived.

Local firemen have been taught the method and recently two of them restored the heart of a 67-year-old man.

The doctors said this is the way it is done:

The operator places one of his hands over the other, with the heel of the lower hand resting on the lower part of the patient's breastbone. Firm pressure is applied about once a second, using body weight if necessary to move the breastbone down about an inch toward the spine. The cartilage around the bone is remarkably flexible and "gives" when pressed. At the end of each stroke the hands are lifted to allow the chest full expansion. The surgeons say this has been kept up for periods of an hour and 10 minutes without evidence of harm to chest or heart. The artificial pumping action forced blood out of the ventricles.

The Hopkins doctors have written a scientific paper on their technique. It is scheduled for publication this week in the journal of the American Medical Association.

Believe Castro Plans American Property Grab

Ike Expected to Act On Sugar Suspension

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's cabinet ministers met into the early morning hours today. They were believed drafting orders for seizure of American property to be issued when President Eisenhower cuts the Cuban sugar quota.

Eisenhower was expected to act promptly on the authority Congress gave him Monday to suspend all or part of the still unfilled 1960 quota of Cuban sugar imported into the United States. Eisenhower can also reduce or suspend the American purchases of Cuban sugar at premium prices for the first three months of 1961.

In retaliation, the bearded Cuban revolutionary has threatened to take over the property of Americans "down to the nails of their shoes."

READY TO SEIZE

While the ministers conferred, Conrado Becquer, head of Cuba's 500,000 sugar workers, told his forces to stand ready to seize the 38 sugar mills in Cuba owned by Americans.

Jesus Soto, left wing organization secretary of the Cuban Confederation of Labor, told a TV audience workers are ready to take a wage cut or even donate part of their salaries to keep the sugar industry going if the U.S. closes off its market to Cuban sugar.

Castro's official family and the ranks of labor were confident that the government would overcome the threat of an oil shortage arising from the seizure of the island's three foreign oil refineries and the companies' cut-

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has asked Cuba to return the operation of the Shell Oil Company in Havana to normal, an authoritative source said here today.

The source said that the request was made in a strong note of protest delivered Monday against the Cuban government's takeover of the Shell Oil refinery in Havana last Friday.

The British note also reserves legal rights and the right to lodge claims on behalf of the British oil interest in Cuba, the source said. The Cuban Shell refinery, taken over along with Texaco and Esso last week, is owned by British and Dutch interests.

Says Apartheid Issue Evaded By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF House Leader Hazen Argue Monday attacked the attitude taken by Prime Minister Diefenbaker during the crisis over apartheid in South Africa earlier this year.

He said during Commons debate of the prime minister's proposed bill of rights that the government "evaded" the question of racial prejudice and discrimination in South Africa and that many months went by before Mr. Diefenbaker made a statement.

FIRE DEVIL SENTENCED

LUENEBURG, West Germany (Reuters) — The "fire devil of Lueneburg," 21-year-old Herbert Rademacher, was sentenced to 15 years at hard labor Monday for 15 cases of arson and numerous thefts. He concentrated on Lueneburg's historical buildings and in one fire 20,000 irreplaceable volumes and papers were destroyed in the city library. Among them were papers belonging to Bach.

Model States She Made up 'Divorce' Story

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says the unidentified woman who appeared on a CBC TV show claiming to be a professional divorce co-respondent admitted today she had made it all up.

The newspaper says in a story by Phyllis Griffiths the woman's name is Joan Johnson, but she has used the name Joan Campbell for several years.

The 27-year-old Toronto model, subject of a provincial police search ordered by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, said she concocted the interview she gave the CBC program Close-Up for a fee of $150. The Telegram says she insists the sort of rigged divorce evidence she described on the show does take place although the material in the interview was false. She said she bases her claim on experience working for a licensed private investigator.

At first she denied she was the woman sought but today said: "I want to get this out in the open." The Telegram says she will tell her story to OPP Inspector Herbert Purdy.

The Telegram's copyrighted article quotes Miss Johnson:

"Unknown to the CBC, it was entirely a hoax. I've always wanted to be an actress and I was —for the duration of that program. What I said was basically true—only it didn't happen to me."

Ross McLean, producer of the CBC program, said later in a statement:

"The press report contradicts our original investigation of the credentials of the interviewee as well as some information we have received subsequently.

"What is difficult for us to establish now is whether the co-respondent is telling the truth about having lied or now is lying about having told the truth."

TWO PILOTS KILLED

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

NAMES OMITTED

Holy Rosary school reported today that the names of Lorraine McQuaid and Mary Ann Darlington were omitted from the list of school promotions published Monday in The Ontario Intelligencer. Both girls received honor standing in recent Grade 8 examinations and have passed into Grade 9.

FIREMEN ANSWER FOUR CALLS

Belleville's firefighters were called out four times over the past 24 hours. At 12:45 p.m. yesterday afternoon they answered a call to the residence of eGorge Seeley on R. R. 1, Foxboro, where the wiring in an electric range was the cause of some concern. No damage occurred however.

At 10:15 yesterday evening the structure at the rear of 211 Coleman Street caught fire. The inside of it was gutted before the flames were extinguished. At 2:55 a.m. this morning there was another call to this location but this proved to be a false alarm.

The only other call was due to a grass fire yesterday afternoon on Semington Drive in the east end of the city.

SOFT DRINKS SPILL IN ACCIDENT

A soft drink truck driven by Bob Garrison of Belleville and an American tourist's car collided on Highway 2 at Marysville Monday night, spilling cases of soft drinks over the highway.

There were no injuries.

Damage to the car was estimated at $50.

B. Weese Tells Of Students' Visit to Ottawa

An account of the recent "Adventure in Citizenship" program sponsored by Canadian Rotary Clubs was given local Rotarians yesterday afternoon by Bob Weese, a grade 12 student at BCIVS, who was the local delegate to the tenth annual "adventure" in Ottawa last May.

A full account of the activities and experiences enjoyed and shared by high school students from across the Dominion was given by the speaker. From the discussion groups held in political science, current affairs, social services and economics to the addresses by leading Canadian politicians, the local student listed each experience.

Visits to the Parliament Buildings, the Supreme Court, the National Art Gallery, RCMP training barracks, a session of the Commons and the Gatineau Park, as well as a "Cook's tour" of the capital city, were also on the agenda for the young Canadians. A banquet visit with each delegate's local M.P. was held and an additional breakfast date with Lee Grills, M.P., was but one of the highlights for the Belleville representative.

All those taking part in the "Adventure in Citizenship" received their citizenship papers from the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, Mrs. Fairclough. Mr. Weese thanked the local Rotarians for having provided him with the opportunity of taking part in this experience.

The speaker was thanked by Doug Courtney, the introduction having been made by Harold Mott. The chairman of the meeting was club president Bill Hurst. Birthday congratulations were tunefully rendered to Rotarians Bill McCormick, Bruce Bishop and Stan Reston. George MacIlhern introduced the guests present and grace was given by Harvey Elliott.

Egypt Will Buy Sugar From Cuba

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United Arab Republic will import 53,000 tons of sugar from Cuba, it was announced Monday night.

The imports would make up for about 10 per cent of the 500,000 tons of sugar expected to be cut from the United States quota for Cuban sugar imports.

SLIGHT INCREASE — Higher prices for fruits, vegetables and meats pushed Canada's cost-of-living index up slightly to 127.6 at June 1 from 127.4 a month earlier. It was the second monthly rise in the last seven months.

Lower graph shows a small increase in the index of average industrial wages and salaries to 176.9 at May 1 from 175.4 in April. At the same time last year the index, based on 1949 figures equalling 100, was 170.5. (CP Newsmap.)

Speculation In Scarce Land Bothers Britons

LONDON (CP) — This island nation of 50,000,000 plus has started to worry about running out of space.

Increased demand has sent land prices skyrocketing and brought charges that get-rich-quick speculators are gambling with one of the country's most valuable assets.

The government has come under fire from both Labor and Liberal party guns for failing to take action to halt the land grab in the green belts around Britain's major population centres.

Some indication of what has been happening was given by Basil Spence, president of the Royal Institute of British Architects and the man who designed Coventry's new cathedral.

At Camberley, a Surrey town 30 miles from London, a 64-acre estate was sold two years ago for £25,000. Recently, after passing through several hands, it was sold again for £210,000.

The shrinking land supply in London has encouraged real estate operators to buy up land in the green belt, an area created around this city to preserve the countryside.

They appear to be gambling that because land is so expensive in London, the government will be forced soon to give in to pressure to release at least part of the green belt for dwelling and other construction.

"Our precious land, so beautiful and so small, has become a casino for the speculators," Spence said.

Transportation Board Cancels Public Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—The MacPherson royal commission on transportation Monday cancelled a four-day public hearing in Montreal. At the request of the United Grain Growers Limited, the commission called off its session scheduled to start Thursday.

Next public hearings are expected to begin Sept. 8 in Ottawa.

Meanwhile, it was understood, the commission is pressing ahead with a series of special research studies on topics deeply involved in the country's transportation problem.

Researchers are preparing private documents for the six commissioners on how Canada's trucking industry is growing, what the Crowsnest Pass agreement on grain shipments means to western farmers, where air cargo is going in the future and how prairie farming fits into Canada's economy. Other questions are also under investigation.

IN MEMORIAM

MARACLE. — In loving memory of my dear father, Eli Maracle, who passed away three years ago, July 5th, 1957.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was so near;
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.

—Sadly missed by daughter Frances and son-in-law Raymond Bailey.

WANNAMAKER. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Oscar W Wannamaker, who passed away June 30th, 1956.

Gone, dear husband, gone forever,
How I miss your smiling face;
But you left me to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

WHITE. — In loving memory of a dear little boy, Mark White, who passed away July 4th, 1959.

"But Jesus said, suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 19:14.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness and floral offerings and messages of sympathy from our many relatives, friends and neighbors. Our thanks to the Rev. J. Eastcott and Dr. Loynes and nurses on 2nd South and also the staff of the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home.

—Mrs. Neal Robb and family.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy, many acts of kindness, floral tributes and cards. Also thanks to those who supplied cars during our recent bereavement of our loving son and brother. Special thanks to Monsignor Sullivan, Rev. J. J. V. Buckley, Dr. Earl MacDonald and Jack Bush.

—Mike and Agnes Whalen and family.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all who sent cards, flowers and visited me during my stay in the Belleville General Hospital; to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Eastern Star Chapter 55, to the ladies of Christ Church Parish Guild and to the nurses of 2nd West. Special thanks to Dr. G. S Cronk, Dr. Beattie, Dr. Miles and to Rev. E. Smith of Christ Church.

—Mrs. Annis Bean.

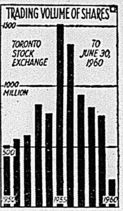
The family of the late George H. Elliott of 27 Murney Street, Belleville, wish to express their sincere appreciation to the many friends and neighbors and the V.O.N. for their floral tributes, lovely cards and the many kindnesses shown during this time of great sorrow.

—Mrs. George Elliott and family.

Many thanks to all my relatives, friends and neighbors for all the gifts, flowers, fruit, cards and candy etc., and to those who visited me while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Harit and Dr. D. Cronk, nurses and aides on Second West.

—Beverly Kilpatrick.

VOLUME DROPS



Trading volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange has dropped sharply in the last four years and stock brokers say indications are that 1960 could see the lowest trading year since 1950.

In 1955 stock brokers, catching onto a mining boom that began in the early part of the decade, enjoyed heavy trade and big profits. New cars and huge bonuses were given employees as a total of 1,513,476,109 shares were traded during the year. Volume sometimes reached 15,000,000 shares a day.

Since then the market has declined. Trading at the end of the first six months of this year totalled 228,245,599 shares, less than half of the 1950 total of 506,595,465 shares. (CP Newsmap.)

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market today set out to regain some of Monday's lost prestige and, hardly influenced by the mixed trading in New York, moved slightly ahead.

Industrials, on index, gained 1.19 at 484.75, with western oils up .26 at 80.02 Golds were off .06 at 75.33 and base metals eased .04 at 153.28.

The 11 a.m. volume was 751,000 compared to the 539,000 shares traded at the same time Monday.

But the industrials gains were unimpressive as Federal Grain paced the winners, up ¾ at 43½. Great Lakes Paper was up ⅜. Dominion Oilcloth dropped 1¼.

In mines Gaspe Copper dropped ½ at 18½. Hollinger and Noranda were ahead ¼ at 22¼ and 37⅛. Among senior uraniums, Denison lost 10 cents at $8.90.

Canada's Trade Balance Better

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — The balance of Canada's trade has improved considerably this year and indications are the picture will continue to brighten, Trade Minister Churchill said here Monday.

Mr. Churchill, here to open the western Canada trade fair, made the remarks in an address to a joint meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

He said Canada's exports have increased 14 per cent over last year, and the upward trend is reflected in all principal market areas.

Dog, Rabbits Survive Russ Rocket Ride

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia successfully launched a one-stage ballistic rocket carrying two dogs and one rabbit last month, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Monday.

The rocket reached a height of 208 kilometres (about 130 miles), Tass said. The animals were returned to earth and were in good condition.

New Minister To Be Inducted At Tabernacle

Rev. Morgan G. McFarlane, B.A., of Georgetown, will be inducted as minister of Tabernacle United Church by the Belleville Presbytery Thursday evening.

The induction will be held at 8 p.m. in Tabernacle United Church, Church St.

Mr. McFarlane, who arrived in the city recently with his wife and six children, succeeds Rev. James C. Eastcott, who retired and moved to Hamilton, Ont.

Mr. Eastcott who left Belleville June 29th with his wife and daughter Marilyn, will be the assistant to Rev. F. B. Brisbin, minister of St. Giles United Church, Hamilton, in a visiting capacity only.

A graduate of Saskatchewan University and St. Andrew's Theological College in Saskatoon, Mr. McFarlane was ordained into the ministry in 1940.

He is a son of the late Alex McFarlane and Mrs. McFarlane of Nokomis, Sask. He has three brothers who are also ministers.

Since coming to Ontario, Mr. McFarlane has served as minister at Elmvale, Hespeler and Georgetown. Prior to coming to Belleville he was minister of St. John's United Church, Georgetown, and during his ministry the congregation grew until a second congregation was organized.

Mr. McFarlane is a former chairman of the Board of Directors of Cedardale School for Girls and a former chairman of the Halton Presbytery of the United Church and was a Commissioner to the last General Council of the United Church held in Ottawa.

Mrs. McFarlane, the daughter of Rev. W. C. Murdock and the late Mrs. Murdock, is also a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan.

AUTO WORKERS

"Obviously because they had lost touch with what the public wanted and thought there was more money to be had quicker that way."

He suggested that the feasibility of closer integration of Canadian and United States automobile producers should be explored, with some cars produced exclusively in Canada for both U.S. and Canadian markets and with free movement both ways across the border.

In asking for a royal commission—or possibly a tariff board—investigation of the automobile industry, Mr. Burt listed eight points to be considered. They ranged from an analysis of the cost and frequency of North American model changeover to elimination of the excise tax on Canadian-built cars in an effort to stimulate sales.

WANTS TARIFF CHANGES

The brief also recommended that Canada conduct its negotiations at the September conference of nations enrolled in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade so as to be free to make whatever changes in its automotive tariff policies proposed by the special inquiry.

"Canada must decide before September that it will demand that its auto and auto parts industry be unbound at GATT, in order that our industry will be able to more fairly meet its foreign competition," it added.

The UAW, which came to Ottawa on the heels of separate delegations from the Windsor-area municipalities and auto manufacturers themselves, urged that the investigation also look at the auto parts industry and tariff regulations.

"The kind of study we recommend must be a comprehensive investigation into all phases of the Canadian automobile and automobile parts industry," said the union chief.

Family Quarrel Ends in Deaths Of Man and Wife

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Earl Charles Hertzberger, 49, and his 48-year-old wife died of gunshot wounds early today in what police described as a murder - suicide following a domestic quarrel.

Police said Hertzberger apparently shot his wife in the head, then shot himself in the neck. He called a telephone operator and asked her to send for police, then fired a second bullet into his throat.

The couple, found lying on the kitchen floor, were both alive when police arrived about 2:45 a.m. But Hertzberger died on arrival at hospital and his wife died a few hours later.

Three children, a 17-year-old boy and two teen-age girls, were at home at the time. Another son is believed on vacation in Northern Ontario.

Economist Says Rail Wages Survey Was Badly Executed

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for 120,000 non - operating railway workers Monday called a wage - survey done for Canada's railways "badly conceived, badly executed . . . and a quite impossible basis for negotiation."

Dr. J.C. Weldon, the McGill University economist who is chief advisor to 15 unions representing the non-ops, was opening their final arguments before a three - man conciliation board hearing a wage dispute between the unions and the railways.

The hearings, which opened May 9, are expected to end this week. The board's decision, not binding on either party, will probably be handed down within a month.

The survey compared wages for about a score of non - ops jobs to those for jobs the company claims are similar in outside industries all across the country in an effort to prove the railways' contention the non-ops — all those employees performing off-train tasks—are already adequately paid.

Town Purchases Oil Co. Land For $7,400

TRENTON — For some time now the town of Trenton and the Supertest Oil Company have been negotiating about the price of a strip of land, owned by the company which the town wants to acquire as an access road.

The land lies to the west of the municipal offices and east of the town bridge.

The company has lowered the price to $7,400 from $10,000.

Also involved in the issue, as far as the town is concerned, is the fact that the town has a five-year contract with the company for the purchase of gas for the use of public works vehicles.

The company claims, however, that the two issues are separate.

At one point, the company agreed to accept $7,400 for the land. Following hard on the heels of this, town council instructed clerk O. W. Larry to write to the company, offering it $1 for the land, with the understanding that the gas purchase agreement would be adhered to and that tenders from other companies would not be sought. The company expressed surprise at this move.

"We're over a barrel", said Councillor Graham.

"We can't do anything else", said Councillor Whitley.

"I move we pay it, and as for the gas contract, we should either stick to it or cancel it and then call for tenders", said Councillor Lange. "It isn't ethical to get tenders from other companies at the present time".'

"I agree", said Councillor Fraser. "We should maintain the dignity of council".

Council agreed to pay the $7,400 and let the gas contract ride, at least until the end of the year.

$4,000 Fire Loss

TRENTON — Damage was estimated at $4,000 when fire started at the rear of David's Furniture and Appliance Store Monday night. A quantity of furniture stored at the back of the store was damaged.

The fire broke out in a pile of lumber between the store and a garage at the rear of 14 Hawley Street. The garage was also damaged.

Fire Chief Gives Council June Report

TRENTON — In his monthly report to council, Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said that the department had been called out 14 times during June.

One call was to Murray Township when a house, owned by Miss Jean Clairmount on the Carrying Place Road, was destroyed. Firemen also responded to a call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Fransky, Ameliasburg Township, where the kitchen was gutted.

The other calls were to fires of a minor nature.

During the month, a demonstration on the use of fire extinguishers was given to department heads at the Pyrotenax Company. One member of the department showed a safety film to employees of the Public Utilities Commission.

Five members attended a Mutual Aid meeting at Bancroft, and three members attended the funeral of the retired fire chief of Napanee.

Two training sessions were held for full-time firemen and one session for volunteers.

There were no major fires in town during the month, and no fires in the minor fire loss category.

RCAF Calls Off Search for Civilian Plane

TRENTON — The RCAF search and rescue unit, put on the alert when a private aircraft was reported missing, today called off plans for an air hunt when the plane was found berthed at Ottawa's Uplands Airport.

The pilot had omitted to report to air traffic control after landing Monday.

The single-engined Piper Comanche was reported missing on a 50-minute flight from Dorval Airport, Montreal, after the pilot took off at 2:29 p.m. without filing a flight plan.

Councillors Criticize Town Engineer Murray

TRENTON — Town engineer Walter Murray was criticized by council members Monday night.

Councillor N. J. McNair, chairman of public works, said that "something bigger than repairing pot holes in the streets" was not taking place at this time of year.

"The streets aren't marked yet, either," said Councillor Graham, who reported that Fire Chief Cecil Ellis had complained that nothing had been done by the public works department about a fire hydrant at the corner of Dufferin Ave. and the Carrying Place Road. The hydrant is situated in a clump of brush behind a three - foot ditch. The chief said that a fireman might be injured while trying to hook a hose to the hydrant in a hurry.

Mr. Murray said that the first he had heard of the hydrant was by letter, Monday morning. He said the ditch would be filled. He reported that as several members of his department were on holidays this week, an emergency crew of five men was carrying on.

The street sweeper has been operated by two men for a daily double shift for the past two weeks, and the waste product from the Hinde and Dauch Company is being spread on the gravelled sides of some town streets.

Flight Lieutenant C. W. Bryce who for the past four years has been the Protestant Chaplain at No. 6 Repair Depot, leaves Trenton on July 28, with Mrs. Bryce and their son, Edwin, for Zweibrucken, Germany, where he will assume similar duties with the overseas RCAF forces.

Individuals Not Affected By Gas Increase

TRENTON — Lakeland Gas officials have advised that the increase in seasonal rates, notice of which was recently given to Trenton council, affects only commercial consumers and does not affect the individual private consumer.

Police Looking For 2 Teenaged Trenton Girls

TRENTON — Town police are searching for two teenaged girls missing from their homes here for more than a week.

The girls were identified as Dianne Emerson ,14, of 80 Byron St., and Linda Coon, 15, of 36 John St.

Diane was described as being five-foot-three, 165 pounds, brown hair, with a mole on the right side of her chin. When last seen she was wearing black slacks, black and white striped blouse, black sweater coat, and carrying a red handbag.

Linda was described as five-foot-three, 105 pounds, light brown hair. When last seen she was wearing red and brown plaid slacks, tan shoes, black sweater coat and carrying a white purse.

Barbers off Monday

TRENTON — Council Monday night passed a by-law closing barbershops on Mondays. The shops, however, will be open until 6 p.m. Tuesdays to Saturdays.

Council Says Gardens Can Pay Its Own Bills

TRENTON — Town council decided Monday night that the Community Gardens board was on its own as far as maintenance costs were concerned. Council would prefer to pick up the tab for deficits at the end of the year rather than supply the board with a stipulated grant. The board had asked that the town be responsible for all maintenance costs.

Councillor Vagn Lange, who is also chairman of the Gardens board, said he was "strongly opposed to the town taking over the gardens".

"I'm opposed, too", said Councillor Whitley. "It never did pay and it never will pay. Trenton hasn't got enough sports-minded people — certainly not enough to keep the gardens going. If you run a horse race down here you lose money. If you run it in a small place like Brighton you make money".

"If we give them a grant now, they'll expect it forever", said Councillor McNair.

"If the board has to work hard, it gives the members an incentive", said Councillor Fraser".

"When they first started the Gardens, I thought all skating and roller skating was to be free", said Councillor Graham", The way it's run now, it's taking all the money to pay the manager. I think we should do away with the manager. We could let Mr. Workman, the recreation director do both jobs".

"I'm not in agreement with that" said Councillor Fraser. "They're not paying the manager any great salary. It takes a 12-hour day just to run the building. He has to arrange all the ice schedules in the fall and that's a thankless job".

Councillor Vagn Lange said that the Gardens needed someone to keep an eye on casual help and arrange promotions.

"Workman couldn't possibly take it over", he said. "We could very easily spend $20,000 or $30,000 if someone didn't manage it efficiently. If we can even get it on a break-even basis, I'd be satisfied. It's a wonderful thing for the town".

Truman Speaks Out Again

Harry S. Truman certainly is not in the first category. A very good case, though, could be made out for his inclusion in either the second or third classes—with this reservation, that his greatness is not generally recognized even by those with whom he has been most closely associated.

In one sense the former Senator from Missouri had greatness thrust upon him, that May day in 1945 when President Franklin Delano Roosevelt died within a few days of the achievement of that victory in Europe which he had labored so many years, and with such diligence, to make possible.

But to say that Truman was thrust into the seats of the mighty is to state only half the case; this did not make him great but only provided him with the opportunity to achieve greatness.

We think future generations may recognize that he did just that. It was Truman, more than anybody else, who was responsible for the manner in which the democracies took advantage of one of Russia's periodic boycotts of the United Nations Security Council to make the Korean War a United Nations crusade, in name if not in fact. The armies which supported the South Koreans in their struggle against the Communists of North Korea and China nominally were fighting under the U.N. banner. Thus Truman achieved something which he had advocated when the U.N. was first founded, the establishment of an international police force under U.N. auspices.

The peculiar circumstances which alone made the formation of this U.N. police force possible prevented it from becoming permanent and at a later crisis, that of Suez, Canada's Lester Pearson had to lead the campaign for the formation of a U.N. Emergency Force all over again.

Still, Pearson was doing no more than following in Truman's footsteps—it ought in fairness to be added that Truman did not originate the idea of an international police force which had been supported by far-sighted men of many countries on various occasions in the past, in connection with the work of the predecessor of the U.N., the League of Nations.

What causes us to recall Truman's record in this respect is that on Monday of last week Mr. Truman spoke at a ceremony marking the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations. His theme—the need for the establishment of an international police force to be placed at the disposal of the U.N.

Nothing which has occurred in the past fifteen years has detracted from the appeal to thoughtful men of the step which Mr. Truman advocated at that time. If this does not place the stamp of greatness upon him, it comes very close to doing so.

The Quebec Scene

It is encouraging to note that Quebec premier-elect Jean Lesage is taking such a definite stand on the interest in political patronage which has been exhibited by some of his party's successful candidates. Patronage can certainly lead to a most irresponsible administration if allowed to become entrenched and is but a first step to corruption.

Certainly the use of patronage was one of the strong points of the outgoing Quebec regime, strong in that it kept control over a certain element of party supporters and contributors. Fortunately it broke down. For many years though it proved to be an assurance that the average person who had little or no interest in politics could never be sure of getting a fair deal.

For years the Liberal party in Quebec has gone on record as being against this practice. It must have been a bit of a shock, therefore, to Mr. Lesage to find that some of his own people have appeared willing to take over operation of the system. A caucus has been called by the Liberal leader at which the abandonment of political patronage is to be quite heavily stressed.

We are happy to see this for the former style of government has done little to advance or benefit the Province of Quebec generally.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

A puny child was brought into a London hospital for treatment. Upon his arrival, the nurse offered him a glass of milk. The youngster was about to drink when he looked up at the nurse and said, "How deep may I drink, Miss?"

Behind this question sketches a panorama of wretchedness. In the home from which the child came, a glass of milk means a few sips for this child and the rest of the glass shared with brothers and sisters.

All over the world people have to ask the question, "How deep may I drink?" This is not because there is not enough to go around, but because the human race with all its boastful wisdom cannot arrange an adequate distribution of life's benefits. In every country of the world there are people who, have so much that they groan in surfeit. Alongside them live multitudes who have scarcely enough to hold body and soul together. This situation constitutes the base from which Communism and other subversive systems start their march against the present social set-up.

But Communism is not the answer. People are prevented from drinking deeply from the benefits of life not because of false economic systems but because false men and women all over the world keep others from their rightful share of life's benefits. The answer to the problem is to be found not in the writings of Karl Marx but on the pages of the new Testament.

Not up to Expectations

Montreal Gazette

Mark Twain was one of the greatest of humorists; but it was unwise to expect that he would always be ready to play the humorist's part. Those who invited him to dinner, hoping to see him at his best, might find, to their disappointment, that he was no humorist at all.

Chauncey M. Depew, the President of the New York Central and Hudson River Railway, had just such an experience. He happened to be in Homburg in Germany when he heard that Mark Twain was in town. He at once invited him to dine at his hotel. Many of Depew's American or European friends were staying in Homburg at that time and they all asked to be invited. Depew kept instructing the management of the hotel to enlarge the table, until they told him they could accommodate no more.

But Mark Twain acted not at all as had been hoped. "In the course of years of acquaintance," says Depew, "I had met Mark Twain under many conditions. He was very uncertain in a social gathering. Sometimes he would be the life of the occasion and make it one to be long remembered, but generally he contributed nothing.

"At this dinner, whenever he showed the slightest sign of making a remark, there was dead silence, but the remark did not come . . . They were greatly disappointed."

• • •

To be expected to act in a certain way sets up in most people an immediate resentment: they at once wish to act quite differently. Some persons may so dislike the thought of acting on demand that they may develop a manner and appearance as remote as possible from what might be expected. They may become, in fact, two persons, and take satisfaction in the confusion this may cause.

It was so with another, if very different, humorist, Lewis Carroll, the author of Alice in Wonderland. As a writer, he was Lewis Carroll, but those who saw him in real life might encounter only Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, a very dreary mathematical instructor at Christ Church, Cambridge.

As late as 1931 Sir Herbert Maxwell wrote a letter to The Times, recalling how little Mr. Dodgson acted like the author of Alice in Wonderland. He could remember, 68 years before, "the lean, dark - haired person of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, before whom, as mathematical teacher, the undergraduates of Christ Church used to assemble.

Mr. Dodgson imparted his instruction in a "singularly dry and perfunctory manner," never betraying the slightest personal interest in his students. "Yet," as Sir Herbert Maxwell later knew, "this must have been the very time when he was framing the immortal fantasia of Alice."

• • •

Some writers have acted so little as expected that those meeting them for the first time would be warned, so that they might not be too surprised and too disappointed.

Such warnings were given to those about to meet Walter Pater, the master of a beautifully subtle prose, who had written of Marius, the Roman epicurean, and of the splendors of the Renaissance. Those who knew his books naturally expected to find an aesthetic man, with conversation full of grace and skill.

Walter Pater, however, looked like a Prussian officer, with his blunt nose, jowlish chin, and immense solid moustache of the kind known in England as a "mudguard". When Richard LeGallienne was about to meet Walter Pater, he was told:

"So you are going to see Pater! . . .

But I must tell you one thing about him, to save you from disappointment. You must not expect him to talk like his prose . . . He never talks about anything that interests him. He will not breathe one golden word about the Renaissance.

"No! he will probably say something like this: So you wear cork soles on your shoes? Is that really true? And do you find them comfortable? . . . How extremely interesting!"

• • •

Perhaps the best solution for those who do hate acting as expected is to find company where they are not expected to act. The novelist, Bret Harte, while living in London, adopted this practice. He would go to Royal Thames Yacht Club.

One of his friends thought this choice rather odd; he knew that Bret Harte never sailed a yacht and had no interest whatever in yachting.

"Why, my dear fellow," Harte explained, "don't you see? I never use a club until I am tired of my work and want relief from it. If I go to a literary club I am asked all sorts of questions as to what I am doing and my views on somebody's last book.

"Now my good friends in Albemarle Street talk of their yachts, don't want my advice about them, are good enough to let me listen and I come away refreshed by their conversation."

Perhaps this was better than the disappointed silences that waited for Mark Twain's humor or Walter Pater's exasperating inquiries about cork-soled shoes.

Strictly Personal

Professional Writer Works Despite Mood

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I'm afraid that I unintentionally gave offence to a woman a few weeks ago. I was lecturing in a state capital, and she was introduced to me as a publicity writer for the state.

"What do you do on those days when you don't feel like writing?" she asked. "Some days it is just too much for me."

"I write anyway," I answered. "Isn't that the difference between the professional and the amateur?"

Shortly afterwards, she took her umbrage and left. The people I was with suggested that she was hurt at my implication that she was an "amateur" writer if she let moods determine her output.

Yet I meant to be honest and accurate, not offensive. For it is the mark of the professional in all crafts that he tries to do his best — and often succeeds — even when he doesn't feel like doing his worst. First, he must have enough talent; and second, he must love his work. Talent itself is not enough — thousands of amateurs have that alone.

But what does "loving one's work mean? To most modern minds, love is a "feeling" that is sometimes present and sometimes absent. When it is absent, then you can no longer dedicate yourself to the object.

This is a mistaken notion. Six centuries ago, St. Thomas pointed out that love is "an act of the will," and not a feeling. Emotions come and go; they are capricious and unreliable; this is the essence of "romantic" love. But genuine love — for a woman or a cause or a craft — is a moral act of the will, which does not waver and does not disappear.

We can see it more easily with work than we can with marriage because we have become so taken up with the illusion of romantic love in our country and our century that "feeling" seems to be the root of a real love-relationship.

It is not. A man who really loves his work, for instance, loves it even when he doesn't like it — even, that is, when his feelings are hostile. There are days when the painter cannot bear to look at the canvas, when the writer loathes his typewriter, or when the doctor cannot bear to gape into another germ-laden throat.

By an act of will, however, they keep on painting and writing and poking away regardless of the temporary feeling involved. And this, as I said, is the true mark of the professional. The amateur works when he feels like it, for his love is just a feeling; the expert works even when he doesn't feel like it, for his love is controlled by the mind and the will. I hope the woman I "offended" happens to read this.

A story of a fish, which took the fisherman for a swim, was told this morning by Victor Morris of Station Street, as he related his experience while landing a twenty-six pound 'lunge near Corbyville. While casting along the banks of the Moira between Corbyville and Fairfield's Bridge, "Vic" hooked onto a fish that all but defied him to bring it ashore. He had waded out into the soft mud of the river wearing hip-length rubber boots, when suddenly the line began to unreel. As he braked the reel to stop the onrush of the fish he was catapulted almost clear of his boots into the deep water of the river. He lost one of his boots but hung tenaciously to his rod. At time the 'lunge leaped fully ten feet clear of the water during the forty-five minute struggle that it took to land the beauty.

All Borrow From Friends

Calgary Albertan

It is said that if you want your friends to remember you, borrow something from them. Aren't we always borrowing from our friends? A man who calls himself self-made is an ingrate. In his honest moments every man knows that everything he has came to him through others. "How little we pay our way in life!" said Robert Louis Stevenson in An Inland Voyage. "Although we have our purses still in our hand, the better part of service still goes unrewarded."

The patience of a teacher, the example and inspiration of someone who took an interest in us, the love of a parent, the opportunity given by employer, or a friendship that came unexpected and right out of the blue, these have been our good angels.

Bernard Shaw said that a gentleman always puts into life more than he takes out of it. Some people are like boys who run through an orchard grabbing aplpes off the trees. They don't plant and they don't say thank you.

To Your Good Health

MOST ULCER DIETS ARE NOT AS HARD TO TAKE AS PATIENTS FEAR

"Dear Dr. Molner: 'I have a stomach ulcer. I know it is all right for me to eat eggs, milk, gelatin, and puddings. But I love apples, peaches, cole slaw and so on. I don't know enough about foods to know what I can eat.—V.F."

Ulcers, for reasons unknown, flare up in the spring and fall, and tend to subside in between.

As in the Mikado, it's a question of whether you should make the patient fit the diet or the diet fit the patient.

There isn't any "right" diet for all ulcer sufferers. Each diet has to be worked out individually—and remember that you'll likely need to be extra careful in the "ulcer seasons" of spring and fall.

This is the way you develop the right diet. First, remember that you want to keep well-nourished without forcing an unnecessary volume of food through the sensitive stomach You want, also, to avoid foods that irritate by their chemical action as well as by their coarse texture.

So you start with the so-called "beginners diet," which revolves mainly around milk, eggs and stained, cooked cereals, on the order of baby foods. (Lots of baby foods are bought for that.)

After a few days, as the stomach calms down with this bland diet, you try adding something to see how it is tolerated: White bread or toast; cooked, strained vegetables and fruits; scraped meat (beef, chicken, lamb); boiled or baked potato.

Another early addition is strained fruit juice. We need vitamin C to ward off scurvy or its early stages, and on a bland diet for ulcers, it is easy to be skimpy on vitamin C. So this bears watching. Fortunately (we know now) orange juice does not intensify stomach acidity. So strained juice usually solves the problem.

In due time, as things go well, one adds whole cooked vegetables and fruits. Most kinds of meat, fish and fowl are well-tolerated. But you avoid such foods as contain coarse residue, as whole corn, celery, nuts, bran, etc.

Jams and jellies add a tasty tang at breakfast — but avoid those that have seeds. Sandwiches for lunch are suitable. Fruits like bananas, which don't have a lot of fibers (rough on the tender ulcer) are permissable. For dessert, cookies or cakes are bland. Salads can be satisfactory if they are of cooked fruit (cooking breaks up the rough fibers) on a bit of lettuce with cottage or cream cheese. Gelatin salads and desserts are flavorful. And between meals crackers and milk can fill that empty feeling without irritating.

Forego spicy condiments, because the tang to the taste is irritating to the ulcer. Frankly, you'll be annoyed wih a bland diet when you start, but as you learn what you can or cannot tolerate, and learn to lean more heavily on the things that are tasty yet still bland, you'll find it isn't nearly as bad as you had feared.

King Charles Was Libelled

Brantford Expositor

My Lord of Rochester was the hakehell courtier who is said to have written that doggerel we quoted recently about King Charles II:

Here lies our sovereign lord the King;
Whose word no man relies on;
Who never said a foolish thing
Nor ever did a wise one.

With no respect to him (since he deserved little), we say the duke libelled his sovereign, though we can't imagine a king who could have cared less.

For the adventuring monarch who just over 300 years ago returned to London to claim his throne was no nitwit. True he was carefree, lax, merry, careless, unscrupulus and dissolute by turns and at times, but quite often his word was reliable, and he not only said witty (and sledom malicious) things, he also did some wise ones. The wisest was his incorporating of the now famous Royal Society or, to give it its full title, the Royal Society of London for Improving Natural Knowledge. It is today the premier scientific society of the United Kingdom.

This was no mere formality on Charles' part. He was keenly interested in applied science and worked in his own laboratory. His specialty was navigation and his knowledge of naval architecture was extensive. His personal influence contributed to Britain's naval, commercial and colonial expansion.

True he had many mistresses of high and low estate, but that was a royal custom of the time — and not restricted to royalty. He was a soldier, sailor, horseman and sportsman. He had a fine physique and took care of it. Unlike many of his subjects, he seldom drank to excess. He once remarked that he was no atheist but "could not think God would make a man miserable for taking a little pleasure along the way."

"The evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones", wrote Shakespeare. For years that was unfairly true of Charles II. Belatedly historians and others are now beginning to revise their opinions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CIRCLING ABOUT

I have always envied the traveller. To me he seems so much a cosmopolitan. I envy these little talks — they travel so far! I wish I might go with them into their, to me, unknown haunts.

A person who has seen much of the world — who has circled about much — isn't going to look a very small world in the face. And the world isn't going to look a very small person in the face either! Also, "Travel teaches toleration", said Disraeli.

The thing that puts a sort of immortality in a book or any written thought is that it is sent on its way to circle about.

Everything that we do or say — circles about. This truth is pretty tremendous. It makes us all feel the press of responsibility. It gives to us our cast of character.

I have a friend who keeps sending me the gist of fine thoughts and ideas that he comes across. Often he runs into my office with them and we toss them back and forth until we have evolved entirely new creations from them. It's wonderful fun — this circling about of helpful ideas.

All of your friends live within you. You were given an unusual heart house in which there is a separate room for each one whom you love. They keep circling about within you — so that you may never be wholly unhappy.

Send out all you have — so that there may be room for more where the vacancy has occurred. Circle about. Learn and grow.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My table mate at lunch yesterday was a high school teacher, it being my nosy habit always to enquire the business of strangers. And when I expressed surprise at his being in town still, with the holidays a week old, he laughed.

"Ah, your generation still clings to that notion," he said. "As a matter of fact, I've got a harder six weeks ahead of me than any the past year. I am working on my master's degree. I'm a student now. Lectures at the university, stacks of books to read, seminars, panels, clinics to attend. Then examination papers to write, at the end of the course. And when my holidays come the last two or three weeks of August, I'll be like my own students, sitting worrying whether I passed or not!"

He was an interesting looking man, in his middle thirties, with that crinkle-eyed, interestd expression you see in doctors, clergymen and some school masters.

"Tell me," I said, "as a teacher, what in these modern times is the essential aim of education?"

"Same as in the time of Moses," he replied. "To discover to the child his talent, if any."

"To the child, not in the child.

The country was told that many tankers have been offered to bring Soviet crude oil here under the oil-for-sugar barter agreement signed with the Soviet Union.

Alfonso Gutierrez, the Mexican engineer who heads the Petroleum Institute, said in a television speech that Cuba's supply of crude oil from Russia is guaranteed.

He cited press reports of an agreement calling for Stavros Niarchos, the Greek shipping magnate, to rent Russian ships to carry oil to Japan and Europe, thus freeing Russian tankers for the run to Havana.

Authoritative sources said eight tankers, owned or chartered by the Communists, already are carrying a total of 60,000 tons of Russian crude oil to bolster the dwindling stocks at the refineries.

This represents about a week's supply for Cuba, which has little hydro-electric or coal facilities and depends on oil for most of its power. Last Saturday the Petroleum Institute reported only about 17 days' supply of crude oil on hand.

One of the ships, the 19,500-ton big Communist tanker Pekin, was in a collision in the Mediterranean and may be delayed, but the seven others are due in Havana this month.

The Pekin collided with a Norwegian tanker off the coast of Tunisia. French officials at Bizerte said the Pekin damaged its bow and was proceeding on its own power. The Norwegian ship, the 15,067-ton Rondefjell, was being towed into Bizerte.

Dr. J. Murie Leaves for Arctic Patrol

WELLINGTON — Dr. John Murie sailed from Montreal July 4th aboard the Department of Transport vessel the "C. D. Howe".

Each year the "C. D. Howe" spends three months visiting settlements in the Eastern Arctic to carry out an extensive medical, dental, x-ray and immunization program among the Eskimos.

Dr. Murie will be executive officer in charge of this year's eastern arctic patrol.

On his return in October, he will assume duties in Ottawa as medical assistant Eastern Regional Headquarters, Indian and Northern Health Services.

Mrs. Murie and daughters, Janet and Elizabeth will be staying with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nind in Wellington until their home in Ottawa is completed.

Cannifton Garage Operator Working 2 Months in Ghana

A Cannifton garage operator and farmer Harvey Putman, of R. R. 6, Belleville, will spend the next two months working, living and studying with Africans in Ghana.

Mr. Putman, who is married and the father of three children, is among 180 participants from the United States and Canada in the second Operation-Crossroads Africa.

Primarily a study and work camp project aimed at helping North Americans and Africans to know and understand each other, Operation - Crossroads Africa is headed by Rev. Dr. James H. Robinson, a Negro Presbyterian minister from New York City.

The group, which includes 35 Negroes and 25 whites from the southern states, has been divided into 14 sections and sent to 10 different West African countries.

Mr. Putman along with his group, arrived in Accra, Ghana, on June 25th, following a week's training in New York City. He embarked at New York City on June 22nd.

Avidly interested in missionary work, Mr. Putman will spend the summer helping to construct a youth centre, one of many work projects which will be understaken in the 10 West African countries. His main duty will be assisting Africans in putting in plumbing at the centre.

Other projects will include construction of schools, recreation centres, water supply systems and other much-needed facilities in these countries.

DOZEN CANADIANS

Mr. Putman who felt it was "the Lord's will" that he participate in the Operation-Crossroads Africa, was one of 12 Canadians chosen from some 40 applications.

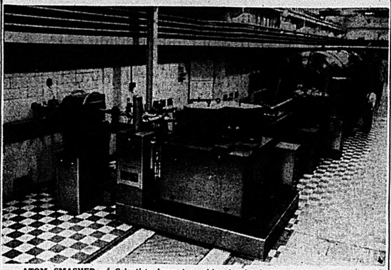
HARVEY PUTMAN

He became interested in the project in June of last year after hearing Dr. Robinson address the United Church Board of Men conference at Keswick, Ont., on this subject.

Dr. Robinson issued a challenge to members to take a practical interest in the African people, which Mr. Putman found hard to resist.

He discussed it with Ralph Young, head of the United Church Board of Men, Toronto, whom he met at Albert College last September and received the necessary application forms.

Mr. Putman, who has been superintendent of the Cannifton Sunday School for the past four years, will return with the group to New York City on September 1st and will arrive in Belleville shortly afterward.



ATOM SMASHER — Scientists hope to learn more about the basic composition of matter with this atom smasher in operation at Canada's atomic energy establishment at Chalk River, Ont., 130 miles northwest of Ottawa. Oxonians Seek Jobs in U.S. And Canada

LONDON (CP)—A group of 160 Oxford undergraduates flew to New York Monday in a chartered jet airliner, and then on to Toronto by bus to begin a two-month-long holiday in North America. America.

The party, which includes 14 girls, will break up in Toronto and spread over the continent, hoping to find jobs to cover living expenses plus £70 to return air fare.

Some already have jobs arranged.

Stephen Brown, 21, one of the organizers of the trip, says he has a £35-a-week job lined up on the Trans-Canada Highway.

The trip was arranged by the Oxford University Canada Club. The Daily Telegraph says it was opposed by some college officials who felt academic work would suffer. The newspaper says several students are going without the permission of their teachers.

Tandem Accelerator Used To Learn About Atom Core

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP) — What do the smallest particles of matter look like? How big are they and what kind of energies have they?

These are a few of the puzzling questions about nature being studied at Canada's atomic energy establishment with a $1,000,000 machine capable of generating great energies.

Known as a Tandem Accelerator, or atom smasher, it went into operation 14 months ago at this crown-owned atomic energy project 130 miles northwest of Ottawa.

"The equipment has equalled and in some cases exceeded our expectations as far as performance is concerned," Dr. H. E. Gove, nuclear physicist branch head, said in an interview.

EXPLORE ATOM CORE

The accelerator, housed in a large L-shaped building, enables Dr. Gove and his associates to bombard the nuclei or cores of atoms with beams of particles having energies of up to 10,000,000 volts.

Atoms consist of a nucleus or core made up of protons and neutrons around which electrons revolve. Protons are positively-charged particles, neutrons have no electrical charge and electrons are negatively-charged particles.

The machine is being used to obtain more information about the core of the atom.

The nucleus of an atom of hydrogen consists of one proton around which one electron revolves. An atom of aluminum has a nucleus or core of 14 neutrons and 13 protons around which 13 electrons revolve.

SHAPE AND SIZE

Dr. Gove said the machine can direct its powerful energy beam at the single proton making up the nucleus of the hydrogen atom. It can also rip into the neutrons and protons making up the core of the atom of aluminum.

"By breaking up the nuclei of atoms in this manner we hope to learn more about the basic composition of matter," he said.

"Is the nucleus of an atom shaped like a sphere or a football? What is its exact size, what holds the nucleus together and what kind of energies do these minute and invisible bits of matter have?"

The size of the material being bombarded by the accelerator's beam is almost impossible to visualize. However, if the minute, invisible nucleus of an atom is pictured as being about the size of a 25-cent piece the electrons revolving around it would be about 50 feet away.

PURE RESEARCH

Dr. Gove said the research project with the machine is entirely fundamental and that no one as yet knows whether information obtained will have an immediate practical application.

"We are studying a phenomenon of nature worth understanding. We don't care whether it has any immediate practical value."

But Dr. Gove emphasized that fundamental research in a great many cases precedes discoveries of benefit to man. One example was atomic energy and another the transistor.

The scientists who worked on nuclear studies in the early 1930s had no idea that their experiments would lead to the discovery of fission, the basic process in atomic power. Development of the transistor resulted from fundamental studies into what happens to metals at very low temperatures.

TV IS USED

The accelerator machine is designed for the study of the nuclei of elements such as uranium and lead as well as lighter nuclei. A 3,000,000-volt accelerator has been used at Chalk River for some time to study the nuclei of elements lighter than calcium, and the Tandem Accelerator will allow these studies to be pursued in much greater detail.

Material to be bombarded by the accelerator is placed in a concrete room 25 feet from the 35-ton machine. When the equipment is in operation the accelerator room and the concrete test room are locked because of radiation hazard.

Closed - circuit television systems enable scientists to observe events in both rooms during experiments. Results of the bombardment are automatically recorded by electronic equipment which operates an electric typewriter.

NO GUARANTEE

LONDON (Reuters) — Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod said Monday night Britain can give no guarantees to South Africa that she would be re-admitted to the Commonwealth after becoming a republic. He spoke during discussion of South African race policies in the House of Commons.

Orange Lodges, Sulphide LOBA Attend Service

TWEED — The officers and members of the Loyal Orange lodges of District No. 4 and the ladies of L.O.B.A., of Sulphide, attended divine service at the Salvation Army citadel on June 26th at 2.30 p.m. with a good attendance.

Capt. Morrow and Lieut. Zarfas are the officers in charge at the citadel. The service was conducted by Lieut. D. Bursey of Trenton, with Lieut. C. Olliver, as guest speaker, who also brought much blessing with his vocal message.

"The most important friend in life," said the speaker, "is not our doctor, lawyer or insurance agent, but rather to be sought after is the personal friendship of Jesus Christ in our daily living."

Envoy Bro. Archie Sinclair, Past County Master, expressed appreciation, on behalf of the members for the service held in their honor. Past County Master Bro. Albert McTaggart directed the parade.

Grand Lodge officers present were: Fred Bateman of Stirling, Past Grand Master; Past County Masters were: Bro. Ernest Coulter, Moneymore; Bro. Albert McTaggart, Tweed; Bro. A. Sinclair, Tweed; County Director, Bro. Milton MacTaggart, also of Tweed.

Lt. L. Truman of Port Colborne, has been appointed assistant at the Salvation Army Citadel at Tweed. She is succeeding Lt. Lena Zarfas, who has been appointed in charge of the work at Uxbridge. The changes are effective as of June 30, 1960, and Lt. Zarfas has left for her duties there.

Another Quake Shakes Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Another earthquake shook Concepcion in southern Chile Sunday. It brought panic among residents but no casualties or damage were reported.

Some 200 tremors have been felt in Concepcion since part of that region was shattered by quakes May 21.

Two more quakes shook Valdivia Saturday but no damage was reported. Valdivia has had 42 tremors in the last seven days and its 100,000 inhabitants have practically deserted the city.

DIEFENBAKER'S

Some of the Liberal speakers compared the bill caustically with the American Declaration of Independence and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and suggested that it looked pale by comparison.

Opposition Leader Pearson led off the attack, arguing that the bill is a departure from British traditions, and declaring that freedoms are not guaranteed by words. Incorruptible and respected courts were the best guarantor of rights and liberties.

AS STOP LIGHT

At times legislative and judicial safeguards were necessary. A bill of rights must serve as a red light against parliamentary carelessness.

"It should not only be broad and deep in its meaning but should be inspiring in its language; something that should stir the pulse, stimulate our national patriotism, something that could be read and would be remembered by school children on July 1 as one of the charters of our growing nation; something reaffirming our dedication to freedom and to great ideals. . . ."

"Does this bill do that? Read its ambiguous and uninspiring language. Is it the kind of urgent, moving appeal that will be listened to by school children or even adults? . . .

"Yet the prime minister tells us that this dry, legal document . . . these dry, unexciting words, is to be the Canadian Magna Carta."

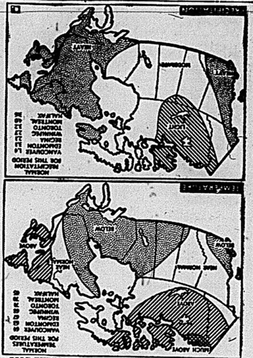
ASK AMENDMENT

Opposition speakers hammered away at the argument that a bill of rights should take the form of an amendment to the British North America Act, rather than parliamentary legislation.

M. Douglas Morton (PC—Toronto Davenport) disagreed. He argued that it would be wrong in principle to have such important declarations affecting all Canadians passed by the British Parliament.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said the proposed bill was not a "beacon," as Mr. Martineau termed it, but a "fizzling squib."

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the bill was a "pale image" of the legislation which Canadians had hoped for.



COLD EXPECTED — Below normal temperatures are predicted for Central Canada, most of Manitoba and southern British Columbia in the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau.

Maps detail predicted temperatures and precipitation across the country for July. Tables give normal readings for various centres.

These maps are based on predictions of the weather office which says its monthly outlook is not a specific forecast and that a change in weather pattern may produce major errors. (CP Newsmap.)

Wedding

BUNNETT — LUCAS

A quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. L. Arthur Page at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church on Friday, June 24th, at 4.30 when Donna Mae, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Bunnett, R.R. 3, Belleville, was united in marriage to Douglas Charles, youngest son of Mr. G. Lucas, Point Anne, and the late Mrs. Lucas.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, wearing a three-quarter Princess style French lace gown over taffeta with matching gloves, veil and headdress and carrying a nosegay of red roses and white 'mums.

Miss Marlene Haggerty of Stirling, as bridesmaid, wore a three-quarter length dress of nylon chiffon in turquoise with matching picture hat and gloves and corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Harold Bunnett, brother of the bride, assisted the bridegroom.

The bride's mother received in a navy and white ensemble, white accessories and corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Ray Lucas in a green sheath, white accessories and corsage of red roses.

Prior to her marriage a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Stan Papki, Moira St. East, Belleville.

Presentations were given by the community, the Ontario Hydro Commission and friends of the Ontario Hydro.

Vota Vita M.C. Holds Season's Last Meeting

The Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held its recent meeting at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Woodcock in the form of a buffet supper with hot chicken pie and strawberry shortcake being the main items on the menu.

Dorothy Reilley's group was in charge of the meeting. The theme of the meeting was 'Nature'; how the beauties of nature are whispers of love from God's lips and how nature can inspire one.

Diana Wooley favored with two vocal solos, accompanied at the piano by Doris Price.

This was the final meeting of the summer and was much enjoyed by all.

White Cane Club Names 1960 Officers

The Belleville White Cane club held its last monthly meeting for the summer season, June 30, 1960 at the Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Waite presided and opened the meeting with a welcome to the members and escorts.. There were 26 present.

It was announced that the annual picnic be held at Zwick's Island on July 23. It was also decided to take a bus trip to Toronto on August 22.

The birthday list was read by Arlie Scott for June, July, August and September.

A motion was made by Pat Baverstock that a flower be given to each member on his or her birthday.

A vote of officers was taken by Mr. Timmins and they are as follows for 1961: president — Mildred Rushlow; vice-president —Mr. Philbin; secretary — Pat Baverstock; treasurer — Clarence Morris; transportation — Mrs. Waite; birthdays — Arlie Scott; flower fund — Mary Kushma.

Miss Dodds moved these by accepted seconded by Mr. Towner. carried.

A gift of appreciation was made to Mrs. Rollins by Marion Dodds from the members of the club. This was graciously received.

A vote of thanks was also given to Miss Peck.

A game of bingo was played and prizes won by Mildred Rushlow; Mr. Towner; Marion Dodds and Ted Rowe.

Farewell Gifts Made To Teachers

MARMORA — Previous to school closing, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Watson held a social evening for the staff and their husbands and wives of Central public school and the Earl Prentice school. The retiring teachers, Miss Taft, Mrs. Manchester and Mr. Prentice, were presented with gifts.

Mrs. Prentice entertained the staff at an after-four tea when the four teachers, who are leaving were presented with gifts. They are, Mrs. A. Campion, who is taking a rest, Miss L. Cook, and Miss K. Bateman, who are changing their names (in fact Miss Bateman became Mrs. Glen Reid on June 25th), and Mr. Glen Watson, who will go to Hamilton where he has been appointed as teacher in Teachers' College.

Mrs. E. Manchester was hostess at a pre-nuptial tea for Mrs. Reid and Miss Cook, when they received wedding gifts from the staff.

The room mothers of Home and School also presided at the Earl Prentice school when the various rooms presented farewell gifts to outgoing teachers.

Field day was held on Wednesday where the children were given a picnic by the Home and School Association. Rain curtailed most of the sport.

Pupils of Mrs. N. Foster Present Piano Recital

WELLINGTON — Baskets of peonies placed here and there in the Centennial parlors of the United Church gave it a colorful appearance, when Mrs. Norman Foster held her annual piano recital which was enjoyed by parents and friends.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Foster presented each pupil with a small hymn book as a memento of the occasion. On behalf of the pupils, Marlene Parks presented their teacher with a lovely silver relish dish.

PROGRAM

The program included the following numbers: opening, "Oh Canada"; duet, "On Parade" by Dorothy and Marlene Parks; "Dance of the Hours," and "Country Gardens" by Monica Alyea; "On the Levi," by Ann Miller; "Off We Go" by Marlene Parks; "Round the Village" and "Scherzino" by Nancy Foster; duet, "Marine's Hymn," by Lynda Holmes and Sandra Denard; "Liebestraum," by Dorothy Parks; "Hawaiian Love Song," by Peggy Lane; "Dixieland," by Kathy Alexander; duet, "Glowworm," by Nancy Foster and Patsy Greenfield; "The Nightingale" and "The Cuckoo," by Linda Holmes; "Viennese Melody," by Patsy Greenfield; "Home Sweet Home," by Sandra Denard; "Starlight Waltz," by Kathy Smith; duet, "The Duke's Song," by Monica Alyea and Kathy Alexander; "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," by Anne Sprigings; "Glockenspiel," by Nora Badgely; "Blue Danube," by Diane Channel; "Butterfly," by Noreen Allison; duet, "Little Ruby," by Diane Channel and Nora Badgely; "In a Monastery Garden," by the teacher, Mrs. Norman Foster.

Lady Golfer Sets Record At Quinte

Playing outstanding golf, Mrs. Monica MacDonald, wife of Dr. Earle MacDonald of this city, set a course record at the Bay of Country Club the other day.

Mrs. MacDonald shot an 87 to establish a new mark for Quinte lady golfers over the home course.

She lowered the record of 89 set by Mrs. Betty Ingram last year. Mrs. Ingram was the first woman golfer to break 90 on the Quinte links.

The pair carded an 85 but Mrs. MacDonald's individual performance was the record-breaker.

Bride-to-Be Feted With Many Gifts

Mrs. Ralph Redner entertained recently at her home with Mrs. Clarence Vanclief as co-hostess, to a miscellanious shower in honor of a bride-to-be, Miss Margaret Brickman, of Belleville. Upon arrival Margaret was presented with a corsage of pink and white roses.

Thirty ladies enjoyed the evening with Margaret and until all arrived an autograph apron was made. Making a bride's book, telegrams, a duet and humorous wedding ceremony preceded the evening's highlight when an address extending best wishes from all to Margaret was given by Mrs. Vanclief and a Wishing-Well filled with a wide asortment of lovely gifts was brought in and again refilled.

Margaret graciously thanked the hostesses and all the ladies for the useful and lovely gifts.

Assisting in serving the delicious lunch, featuring a prettily decorated bride's cake, were the hostess' daughters, Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater and Mrs. Everett Daboll, of Toronto also Mrs. Bev Gray of Port Hope.

Mr., Mrs. David Jackson Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

Wedding bells recently rang again for Mr. and Mrs. David Jackson, of West Lake, Picton, when friends and neighbors came to honor them on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. A delightful "at home" and reception was arranged by their daughter Marion, (Mrs. Harry Wright, of Wellington), and their son, Foster Jackson.

Fifty years ago on June 15, Nellie Greatrix, daughter of Mrs. Oran Greatrix, of Actinolite, and the late Mr. Greatrix, became the bride of David Jackson of Cooper. The Reverend Henry Thomas of Actinolite, officiated in the ceremony at the Queensboro manse, with the attendants being the late Mr. John Kleinsteuber and Miss Ella Bowers.

Following their marriage, they resided for a season at Niagara Falls, Ontario, and later at Actinolite where they farmed for three years before moving to West Lake where they now reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are members of West Lake United Church, where she has long been a valued member of the Women's Association, and the Women's Missionary Society. Both are highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

Besides their two children, they have five grandchildren. Mr. Jackson's brother, Edward, resides in Trenton. Mrs. Jackson's sister, Mrs. William Embleton died some years ago in Hamilton, and her three brothers, Herbert, Fred, and Henry, have also passed on.

In commenting on her marrie life, Mrs. Jackson said it had been a very pleasant journey thus far, and does not seem like fifty years". Her health is good, but Mr. Jackson has not been so well.

One of the first messages of congratulation was a cable received from Mrs. Henry Greatrix in Belfast, Ireland. Many other messages of good will were also received from near and far wishing for them a sparkling diamond anniversary together.

GREAT OBSERVATORY

Lick Observatory of the University of California was built with a bequest by the millionaire James Lick.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mr. T. F. — I think Larry's trying to spite me.

Larry F. — I'm just the type who has to goof.

• • •

Mr. T. F. — My problem concerns my 23-year-old son, who recently came into my business with me.

Larry isn't a stupid kid by any means. In fact he did quite well at college. But he does many things in working for me that I can only call stupid. He admits it himself and when I point it out to him, he says he can't imagine how he could have done anything like that.

He says he wants to help me build up the business and eventually I want to turn it over to him. But how can I when he acts like that? I wonder if he is trying to spite me.

• • •

Larry F. — I don't know why my father should think I'm trying to be spiteful when he knows as well as I do that I gave up something I wanted to do very much in order to go into business with him.

The fact is that I don't care very much for business, but Dad persuaded me that it would be the best thing. Besides, I felt sorry for him because he is getting on in years and can't keep shouldering so much responsibility all by himself.

I do my best and I think Dad ought to be satisfied with it. I'm just the type who has to goof occasionally. He'll just have to accept it.

• • •

The Council: When an individual again and again makes errors he can see as stupid, there is good reason to believe some other "self" is at work within him — goofing while his conscious will is trying to do the right thing.

Most of us can accomplish more than we believe we can if we put our full hearts and minds to it. But if we are divided or uncertain, the going may seem impossibly difficult. Obstacles become mountains and problems become hopelessly complicated. There may also be a tendency to make many small careless errors.

As we get his picture Larry was pressured, rather than persuaded, by his father to go into the business. This may not have been entirely the father's fault. Some individuals want to be pushed around rather than to make their own decisions and accept the full responsibilities for them.

Instead of concentrating on his errors and accepting his tendency to goof, we think Larry could be far happier and more successful by coming to terms with himself. He should recognize that in life we must all sacrifice something to get something else we want more.

It would help Larry to make a list of all the arguments for and against being in his father's business and another list of all the arguments for and against his leaving it and doing the other thing he wants. He should weigh one list against the other and make a choice. Concern about his father may be an important factor, but he should make up his mind whether or not he considers it the most important factor. When he comes to a decision based on his best reasoning, he will find more pleasure in working and will make fewer errors.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

SMILE, AND BEAT THE HEAT

Did you know that a frown takes fifty-seven facial muscles, a laugh only six? Something to think about, isn't it, when we're irritated by the heat, and express this annoyance by continually frowning about it, with a verbal accompaniment of wails and whines. Remember that frowning won't make you look any younger.

What's all this got to do with manners? Plenty! Remember that the basic rule behind all manners is consideration for the other fellow. Making him miserable, just because you are, does not come under the heading of "consideration," does it?

The ability to look, act and be calm, cool and collected when the mercury hits the nineties is one that has to be cultivated. Too often we give in to frazzled nerves and take it out on other folks by snapping at them and generally allowing our temper to run away with us. It is well to remember that remarking about "the awful heat" to everyone you meet does not make it any cooler. Actually, by calling attention to the heat every few minutes, you merely succeed in making it seem hotter than it really is.

In this modern age of ours, most of us seem to think that it is necessary to rush from one thing to another. Consequently, we wear ourselves out unnecessarily. This is not so hard to stand during the winter months, but in the summer, when the heat takes its toll of our vitality, irritability and an ungracious approach to everything and everybody is the usual result.

There are many ways to combat the heat. One is to dress for it. You don't have to be half undressed to achieve coolness either. Extremely decollete gowns are neither necessary nor in good taste, particularly in the city.

If your hot weather manners are good, you will bear the heat cheerfully, smile at it instead of frowning, and thereby not only help all those with whom you come in contact, but give your own morale an uplift in the process! Perhaps I sound like Pollyanna, but, believe me, you'll find that a cheerful approach to the hot weather will prove to be of far more help than a belligerent attitude. After all, you can't stop the heat, but you can keep your own temperature down if you grin and bear it, rather than fight against it every inch of the way.

W.C.S. Teacher Surprised by Gift Shower

WELLINGTON — Miss Joan Goodfriend of the staff of W. C. S., was pleasantly surprised when called to her boarding home to meet a friend, where she found not only one, but 22 of her Grade VIII, this year's and last year's girls, waiting to call "surprise."

They had a merry time playing contests. Mrs. Sainsbury had her beautiful bay window decorated with pink and white streamers and a chair to match, ready for the guest of honor.

Miss Nancy Hobson expressed the best wishes on behalf of all present. A pretty corsage was presented followed by many beautiful miscellaneous gifts for her new home. Miss Goodfriend thanked the girls for the lovely gifts, with no duplicates.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Endeavors Class Holds Social Meeting

WEST HUNTINGDON — Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft entertained the members of the Endeavors Class on Thursday evening for the June social evening. The special number on the program was the showing of beautiful slides on Bermuda, taken by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Miller of Belleville, when they visited that country recently.

Other items on the program were: prayer by Mr. Clayton Wright; Scripture reading by Mrs. Frank Hammond; reading by Mrs. Dan Cooke; the roll call was answered by each member answering by a food, a bird, or animal mentioned in the Bible.

The vote of appreciation was given by Mr. John Lainson and following the business period and benediction lunch was served. There was a good attendance.

Club Activities

PIONEER M. A. GIRLS

WELLINGTON—Last Thursday after school the Pioneer Missionary Action Girls Group of the Wellington Pentecostal Church met at the home of Glee and Connie McQuaid.

The devotional period was led by Carol Hennesey, and prayer by Marie Hennesey. The Scripture was read by Deane Hennesey.

The singing of chorus was led by Carol Hennesey, who accompanied them on her accordion.

Mrs. Fritz took over the work period. The girls stuffed the dolls which they had completed at a previous meeting. These will be sent later where needed for Christmas gifts.

After the meeting closed, lunch was served by the hostesses with Glee and Connie assisted by their mother, Mrs. L. McQuaid.

Nasi Goreng — Schipol Style

by Mary Moore

The phrase "Kampong taste" that ex-residents of Indonesia of Dutch descent continually seek, came from the little village of Kampong in Indonesia. Nasi Goreng with the cherished "Kampong taste" may be ordered in the Intercontinental dining-room at Schipol airport in Amsterdam. Believe one who has had the experience, it is a never-to-be-forgotten meal.

You will be personally hovered over by Jimmy Keyser who is the manager of this famous waiting-room restaurant.

The reason that I am writing to you about nasi goreng is to arouse your interest in the food customs of other countries and to broaden your cooking horizons.

Some of you have written to me asking me for information on a nasi goreng dinner. You may remember that Toet Sutiati, former press attache at the Indonesian Embassy in Ottawa, visited our branch of the Press Club and we made a modest effort at serving an Indonesian meal.

Some of the girls in this audience have adventurous spirits and will try new ideas without any persuasion. Others of you will be wondering what nasi goreng is. Translated, it is Fried Rice, but this simplicity is deceiving. It is the number of accompaniments that are sensational. The final touch is incredible: for every one to be served, atop the huge mound of rice, is a sunny-side-up fried egg!

FRIED RICE OR NASI GORENG:

Some white dry boiled rice. Make a mixture of butter or salad oil, onions (garlick), ham, fried, pork, meat and some green leeks. Fry these ingredients together with some chile's (Sambal — from which comes the coveted Kampong Taste), until meat and vegetables are boiled dry. This mixture into the dry boiled rice. Mix some Soya: Be careful that it will not be too greasy. To go with is: Shrimps in Curry Sauce, veal in curry, beef, marinated and fried fresh tomatoes, Kroepoek (dried rice-flour shrimp-bread which has to be fried in deep fat, and is a "must" with nasi goreng), fried or plain sardines, chicken, fried eggs on top of the rice. Fry dry. It must not be greasy. Serve with some soya sauce, Kripik (green peas pureed), Mango Chutney and shredded fresh cocoanut.

There you are — instructions from a master cook who expects you to catch clues quickly. If you need more details, write to me. Who knows? — we may start a nasi goreng fad in Canada.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Suppose you had to reduce your weight from 203 to 175 pounds minus, within three or four weeks, how about it?

Easy, you say, just stern will-power and diet.

But with the dietary gimmicks and whatnot, you had to maintain top physical condition— and at the end of the starvation treatment, fight a 15-round ring battle for a world championship.

How about that?

Couldn't be done, eh? You're wrong. It can be done, has been done—and will be done.

Ask light-heavyweight world champion Archie Moore.

The aging ring philosopher-author-actor-"Lettuce collector"—who counts his years from forty up rather than from fifty down, can take pounds off his husky frame faster than a dowager can subtract years from her age.

Old Archie was scheduled to fight Erich Schoeppner, undefeated European light-heavy champion in Toronto on July 18. When he took physical stock he found he weighed some 203 pounds plus. The light-heavy weight is 175.

Archie asked for a postponement until August 8 to get his weight down to the required poundage. He got it.

He will step into the ring in Toronto that night at, or under the regulation weight. Bet money on it.

Archie has written a book, "The Archie Moore Story" and this week's Sports Magazine publishes an excerpt which should be read by all "Get-Thin-Quick" buffs.

In it Moore reveals how this summer, as for the past 20 years, he is dieting down from the heavyweight to the light-heavy division—and how you, too, with a lot of will power, sauerkraut juice, and aborigine wisdom, can fight almost at any weight.

Archie says he got his diet secret from some Australian aborigines while he was training for a fight in that continent some 20 years ago. He said he never saw a fat native.

He says these people got their strength from the natural juices of the plants and animals they ate. They got by on a fraction of the food consumed by their more civilized brothers, yet they seem to be better physically.

Archie's solution was in sight. He learned how to chew steaks, taking the last drop of juice from them—and spitting out the meat. He drank the broth of cooked vegetables without eating the bulk. He reduced himself to a pint of water a day.

It is vital, he says, to control liquid intake. Soft drinks and coffee breaks are out. But in training he takes multitude vitamins to supplement the diet.

People who diet should stay away from alcoholic beverages. Alcohol is a double problem to a person who wants to lose weight. It is liquid and has calories. A glass of beer has 100 of them. Liquor has a substantial caloric content.

First thing in the morning Archie drinks four ounces of saurkraut juice with a teaspoon of lemon juice to make it more palatable. Then he eats a poached egg with a slice of whole wheat toast, eight ounces of water (every meal) and black coffee or tea.

His lunch is a slice of whole wheat bread; an apple or orange, an eight-ounce glass of buttermilk (this for every lunch) and black coffee or tea.

A sample dinner is one cup of vegetable soup, large T-bone steak (no meat swallowed), ½-head lettuce, six raw carrot sticks, cup spinach and broth, fresh fruit cup —black coffee, tea.

Remember too, Archie says, that sleep is important for a person dieting. The body is under pressure while you're reducing and sleep helps you fight the strain. Relax whenever possible and do not talk about dieting and food. It helps.

"When I retire from fighting," the champion notes, "I want to get very, very fat just once. Not for the sake of being fat, but to put away a mountain of mashed potatoes, a barnyard full of fried chicken and gallons of lemonade and sherbet. But then, of course, I'll go back to my diet and stay in shape because fat is a killer of men."

Crowds Up On Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball drew a total of 205,080 fans to seven doubleheaders and one single game Monday, Independence Day in the United States. This was an increase of about 28,500 over last year's total.

The National League, with four doubleheaders, counted some 30,000 customers more than the American with a total of 118,217. The National League had the day's biggest crowd, 38,578 at Milwaukee's County Stadium as the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates played the second - place Braves.

Indians Closing In On Halted Yankees

Sweep Pair From Kansas

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cleveland Indians, who seemed like dead Injuns two weeks ago, have suddenly trimmed New York Yankees' lead in half and trail by just 1½ games in the American League race after their second doubleheader sweep in two days.

With righthander Gary Bell pitching a three-hitter for his first victory in almost a month and Jimmy Piersall back on the job, the Indians made it five victories in a row with a 4-0 and 7-4 sweep of their doubleheader Monday against Kansas City Athletics. It was Cleveland's eighth success in nine games after tumbling out of first place two weeks ago.

The Yankees, despite a combination of unbeaten Jim Coates and four home runs, lost 9-8 to Washington Senators in the only single game on the Independence Day bill in the major leagues. Coates escaped defeat, but the Yankees' winning string was chopped at six games.

24th ANNIVERSARY

It was the 24th time the Yankees had led the league on July 4. They went on to win the flag all but four times in the past.

Third-place Baltimore Orioles, blowing six-run leads in both games, split at Boston. The Red Sox won 10-7 before the Birds bounced back for an 8-6 victory. Detroit Tigers beat Chicago White Sox 3-0 and 3-2 with Jim Bunning pitching a three-hitter in the opener.

Bell (7-6) allowed only singles, walked two and struck out four while the Indians got to Ray Herbert (3-9) for nine hits. An infield hit by Marty Keough, who had been substituting for Piersall in centre field, and a two-out double by Harvey Kuenn gave Cleveland the winning run in the first inning.

Piersall, ordered home for a rest a week ago, returned to the lineup in the second game and scored Kuenn with a two - out single in the eighth for a 5-3 lead. Johnny Romano's second home run of the game capped the three-run eighth. Ken Aspromonte also hit a two-run homer for the Tribe as Ted Bowsfield squared his record at 4-4.

Yankee reliever Ryne Duren (2-3) forced in the winning run by walking Reno Bertoia on four pitches in the ninth after retiring two with the bases loaded.

FIRST AL HOMER

Pete Whisenant, who scored the tying run on Bob Allison's single, drove in three Washington runs, two with his first American League homer. Teammate Jim Lemon also hit his 20th homer while Mickey Mantle (20), Hector Lopez, Gil McDougald and Bob Cerv homered for New York. Don Lee (4-3) was the winner in relief.

Boston beat reliever Hoyt Wilhelm (5-6) in the opener with five runs in the eighth inning, breaking a 7-7 tie when second baseman Marv Breeding held the ball after a forceout at second, believing it to be the third out. Mike Fornieles (5-1) was the winner in relief.

The Orioles won the second with two unearned runs in the eighth on a pair of errors by all-star third baseman Frank Malzone. Billy Hoeft (1-1) was the winner and Billy Muffet (0-1) the loser, both in relief.

The Tigers, after losing five straight, beat Frank Baumann (4-4) with a pair of singles by Chico Fernandez and Bunning in the second inning.

Nellie Fox had two of Chicago's singles off Bunning (6-5), who walked one, struck out six and set off a rumpus by hitting Minnie Minoso in the first inning. Minnie threw his bat at the Tiger righthander and was ejected from the game. He returned to left field in the nightcap.

A sixth-inning home run by Norm Cash broke a tie in the second game and gave the decision to Dave Sisler (5-2), who had five shutout innings of one-hit relief. Bob Shaw (7-8) was the loser, although allowing only four hits.

British Open

World Tops Lead the Field

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) —Four hundred of the world's leading golfers tee off today in a second qualifying round to decide the top 100 who will compete in the British open golf championships starting Wednesday.

The players switch courses today, those who played on the famed Old Course Monday getting a crack at the New Course, where par is one stroke lower at 72.

The qualifying play got a good sendoff Monday as two records fell in the day's play stretching over 13 hours.

Peter Alliss, 29, one of Britain's leading hopes for the title, cut a stroke off the record for the 6,936-yard Old Course with a brilliant 68.

Joe Carr, holder of the British amateur title, shot a 68 over the same course to set an amateur record two strokes better than the previous best.

Qualifying scores do not count in the championship itself.

Most of the favored golfers did well.

Peter Thomson of Australia, four times winner of the title, was confidence personified in scoring a 69 on the same course.

But Briton Dave Thomas, who was beaten by Thomson in a playoff for the title two years ago, struggled to a 77 which put him well in the danger zone.

The biggest surprise of all came from 58 - year - old Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N.Y., winner of the title in 1932. He turned in a 69—the first time he's broken 70 on the old course.

"I thought this was as good a time as any," Sarazen said. "After all, it is the centenary of the British Open."

Sword Dancer Grabs Rich Suburban Race

NW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer is back in the running for at least one of the 1960 United States turf titles.

Experts had just about counted out the little chestnut from Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade Stable after he finished out of the money in the Widener, Gulfstream and Metropolitan Handicaps — all won by Bald Eagle.

But a few more victories such as Monday's record - smashing performance in the $108,100 Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct and he'll not only be in the scrap for the handicap division championship but also high in the running for honors as horse of the year, a title he won in 1959.

With jockey Eddie Arcaro giving one of his patented rides, the Dancer came from last place for a half-length decision over First Landing with a track record time of 2:01 3-5 for 1¼ miles. Bald Eagle, packing 133 pounds to Sword Dancer's 125, was another six lengths back in fourth place.

Sword Dancer earned $69,165, boosting his career bankroll to $726,860 for 12th spot on the money-winning list. Bally Ache, who appears to have the three-year-old title wrapped up, has earned $742,522.

As the second choice to Bald Eagle, the Dancer paid $7.90, $4.30 and $3.40 for $2 win, place and show tickets. First Landing returned $5.90 and $4. Waltz paid $5.20 for third.

COLLECT BIG TOTAL

The Suburban was the richest race on the country's Independence Day holiday program. The thoroughbreds attracted a total of 349,067 fans to 17 tracks. They wagered $23,396,489, raising the weekend total to $43,423,084.

Claiborne Farm's Dunce returned to his favorite track and won the $55,250 Stars and Stripes Handicap at Arlington Park. The four-year-old son of Tom Fool, winner of the Arlington Classic and American Derby at the same track last year, picked up $32,200 for A. B. Hancock after running the 1 3-16 miles on the grass in 1:57 3-5 under 121 pounds.

Dunce paid $5.60, $3.69 and $3.20. Martin' II [illegible] .60 and $3.60 and King Grail $7.40.

Braves, Giants No Better

Slowing Bucs Lucky To Keep Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are on top after the July 4 firing for the first time in 28 years, riding a 3½-game lead that's the biggest bulge any National League club has had at this stage in five seasons.

And they've done it after:

1. Winning just three of their last 10 games.

2. Failing to get a victory from either of their two pitching aces in five starts between them, and

3. Blowing a five - run lead behind their No. 1 relief man.

So how?

Easy. Milwaukee's second place Braves have lost eight of their last 12, and the third place San Francisco Giants have won only five of their last 14.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

The limping leaders split a doubleheader at Milwaukee Monday, blowing a five - run lead behind Bob Friend and Elroy Face as the Braves won the opener 7-6 in 10 innings. But the Bucs took the second game 7-2 on a dandy six-hit job by southpaw Harvey Haddix.

The Giants won 4-0 at Chicago as Jack Sanford put away his second straight shutout with a four-hitter. Then the Cubs held them to a 1-1 tie in the nightcap, called after 14 innings because of darkness at Wrigley Field; the only park in the majors without lights.

St. Louis split with Los Angeles, winning 6-2 before a 5-4 loss. Philadelphia escaped the cellar in defeating Cincinnati 5-2 after the Reds took the opener 5-0 on a four-hitter by Jay Hook.

SINGLE WINS IT

Al Spangler's two - out single did it for the Braves in the 10th against Face (5-4), who had won five in a row. Warren Spahn (7-5) won it with three innings of hitless relief. Two - run homers by Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart helped build a 6 - 1 lead for Friend, now winless in three starts. (Vern Law, the other ace, is winless in his last two starts).

Hank Aaron's 22nd home run, with one on, chased Friend in the eighth, and Del Crandall's solo 12th homer tied it in the ninth against Face.

It was the first extra - inning game lost by the Bucs in eight this season, but they bounced back as Haddix (5-4) pitched his first winning complete game against the Braves in 14 tries since Sept. 14, 1956.

THREE HITS, NO RUNS

The little lefty, who lost a perfect game to Milwaukee last season, blanked the Braves on three hits over the last eight frames. He's now 4-0 against Milwaukee, after losing seven straight to the Braves over the last four seasons.

Three runs in the first inning won it for the Pirates, with Smoky Burgess hitting a two-run double off loser Joey Jay (2-4) before reliever George Brunet walked home the clincher.

Sanford (8-5) walked two and struck out five while taking over the major league lead with his fifth shutout. Willie Mays, extending his hit streak through 19 games in the twinbill, and Bob Schmidt, who drove in three runs, each homered for the Giants off loser Dick Ellsworth.

The Cubs, falling back into eighth place while scoring just one run in 26 innings, counted in the second inning of the nightcap on a sacrifice fly by starter Bob Anderson. The Giants matched it in the fourth on Orlando Cepeda's double. Reliever Don Elston held San Francisco hitless over the last five frames. Stu Miller, Bud Byerly and George Maranda blanked Chicago in relief of Johnny Antonelli.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Daryl Spencer's two-run homer in the third off reliever Larry Sherry (6-6) won the opener for the Cards and Ernie Broglio (9-4). A sacrifice fly by rookie Tommy Davis decided the second game in the eighth inning for the Dodgers. Ed Roebuck then struck out pinch - hitter Johnny Glenn with two on in the ninth, saving it for Roger Craig (2-1), who made his first start since his collar bone was broken two months ago. Ray Sadecki (2-4) was the loser, giving up homers by Norm Sherry and Gil Hodges.

Hook (7-7) walked two and struck out three in his first shutout in the majors. A two - run homer in the first inning by Wally Post — his 10th and fourth in three days—beat Dallas Green (1-2). Pancho Herrera's 11th homer, a solo shot in the sixth, won the second game for Gene Conley (4-4). Joe Nuxhall (1-4) lost it.

Barrie Flyers May Remain In Home Town

BARRIE (CP) — The condemned Barrie arena, home rink of the Barrie Flyers, has been guaranteed to be ready for use again by Oct. 1.

The future of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league team is not nearly as assured, however.

Owner - coach L. A. (Hap) Emms confirmed Monday he is still considering moving the team to another centre, but declined to say whether he has made a decision.

He has mentioned North Bay, Galt, Welland and Sarnia as possible new homes for the Flyers.

Emms threatened in the spring of 1959 to move the club because he felt the town was not giving it support. As a result a booster club was formed and Barrie finished in second place.

Two weeks ago the roof of the Barrie arena was condemned as unsafe, and the question of the Flyers moving elsewhere was again raised.

The Toronto engineering firm which was given the job last week of designing a new roof has estimated the cost at $143,000 and has assured city council the job will be finished by October.

City Commercial Softball Results

Belle Cleaners scored ten runs in the first inning and downed Bishop Seeds 14-5 to increase their lead at the top of the Commercial loop last night.

The winners sent 16 men to the plate in the initial frame and plated their runs off five walks, four errors and half a dozen hits. The bases were still full when the side was retired.

Dave Feeney started and gave way to Rob Burrows in the first inning for Bishop's. They allowed 12 hits, struck out two and walked seven.

Deacon Whiting was a perfect four-for-four, including a home run, to spark Belle. Bob Brooks had a three-run homer and a single while Larry Potter singled twice and Doug Murray tripled. Other base knocks went to Leo St. Denis, Dafoe and Day.

Ed Donovan collected four singles in an many trips for the losers. Chick Tracey had two singles while one each went to Don Dolan, Burrows, Rusty Garvin, Jim Sheridan and Reg Williams.

Eight Youngsters Qualify

Kawartha Youth Pars Quinte

Playing superlative golf, John Kindred of Peterborough stroked a par 72 over a wind-blown Bay of Quinte Country Club course yesterday.

The Kawartha Golf Club's youthful star carded a one under par 35 going out and turned in a 37 on the back nine.

Kindred's fine performance the lowest in Ontario, led a field of 57 young golfers in the Ontario Golf Associations Belleville district qualifying round for the Ontario Junior Championships.

Four juniors, two juveniles and two bantam players qualified for the championship rounds scheduled for Islington next week.

Close behind Kindred came John Crawford, Port Hope, with a 76; Bob Jamieson, Peterborough Golf Club with a 78 and Art Carey, Kawartha Club with an 81.

John Lipson of the Picton Golf Club also carded an 81 but failed to qualify because of a higher score on the back nine.

Qualifying in the juvenile class were Dave McKnight, Kawartha Club with an 82, and Ron Beale, Trenton Golf Club with an 85.

George Triggs, Peterborough Golf Club led the bantam golfers with a 94. Allan Mott, Bay of Quinte Country Club, was the other player to qualify with a 97.

Thirty juniors, fifteen juveniles and 12x twelve bantams from ten district clubs took part in the play.

Brian McKenzie and Allan Mott were the only entries from the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The Peterborough Golf Club sent 16 players, the largest contingent in the field. Cobourg sent 12; the Kawartha Golf Club 8; Picton five. The remainder came from Port Hope, Trenton, Bobcaygeon and Kingston's Cataraqui and Glen Lawrence clubs.

A brisk wind swept the course practically throughout the playing time. Late finishers in the bantam class ran into rain squalls on the last two or three holes.

Abe Tobe handled the scoring and recording assisted by Harold Mott.

T. A. Carruthers, O.G.A. director who usually looks after the round, is in Toronto where with Bay of Quinte pro George Balasz he is playing in the qualifying round for the Canadian Open.

RECORD PACE

Leafs Split With Bisons; Retain Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hatch gave Farrell an assist Monday as the second - place League doubleheader with league-leading Toronto, grabbing the opener 8-5 in 11 innings before the Leafs took the nightcap 4-2 and restored their nine-game lead.

In the fifth inning of the opener, Farrell and outfielder Bill Taylor were given the heave-ho when they disputed Hatch's foul call on a long drive hit by teammate Joe Lonnett.

Just before Farrell left, he inserted Jackie Davis into the lineup for the departing Taylor. Davis proceeded to start a tying two-run rally in the eighth with a double and then connected for the clincher—a three-run homer in the 11th.

COLUMBUS WON TWO

In other games on a full doubleheader program, third-place Richmond split with Miami, winning the first 7-2 but dropping the nightcap 6-3. Montreal bopped fourth-place Rochester 6-2 in the opener but lost the second game 7-6. Columbus beat Havana 4-2 and 5-4.

Davis clutch clout in the 11th, following a walk to Solly Drake, a sacrifice fly and an intentional pass to Lonnett, gave reliever Ruben Gomez (2-1) the triumph. Al Cicotte (6-5), who took over for Toronto in the ninth and held Buffalo hitless until Davis' homer, lost it.

Archie Wilson's home run in the fifth put the Leafs ahead to stay 3-2 in the second game after pitcher Bob Chakales (3-2) aided his own cause by tying it with a circuit shot. Ken Lehman (9-6) was the loser.

Bob Wiesler (3-1), pressed into action when Bill Short complained of a sore elbow, checked Miami on five hits in the opener while the Vees broke their four-game losing streak with a nine-hit attack. Granny Hamner drove in three runs for Richmond to pin the loss on John Anderson (1-4).

153 Pros, Amateurs Qualify

TORONTO (CP)—Golf can be expensive. Ask the 100-odd players who failed to qualify for the $27,000 Canadian Open which gets underway here Wednesday at the suburban St. George's Club.

Their outing over the 6,375-yard par-72 course in Monday's qualifying round cost them $10 each. Add travelling and accommodation costs and the three-hour tour of the layout toted up to a pretty penny.

Now, they can stick around and watch a field of 153 pros and amateurs trudge around the 158-bunker par-72 course or sadly make their way home.

A total of 55 golfers from the starting field of 155, made it into the 72-hole tournament. Leading the pack were Len Woodward, a 28-year-old Australian, and 30-year-old Bob Keller from the USAF Eglin Air Base near Panama City, Fla. Included were seven Canadians and 47 Americans.

The cut-off score was four-over-par 76 and the survivors will join approximately 100 shooters exempted from playing in this 51st Canadian Open that carries first-prize money of $3,500 and the Seagrams Gold Cup.

The slightly - built Woodward and stocky Keller each fired a four-under-par 68.

All told, only eleven players broke 35-37 par 72 and two equalled it in what was the first qualifying round in the 50 - year history of the Open.

Canadian qualifiers included pros George Kelly, Stratford; Stan Morris, Fonthill and Pete Atman, Lindsay.

OPENS WEDNESDAY

While par was an elusive target, it will be put to a stern test for Wednesday's opening round when the big shooters start firing.

They include 26 of the 29 pros who have won $10,000 or more on the tour this year—such stars as Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall Jr., Jerry Barber, Ken Venturi and defending champion Doug Ford. Not to mention Sammy Snead, golf's all-time top-money winner who has won the Canadian Open three times, and Cary Middlecoff.

Heading the Canadian challenge are Vancouver's Stan Leonard, a seven-time Canadian Professional Golfers Association champion, and Al Balding of Toronto.

South Hastings Baseball League

Latta scored four runs in the last inning to snap a 5-5 tie and defeat the Cannifton Clippers 9-5 in a South Hastings baseball league tilt at Cannifton.

The winners had one run forced in on a walk during the deciding rally but the big blow was a bases-loaded triple by Wayne Gow.

Stan Reid hurled two-hit ball over the six-inning route to collect the victory. He struck out 12 and walked four.

Oliver started and gave way to Cole in the sixth for Cannifton. They gave up 11 hits while Oliver fanned eight and walked one and Cole fanned none and passed two.

Cam Buskard and Frank Ray had a double and two singles each to spark the Latta attack. Wayne Gow had the triple and a single while other base hits went to Ross Parks, Don Harris and Stan Reid.

Harvey and Petrie had singles to acount for the losers' hits.

Cannifton scored a 5-3 victory over Foxboro in a league game played last Saturday night.

O'Connor pitched five-hit ball for the victors, fanning 10 and walking four.

Campbell and Mann in the fifth, handled the Foxboro pitching. They allowed five hits, whiffed six and walked four.

Harvey, Schoffield, J. Oliver, Petrie and D. Forsythe had the Cannifton hits.

Foxboro hitters were Dulmage, Stewart, Haggerty, Reynolds and Campbell.

Head-Hunting Pitchers Are Given Warning

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Larry Sherry of Los Angeles Dodgers and Ernie Broglio of St. Louis Cardinals each drew a warning for throwing at batters in the first game of Monday's National League doubleheader between the two teams.

The rhubarb started in the seventh inning. Sherry hit Cardinal third baseman Ken Boyer with a pitch. Walt Moryn then hit a home run for the Cards. Sherry came back with a high toss at Daryl Spencer, who earlier had tagged him for a homer and a double.

Plate umpire Chris Pelekoudas warned Sherry. Then all four umpires had a conference with Cardinal manager Solly Hemus and Dodger pilot Walt Alston.

After the conference, Sherry worked the count to 3-2 on Spencer, then hit him with a pitch. The umpires apparently figured it was an accident. There were no beefs or warnings.

When the Dodgers went to bat in the eighth, Broglio tossed a pitch behind John Roseboro. Once again Pelekoudas strode to the mound. The umpire and the pitcher started to exchange words but Hemus came to the mound and silenced Broglio.

Hal Smith was hit by a pitched ball by Dodger southpaw Danny McDevitt in the eighth but there was no question that the pitch was just wild.

The second game passed without incident. The Cards won the first game 6-2, the Dodgers the second 5-4.

American GI's Like Japanese Women Trained to Help Men

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why do American service men find Japanese women so appealing?

The place to find an answer appeared to be the set of Cry For Happy, a new comedy about navy men who take over a geisha house. Here were four attractive and talented Japanese girls playing the roles of geishas. Though only one was born in Japan, all professed to be reared in the old tradition.

Mama-san of the geishas was Miiko Taka, Seattle-born Nisei who has been to Japan four times, including once to play opposite Marlon Brando in Sayonara.

"Everyone likes attention, and the Japanese girl is trained to give the man attention," she said. "The man is the ruler of the family over there, and that is as it should be.

"But sometimes that can be overdone. I think it is degrading for a woman to be a servant to her husband. There is a difference between helping and serving."

ALWAYS RIGHT?

Miyoshi Umeki is a native Japanese, winner of an Oscar for Sayonara and plaudits for Flower Drum Song on Broadway. She is married to TV producer Win Opie. In view of her upbringing, does she consider that he is always right?

"I don't know whether he is always right," she replied. "The important thing is to make him think he is always right."

Tsuruko Koyayashi also is known as Mrs. Marvin Fineberg. She was born in Hawaii, came to Hollywood from Majority of One on the New York stage and has never seen Japan.

"I think there should be a compromise between being a servant and dominating the family, as some American women do. I think many Japanese women are coming to that."

Michi Kobi agreed. She was born in Sacramento, reared in San Francisco and has lived in Japan. A talented TV, stage and film actress, she admired the role Japanese women play.

"One reason Americans find them appealing is the way they talk," she said. "They have a particular way of addressing men that is feminine and comforting. The geishas have this talk refined to a high degree. Wives practise it, and many a family is ruled by soft talk."

United States Basketball May Be Suspended

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—The United States may be suspended from international basketball competition if the American Amateur Athletic Union does not pay $7,000 to the Swedish Basketball Federation.

William Jones of Britain, general secretary of the IBF, said Monday the AAU owes the Swedes that amount for refusal to let U.S. teams play the Swedish national team on its tour last winter. Jones said Jan. 1, 1961 was the deadline for payment.

Jones said:

"The whole international federation will back up the Swedish claims. This incident has no precedent and the American organization's attitude is scandalous."

The AAU refused to permit U.S. teams to oppose the Swedes because games were booked through a private promoter. But the Swedes managed to get some other matches in the U.S. and Canada.

Old Whodunits Tea Parties Compared to Modern Shows

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—Does anybody in the audience remember Inspector Webb?

In the cradle days of TV—all of 13 years ago—this intelligent officer was the hero of the first network television crime show, Standby for Crime.

"What a difference there was between that show and the crime shows today," recalls actor Boris Aplon, the man who brought Inspector Webb to life on the seven-inch screen.

"There was very little violence shown," he says. "In the first place, the show had a whodunit format and Inspector Webb would come in after the crime. The crime itself wouldn't be enacted although on occasion we experimented with flashbacks. By comparison with today's shows, it was like a tea party."

Unlike any show of this genre today (at least 18 are planned for the fall season), Standby had a prize gimmick.

"It was a mystery and we played it right up to the denouement. Then we would mae telephone calls to three persons who had previously sent in postcards asking to be guest detectives. As Inspector Webb, I would interview each one on his solution of the case and the one who was closest to the script would win a $25 savings bond. This was considered quite a thing at the time. That was before TV started giving the world away."

Aplon was Inspector Webb for 42 weeks. He says "none of us realized the power and scope of TV and had such misgivings about it we would never consider doing commercials for fear it would hurt our acting status".

Golfing Son Shot an Ace; So Did Pop!

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) —A father and son made holes-in-one within minutes of each other Monday at the Binghamton Country Club.

Richard E. Pille Jr., 23, was first off the tee on the 117 - yard second hole. His eight-iron shot dropped into the cup.

VICTORIA PARK OUT

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Canada's Victoria Park, flown here for the $100,000-added Hollywood Derby next Saturday, won't make it. Trainer Horatio Luro said Monday the horse has been withdrawn due to a filling in his front legs that developed during the plane trip here. Victoria Park should be ready, however, for the $100,000 - added Sunset Handicap July 25, Hollywood Park's closing day event.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, July 6

General tendencies: This is a beautiful day for you to go after whatever you want in a positive manner, expressing enthusiasm and with vim, vigor and vitality. Do not hide your light under a bushel now. Later in the day you can get together with congenial colleagues to devise whatever plans and arrangements will suit everyone concerned in the future.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — With all the fine opportunities before you right now, it would be well to do early important research work that will spell success in the early future. Make fine contacts, also, and be very charming, kind.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — This is the right day to put that practical plan of action in operation very intelligently, whether it has to do with career or intimate matters. It would be well to consult with the one you love, too, for approval and ideas.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It would be advisable to have a conference with all associates now and iron out any differences, agree on matters of policy, etc. Earnest co-operation will result in a very early and far greater success than you anticipated.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Early dig right into all that work before you and clear it up efficiently. There is no time for minute analysis today, but be sure you plan just what you are going to do and then full speed ahead. Also, be co-operative with key persons.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Fine day for improving your health and appearance. Be sure you try fixing your hair differently, use different accessories. Achieve that smart look. You will then make far greater headway with those who are important in your life.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Spend time concentrating upon the needs and desires of closest of kin today. Strive to help them attain far greater happiness. P. M. bring home little thoughtful gifts. Enjoy own home and loved ones. Be cheerful.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Forget any round - the - mulberry bush tactics now and be fair with everyone. In this way you get what you want most and will have an enjoyable time, be able to do the cultural things you love.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Important you concentrate upon finances and matters of security today. Endeavor to increase income, if you do not have an abundance. Also, see that you acquire greater prestige where higher - ups are concerned.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you are very observant now, you can easily see ways and means to have a real abundance, and to spare. Be practical, however, and persevering and success can be yours. Find your forte — don't scatter your forces.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you confer quietly with authorities now, you can make practical and fascinating plans for the future which can be crowned with success. P. M. go out of your way to assist those who are in dire need. Be gracious.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — There are many higher-ups, experts or comrades who will assist you appreciably, if you but get out early and contact them. It is important you are loyal with them, too, in their quest for success and happiness.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Important - you make sure your work is satisfactory to higher-ups at this time. If not, conferences with them will help you clear up whatever limitation you may have. Be co-operative and enthusiastic.

If your child is born today ... there is bound to be a very great amount of change in this life, so it is important you early teach to complete one task before carrying on with another. This sets fine pattern for success that can be quite remarkable in this chart. Give as fine an education as you can, make possible a good deal of contact with others. Travel to foreign lands is strongly indicated here.

YOU CAN'T JUDGE A BOOK BY ITS COVER

And you can't judge a house from the outside. Even Buckingham Palace is an unattractive rectangle of masonry. Call one of our salesmen and see through our wide variety of offerings such as this latest listing at $2,150.00 down - - - 3 large bedrooms, large living room with popular "L" shaped dining room, beautiful tiled bath with vanity and an attached garage. Built of clay brick, this is an outstanding home for the discriminating purchaser. East end location.

ATTRACTIVE SUNKEN GARDEN LOT

This large split-level is situated on one lot in a million. The rear of the lot is sunken in such a way as to make it ideal for a private garden and patio, completely surrounded with beautiful trees. If you want outside living you will love this one The house is of brick construction featuring a 27' living room, huge kitchen with large eating area, 3 large bedrooms, and a real large tiled bath with vanity. The basement really isn't designed as a bowling alley, it's just a bigger basement that's all. The price is just $14,900.00 and one N.H.A. mortgage. Immediate possession.

ROSEWOOD AVE. 5% MORTGAGE REDUCED TO $14,500.00

This home is one of the most attractive homes we have had to offer for some time. If you want to get away from conventional styled bungalows, see this one. KWONG THROUGH?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Normie Kwong, fullback of the WIFU Edmonton Eskimos since 1951, has failed to show at the team's training camp. He would not say Monday whether he plans to retire from football. Gordon Wynn, Eskimos president, said earlier that Kwong had been given an ultimatum that this would be "it" in he didn't make the camp opening.

TENDERS

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Canadian National Railway Company is offering for sale approximately 0.24 of an acre of land contiguous to its southerly boundary in Lot 5, Concession 6, Township of Thurlow, County of Hastings, at Foxboro, Ontario, together with two-storey frame dwelling and outhouse, located thereon.

A plan showing the parcel of land, together with the section dwelling thereon, may be seen in the office of the Railway's Agent at Belleville, Ont.

If you are interested in the purchase of the above, kindly forward your offer, addressed to the undersigned, in a sealed envelope, marked distinctly on the outside "Offer for property and dwelling, Foxboro, Ontario" so as to reach this office not later than 12:00 noon on Tuesday, July 26th, 1960.

All offers must be accompanied by a cheque or money order for 25% of the tender. All offers submitted must allow sixty (60) days from the closing date for tenders for acceptance or rejection.

The sale of this property will be subject to the following reservations respecting mineral rights and grade separation:

MINERAL RIGHTS RESERVATION CLAUSE

Excepting and reserving thereout and therefrom all mining rights, mines and minerals, whether solid, liquid or gaseous, already found or which may hereafter be found to exist in, upon or under the lands herein described, together with full power and right to enter upon and use or occupy the said lands or the surface thereof to such an extent as the Grantor herein, or its assigns, may consider necessary for the effectual working of the said mining rights, mines and minerals.

GRADE SEPARATION CLAUSE

In the event of any future separation of the grades of the intersection easterly of the said lands, of the road allowance indicated on the said print of plan, and the Railway tracks of the Grantor, the Grantee in consideration as aforementioned, hereby releases the Grantor from and against all claims and demands for damage to the said lands or the then use of same sustained by reason of the said separation, however, excluding therefrom physical damage sustained by reason of negligence on the part of the Grantor, its servants or agents, in the performance of any work in connection with the said separation, and hereby agrees to indemnify and save harmless the Grantor from and against all loss and expense howsoever sustained by the Grantee, by reason of any said claim or demands of any subsequent owner or occupier of the said lands.

The sale of the above land and dwelling will be subject to consent being received of any Planning Board having jurisdiction over this area.

The highest or any offer will not necessarily be accepted.

Forty Eight Junior Golfers Are Qualified

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forty eight junior golfers qualified Monday for the 38th annual Ontario junior championships to be held at Toronto Islington golf course July 25.

The qualifying rounds were held at Belleville, Hamilton London, Kitchener, Owen Sound and Sarnia.

Toronto district golfers get a chance to qualify today while Welland and Windsor shooters qualify July 11. Northern Ontario golfers qualify July 7-8.

Low man among the qualifiers was John Kindred of the Kawartha Golf Club, Peterborough, with a par 72. He topped four juniors, two juveniles and two bantams who qualified from the 37 youngsters entered at Belleville.

At Hamilton Bob Borthwick and Jim Carr both carded 73s.

The 15-year-old Carr was low qualifier in the juvenile division by six shots. In all, eight golfers qualified from the district, five juniors, two juveniles and one bantam.

Boys 16, 17 and 18 fall in the junior category. Juveniles are 14 and 15 and bantams are 13 and under.

Ernie Hauser led the junior qualifiers at Kitchener with a three-over-par 76. Four juniors, two juveniles and one bantam qualified.

Frank Cotton of London Highland shot a four-over-par 75 to lead qualifiers at London. He had only one bad hole, a four-over-par eight.

London had five junior golfers who shot 80 or lower to win a berth in Toronto. Four juvenile and four bantam golfers also made it.

78 TOP SCORE

In Sarnia, 14 - year - old Mike Fraser of Burlington fashioned a 78 for one of the two juvenile berths. Sarnia had only one junior qualifier and three bantams.

Four Owen Sound district golfers made it into the junior finals along with one juvenile and one bantam.

In the qualifying rounds one in every nine players in junior and juvenile, classes qualified under Ontario Golf Association regulations. One in every 10 bantams qualified.

Juniors and juveniles will play a 36-hole final in Toronto July 25 and Bantams will play 18 holes.

ELEPHANT KILLED

Do FALSE TEETH
Rock, Slide or Slip?

FASTEETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. FASTEETH is alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Souchak Takes Big Money In Flint Open

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Burly Mike Souchak calmly dropped in a seven-foot putt on the 72nd hole in a pressure-filled finish to win $9,000 first-place money in the $52,000 Flint open golf tournament by a one-stroke margin Monday.

He beat out Gay Brewer and fast-finishing Art Wall by one stroke. Souchak, trailing four co-leaders going into the final round, shot a 69 for a 72-hole total of 282.

Jerry Magee of Toronto finished in a five-way tie for 17th place, taking home $900 with a card of 74-69-72-76—291. Stan Leonard of Vancouver was two strokes back at 293 and won $475. He fired a 77.

But while Rudolph staggered to a 41 on the back nine, Souchak rapped in birdies on three of four holes.

Souchak and Brewer teed up at 18 all even. But Brewer hit his second shot over the green and though he chipped on, his putt for par hung on the lip.

Souchak, putting last, sent his $9,000 putt sneaking in the side of the cup for his first victory since the San Diego Open last winter.

Brewer and Wall each collected $3,800.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Cross-Canada Survey

Canada's 3 Largest Cities Building Skyscrapers But Smaller Places Pass Them Up

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Skyscrapers, once a rarity, dot the skylines of Canada's three largest cities—Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

Montreal has eight reaching 20 storeys or higher, and three more are taking shape in an unprecedented building boom. Toronto has seven, with another nearing completion. Vancouver has four, but no immediate plans for more.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press discloses that most other cities have steered clear of towering buildings because their populations and economies are not considered large enough to justify them.

In major Prairie centres there is the additional factor that plenty of land is available for lateral expansion. Even in fast-growing Edmonton, which still has room to sprawl for miles across the Alberta flatlands, there is only a faint trend toward really tall buildings.

CAPITALS COOL

Quebec and Ottawa, proud and sedate provincial and federal capitals, do not seem eager to have their appearance changed by concrete giants. Inside the historic walls of Quebec the old Upper Town district, where the city has its roots, has a height limit for buildings of 65 feet. Ottawa has a bylaw imposing a maximum height of 100 feet from ground to eaves.

Along a four-block stretch of Montreal's Dorchester Boulevard, in the heart of the metropolitan shopping, theatre and hotel district, three commercial towers are rising. Being built with prestige as well as profit in mind, all three are scheduled for completion in 1962.

Two of them, the 42-storey Canadian Bank of Commerce building and the 40-storey Place Ville Marie, will be by far the tallest buildings in the Commonwealth. The third will be the 34-storey Canadian Industries Limited House.

Most of Montreal's skyscrapers are located either in the central district, where the new ones are going up, or in the financial district between Place d'Armes and Victoria Square, just above the waterfront.

TOWERING UNIVERSITY

The two exceptions are situated on opposite slopes of Mount Royal—the University of Montreal, whose 27-storey tower makes it Canada's only skyscraper university, and the 24-storey Montreal General Hospital, at 342 feet the tallest hospital in the country.

The university tower, on the northern slope, is 270 feet high and houses the main university library. From its summit, 730 feet above sea level, one can see the St. Lawrence River to the south beyond the mountain, and northward for a distance of 30 miles.

On or near Dorchester Boulevard are the Sun Life building, at 26 storeys and 400 feet still Montreal's tallest, and the largest office building in the Commonwealth; the Hotel Laurentien, 24 storeys, 250 feet; the new Queen Elizabeth hotel, 21 storeys, 273 feet, and the Bell Telephone company's head office building, 20 storeys, 324 feet.

In the financial sector are the Aldred Building, 23-storey, 336-foot centre for insurance and investment offices on Place d'Armes, and the Royal Bank of Canada head office, 20 storeys, 392 feet.

BUILDING OVER TRACKS

The 1,250,000 square feet of office space in the Sun Life building will be surpassed by only one of the three skyscrapers now under construction in the vicinity.

Place Ville Marie, a 550-foot building being erected over the tracks between the CNR's Central Station and the Mount Royal tunnel, will have 1,500,000 square feet. Cost of this project, including a 15-storey adjunct, mall and shopping promenade and concourse, is estimated at $200,000,000.

Two blocks to the west the Bank of Commerce building will rise to 600 feet at a cost of $45,000,000, and a block east the CIL House will reach 430 feet, costing $30,000,000.

Five of Toronto's taller buildings are within a few blocks in the downtown business district. These include the Bank of Commerce building, towering 34 storeys and 476 feet above ground, since 1930 the tallest building in the Commonwealth; the Royal York Hotel, 22 storeys and 397 feet, the largest hotel in the Commonwealth; and the Toronto Daily Star building, 23 storeys, 304 feet, the only skyscraper newspaper building in Canada. The Bank of Nova Scotia building is 26 storeys, 325 feet, and the Royal Bank of Canada building 21 storeys, 250 feet.

MOST ARE OLD

All except the Bank of Nova Scotia building, completed in 1950, are at least 30 years old. A 21-storey Prudential Insurance Company building in the heart of the district is to be completed this fall.

Also close to the centre of the city is the Imperial Life Tower on Victoria Street, 22 storeys and 250 feet.

Farther north in Toronto the Imperial Oil Building, 20 storeys, reaches 297 feet. It was completed in 1957 and its roof, 800 feet above sea level, is the highest observation point in the city.

Toronto's plannd new city hall on downtown Queen Street would have two semi-circular blocks towering 23 and 28 storeys.

VANCOUVER CLUSTER

Vancouver's skyscrapers are also mostly close together in the main business area, along Burrard and Georgia Streets.

Two striking additions to the coast city's skyline were completed in 1957: the British Columbia Electric building, 21 storeys, 285 feet above street level, housing the utility's offices; and the Georgian Towers, a 23-storey, 200-foot apartment hotel.

The Hotel Vancouver, completed in 1939, is still the city's highest building at 365 feet, its 24 storeys including three in a tall, peaked roof.

Oldest in the 20-storey class is the Marine Building, finished in 1930 and housing commercial offices. It reaches 318 feet.

HIGH LAND COST

Population and economics explain skyscrapers because they enable more people to work and carry on more commercial activity in a costly land area.

Peter Welch of Marwell Construction Company, which has built some of Vancouver's tallest buildings, explains: "If you have to pay $3,000 to $5,000 a front foot for your property, you've got to have a pretty heavy occupancy to give you the return necessary to justify your investment."

Another advantage, he says, is that more light is obtained by taking up less of the building lot space and extending the building higher.

Regulations affecting tall buildings are much the same in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. There is no absolute height limit, but it must be governed by the lot space surrounding the building.

PLAZA SPACE

"This is to avoid concrete canyons," says planning director Romeo Mondello.

The latest city to give itself a boost skywards is St. John's, Nfld., where the 12-storey Confederation Building opened in April to house the provincial legislature and all government departments.

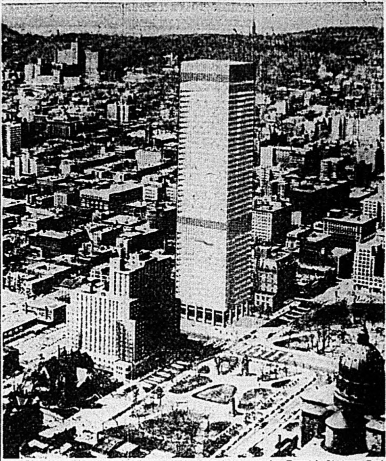
The tallest buildings in the Maritime provinces are hospitals, the 14-storey Victoria General in Halifax and the 12-storey, dome-topped General Hospital at Saint John, N.B.

CHATEAU TALLEST

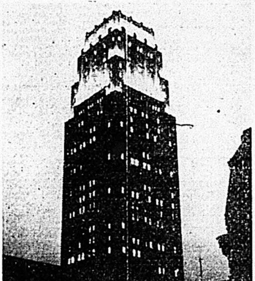
Quebec City's loftiest are the 17-storey Chateau Frontenac and the Price Brothers building, also 17 storeys. Both were built before the restrictions on tall buildings went into effect there.

Ottawa's ban on taller buildings is again under review, but no early changes are expected. The purpose of the restrictions is to preserve the skyline dominated by the Parliament Buildings and the Peace Tower.

In Western cities, the tallest buildings are in the 10-to-16-storey range, and there seems little prospect of any change in the next few years.



COMMONWEALTH'S TALLEST — This architect's drawing of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Building, now under construction at Montreal, is superimposed on a photograph of the city to show how it will look when completed. The 42-storey structure will rise 600 feet, surpassing Toronto's 34-storey Bank of Commerce Building as the tallest building in the Commonwealth. Across Dorchester St. from the new structure can be seen the 24-storey Hotel Laurentian, rising to a height of 250 feet. (CP Photo).



TORONTO SKYSCRAPER — Toronto's 34-storey Bank of Commerce Building, since 1930 the tallest in the Commonwealth, will soon be surpassed in height by the Canadian Bank of Commerce Building under construction in Montreal. The Toronto skyscraper, shown floodlighted in this night-time photo, towers 476 feet above the street. The 42-storey Montreal structure will rise 600 feet and cost $45,000,000. (CP Photo).

MANY JOBLESS

HAMILTON (CP) — National Employment Service figures released here Saturday show male unemployment in Hamilton is double what it was a year ago. There are 7,154 men seeking work now compared with 3,702 a year ago. Unemployed women here number 4,468, compared with 3,781 a year ago.

PICTON

Nearly 15,000 Weekend at Outlet Park

PICTON — A total of 14,500 people visited the Ontario Provincial Park at the Outlet, over the weekend, a check yesterday revealed. This was fewer than would have been the case had it not rained Sunday morning, resulting in a smaller crowd than usual that day. Some 3,600 cars were checked through the gates from midnight Thursday until Sunday evening.

A total of 234 campers were accommodated, with about 250 parties having to be turned away when all sites were filled by 10.30 Friday morning. They were found accommodation at Walter Stelmack's Cove Beach on East Lake, at Bruce Martin's Cedar Park at the Outlet and at other county resorts. Tent villages were set up at these points.

The Park expects to have another 125 sites available soon, work having been delayed due to the necessity of keeping the mile long sand beach free of shad which float in each day.

Providing opposition to the park as a mecca for motorists was the opening of Lake-on-the-Mountain for fishing. More than one thousand cars were parked there on Friday and Saturday and 160 bass are reported as being among catches checked by Department of Game and Fisheries officials.

All resorts in the county of Prince Edward report heavy bookings and they expect a longer season than usual with accommodation being in demand for the week of the Harmsworth trophy race in Picton at the end of August when holidayers normally depart for home.

QUEBEC TOBACCO

Quebec province was producing 1,000,000 pounds of pipe tobacco annually as early as 1871.

PICTON

Rose Show Attracts Over 1500 People

PICTON — The first rose show ever held in Prince Edward attracted more than 1500 persons on Saturday. Sponsored by the County Horticultural Society, there were nearly two hundred entries in rose classes and fifty in miscellaneous classes.

A silver trophy awarded for the best single hybrid tea rose, 'The Queen of the Show', was won by Mrs. William J. Walmsley of Picton with a Pink Peace variety.

'The Maid of Honor' award, for best spray of floribunda went to Jack Laundry of East Lake with a Vogue entry.

'The Four Roses' award for best four tea roses was won by an entry of Crimson Glory by Gordon Miller, Dufferin Ave., Belleville.

Miss Margaret Haight, Bloomfield was winner of three firsts, three seconds and a third. Jack Laundry took three firsts, a second and five thirds; Mrs. Mary Laundry, two firsts, a second and two thirds; Dr. F. W. Murphy, Picton, three firsts, a second and a third; Mrs. W. J. Walmsley, three firsts, three seconds, one third; Mrs. Milton Dulmage, Picton, a first and a third; Roy Parliament, Picton, a first and four seconds; G. S. Patton, Wellington, a first and second. Others winning prizes were Mrs. L. B. Calnan, Picton, Mrs. Fred Van-Cott, Picton, H. D. Williams, Bloomfield, Mrs. Frank Haight, Wellington, Mrs. Sidna Nourse, Mrs. George Lovell and Mrs. J. Walmsley, Picton; Mrs. Marion Cronk, Picton.

Society president Phil Dodds announced a gladioli show will be held in August, open to the Horticultural district No. 3 Judge of the roses was Mrs. Gerald Cronk of Kingston, while Mrs. J. S. Shepherdson, District Director for No. 3 district, R. R. 1 Kingston, judged corsages, table and dining room bouquets. They were presented with gifts of pottery in appreciation of their services. Both had high praise for both the quality and quantity of the exhibits in the show, which is expected to become an annual event.

House Gutted Contents Lost

PICTON — A small house occupied by Wilbert Cooper on Yor street was gutted by fire Monday afternoon. Though the building was left standing the interior was ruined by fire and water. All contents were lost. Cause of the blaze is not known as Mr. Cooper, who lived alone, was at work. Picton firemen kept the fire under control and the laundry building next door and the H .B. Tully house close by were not threatened. A second fire on Mary street was reported at the same time but firemen were unable to locate it on the reported Mary street address and presume that the caller had mistaken smoke from the other fire.

Struck by Bike

PICTON — Only serious accident reported over the weekend by town police was that of Helen Elizabeth Harrison, 12, who was knocked from the bicycle she was riding on Bridge Street. She was admitted to Prince Edward County Memorial hospital. Though badly shaken up and bruised, her condition is favorable and it will not be known if there were any broken bones until a radiologist report is received. Dr. Gerald Allison is in attendance.

The driver of the car involved was Ayrus B. Wentzell, 139 Main Street, Picton.

New Red Rockets Pave Way For Man Into Space

First of New Series Blasted Into Pacific

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians have started their new series of long-range rocket tests to pave the way for attempts at Mars, Venus or putting a man into space.

The first of the new rockets was fired into the central Pacific Tuesday, travelling some 8,000 miles "in exact accordance with the pre-set program," the Russians said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the shot "marks the beginning of the testing of new types of powerful, multi-stage carrier rockets for space exploration." It made no mention of the rockets' military potential as an intercontinental carrier for nuclear weapons.

The final stage of the rocket—a dummy of the instrument or man - carrying chamber that would be used in a space probe—"reached the water surface in close proximity to the target," Tass added.

GREATER RANGE

The range claimed was some 850 miles more than that reported for the rocket the Russians test-fired into the central Pacific in January. The Russians said that one came within a mile of the target.

(A United States Atlas ballistic missile travelled 9,000 miles May 20, from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into the Indian Ocean. The defence department said the Atlas fell in a pre-selected target area but did not elaborate.)

Of the latest test, Tass said that "special vessels in the central Pacific equipped with various measuring instruments took measurements envisaged by the program and obtained valuable results."

"To accumulate further experimental data, the testing of powerful ballistic rockets will be continued."

SPACE SHOT NEXT?

The announcement said the rocket's dummy last stage had been "adapted for passage through dense layers of the atmosphere." This could indicate that the Russians are preparing to try to bring back and recover a rocket nose cone from outer space, a necessary preliminary

Aneurin Bevan, British Labor Leader, Dies

Bevan underwent a major abdominal operation last Dec. 29 in a London hospital and had been confined in his home in Buckinghamshire since leaving the hospital Feb. 14.

Although the nature of his ailment has not been disclosed officially, it was generally believed to have been cancer.

A Labor party spokesman said Bevan died peacefully at 1:20 p.m.

The silver-tongued Welshman, who rose from the mines to a top political post, had suffered a series of relapses since then and became critically ill last week.

Human Skull Sent Away for Routine Tests

TRENTON — A skull found in an excavation at nearby Carrying Place and estimated to be 300 years old has been sent to Toronto by the provincial police for routine laboratory tests.

The skull was part of a skeleton, believed to be that of a male Indian, found with other relics in an excavation for a cottage.

Rev. Bowen Squires of Consecon, an amateur historian and archaeologist, said the excavations appear to have uncovered an Indian grave.

Dr. Harkness Dies at 64

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. W. J. K. (Bill) Harkness, 64, one of Canada's leading authorities on the outdoors, died in hospital Tuesday night after a brief illness.

He had been chief of the fish and wildlife division of the Ontario department of lands and forests since 1946.

Dr. Harkness, whose chief interest was fish research, was internationally known in that field. He was on the Great Lakes fisheries commission, an officer of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissions and in 1951 was president of the American Fisheries Society.

Plan to Ban Hornet Rifle

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation making it unlawful for Canadians to possess the .22-calibre Hornet survival rifle received second reading—approval in principle—in the Senate Tuesday night.

The government proposes that possession of the rifle be prohibited because the weapon might well facilitate the commission of crimes. Because of its compactness it can be concealed easily.

The rifles, sold to dealers by Crown Assets Disposal Corporation after being declared surplus by the air force, are being called back.

SENATE DEFEATS MOVE TO ABOLISH MARGARINE TAX

Dairy Farmers Win Fight to Keep Levy

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's dairy farmers and the butter industry won a victory in the Senate Tuesday night.

The upper house defeated a move by Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario) to abolish the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on margarine.

Senators voted 32 to 15 in favor of a motion by government leader Walter Aseltine not to accept a recommendation made last week by the upper house's banking committee for abolition of the tax.

The 32 supporters of Senator Aseltine's motion included 14 Progressive Conservatives and 18 Liberals. Liberals cast all votes against the motion.

Supporters of abolition of the margarine tax argued that it is unfair and discriminatory to single out one food and tax it to protect an industry. They referred to margarine as the "poor man's food."

WOULD HURT FARMERS

Senators opposed to removal of the tax said such action would result in great damage to farmers producing milk for butter. Others said it would upset Finance Minister Fleming's budgetary position for the current fiscal year by an estimated $5,000,000, the amount the tax is forecast to yield.

Most senators in favor of elimination of the tax said the upper house has the power to cut a tax. The others said it was not necessary to argue this point — they opposed its elimination on other grounds.

Senator Aseltine said the dairy industry considered the tax necessary to enable it to compete with margarine producers.

Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) said opposition to the elimination of the tax is a "thinly - veiled disguise for the special privilege of a deeply-entrenched dairy industry in this country."

WANTS TAX DROPPED

Senator Euler said foods should not be subject to any form of tax. Margarine was a nutritious food which had proved a boon to people who could not afford butter.

Said Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario):

"I object to hog-tying the consumer at any time, limiting the power of choice and forcing him to buy something that he doesn't want by some financial arrangement or by any physical arrangement."

Senator William Golding (L Ontario) said the dairy industry needs protection because farmers are having a tough time. Things were so bad that some farmers were buying margarine themselves because of their economic situation.

ASK PRIVATE TALKS

Picasso's Paintings Puzzle Prince, His Major Comment - - 'Ha, Ha, Ha'

LONDON (CP)—Prince Philip, a buff for science, cricket and polo, spent 32 minutes surveying the 65 years of artist Pablo Picasso's career Tuesday night and 35 minutes at the banquet that accompanied it.

"Ha, ha, ha," was the major comment on the art from the husband of the Queen.

"I think he was a little mystified by some of the later works," said exhibition organizer Roland Penrose, who showed the prince around.

What Philip thought about the food — that Spanish has of chicken and rice called paella—was not reported.

The prince was the honor guest at the opening of the Tate Gallery's summer show of Picassos. The 269 paintings and other works, from private and public collections in 12 countries, are the biggest showing of the noted Spanish artist's works ever assembled.

The 78-year-old artist stayed home at his chateau in France, keeping up the prodigious output which has made him a millionaire.

In addition to the paintings, paella and Philip, the 2,000 previewers who paid five guineas ($15) a head got to see movie stars Gregory Peck and Anthony Quinn, to drink a sour red wine called Sangria and to hear a background of canned Flamenco music.

Penrose, friend and biographer of Picasso, estimated that the modern master has produced 9,000 to 10,000 paintings so far, plus sculpture, ceramics and innumerable drawings.

Expect Some Major Changes In Top Quebec Govt. Posts

QUEBEC (CP)—Some major changes in top Quebec civil service posts were expected today as the Liberals, in power after 16 years in opposition, held their first cabinet meeting.

Premier Jean Lesage and his 16 new ministers were sworn in Tuesday and were to hold their first meeting today.

The cabinet was also scheduled to grapple with administrative problems which have been pending since the defeat of the Union Nationale party at the polls June 22. Many public works projects were halted and the cabinet gradually is to give the word for resumption on some and to start a program of its own.

Mr. Lesage has said two royal commissions of inquiry will be set up to examine the administration of the Union Nationale party during the past 16 years and to investigate the sale of the Montreal gas system by the Quebec-Hydro Electric Commission to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Premier Lesage Tuesday mentioned changes within the provincial police as an urgent item on his agenda. It is known on reliable authority that Provincial Police Director Hilaire Beauregard has applied for retirement.

Other officials who are known to have asked to be retired are J. Ernest Laforce, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Laurent Hardy, chief of the Congo Soldiers Stage March On Capital, Defying Premier

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Native soldiers mutinied today and created the first major crisis for the Congo Republic, former Belgian colony.

An armored column was sent to head off mutineers marching on the capital from Camp Hardy at Thysville, 80 miles away.

The soldiers were halted briefly earlier at Madimba Village by a roadblock manned by other soldiers. But the Belgian officers commanding the roadblock were disarmed by their own men and the mutineers continued their advance on the capital.

Soldiers stationed in and around Leopoldville streamed into the centre of Leopoldville during the morning. Some of them molested whites, entered the Parliament buildings and surrounded Premier Patrice Lumumba's house.

Lumumba, heading the country since it was granted independence from Belgium last Thursday, went on the air to promise a speed-up in "Africanization" of the Belgian-officered army. He said the army intended to hand over key army, police and administrative posts to Congolese.

But Lumumba did not mention a mutineers' claim that he had agreed to the removal of Belgium's Gen. Emil Janssens as commander of the 25,000-strong army.

The action of the mutineers went directly against the orders of Lumumba, who had called on them for discipline earlier in the day.

The mutineers demanded more pay and "Africanization" of the force—replacement of Belgian officers by Africans. They yelled "down with whites."

NORAD Deputy Staff Chief Is Killed in Jump From Jet

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — Air Vice-Marshal Keith L. B. Hodson of the RCAF, one of Canada's most promising air staff officers and the second highest ranking Canadian with NORAD, was killed late Tuesday while parachuting from a disabled jet trainer a few miles from this huge Strategic Air Command base.

A spokesman for the North American Air Defence command said Hodson, who served 22 years with the RCAF, either broke his neck or was strangled in the cords of his parachute.

An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the exact cause of death.

The handsome and popular Hodson, who looked much younger than his 44 years, was being checked out on a training flight by Col. Harry B. Allen, also 44, of Portland, Ore., when the engine of their T - 33 jet trainer failed at about 13,000 feet.

Both men jumped 12 miles south of here and landed in an open field. But gusty winds hampered their landing. Allen said he saw Hodson being pushed along in the tangled lines of his parachute.

Hodson was dead when the American reached him. Allen suffered cuts and bruises and was taken to hospital for observation.

Acquaintances considered Hodson one of the most promising of younger RCAF officers and there had been speculation he was in line for the post of chief in the not-too-distant future.

The picture type of airman in this modern-day jet age, Hodson had a warm personality and was well liked and respected within the service.

He came to NORAD 20 months ago and as deputy chief of staff of the joint Canadian-American defence body was the second highest ranking Canadian behind Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon of the RCAF, deputy commander-in-chief of NORAD.

CCF, LIBERALS SQUABBLE OVER BILL OF RIGHTS

Liberals Back PC's Opposing CCF Move

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition, climaxing 2½ days of criticism of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights, split Tuesday night on a showdown vote.

Opposition Leader Pearson led his Liberals in support of the Progressive Conservatives in voting against a CCF motion that the bill not be read a second time but that the government be instructed to consult with the provinces on a comprehensive constitutional amendment guaranteeing fundamental freedoms and human rights.

To the delight of the prime minister and government supporters Mr. Pearson and Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, engaged in a sharp skirmish over the Liberal position.

Mr. Pearson argued that, while the Liberals support a constitutional amendment as the best way to enshrine freedoms and rights, the CCF motion would have the effect of killing the prime minister's bill. The Liberals favored the principle of such a measure and could not back a move to kill it.

SAYS COULD CONTINUE

Mr. Argue, hotly denying that his motion would kill the measure, maintained that debate on the bill could continue while the government consulted the provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker clearly enjoyed the Liberal dilemma and seized the opportunity afforded by the Pearson-Argue battle to maintain that the CCF was retreating from past support of a bill of rights.

On a recorded vote, the CCF amendment was defeated 191 to 7.

The vote climaxed a day in

Constable Not Trained to Run Boat Search for Man Delayed 5 Hours

NORTH BAY (CP)—Mrs. Gordon Duff, wife of a man drowned in Lake Nipissing June 13, told a coroner's jury Tuesday a provincial police office delayed a search for her husband by about five hours.

The jury is inquiring into the death of Edward Hyland of Sudbury, who was fishing with three companions when his boat capsized. Duff, from suburban West Ferris, was also drowned. His body has not been found.

Provincial Police Const. Dominic Gallagher said he did not respond to Mrs. Duff's search request because he had not been trained to deal with an emergency marine situation.

Questioned by Eric Silk, deputy Ontario attorney-general, Const. Gallagher, duty officer at the police station on the night of the drowning, said he had been ordered not to use the police launch before 8 a.m.

Two of the men in the boat, Paul Power and William Graham, both of North Bay, clung to the boat all night and swam to a nearby island the next day.

Mrs. Duff told the five-man jury she became alarmed when her husband did not return from the fishing trip. She said she telephoned Dan Saya, who drove her to the government dock in the early morning.

When they saw her husband's station wagon on the dock, she said, they went to the OPP office where Mr. Saya told the officer on duty they needed a boat. The time was then 5:10 a.m.

She said she understood the officer to say the boat would not be able to go out on the lake until 8 a.m. but it "definitely did not go out until 10 a.m."

Will Pay For It Only If Yankees Buy More Sugar

Compensation to Come From Sales Over Quota

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's cabinet today authorized him to expropriate all American property in Cuba and pay for it only if the United States buys more—not less—Cuban sugar at premium prices.

The new seizure decree, drafted by the cabinet at a session lasting beyond midnight, authorized President Osvaldo Dorticos or the prime minister to take over any property owned by U.S. companies or citizens in Cuba "when deemed necessary in the national interest."

The law also provides for expropriation of companies in which U.S. citizens may have "interest or participation." An example is the British-Dutch Shell Oil refinery whose operation — along with the U.S. Esso and Texaco refineries—was taken over by the government last week.

The cabinet said the expropriation was authorized because of "the constantly aggressive attitude" of the U.S. government and particularly the authority given President Eisenhower by Congress to reduce Cuba's sugar sales to the United States.

Underlining the retaliatory nature of the action, the decree pinned compensation for the seized property directly to American sugar purchases.

It said the American owners would be paid in two-per cent, 30 year Cuban government bonds backed by a special fund. But the fund is to come from 25 per cent of the dollars paid for sugar sales to the United States in excess of 3,000,000 tons a year and at a price of 5¾ cents a pound or more.

In anticipation of a cut in the quota, the U.S. agriculture department Tuesday forbid further imports of Cuban sugar to the United States until Eisenhower acts.

Cuba's sugar quota this year is 3,100,000 tons, and sugar industry sources in Washington expect Eisenhower to cut it perhaps 700,000 tons. That would put American purchases 600,000 tons below the figure at which the first dollar would go into the compensation fund.

The decree also put a super-premium price on Cuban sugar before the American owners can be repaid. The United States has been paying about 5½ cents a pound, or about 2½ cents above the world market price.

The decree specified that expropriation edicts could not be appealed.

It sent a shock wave through the American colony in Havana, many of whom had stayed up late to get the news. Some sort of retaliatory measure had been expected but nothing so far-reaching.

In London Tuesday, informed sources said President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina, on a state visit, told Prime Minister Macmillan he had urged Castro in vain to halt his drift toward the left. But Frondizi also was quoted as telling Macmillan that Castro had not violated any international law and that he could find no basis for international action against the Cuban regime.

India Unveils Plan to Become Self-Sustaining

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's government today took the wraps off an ambitious $21,000,000,000 five-year plan aimed at giving this nation of 400,000,000 a self-sustained economy.

It is India's third five - year plan and will cover the 1961-66 period.

It has a five - fold goal: To achieve self-sufficiency in food grains; raise the national income by five per cent annually; expand basic industries such as fuel, steel and power; increase employment; and achieve equitable distribution of wealth and income.

Parliament and 15 state legislatures will examine the plan, due to begin April 1, 1961. They and various development councils will put it in final shape.

Joint Control Of A-Weapons Sought Says PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker maintained in the Commons today that he has never said that any American nuclear weapons in Canada would be under sole Canadian control.

He added that what he had said was "joint control" with the United States "and that still stands."

An exchange between the prime minister and Opposition Leader Pearson blew up into an angry dispute with Speaker Roland Michener asking Mr. Diefenbaker to withdraw a statement made about the Liberal chief.

Mr. Pearson started by asking whether any nuclear warheads for Canadian forces in Europe would be under sole Canadian control as in the case of such warheads in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the question was improper. He had never said there would be sole Canadian control in Canada but joint control.

CBC Network Will Televise 13-Program Series on Law

Starting today the CBC television network will begin a series of 13 programs on the law, produced in co-operation with the Canadian Bar Association.

Each program will deal with an imaginary case. Facts will be presented to the host by the plaintiff and the defendant, or in criminal cases, by the accused and the police, with the occasional addition of a witness. These roles will be played by actors.

The scene will then move to a courtroom presided over by a "real" judge. Two "real" lawyers will present the arguments for both sides. A panel of four laymen will discuss the case among themselves before the judge renders his decision.

The judge, after changing into a business suit, will join the panel and give them his decision. The implications of this decision will then be examined by the panel in a free and unrehearsed exchange.

The series, entitled "A Case for the Court," will be viewed over Kingston CKWS TV from 10.30 to 10.59 p.m. EDT, every Wednesday starting today. The series will conclude September 28th.

Today's program, "The Child Trap," concerns a child who has a fatal accident while playing in an open gravel pit. The Judge is the Hon. Mr. Justice Stewart of the Supreme Court of Ontario, and the lawyers are George Mitchell, Q.C., of London, and William Parker, Q. C., of Hamilton.

The program on July 13th, entitled "My Son's Car," concerns the problem of whether a father is responsible for damages incurred by an under-age son driving a car registered in the father's name. The Judge will again be the Hon. Mr. Justice Stewart, and the lawyers will be Brendan O'Brien, Q.C., and John F. McGarry, Q. C., both of Toronto.

The remainder of the series will be as follows. On July 20, the program is "The Deal that Fell Through," and concerns a real estate agent who sues the vendor for his commission though the sale was not completed.

On July 27th the program, "Obstructing the Police," deals with the question of whether you have to answer a policeman's questions while he is investigating a crime not involving you.

On August 3rd, the program "False Arrest," concerns the owner of a small store who has a customer suspected of shoplifting arrested by the police.

On August 10th, the program "The Policeman's Right to Shoot," concerns the question of how much force the police are entitled to use while trying to apprehend a suspect trying to escape.

On August 17th the program is "Theft from a Parking-lot." In this program a supermarket has an arrangement with a private parking-lot whereby its customers may park without charge. A car is stolen.

On August 24th the program "The Right to Discipline," concerns the question of how much force a teacher, under provocation, may use in a classroom in disciplining a mischievous child.

On August 31st, the program "The Fine Print," poses the following problem — the purchaser of a television set bought through a finance company finds it to be defective when delivered.

On September 7th, the program "Bigamy?" concerns the question of when is an American divorce valid in Canada.

On September 14th, the program "A Narcotics Case," concerns a man found to be in possession of narcotics who is presumed guilty.

On September 21st, the program "The Drinking Driver," deals with the problem of under what circumstances the damaging results of a breathaliser test can be upset.

The final program on September 28h, "The Forgetful Testator," concerns a daughter who is left out of her father's will after performing services for him in the belief she will be rewarded after his death.

J. F. Brown, field representative of the community planning branch of the Department of Municilal Affairs, and O. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer for the town of Trenton, discuss the possibility of conducting a survey of the housing conditions in the town.

Trenton Should Undertake Sociological Survey of Town

TRENTON — "The provincial government is demanding that municipalities pay more attention to redeveloping their older established areas, rather than taking in areas adjacent to the municipality and developing these areas, while allowing the older sections of the municipality to run down".

Speaking to a special meeting of town council Tuesday night, J. F. Brown, field representative of the community planning branch of the department of municipal affairs, stressed the need for communities like Trenton to undertake a sociological study of existing conditions, industrial, commercial and residential.

Present at the meeting were Mayor James MacDonald, Councillors D. R. Fraser, H. G. Aziz, R. J. Whitley, N. J. McNair, C. V. Graham, engineer Walter Murray, clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry, assessor Alan Smith and assistant assessor Arie Hoornweeg.

Mr. Larry explained at the outset that the advice of the department had been sought at the request of the Board of Health which suggested that council embark upon a sociological survey of living conditions in the town. Mr. Larry said council was concerned about the fact that 45 per cent of the homes in town were assessed for $2,000 or less. Redevelopment of these lower assessed housing areas would add to the town's tax revenue, he said.

Mr. Brown said it was interesting to know that the Board of Health should take the initiative in this matter. He said federal grants were available for this type of redeveloping survey. The federal government would bear 75 per cent of the cost of such a survey and the municipality 25 per cent. On the other hand, if a redeveloping program were carried out in certain parts of the town and had to do with housing areas, the federal government would undertake 50 per cent of the cost, the provincial government 25 per cent leaving 25 per cent for the community.

Mr. Brown said that all redevelopment was not slum clearance.

He said that many communities sought help to maintain established areas, or to replace antiquated commercial areas with residential areas.

NEED PROOF

When a so-called "slum area" is redeveloped, the municipality must prove to both governments that provision is being made to house the former home owners or tenants. A form of public housing, subsidized by the municipality, is often necessary.

"Some people are quite happy in slum conditions," said Mr. Brown. "They don't want to move where they will have to pay more rent or taxes. In this case, the municipality has to educate them and possibly subsidize them."

"Trenton always was a poor man's town," said Councillor Whitley. "It started as a mill town and it's still a mill town. The poor are always with us."

"A lot of shiftless poor, too," said Councillor McNair.

"I'm prompted to advise this study from the tax problem," said clerk O. W. Larry. "The town needs more tax revenue."

"As long as we have a school system that demands mansions of schools with recreation halls and swimming pools, we'll never get out of the hole," said Councillor McNair. "Half our taxes go for schools."

"Come now, Mac," said Councillor Graham, "you're living in a different age."

"To heck with a different age," snorted Councillor McNair.

"I suggest that we have a survey made of one particular area and make it a pilot case of redevelopment," said Mayor MacDonald.

Mr. Brown indicated that the study and subsequent redevelopment could be carried out along these lines. Council instructed the clerk to write to Project Planners, who were responsible for the town's official plan, and enquire into the feasibility of such a survey.

Discounts Story Daughter Has Been Kidnapped

TRENTON — The mother of one of two girls missing from their homes here for more than a week today discounted a report that her daughter may have been kidnapped and was somewhere on Lake Ontario aboard an American yacht.

Mrs. Thomas Emerson, mother of Dianne Emerson, 14, of 80 Byron St. said she had no "idea where this fantastic story" came from.

Mrs. N. E. Coon, mother of the other missing girl, Linda, 15, of 36 John St., said police had picked up an American yachtsman but released him after an interview. She said the man claimed he knew the girls' whereabouts.

Police Chief F. J. Taylor said a man had been picked up and questioned in connection with the case, but that he had been released when his story turned out to be phoney.

Permits Down First 6 Months But Values Up

TRENTON — The monthly report released Tuesday by William Anderson, Trenton's building inspector, said 29 building permits were issued during June for an estimated value of $807,738.

Permits were issued for the hospital addition ($629,113); the addition to Trenton High School ($107,000); Trenton Memorial Hospital ($12,000); seven new dwellings ($47,350); six dwelling repairs ($4,430); five additions to dwellings ($4,600); and eight garages $(3,745).

From January 1 to June 30, 93 permits were issued valued at $1,056,546, and during the same period last year 118 permits were issued to the value of $788,362.

Promote to 'Wingco'

TRENTON—S/L W. H. Smith, chief technical officer at 6 Repair Depot, has been promoted to the rank of wing commander.

W/C Smith was transferred to Trenton in August, 1957, from Air Materiel Command Headquarters, Ottawa. He and Mrs. Smith and their children, Brian and Bill, live at 1 Breadner Blvd., Middleton Park.

33 Flt. Cadets From Quebec Visit Station

TRENTON — Thirty-three RCAF flight cadets from College Militaire Royale, St. Jean, Que., visited RCAF Station Trenton Tuesday. This was the eighth day of a 22-day tour during which the cadets will travel half way across Canada and visit 18 different air force stations.

On their itinerary at Trenton was a demonstration by 102 Compositea Unit, which included a para-drop into the Bay of Quinte. Also on the itinerary was a briefing by the commanding officer.

To round off their visit, a tour of the Bay of Quinte by RCAF rescue launch was arranged.

So far, the cadets have had a tour through an Argus anti-submarine aircraft at Greenwood, N.S., inspected Navy Banshee jet aircraft and visited a Pinetree radar post. They also attended an aerobatic display by the Golden Hawks at Chatham, N.B.

Next stop for the cadets is RCAF Station, Downsview at Toronto. The purpose of the tour is to acquaint the first year officer cadets with the RCAF.

Doldrums Grip Airport Group, No Relief Seen

By DON HARVEY

The East Central Ontario Airport Committee apparently is in the grips of the summer doldrums.

Chairman Arthur Duncan said Tuesday he hopes to call a meeting before he goes on vacation. The committee hasn't met in more than a month.

Yours truly has resigned from the committee because it was rather awkward trying not to be biased in our reports of committee activities. It was also sometimes difficult to comment and, at the same time, remain loyal to the committee.

• • •

General manager Benoit Ste-Marie of Quebecair Inc. is interested in learning of the interest residents hereabouts have in the airport committee's hopes of bringing in airline service. How about passing your opinions to us in the mail? Either that or mail them to Arthur Duncan at Batawa.

• • •

Did you know that the Department of Lands and Forests' forest protection branch, operates 45 aircraft from 28 bases in Ontario? Closest base to Belleville is at Tweed. Aircraft types include 37 Beavers, seven Otters and one Widgeon amphibian.

• • •

Received a letter from R. D. Bartlett, secretary of the Campbell River, B. C., Chamber of Commerce. He said that since the municipality of 3,500 people opened an airport last September, Pacific Western Airlines has inaugurated two daily flights to Vancouver and is transporting some 600 persons a month.

"The airport has immensely encouraged the forming of a local flying club," he said, "and many residents are taking lessons in flying.

"We find also that many tourists are now planning to fly their own planes to Campbell River (on Vancouver Island) and we have already had one club fly - in and are planning for more of this desired tourist publicity."

• • •

Fifty RCAF officers will be guests of the Bata Shoe Company at Batawa Thursday.

• • •

A news item in Tuesday's paper said the RCAF, which was alerted when a civilian aircraft was reported missing, called off a planned search when the plane turned up at Ottawa's Uplands Airport.

The pilot 1. failed to notify air traffic control that he had arrived safely; 2. failed to file a flight plan before he left Montreal.

The Department of Transport, we hope, will nick the pilot on the first count and, we hope, it will take a dim view of his not filing a flight plan.

The only way to deal with this type of irresponsible pilot is to suspend his license for good.

Richard Bonter, Former Marmora Reeve, Passes

MARMORA — A well-known and highly respected citizen of Marmora Richard Bonter passed away in Belleville Hospital following a few weeks illness.

He was born in Marmora Township, son of William Bonter and the former Margaret Plunkett. He was in his 80th year. He was educated in the Township and served as its reeve. His chief occupation was lumbering except for a few years in the grocery business in Marmora later returning to the mill which he ran until his retirement.

He had a keen interest in municipal affairs and served some years as village councillor. He was active in the conservative party. He was a former chairman of the High School Board. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and of L.O.L. No. 319 a Past Master of A.F. and A.M. No. 222 and a member of St. Paul's Anglican church where he served as peoples warden for twelve years, treasurer for a number of years.

He was a keen sportsman and ardent fisherman. In his early teens he was connected with Marmora Band..

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials were struggling to stay on the plus side but western oils were moving ahead smartly amid relatively light morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

On index, industrials gained .13 at 485.63, while western oils advanced 1.16 at 81.81. Base metals increased .34 at 154.03 and golds were down .08 at 75.54.

The 11 a.m. volume was 455,000 shares, much lighter than the 751,000 shares traded at the same time Tuesday.

In industrials, Bank of Montreal and Trans-Canada Pipeline each gained ¾ at 52¾ and 18. Gurney Products and Page-Hersey advanced ½. Minnesota and Ontario Paper was down 2⅛ at 27¾. Dupont fell 1½.

Mines were quiet. Noranda moved up ½ at 37¾ and Ventures gained ⅜. McIntyre - Porcupine was down ½ at 22½ and Hudson Bay Mining and International Nickel each dropped ⅜.

In Western oils Calgary and Edmonton was ahead ⅜ and Hudson's Bay and Pacific Petroleum each gained 30 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged today.

The egg market was reported weak with receipts in excess of a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 37; A medium 34; A small 25; B 24; C 20.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario tenderable 63; non tenderable 61¾-62, in light trading, western 62½ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 13-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Pound sterling $2.75 13-16, up 7-16.

SAVED COUSIN

KITCHENER (CP) — Judith Wintermeyer, 15-year-old daughter of Ontario Liberal leader and Mrs. John Wintermeyer, saved a two-year-old Toronto boy from drowning Sunday, it was reported today. She dived into Lake of Bays in the Muskoka district to [illegible] Paul [illegible] above water, and hold him there until Ted Quigley, 13, could pull him from the lake.

Twelve District Students Seek B of M Awards

MONTREAL — Six-hundred-and-fifty-seven young Ontario students are in the running for the 13 Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Scholarships which are to be awarded in their province in 1960, the bank has announced. Applications for the scholarships — each worth $750 in the first year — have now closed.

The Ontario boys and girls are among 2,208 of this year's high-school graduates across Canada competing for the first year's 50 scholarships for the study of arts and sciences at Canadian universities. Every application had to be accompanied by the recommendation of the student's principal, so that there has already been considerable "pre-selection" in the high schools.

Twelve applications were forwarded by Belleville district B of M branches for district students.

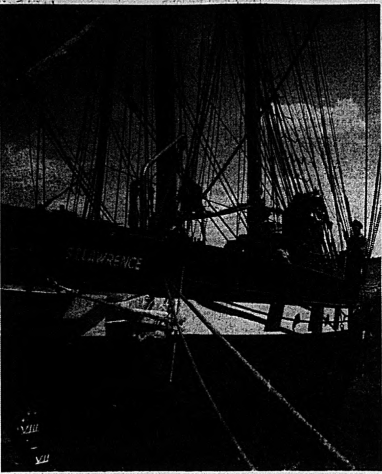
Final selection will be made in August by the ten provincial selection committees, each composed of leading educationists from universities in the provinces concerned.

The scholarships to be awarded this year are the first step in a seven-year plan announced by the B of M in May to provide bank-aided university study. The program will culminate in 1967, the year of the centennial of Canadian Confederation and the bank's 150th anniversary, when two final B of M Canada centennial — awards will be made. One award will be in arts and one in science — each in the amount of $5,000 for study anywhere in the world.

The scheme provides for a total of 124 awards in the years 1960-67, ranging from $750 to $5,000. When the plan was announced, G. Arnold Hart, president of the B of M, said the bank hoped the scholarships would provide "a tangible and worthwhile observance of the national centennial to the future national advantage."

OPP TRANSFERS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Two provincial police officers were promoted to rank of sergeant and transferred from this district Tuesday. Harry Bent goes to North Bay and Fred Peer of the St. Catharines detachment moves to Brockville.



VISITING BRIGANTINE — St. Lawrence II, the training ship of RCSCC "St. Lawrence," visited Belleville from yesterday afternoon through this morning on the first training cruise of the season. Members of Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps in the area are given the opportunity of sailing aboard her during the summer months for a nominal fee. This morning a number of local Sea Scouts boarded the ship for a short cruise to Presqu'ile.

Firemen Hold Successful Jamboree

DESERONTO — With pleasant weather and a receptive crowd the Firemen's Jamboree held on Friday and Saturday in the town park was a real success. The people began to gather early each evening and kept all the booths busy. There seemed to be a holiday spirit prevailing and everyone was out for fun.

On Saturday afternoon a number of races were held for the children and the contests were close and spirited. The winners were as follows: girls—3-5: Barbara Kimmett, Betty Murphy and Mary Anne O'Brien; 6-7: Heather Punchard, Virginia Brant, W. Alford; 8-9-10: L. Thompson, J. Punchard, B. Graham; 11-12: Joyce Calver, K. Murphy, P. Calver.

Boys — 3-5: Timmy Keuth, E. Kelso, David Blewett; 6-7: R. Allison, M. Kels, G. Allison; 8-9-10: C. Tinney, J. Fraser, E. Keith; 11-12: F. Punchard, D. Tompkins, W. Elmy.

The shoe race caused some confusion and was won by L. Brant, B. Graham, and J. Punchard. The wheel barrow race went to a brother and sister, Marion and Billy Knight, second place was taken by J. Graham and Billy Sly and third team to finish was B. Graham and J. Fraser.

The three-legged race was won by K. Murphy and C. Kimmett with B. Graham and J. Graham coming second and M. Knight and L. Brant placing third.

In the decorated bike contest the judges, Fred Caron and Anson Loney awarded the prizes to Marion Knight, Virginia Brant and Denny Tompkins while Richard Brant, who led the parade on the only decorated tricycle was awarded a special prize.

The oldest person on the ground was Donald Jamieson and the youngest went to Ronald Doreen and Brock Fraser who were the same age.

In the evening before the festivities closed the special prize of $50 was won by B. Hawkes of R. R. 7 Kingston, and the sailing boat was won by Jamie Fraser of Deseronto.

Square-Rigger St. Lawrence Pays Visit to This Port

One of the few "square-riggers" on the Great Lakes visited this port yesterday afternoon and laid over until this morning at the Government Dock. St. Lawrence II, a training ship operated by the officers and men of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "St. Lawrence" of Kingston, was on its first training cruise of the 1960 season, the ship's fourth summer on the Great Lakes since its building.

Under the command of Lt. F. A. MacLachlan, RCSC, who is the ship's captain, assisted by several senior cadets handling the duties of executive officer and watch keeping officers, the ship is following a course up the Bay of Quinte headed to Presqu'ile via the Murray Canal, with some twenty cadets on board. They will return to Kingston via Chaumont, N.Y.

PLAN EIGHT CRUISES

Some eight cruises are scheduled for this summer. Their purpose is to allow Sea Cadets from Kingston and other corps in the area to experience the adventure of living and sailing aboard a fully-rigged brigantine. The cruises are not designed as pleasure outings. Their purpose is to provide training and the ship's schedule is run along navy routine.

The crew is divided into three watches with one watch standing a four-hour duty whilst the other two watches are off. This is maintained over a 24-hour period. The day begins at 6.30 a.m. with all hands being turned to to clean ship. Decks are scrubbed, brass is polished and breakfast is prepared.

Once breakfast is over a clean-up watch takes over the galley whilst another watch finishes the deck chores. The third watch handles the running of the ship. Once the ship has been cleaned to the satisfaction of the executive officer the morning training session begins.

This may consist going aloft to acquaint hands with the handling of the ship's sails and to accustom them to the heights and various parts of the running gear. Familiarity with this is a must as they may be called out at any time of the day or night to tend to the running of the ship if the weather or wind should change.

Following the noon-day meal another training session is held in the afternoon. Competitions, swimming or just "free time" to allow hands to catch up on the maintenance of their personal gear may also be had at this time.

Once the evening meal is finished and all cleaning-up has been completed the below-deck watches have free time.

HAS AUXILIARY ENGINE

Whenever possible St. Lawrence II stays under sail day and night. Sometimes a calm may force her to use her auxiliary engine or to drop anchor in some convenient cove or bay overnight. Rough sea conditions may also require this. There are also the occasional visits to a port when the crew is allowed ashore for a visit.

Most of the cruises last for five days and the course usually depends on the prevailing winds although the occasionel cruise sets out for a predetermined destination. One of the cruises scheduled is a "treasure hunt" towards the middle of August when Captain MacLachlan hopes to have several skin-divers and their gear on board. The ship and crew will then visit the locations of various known wrecks in hopes of finding them.

Civil Defence Certificates Presented

DESERONTO — Fifteen certificates certifying that residents of the town are qualified in the fundamentals of First Aid were presented at an appropriate ceremony last Tuesday evening. The successful candidates of a class of some 20 faithfully studied the principles during the winter months when the course of instruction was held under the auspices of the local Civil Defence group. The instructor was from the St. John Ambulance group at Belleville and the examiner was Dr. D. C. McVicker.

Mr. E. Luck ,the local coordinator, was the chairman for the evening and introduced the speaker for the evening, Dr. D. C. McVicker The talk, naturally, was on the use of first aid and the doctor gave some interesting experiences that had occurred to him. He stressed the factj that the holder of a first aid certificate was qualified to render assistance until the arrival of a qualified physician and because of the knowledge they had gained through the course were less likely to cause further damage to a person or persons injured in an accident than someone who was without instruction.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Following the talk by Dr. McVicker, the chairman asked Mayor Sweetnam to address the group and then present the certificates.

The successful candidates: Miss C. Kudman, Miss L. Kimmett, Miss M. Hearnes, Mrs. R. Batt, Mrs Grace Martin, Mrs. R. Hawthorne, Mrs. M. Brant, Benjamin Brant, James McVicker, Franklin Tinney, Donald Kimmett, Percy Knight, James Hamilton, William Higgins, Walter Kelly.

After the presentations, the group was entertained to a buffet supper which was more in the nature of a feast and all did full justice to the wonderful array of food.

After thanking the co-rdinator, E. Luck, for his gracious gesture on behalf of the Civil Defence, the party came to a close.

ASK TTC RECORDS

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto executive committee Tuesday asked the province to order the Toronto Transit Commission to open its files and financial records to Metropolitan Council. The request followed a TTC refusal to disclose information about commissioners' personal expense accounts.

Wants Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Firemen

Canadian members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) should be organized into a separate Canadian division of the international union.

The organization of a Canadian Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is necessary for the benefit of Canadian members who are "at the mercy of the international president," Lorne Brisbane of Belleville, general chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, told local Kiwanians Tuesday.

In an address entitled, "Formation of a Canadian Union for Railway Operating Employees," Mr. Brisbane gave a "blow-by-blow" account of the struggle of a nine-member committee (of which he is a member) to organize a separate Canadian Brotherhood in the face of strong opposition from the international union president, H. E. Gilbert.

Mr. Gilbert has taken out an injunction against each of the committee members and has stopped distribution of the Canadian locals' share of union funds, Mr. Brisbane said.

ATTENDED CONVENTION

The movement to organize a Canadian division of the international union was given impetus last summer, when Mr. Brisbane and other Canadian union officials attended the international union convention in Cleveland.

Mr. Brisbane said he came away from the convention "disgusted with the high - powered politics" which were engaged in by the international president.

"The international president had a machine working for him so he could get legislation passed which was designed to take more power from the members and put more power in the hands of the executive," he stated. He added, "We're at the mercy of the international president."

REFERENDUM REFUSED

Mr. Brisbane said a petition requesting the international president to allow a Canadian Brotherhood to be organized last spring was refused. He said Mr. Gilbert also refused a request to take a referendum of Canadian members to determine their desire for a Canadian union.

Instead the international president took out an injunction against the committee members, and threatened to remove them from office. He cut off funds to the Canadian locals as well, he said.

When the committee took action to "tie up dues" from the Canadian locals, Mr. Gilbert offered "to make a deal with them," Mr. Brisbane said.

In a meeting at Winnipeg on May 24th, he offered to withdraw the charges against the committee members, and to organize a referendum of Canadian members, if the Canadian locals would release their dues.

The dues were released, but Mr. Gilbert, as yet, has not kept his side of the bargain, the speaker said.

Still fighting for a Canadian union which will benefit Canadian members, Mr. Brisbane said his next move will be to seek a court order to put funds from all Canadian locals of the Brotherhood into trusteeship. They would thus be kept in Canada and doled out to the locals as needed.

"If this doesn't work, the only alternative is to set up an independent Canadian Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen," he said.

He added the future goal is the amalgamation of The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to form one Canadian brotherhood of railway operating employees.

"It's a hard task . . . but I feel we will eventually win," he concluded.

Mr. Brisbane was introduced by D. J. Rose, and thanked by William Stewart. Added thanks on behalf of the club were expressed by president George Tripp.

President Tripp who, with his wife, recently returned from the Kiwanis International Convention in Miami, Florida, was chairman for the meeting.

In a brief address he thanked the club on behalf of his wife and himself for the opportunity to attend the convention. He said 14,000 attended and this was the largest attendance in the history of Kiwanis. Approximately 225 were from the Ontario - Quebec - Maritime district.

President Tripp announced Joseph O. Tally, Jr., a Payetteville, North Carolina attorney, has been named president of Kiwanis International. He was elected to the number one Kiwanis post June 29th by delegates attending the 45th annual Kiwanis International convention in Miami, Fla.

He also added two Canadians were elected to the slate of officers and trustees. James C. Robertson of Edmonton, Alta., was elected one of two international vice - presidents, and Melbourne R. Osborne of East York, Toronto, was elected an international trustee.

Ken Pinder, ways-and-means chairman, urged all club members to get together and push the sale of circus tickets. The deadline is next Monday night for the club to reach its fund-raising objective. The club obtained 50 per cent of all advance ticket sales. He reported $350 gross has been received to date.

Mr. Pinder also reported 25 people from the Hastings County Home for the Aged will be invited to attend the circus, courtesy of the club. A collection was taken among the members to finance the tickets. Fred Rawson has donated a bus to provide free transportation for these people.

President Tripp announced Lt. - Gov. Bill McNeely will make his official visit to the directors' meeting Wednesday night.

The Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus is headed this way.

It will exhibit in Belleville next Tuesday at Zwick's Island sponsored by the Kiwanis Club which will distribute the proceeds among community organizations it assists.

Performances will be given at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Advance tickets are available next to the Bank of Montreal on Front St.

Fresh from engagements in New York and eastern U.S. cities, the circus promises to uncork the latest in the way of streamlined thrills with its 150 performers recruited from foreign countries.

Travelling with the combined shows this season are 600 people, herds of elephants, 200 menagerie animals. The circus is transported from city to city aboard two special convoys.

Clyde Beatty will be seen battling 40 lions and tigers in the big cage. Other stars will be La Norma, Danish queen of the flying trapeze; Gallasso, the man who stands on his forefinger; the Carmenas, sensational German equilibrists and the flying Paustres.

Everybody wishes to see the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros Circus this year which recently returned from a tour of South America, and it is a foregone conclusion that the big tent, seating thousands of persons, will be filled to the last chair afternoon and night.

Six rings and stages and the hippodrome track, will be used for the earth's foremost arenic talent — 150 acknowledged kings and queens of daring grace and skill and incredible agility.

Lake Depth Is 144 Feet

TWEED — Lake surveys now have shown the maximum depth of Kamaniskeg Lake to be 144 ft., not so deep as believed by some local anglers. Fish species found were lake trout, smallmouth and largemouth bass, pickerel, pike, herring, whitefish, rock bass, perch, sunfish, bullheads and suckers.

NATURAL ARCH

Rainbow Bridge, world's largest natural bridge, is 309 feet high and 278 feet long in the rock-strewn desert of southern Utah.

Old Soldiers Never Die

General Douglas MacArthur came up with this saying, which concludes with the words " . . . they just fade away." We were inclined to agree with the first part of the American general's statement but would question the latter, not only in his own case but in that of another former general recently given considerable attention in an article in The Globe and Mail.

We refer to Kurt Meyer, at one time Hitler's youngest general of a most fanatical division, and still a relatively young man as far as generals go. Meyer may be more familiar to some as the man found guilty of ordering the murder of Canadian prisoners of war.

Today he is a free man in Germany, and he is the recognized head of a group of veterans of the Waffen SS or "Black Guards" of the Hitler Reich. This "veterans' organization" is credited with having a membership of close to 500,000 supporters. Its goals are to "clear" the name and record of their military unit's participation in the Second World War, and to make it possible for their members to receive military pensions and to enter the current Germany Army without being subjected to special denazification screenings.

These goals are slowly but surely winning more favor throughout Germany, according to recent reports, as the tremendous public relations campaign being waged by Mr. Meyer's organization gains steam. It appears that once more the individually intelligent Germans are being duped en masse. We prefer to think that they are being duped rather than believe that they are willingly supporting a proposed return to the "good old days" when German military might was an object of world awe.

The SS organization is waging a very clever campaign under a most able leader. All of the "glorious" victories of their unit "in the good old days" are being praised and advertised.

None of their defeats has been mentioned, although the unit's heavy losses in combat are not let slide by unnoticed. No mention is made either of the concentration camp assignments which they had or of the annihilation orders which they operated under. The latter are, in fact, denied by the former Nazi general.

What is most amazing, perhaps, is the open-faced manner in which this organization is operated. And this manner betokens some form of acceptance or gullibility on the part of other Germans as to the organization's credo. The rallies held by the SS veterans are highlighted by the singing of their own song "We are the Black Guards which love Adolf Hitler." This is an effrontery to every person who fought against the Nazi fanatic and his way-of-life, but apparently it is accepted by the West Germans.

It is to be hoped that it does not become a rallying cry for an upsurge of traditional German militarism and nationalism. We have our doubts as to this how- when we look back on the long history of Germany, leaders and her people. It seems to be a nation [illegible] is never at ease with itself unless there is the [illegible] of hob-nailed boots on the parade squares and [illegible] brass bands in the streets. And it appears that when the parade starts a certain war criminal and former light of the Fuehrer's eye will be right at the head of it.

A Pound of Flesh

Pity the poor Penticton man who got caught by a government agency just recently. It appears that this citizen wanted to buy some stamps from the vending machine at the local post office. After inserting his quarter and pulling the lever nothing happened, so he put a finger in the coin return and promptly got it caught.

We are not too sure just what this indicates but we certainly do hope that it is not the harbinger of government policy of attempting to extract a pound of flesh from the taxpayer once it gets his money.

When a farmer runs into problems, they are serious ones. Recent heavy rains destroyed 35 per cent of the crops on Pelee Island. New crops are being replanted but this step is being slowed down Why? Rain is needed because the present warm spell has made the earth hard and difficult to work. (Windsor Star).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

A friend of mine told me recently of attending a baptismal service in a Korean church. The baptismal font was hewn out of a very large block of stone which had formerly been used as an execution block. Here in the most cruel fashion, hundreds and perhaps thousands of people had in pastimes been put to death. But now, in the hands of different people with different ideas and with a passionate faith, a place had been scooped out of the execution block and the gory symbol had been turned into a baptismal font.

This circumstance reminds us of quite a number of things. First it tells us that the human race is not very far from aboriginal barbarism. In the second place it teaches us that we do make progress. The execution block of yesterday becomes the baptismal font of today. Last, and most important of all, it shows what Christian faith can do. The people who transformed the hideous instrument of torture into a blessed symbol of righteousness and faith, were people who believed in Jesus Christ, lived His gospel, put their lives wholly in His hands.

Christian faith has a transforming effect upon anyone who really lets it work upon his mind and soul. Christian faith makes a difference if we allow it to do so.

Peking Now Aid Centre

The Times of London

For a long time Moscow was the obvious destination for any uncommitted delegation looking for aid. Nowadays it is often only a staging-post on the way to Peking.

Algerians, Iraqis, Syrian emigres, even Latin Americans have passed through on their way east.

In the past the Russians have done much to substantiate their traditional claim to be the friends of the underdeveloped countries.

They have educated technicians — and politicians — at Moscow University and in Tashkent. They have offered help on a large scale for the Aswan Dam and for the Bhilai steel mill in India.

In their relations with these countries they have had certain advantages. They could offer state loans at lower rates of interest than Western private institutions could afford; they did not have to justify their expenditure to a censorious electorate at home.

Above all, they showed new faces.

• • •

Now their position is becoming more complicated and less pleasant. The law of diminishing gratitude has begun to affect them, as it has already affected the Western powers.

The younger countries, especially in the Middle East, are becoming mistrustful of the political implications of the aid they are receiving.

It is generally true, as the Russians claim, that their economic aid is without strings — or rather, that the only string is one bearing the label "Made in Russia". But the students who have returned from Moscow have often enlightened their fellow countrymen, either by their militancy or by their disillusion.

At the same time the threat of communism nearer home has dimmed the image of the Soviet Union as a distant and disinterested benefactor.

• • •

For instance, the Iraqi revolution and the strength of the Iraqi communist party forced the United Arab Republic to stop and think about its attitude to Russia.

Meanwhile the Soviet position has also been complicated by the growing caution of the Soviet government itself.

The policy of stirring up troubled waters and then fishing in them is now too dangerous. In the Middle Eastern crisis of 1956 the Soviet Union must have learnt that open intervention would lead to a major war, and when in 1958 British and American troops landed in Jordan and Lebanon it showed much more restraint.

Moreover, as Mr. Khrushchev's friendly contacts with Western statesmen have increased, he has shown an increased desire not to tread on their toes — in Latin America, or West Africa, or Algeria.

The long-term aim may be the same — to win over the uncommitted countries to socialism — but it is no longer enough to provoke an explosion and pick up the pieces. An explosion would destroy too much of the good will the Soviet Union has built up abroad — and a big enough explosion would also destroy what it has built up at home.

• • •

Unfortunately for Mr. Khrushchev's plans his ally has fewer inhibitions.

Until about 18 months ago the vast bulk of Communist aid and influence came either from the Soviet Union or from other countries entirely under her control (as in the Czech arms deal with Egypt). China was then supplying only about 5 per cent of it — less probably than she was herself receiving from Russia.

More recently, however, China has been stepping in where Russia feared to tread.

She has recognized the Algerian rebels, which Russia has consistently refused to do, and has thus involved Russia in awkward explanations with the Arab world. She has sent aid and technicians to the Yemen. She has openly supported the unrecognized Communist party in Iraq and given hospitality and encouragement to Communist leaders exiled from the United Arab Republic.

She has (logically enough) a stronger footing than Russia in the Afro-Asian Conference, and has used this to make contacts with Guinea and with nationalist parties in colonial Africa.

• • •

None of the restraints that hold back the Russians has much effect on the Chinese.

They have no fear of spoiling the climate for international talks, since no one will talk with them anyway. They are negotiating in an area remote from their own expanding frontiers, with peoples uninterested in Tibet or the Indian border dispute. They, too, suffered from imperialism in the recent past.

They have a fanatical communism beside which the Russian variety seems like mature caution — and they are not afraid of telling the Russians so. Above all, they believe that their brand of communism would survive a war which would leave the rest of the world flat.

• • •

This puts the Russians in a very difficult position. They cannot control China — chairman Mao has shown an obstinacy which is immune to argument, and certainly no economic bribes could move him any longer. They cannot disown China, for fear of breaking the "monolithic" unity of the socialist camp."

All they can do is to persuade in private — and their usual reward is a public speech denouncing their theories. Meanwhile the Communists and nationalists of Asia and Africa fall gradually under Chinese rather than Russian influence.

Repetition Soon Loses Its Effect

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A national magazine is currently engaged in an advertising campaign based on "the effect of repetition." If you repeat something often enough, the magazine insists — such as "Don't slam the door when you leave" — that message will finally sink in.

Whoever planned that campaign must be childless. If one thing is certain, it is that repetition is eventually tuned out by the listener. A child simply stops hearing the nagging voice after a while; and adults are not much different.

This is the faulty premise of all bad communication, bad education, bad advertising and bad parental guidance. To repeat a message, over and over again, is to lose impact, not to gain it. The mother who says "Finish your soup" to the child for the thousandth time might as well save her breath; the child has long ago shut off its receiving set.

Consider the traffic safety slogans. Most motorists don't even see them any more: "Drive Carefully," "The Life You Save May Be Your Own," "Gain a Minute, Lose a Life." They have become part of the accustomed scenery, like telephone poles and mail boxes. Their impact is nil.

Repetition has a certain value at first, but the law of diminishing returns is swift and inevitable. Repetition enables a pupil to memorize a poem, but after he has memorized it he can recite it while thinking about baseball scores. All the meaning and vitality have left the poem by the time we know it "by heart."

This is how an actor grows stale in his part. After the hundredth performance he scarcely hears the lines he is saying and must invent new bits of business to keep himself amused and interested. The dialogue itself is simply dead to his ears, his mind, and his heart.

Variety, humor, wit, grace, candor — these are some of the elements that bet a message across, to the consumer, or the student, or the reader, or the child. The advertising that is most read, and most acted upon, is fresh and ingenious, not familiar and hortatory. Nobody likes to be lectured to, droned at, drilled into.

Pavlov, it is true, conditioned his laboratory dogs to desire food by ringing bells at certain times; but human beings are not dogs, and the conditioned reflex is a futile and expensive way to try to get people to buy what you are selling or learn what you are teaching. A trained animal requires repetition before it will do what you want him to — but animals don't read national magazines, even in the vet's office.

Second Split Billion Ways

Lethbridge Herald

The split second has long been a useful if somewhat poorly defined, unit of time. Indeed, one suspects its usefulness has been in direct proportion to its imprecision. What wife has not calmed an impatient husband with "I'll be with you in a split second" when she knows very well it will be anything from five minutes to half an hour before she is arrayed to face her critical public with confidence? What motorist has not prevented a horrible accident with a "split second" shift of his foot from accelerator to brake?

That sort of claim won't hold water any longer. The second has been split scientifically — into nanoseconds. And a nanosecond is one billionth of a second, according to an advertisement for an electric computer which is said to operate at 500 nanoseconds. In other words, it's a good deal less time than it takes the human vocal mechanism to say "nanosecond." The hand (though it may be quicker than the eye) and the foot are just not in the race.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THINNING THE BLOOD MEANS REDUCING ITS ABILITY TO CLOT

Today's letter brings up a question — thinning the blood — that is causing more concern than it should.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have an enlarged heart, but am in pretty good health. I have a yearly checkup from my doctor.

"I have been taking plain gelatin each day for over a year because my fingernails were brittle. My nails have improved tremendously and I would like to keep on taking gelatin. In fact, in our family we eat gelatin generously every day as aspic salad or with fruit.

"My question is: Would this gelatin thicken my blood in case of a heart attack? I have spoken to people who have had heart attacks who said their blood had to be thinned to flow freely and not clot.—R. R."

First, gelatin — the dry powdered form — is a concentrate of certain forms of protein. I definitely don't mean that it can replace all forms of protein. Your diet should always include a good deal of protein, which is most plentiful in lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese, and to a lesser extent in other foods.

Gelatin is not a substitute for them. But it does add, as I said, certain forms of protein. That is why, in many cases, taking it regularly may help to overcome brittle or weak nails. It helps some people more than others.

Gelatin does not "thicken the blood." Neither does a cheese sandwich, an egg, a lamb chop, or anything else you eat. You digest these foods. They don't "get into the blood." The fact that gelatin, when dissolved in water, sort of solidifies, doesn't mean that it will do that to the blood. It won't. It doesn't. So don't worry about it.

Now about "thinning the blood." In a way, that's a fair enough expression. I can't think of a better one. And yet, to be correct about it, you don't "thicken" or "thin" the blood.

When someone has had a heart attack — a coronary, that is — the usual cause is a blood clot that has lodged in some narrow part of the coronary artery, the one that feeds the heart muscle.

Drugs used to "thin" the blood, tend to prevent clots from forming. The blood itself remains sufficiently close to its original consistency, but it does not have its ability to form clots at times.

That means, of course, that if you cut your finger, it will take longer for it to stop bleeding, because the clotting is slowed down. But it's better to be careful about cuts or other wounds than it is to take the risk of another heart attack. That's the story.

• • •

Note to Mrs. R. W.: No, wine is not a "blood builder," and in that sense has nothing to do with high blood pressure. However, both wine and beer are high in calories, and your husband thereby adds to his weight and thus contributes to his blood pressure problem.

• • •

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation?" To make sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, for my pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet of Health," enclosing a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin to cover handling.

Maladjusted Not in Teens

Hamilton Spectator

In an age of drip-dry shirts transistor radios and travel-now-pay-later the photographs of the 1935 Regina hunger march reproduced the other day in this newspaper seemed so remote to some they might have belonged to the era of sedan chairs and crinolines.

"Those were other times, just history," said a teenager. And he was right, for to remember those days one has to be on the shady side of forty. There is nothing so empty, meaningless and boring for the post-depression generation than tales of the miserable Thirties.

One has to have been scorched to be afraid of fire and so half the affluent society of today has an uneasy conscience. They were licked by the flame of depression and cannot forget the experience. There lingers a sense of impermanence, an uneasy feeling that reckoning days always come.

Along with this there is the old morality based on thrift, frugality and industry which refuses to die in an age of growing automation and abundance. Those who were brought up under its rigorous code cannot shake it off for it is part of their character. Thus an Ontario clergyman the other day lamented that modern society has a "split level morality."

Society has always been divided between youth and age, but never perhaps so sharly as in this decade. It is not the teenager who is finding it hard to adjust, it is the elderly and middle-aged.

A party went out on a picnic taking their lunch—not a vacuum flask of coffee and sandwiches of cold meat cut from the Sunday roast, as in less affluent days—but with chicken, salad and strawberries and cream. After the meal there was a lot left over.

"Throw it in the garbage," said the teenaged members of the party, "why should we carry it back? Who wants to eat stale chicken sandwiches and droopy salad?"

But the older folk repacked it, knowing full well they would pay the price of frugality by having to eat it. Better that than "guilt."

Who is right and who is wrong? Does it depend, after all, on how old one is?

TODAY'S TALK

THAT GOAL OF YOURS

To a greater or less degree, I believe we all have had goals to which we aimed our arrows. Many a goal has been dropped by the wayside, but its purpose has been served in most cases. If we have kept the Faith and done our best, we have nothing to regret.

I rejoice that many of my goals have been reached; and others that have been missed have served their day. We ought to bear this thought in mind.

It is important to note that the Greatest in history have been diverted at many a cross-road faced with many a goal early resolved to make notable, but only to see it wither away. How are we to face such conditions? With courage, always!

How many times we have changed goals but have ended up with a bigger, and a better one. Failure to reach your goal is not failure, but often a triumph. Let us put it this way. Let us decide that there is no finality to any worthwhile effort. The stars shine every night, no matter how many may lose their pathway! Keep the garden of your heart free of weeds and picture your success in every footfall.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The only unquestionable thing we learn from the past is that we cannot foresee the future. If this were not so, think how different the history of the world would be. Think of the conquerors, the empire builders, the mighty chieftains, the slaughterers who, by looking at the past, could have foreseen their fate and so stayed their folly. Think of the uncountable millions of humble people like you and me who, with the past full of example, have faithfully followed the captains and the kings, and shed their blood to make secure a world of foreseeable peace and freedom.

But always the unforeseen has happened. History is simply the record of the unforeseen.

We study history in the hope of learning the mistakes of the past in order to avoid them in the future. That is the greatest mistake of all.

Here we are at what appears to be the greatest crisis in human experience. All our rulers, whether dictators or duly elected representatives of the people, are agreed that nobody can conquer anybody any more. We can merely shove one another around in a kind of blind student riot until the moment comes when some frothing Attila, some mad Hitler, some bare-toothed Genghis Khan pulls the trigger on the number one rocket.

The past has ceased to exist in this, the fast-moving last half of the famous twentieth century. There is really nothing but the future. Maybe that thought will give us pause. Copyright: Canada Wide

Sen. G. White Moves Second Reading of Bill Amending Veterans' Allowance Act

Senator George S. White of Madoc recently moved the second reading of a bill amending the War Veterans Allowance Act.

Honorable senators are familiar with that act. For some 30 years it has been the means of providing assistance to a large number of veterans, widows of veterans and orphans who were unable to provide for themselves the necessities of life because of financial difficulties, aggravated in most instances by advancing years. The original act of 1930 has been revised from time to time to ensure that its provisions are in keeping with changing conditions.

The number of recipients of allowances payable under the act has increased over the years, and at the present time there are some 68,000 in receipt of allowances. Of this number about 48,000 are veterans and the remainder are widows and orphans of veterans. The annual cost of these allowances is approximately $62 million.

The act has heretofore provided that in order to be paid an allowance the recipient must be residing in Canada. Some few years ago this principle was modified so that recipients could be absent from Canada for a limited period, up to three months and on their return receive payment of the allowance for the period of their absence. In 1957 the period of absence permitted from Canada in order not to disturb the continunity of the allowance was extended to six months in each calendar year. The requirement that the recipient must return to Canada in order to receive the allowance was, however, retained. During the year 1959, according to the records of the department, 265 veterans and 266 widows left Canada, but they all returned within the six-month period. Also during 1959 the number of allowances cancelled because of absence from Canada over the six-month period was 32, those being allowances for 23 veterans and nine widows. I am advised by officials of the department that this is a fair average.

This bill would permit payment of allowances to veterans and widows who absent themselves for periods longer than the present maximum of six months. It is considered that this change will not materially increase the annual expenditure because these people would be receiving the allowance if they remained in Canada.

As honorable senators are aware, payment of this allowance is subect to a means test. To qualify, a male veteran must be 60 years of age and a female veteran 55 years of age. Also eligible are veterans and widows who are permanently unemployable because of physical or mental disability.

In my opinion the means test as applied under this act is somewhat severe. The amount that the veteran or his widow or orphan receives is set out in two schedules to the act. At the present time the maximum allowance of an unmarried veteran or a widow is $70 a month, and his total maximum ceiling of income, including the allowance, is only $1,060 a year. A married veteran living with his wife may receive $120 a month, and his ceiling of total income, including the allowance, is only $1,740. I am sure all honorable senators who are veterans will agree with me when I say that both the allowances and the ceiling certainly call for an amendment.

The limitations on what a veteran or his widow may own are also somewhat severe. A veteran may be the owner of a dwelling house, not exceeding $8,000 in value; if he is married he is permitted to have personal property to the extent of $2,000; and if single, personal property to the amount of $1,000. He is also allowed to have interest income not exceeding $25 a year, and he is entitled to certain casual earnings.

I would point out that each year a veteran or a widow who receives an allowance under this act has to complete, certify by affidavit and file a form sent from the department on which is listed in the most careful and detailed way every possible check on income.

Honorable senators will recall that recently we passed in this house an amendment by which old age pensioners will be entitled to draw their pensions and reside outside Canada. If old age pensioners, who are in good circumstances, are entitled to that extension, no one would disagree with me when I say that the veterans are more than doubly entitled to any allowance or assistance in that respect.

It has come to the attention of the department over the years that a number of veterans and widows who have qualified for the allowance and now have to live in Canada find it desirable for reasons of health to be with their families who live outside the country for longer periods than the act now allows. The families of many of these persons reside in the United Kingdom or the United States, and the pensioners are anxious to spend their declining years with their families. However, they do not want to be a burden to them; they feel they would like to pay their way. If this amendment passes they will have the benefit of receiving their allowances outside Canada. It was with this thought in mind that this proposed amendment was brought forward. This bill will permit the payment of allowances to veterans and widows who absent themselves for periods longer than the present maximum of six months.

It is further provided that in order to receive payment of an allowance a recipient need not return to this country. In order to ensure that this flexibility of residence may apply to bona fide Canadians and not to those persons who may have lived for many years in other countries, the bill provides that in order to continue to receive an allowance outside Canada a recipient must have resided continuously in Canada for at least 12 months before his departure. This provision is a reasonable one as it will continue to make the allowance available to the veterans and widows for whom it was originally intended.

Honorable senators are aware as I mentioned before, that the people who receive this allowance are subejct to a means test. The maintenance of this principle outside Canada will, of course, introduce administrative problems. However, the necessary arrangements are now being worked out by the War Veterans Allowance Board. It is proposed that before any recipient leaves Canada he will be fully acquainted with all the matters relating to the continuance of payments while he resides elsewhere. The board wishes to ensure that no recipients shall be under any misapprehension with respect to the continuance of the means test and the necessity of providing the board with full information on any changes in marital status or other related circumstances.

In the 1957-58 session this act was amended to provide, among other things, that Canadian residence requirements under the act for a former member of the forces of His Majesty's or His Majesty's allies or associated powers be reduced from 20 to 10 years where the service was in in any war concluded on or before August 31, 1921. This seems an appropriate opportunity to establish a corresponding Canadian residence qualification for those who, during World War II, were members of His Majesty's forces or allies, in order that they may be entitled to allowances under the act on a basis similar to that now available to veterans of earlier wars.

The final section of this bill provides that the act shall come into force by proclamation. The reason for this is that the allowances are paid on a monthly basis, and it is intended that the act will come into force on Aug. 1, 1960, so as to give the Department of Veterans Affairs a little time to set up the necessary administrative machinery.

I might advise honorable senators that this bill was considered by the Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs of the House of Commons, where it received the approval of the entire committee. At that meeting a delegation from the Canadian Legion, headed by Mr. D. L. Burgess, the immediate past president, presented a brief. In speaking of the bill we are now considering, he made this comment, as reported at page 268 of the record of the committee:

"We would like at this time to commend the Government in respect of the amendments contained in this bill to amend the War Veterans Allowance Act. We believe that the result of these changes will be of considerable benefit to many recipients".

If the bill receives second reading, and it is the wish of honorable senators, I shall move that it be referrd to our Standing Committe on Banking and Commerce. If honorable senators have any questions or if I can supply any information, I shall be happy to do so.

Roam Time For Beaver

MAPLE — This is the time of year when two-year-old beaver leave their homes, either willingly or forced out by mother to begin to fend for themselves. In some cases, says J. S. Dorland, of the Fish and Wildlife staff of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests here, the young beaver start roaming across the country looking for mates or home sites and are vulnerable to animal predators and motor cars. Recently a beaver was killed by a car on busy Highway 400 just south of the Aurora cloverleaf and a deer was killed on a highway near Camp Borden.

EXPECT SOME

government purchasing department, Mr. Hardy may simply be shifted to another post.

The Liberals, long attacked by the late Maurice Duplessis as enemies of provincial autonomy, are anxious to make a good showing at Ottawa. They accused Mr. Duplessis, for 15 years, of taking a negative stand on provincial rights issues.

Mr. Lesage said at a press conference that he will try to obtain from Ottawa payments Quebec would have received if it had participated in the Trans-Canada Highway construction project. The province has built highways to link its borders with neighboring provinces without any federal assistance so far.

The premier himself only 48, told reporters he will watch all Liberal members during the coming session of the legislature—then shuffle cabinet posts.

One of his ministers is only 34, two are 37, only two of the 16 cabinet posts are held by men over 60, while five are in their fifties. The others are in their forties.

There are seven lawyers, two physicians, one industrialist two journalists, one television commentator, and three business men in the cabinet.

Mr. Lesage said he will not administer as a dictator — an allusion to the one-man government of the late Maurice Duplessis.

"Each minister will exercise authority in his department," he said.

Veteran observers of the political scene see the new cabinet as a strong one with a powerful inner core of men with new ideas and strong leanings toward reforms.

Each wants to see public education organized on the most modern of bases and made available free to all. They are anxious for economic development organized to provide more jobs for Quebecers, they are proponents of controlled forest-cutting operations and of long-range planning in the domain of forest control. They want public affairs administered according to modern business standards.

Boy Shot By Accident

An 11-year-old Brockville boy is recovering in Trenton Memorial Hospital after being accidentally shot in the stomach by a .22 calibre rifle at a Glen Miller home Tuesday night.

Arthur MacDonald, of 80 Schofield Ave., Brockville, visiting at the Glen Miller home of Clifford Collar, was playing with other children when a .22 rifle in the hands of 15-year-old Randy Collar discharged.

The bullet was removed in an emergency operation at the Trenton hospital.

BOMB SHELTER — Mr. and Mrs. Dembe and their children, Steven and Elaine, peer curiously into the steel bomb shelter that will soon become their home for two weeks. The shelter will be lowered into an excavation beside their home in suburban Ancaster township and the Dembes will try it for 14 days to see if they could survive that long in it in the event of a nuclear attack.

NEAR HER GOAL

St. Andrew's Church School Gives Awards

WELLINGTON — Last Sunday at 11 o'clock a special children's service was held at St. Andrew's Church, Wellington, when the church school awards for the past year were made. Youth and children's hymns were chosen for the occasion.

In a brief address, the rector, the Rev. J. J. Rogers, congratulated the award winners, and encouraged the other children to better efforts in the coming year. In the fall a short teacher training program will be instituted, and entirely new materials will be brought into use in the church school.

The following received awards based upon 80 per cent attendance and general achievement. Senior class, Margaret Bailey, Garry Blower, Garry Brown, Benny Burley, Pauline Burtt, Ken Herrington, Beverley Hill, Lauren Quick, John Rolston; intermediate class, Brenda Burley, Dennis Burt, Betty Herrington, Eric Lavender, Penny Lavender, Robbie Quick, Susan Rolston, Donna Lynn Smith; junior class, Jackie Blower, Jane Foster, Matilda Foster, Lana Herrington, Sandra Lavender, Paul Rogers, Lance Smith, Robbie Tripp; primary class, Terry Foster, Mike Lavender, Kathy Quick, David Rogers.

The rector thanked the teachers for the past year, whose faithfulness and interest cannot be overestimated.

The summer session of the church school will commence next Sunday at 10 o'clock for the primary, junior and intermediate classes.

Debs Find Royal Handshake Replaced by Whirl of Frolics

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Just because Britain's debutantes don't meet the Queen any more—a practice that was discontinued two years ago—it doesn't mean these budding belles of society are being launched without all due fanfare.

On the contrary, they now are coming out with unprecedented gusto.

Where a royal handshake and conventional Mayfair party once did the trick, the new debs are hitting society in a dizzy whirl of unconventional frolics. There is no doubt about, it, they are having a ball.

And their parents are no doubt having a financial nightmare.

The apparent determination to come up with something different has resulted in debs holding their inaugural flings on chartered ferry boats, rented airport terminals, west end night clubs and double-decker buses. A few well-heeled ones have taken their friends across to continental cities.

And things are definitely looking better. Company director Alan Campbell-Johnson plans to take over a section of London Zoo for his daughter's big night July 7.

Two other girls are chipping in on this event so they also can be introduced beside the lion cages. They will be fed in the zoo restaurant and dance under the stars near the tigers.

"We picked the zoo because it is central and convenient for our guests," said Campbell-Johnson.

The Earl of Harrington, who is bringing out his daughter, Lady Jane Stanhope, the same night, doesn't share this idea about a central location. He is renting a river-side estate in Buckinghamshire.

All guests have been asked to wear blazers—a somewhat odd request since formal attire generally is suggested. Even more odd, is the fact that the guests have been told that they must arrive by boat.

When it comes to water parties, Mrs. Julian Huxtable seems to know what to expect. Her daughter, Judy, is coming out at their Surrey estate and they have both a river and a swimming pool.

Knowing that boys will be boys, Mrs. Huxtable has stocked up an extra outfit of dress clothes for every male guest. If they decide to jump into the water with their clothes on, they will have a change ready.

Pr. Wales H-S Assoc. Presents Certificates

Prince of Wales School auditorium was the scene of graduation ceremonies on Tuesday evening. Proud, smiling faces graced the beautifully gowned girls and trim-suited boys as they filed onto a tastefully decorated stage to receive the diploma that meant the end of their public school days.

Mrs. Orma Slack, principal, welcomed the parents and guests, congratulated the graduating class and presented school crests.

Mrs. Irene Phillips introduced each student presented promotion certificates and in doing so spoke briefly to her class, stating how proud she was to be able to prepare them for further education in high schools and universities.

Norma Barriage, valedictorian, thanked the teachers for patience and understanding and helping to make this great moment possible and said they were all looking forward to entering high school in the fall.

Doreen Hawley called Mrs. Phillips to the platform and, on behalf of the students, thanked her for the wonderful help she had given them. Rockne Taylor presented Mrs. Phillips with a lovely handbag and all wished her every success in her new school.

At the close of the program, John Gray presented Mrs. Slack with a vase from the Home and School Association.

The auditorium was then cleared and the students spent a happy hour of dancing under the supervision of Mr. William Lott. Prizes were won by David Rilley and Susan Gray, Judith Gill and John Gray, Linda Moore and Bill Leslie, Linda Wright and Rockne Taylor, Susan Gray and Dennis Reid, Beth Keene and Jack Reppard.

The serving of hot dogs and soft drinks by the Home and School executive brought a successful evening to a close and the tired, but happy students left behind their eight years of study to successfully enter a new page in their book of education.

Women Kept In Compound Says Whitton

WINDSOR (CP)—Women of the western world are being kept to their "women's compound" in contrast to the "dynamic surging" role in public life of women in "reborn" nations, Dr. Charlotte Whitton said Tuesday night.

The former Ottawa mayor, now a newspaper columnist, spoke at a dinner here for 800 delegates to a convention of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas meeting in Detroit this week.

She said there were fewer than 1,000 women as elected officials in 4,300 units of local government.

"It is not so in Russia, India, China, Africa, the dynamic countries. . . ."

Bread and Cheese Supper

WORLD REFUGEE YEAR PROJECT

by Mary Moore

Austerity comes naturally to the minds of English folk and over there, out of the goodness of their hearts, they are serving Bread and Cheese lunches and suppers for World Refugee Year. They charge what one would pay for a regular club or church meal and give the profits to the British World Refugee Fund. In May I believe they had reached 64% of their World Refugee Year quota.

I came back to Canada pondering this magnificent idea, — for we're far from reaching our quota in Canada.

I decided to ask our Sunday School class of teenagers if they would like to sponsor a Bread and Cheese supper. The idea took fire, and on June 23rd at Olivet United Church in Hamilton we put on our supper. There are still some returns to come in for I am writing this the morning after, but to date we have $360. This is being turned over to the Missionary and Maintenance treasurer for the United Church World Refugee Year commitment.

All of the food was donated by friendly firms. We used paper plates, cups, napkins and place mats to reduce dishwashing for the young people wanted to have a party afterwards, for it was the last day of Grade 13 exams. All of these paper goods were donated by firms who are in sympathy with World Refugee Year projects.

But I want to tell you about a bread basket that a local bakery made for us. Ellenzweig's have an imaginative baker with an artistic flair. For the centrepiece for the head table he fashioned a huge lattice-work basket made of strips of bread dough and baked it. This was filled with rolls and breadsticks and was a grand conversation piece. They also donated the breads — about sixteen varieties of their finest.

For those of you who are pondering the possibility of following Olivet HI-C's splendid idea — I should tell you that many bakeries in Canada are receptive to the idea of donating bread to Word Refugee Year projects — so if you copy us, be sure to contact your local bakery to see if they would donate bread to a Bread and Cheese Supper for your group.

The Cheeses! A nationally known firm donated about one hundred pounds of their finest varieties which were the hit of the supper. We had whole cheeses; sliced Swiss and process; little foil cups of fancy relish cheeses; snappy cheese; medium and old cheddar; cream cheese — nearly every cheese their firm produces.

A local branch of one of Canada's largest supermarket chains offered to and did donate tea, sugar, superb fruit cake, bananas, pickled onions (traditional with English bread and cheese meals) and paper plates.

I think I shouud go through the menu step by step with you. The tables were beautiful and were set up for 200 people in 3 long rows. These lengthy tables were picturesque, for at even intervals were placed bowls of colorful fruits including oranges donated by Sunkist, bananas, and apples from a local fruit market.

The bright wedges and blocks and rounds of cheese were uniformly spaced to give contrast to the fruits. French sticks were sliced, buttered and wrapped in foil and heated. Placed crosswise on the table, these were served in the foil (to catch crumbs) with the foil opened a bread to peek through. To provide a still different angle breadsticks were arranged upright in tumblers.

One of the biggest manufacturers of the finest instant skim milk powder provided us with enough milk to feed 500 — and I'm glad they did. The big pitchers of milk were emptied and refilled 2 or 3 times. This was a very popular feature of the supper, for young and old. This milk was used as the little to allow the steaming "Cream" for the coffee, which the young waiters poured about half way through the meal. A paper-cup firm had provided both "hot" and "cold" cups for the coffee and the milk.

The things that I want to stress are this: sell your tickets well in advance and collect the money; you will need at least 16 people for 5 hours in advance of the meal to set up tables and chairs and set tables, slice cake and bread, mix and chill milk, make and serve coffee ,collect tickets at door.

If your group is anything like ours you will have no trouble getting recruits. Their energy and enthusiasm is boundless.

When 16-year-olds are on fire for a cause it cannot fail.

QUESTION BOX

Question: Who should open the car door for my wife when we have lady guests? There have been times when I haven't known what to do, particularly when they enter the car on opposite sides! For example: there is only one of me and I can't be in three places at once! It makes a very awkward situation. Help, please!

Answer: This is a sad situation! Actually, make an effort to escort the ladies to just one side of the car. For example: There are two lady guests and your wife. Suppose you escort one lady to the front seat, while your wife lets the other guest enter the back seat first and she follows. This is one time when your wife, as hostess, acts as an "escort." If they persist in coming from all sides, all you can do is get one seated and let the rest take care of themselves!

Question: Please tell me what hat, shoes and gloves I could wear with a frost - blue dress for my son's wedding. Also, we are giving them a check for a wedding present. How would we make it out?

Answer: The hat and shoes could be either white, or a soft shade of blue to blend in with the gown. The gloves should be white in either case. The check should be made out to your son's fiancee, using her maiden name, since you will be presenting it before the marriage takes place.

Wife Preservers

Keep bottoms of barbecue pots and pans bright by rubbing them with a cake of soap before cooking. The smoke stain will come off easily when you wash it later.

The Experts Say

Quit Crawling Around Home In Dark, Improve Lighting

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Many workers spend all day in brightly lighted offices or factories, then "go home and crawl around in the dark," says Peggy Lidstone, a home-lighting specialist.

In an interview, she offered tips on how to make proper use of lights in homes.

An entire room should be lighted when being used, with brightness varying with the area's use. Task areas, she said, should be bright with immediate surroundings a little more subdued and the rest of the room lighted though not necessarily as brightly.

"There should be a path of light when you enter a home." Light switches should be placed in convenient places so that lights could be turned on without the need to enter a dark room.

PROPER WIRING

The most essential facet of proper lighting was adequate wiring. Comfort, safety, flexibility and decor were basic principles for lighting pattern in the home.

Bare bulbs wouldn't do. Neither would glossy wall finishes. Both produced glare.

"And all the lights in the world won't do any good if they're in the wrong places."

If a housewife insisted that a lamp be exactly centred on a table, it would likely be in the wrong spot for proper use. Table lamps should be set near the back of the table.

Lamp shades should not be too dark. If they were dark to match a color scheme, then they should be lined with white material.

TV LIGHTING

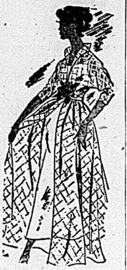
Lights should be left on while watching television. The entire room should be lighted so that the brightness of the TV screen won't produce a strong contrast and cause eye strain.

While lighting experts agreed that reading in bed was relaxing, there should be sufficient light to permit both body and eye comfort.

If a bedside table lamp was used, the bottom of the shade should be 20 inches above the level of the mattress. A suspended ceiling fixture should be 24 inches above the mattress and an arm-type wall lamp or wall bracket 30 inches above.

A simple formula for placing a table lamp for reading purposes was to place it so that the bottom of the shade was at eye level.

Bridal Beauty



By GRACE THOMPSON

Sheer white silk woven in a cross-bar effect and posed over a pale blue slip is the sweet story of a beautiful bridal coat. The snug bodice with its three-quarter-length sleeves has a small collar that curves up in back. The gathered skirt is slightly longer in back. The slim waistline is garnished with a large red rose to add color contrast.

Shannonville W.A. Sponsors Berry Social

The ice cream and strawberry social held at the United Church, Shannonville, under the sponsorship of Shannonville W. A. was well attended. The three long tables, each centred with a bouquet of white 'mums, were filled and refilled many times until all were served.

Mrs. Charles Wood, Mrs. Frank Doxtator; Mrs. R. Wescott; Mrs. Malcolm Little; Mrs. Gerald Stratton; Mrs. Sam Elliott; Mrs. G. Stratton; Mrs. R Shetler; Mrs. George Osborne; Miss Beryle Scruby; Miss Gail Juby; Mrs. James Hinchey; Mrs. Kenneth Juby; Mrs. Raymond Clarke; Mrs. Asa Cook; Mrs. Cecil Reid served.

Mrs. Sam Elliott; Mrs. Elmer Vivian and Mrs. Lorne Lazier made the tea and coffee, while Messrs. Raymond Clarke, James Hinchey; George Osborne and Sam Elliott dipped the ice cream.

The efficient kitchen workers were: Mesdames K. R. Vivian; Kierl; Gammon; E. Stratton; E. Vivian; D. Hinchey; W. Ross; O. Stratton R. Reid A. Houston; L. Lazier; Claude Clarke and E. Stratton sold the tickets.

The Salvation Army Band, of Belleville, gave a fine concert under the direction of Mr. Green. The band also played a few selections outside. Of the 20 band members some were quite young in years.

The minister, Mr. Leafloor, thanked the band for coming to play for the occasion, and the band music was greatly appreciated. Other music included "How Great Thou Art," by soloist, Mr. Tom Hinchey, with Mrs. Harry Sine as accompanist.

The successful social was convened by the W.A. president. Gratitude is extended to all who attended and to all who assisted in any way. The proceeds were most gratifying.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rosemary G. — I want to take a job.

John G. — But she doesn't need one!

• • •

Rosemary G. — I am in my 50's, mother of two married children, and have a lot of excess time and energy.

I do some volunteer work and have many friends and social activities, yet I have a strong urge to accomplish something. A friend of mine recently opened an antique shop in our community and has asked me to work there three afternoons a week, while she goes out to do her buying.

I have never had a job and this really intrigues me. I love antiques and I love to meet people. But my husbnd is terribly old-fashioned. He thinks my taking a job reflects on him as a provider and that it is demeaning to me. I think that's a ridiculous point of view in this day and age.

• • •

John G. — We live in a very conservative community and everyone here knows us well. None of the other wives work and they would think it very odd for Rosemary to take a job They would certainly wonder about my financial status.

I can't understand why a woman can't keep herself busy enough with social activities and volunteer work. There is also the garden, shopping, visits to the children. Rosemary often admits she is exhausted after a day of such activities. How can she handle a job?

I have no objection to women working if they have to help support their families, but this business of women working to "keep occupied" is just silly. Women should enjoy their advantages when they have them.

• • •

The Council: Possibly it would help this couple to understand one another's points of view a little more deeply.

To John the word "work" means a tough struggle — a life-or-death battle that calls for manly courage and ability. He pities the woman who is forced to make her way in that harsh world and can feel only irritation at the spectacle of a woman entering such a world for her amusement.

To Rosemary the word "work" stands for an exciting challenge. Since she has never held a job, she feels she has been sheltered from the world of greater activity that lies outside her home. She has successfully met the challenge of creating a home and raising a family. But she is still young and energetic and quite naturally feels she still has much to contribute to life.

In most communities there is much important and challenging work to be done on the volunteer level. But unless a woman can become deeply concerned about some particular problem to the point where she makes a substantial contribution, she may feel volunteer work doesn't offer enough of a challenge.

Since John feels so strongly about this, it would be worthwhile for Rosemary to investigate the opportunities for volunteer work a little more thoroughly. She may find she has overlooked some important service.

If, however, Rosemary fails to find service that completely captures her interest, we think her husband should try to be less rigid in his views. It is true that his point of view is rather old-fashioned. It is most unlikely that anyone in this community would get the idea that his wife's working three afternoons a week in an antique shop has been caused by financial reverses.

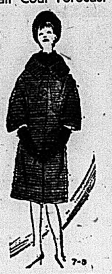
Fall Coat Forecast



By VERA WINSTON

From a recent showing of fall coats is this example, the fabric a soft-textured, ribbed woolen, the rib used on the horizontal.

The collar stands away from the neck, leaving room for a nutria ascot to be tucked inside. Seaming conceals two pockets just above the waist.

The coat was modeled with a matching nutria hat, and, as is the case with so many of the new coats, it features the dropped shoulder and the shortened sleeve.

Nine LOBA Lodges Visited By Ont. G.M.

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge L.O.B.A. No. 1168 was hostess to nine lodges at their regular meeting in June representing the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, in honor of the official visit of the Grand Mistress of Ontario East, Mrs. Myrtle Sproats of Peterborough.

Other Grand Lodge officers present included. Mrs. Freda Pilling, Peterborough, Juvenile Director; Mrs. Mabel Hill, Trenton, Chaplain; Mrs. Pearl Buck, Belleville, lecturer; and Mrs. Pearl Holmes, Belleville, treasurer.

A regular lodge meeting was exemplified with Wallbridge officers participating under the direction of the Mistress, Mrs. Shirley Stewart.

Distinguished guests and officers were introduced and presented with corsages by Mrs. May Hollinger.

A highlight of the evening was the dedication of lodge regalia for ceremonial work by Mrs. Sproats. She was assisted by Mrs. Pilling, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Buck, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Lois Reid of Stirling and Mrs. Hazel Maracle, of Belleville.

Mrs. Bernice Moore, Belleville was soloist for the ceremony and later led in community singing.

All enjoyed the informative and inspirational address by the Grand Mistress who spoke on 'Love."

At the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Sproats was presented with a gift by Mrs. Greta Kingston and Mrs. Pearl Holmes.

Representatives from Trenton, Frankford, Stirling, Halloway, Marmora, Madoc, Cannifton and Belleville briefly addressed the meeting. The County Master of Centre East Hastings, Mr. Eugene Kelly of Halloway, who was present, also spoke.

Following lodges, covers were laid for 110 and a buffet supper was enjoyed concluding an enjoyable evening of fraternal fellowship and friendship.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It is many weeks since we have mentioned shopping; now this will be about the bit of shopping we did do in New Brunswick and other places and about the great deal we might have done. Our first weakening came in a Quebec town on the way down, where we stopped for tea. A flower and gift shop beckoned; two pairs of wooden salt and pepper shakers in plain design were the undoing as we can never resist wooden table accessories. Later in Saint John, in another gift shop, we picked up (not literally) a neat little cheese board with knife — thinking of good Hastings County cheese — a smooth little mustard pot and a small salt bowl with tiny spoon. That was enough of the wooden ware, although we were sorely tempted by a nicely-shaped herb-pounder and various bowls.

In this same Saint John shop we liked the carved wooden seagulls perched on pieces of driftwood, alone or in pairs. The man who made them told us that the wood for the gulls' outspread wings had to be cut carefully with the grain, then steamed so that they could be bent to shape without breaking. Later in our visit, we saw numbers of these used as decorations on a banquet table with great effect. Sometimes getting away for a bit has a peculiar effect on the head; we suddenly found ourselves buying Christmas cards at the end of June; other members of the party were similarly affected, probably to remind ourselves of our happy trip when the snow was blowing.

"Have you had any dulse yet?" a young man at the radio station there asked us. For our own part, this is something we could do without although it is supposed to be very beneficial and full of iodine. Mentioning that we might be interested in some for another member of the family, the young man told us to go to Perry's stall in the city market — and that in any case the city market was something we should see. This seemed to be a long narrow building or rather, a long glass covered lane between two buildings. There are stalls or booths along both sides where produce merchants regularly hold shop. On farmers' market days, the produce brought is placed in the centre stalls.

The dulse was there in quantity and we were informed that at this time of year, it was young and particularly good. The price of strawberries was much the same as here, but their season was just starting.

One of the most tempting places for shopping was at Gagetown, near the original town, not the large army camp. Here is found the central workshop of the Loomcrofters under the direction of Miss Pat Jenkins. She is the designer and creator of the Nova Scotia tartan, the New Brunswick tartan and the Royal Canadian Air Force tartan. Miss Jenkins deplores the fact that due to technicalities, some manufacturers of the Air Force tartan have made changes from the original, bringing out a much less attractive design.

Many articles made from the provincial tartans are available, socks, caps regular and bow ties, cloth for suits skirts dresses, etc., rugs and scarves to name a few. Miss Jenkins is very much amused by remarks made by tourists, such as "Imagine finding such good taste way up here". One day a car drove up, a head was poked out the window and a voice said, "Is this where we can get that New Brunswick tarlton?"

The Loomcrofters do hand loom weaving exclusively. In 1951 the Loomcrofters were commissioned to weave two motor rugs as New Brunswick's gift to the then Princess Elizabeth when she visited Canada.

In 1958, when Princess Margaret visited the Province, the Loomcrofters designed, wove and styled the sheer white wool and metallic skirt and stole which was presented to her by the New Brunswick government.

Replicas of the Queen's rugs, the Princess' skirt and stole, and the Beaverbrook rug may be seen at the studio in historic Gagetown, on the old Maliseet Trail. We should explain that what is the official New Brunswick Tartan was first commissioned by the Royal New Brunswick Regiment as a new design which would have significance for the people of New Brunswick for presentation to Lord Beaverbrook in the form of a motor rug. The fully registered design was adopted January 29, 1959, by the government as the official New Brunswick tartan, and it was recorded in Edinburgh, Scotland, by Lyon, King of Arms, June 3, 1959.

It is interesting to note [illegible] the Loomcrofters use tags made by Cash's in Belleville and that Deacon Brothers are making shirts of the N.B. tartan in Vyella.

News From Chile

By DONALD WILSON

The following excerpts from a bulletin letter were sent out to friends of Student Christian Movement by Donald Wilson, who at present time is general secretary at S.C.M. Headquarters in Toronto.

Donald is the son of Foster Wilson, of West Huntingdon, and has spent four years in Santiago, Chile, as S.C.M. Secretary. His wife, Elsa, is a native of Santiago. He is also planning to attend the Life and Mission Conference in Paris, France, in July.

"If you imagine the area between Detroit and Montreal with roads and rail lines broken, bridges destroyed, the cities of Kingston and Windsor literally washed away, factories closed and thousands of those dwellings left standing condemned for demolition, and it raining, raining, raining - - - There you have a picture of Chile.

"Newspapers have made known the general impact, I should like to add from a few letters which have come from S.C.M. and personal friends in Chile:

Filomena Fuentes, who was attending S.C.M. Council in Santiago at the time of the first shocks writes: "You can imagine our state of mind as we journeyed home to Concepcion - - - I reached my home to find it standing, but with a sign on the door warning no one to enter. The house must be torn down at once - - - Now we are living in a tent in the patio" (Filomena has been chosen to attend the Life and Mission Teaching Conference in France and later to be Chile's delegate at W.S.C.F. meetings in Greece.) "At first I felt that now I could not go to France, but then what can I do? My dentist's office is gone, the dentistry faculty is in such a mess that my work cannot go on there."

Another girl writes of a friend caught in one of the cities swept by the tidal waves. "At the first shock, my wife and I and our maid got out of the house though we could not stand for the movement of the earth. I noticed that the ocean had receded 200 yards and I called to all I could to run for the hills - - - The sea struck the city like a hose turned upon a child's sandbox.

"We stood helpless as men and women were caught and swept away by the fury of the water. Some cars trying to escape were trapped when one of them fell into a crater which had opened up. Those which the sea did not catch were crushed by falling rock and earth - - -"

Sregwart Berendes, new S.C.M. secretary loaned from Germany, writes that one of the few remaining buildings in one sector of Concepcion has been the new Methodist Student Centre. Most S.C.M. activities have been cancelled in order to co-operate in relief work. The new university of Vladivio, in the south, has been completely destroyed.

HUMAN SYMPATHY HELPS

"But unleashed nature's energy has also broken the hardness of the human heart. Not only from without, but from within Chile great quantities of help have been forthcoming. It appears that in Chile students have had a great share in food and clothing collections.

"My sister-in-law tells of seeing a student approaching a rather poor man and asking for a contribution. The man replied he had nothing really to give, but after a few steps, he came back, took off his coat, and gave it to the student. When a relief parcel was being made up in her home, our five year old niece came forward on her own account putting in the coins from her piggy bank.

"Chili has just been re-establishing herself from years of inflation. It will take years now to re-establish her industry and food resources.

"S.C.M. activity in the University of Concepcion will be very much crippled this year. Many students find their homes in ruins, the family without income through the destruction of their jobs.

"Should we, who bear the name of Christ, not love one another and try to present to a hopeless world the testimony of a message of the love of God to all humanity"

MILK COSMETICS

LONDON (CP) — The National Farmers' Union is to study possibilities of milk as a cosmetic. An official said: "We have heard of ladies taking baths in milk, and in the old days of hand-milking the cowman never got chapped hands because of the milk he got on them."

Brief Sketches Are Given Of Sixteen Liberal Members Sworn in as Quebec Cabinet

Hon. Jean Lesage, 48, premier and finance minister, is the first former federal cabinet minister ever to head a Quebec government. A native of Montreal and a lawyer, he was first elected to the House of Commons in 1945. He served terms as parliamentary assistant to the ministers of finance and of external affairs before being named minister of northern affairs. He was chosen Quebec Liberal leader at a 1958 party convention. He is member for Quebec West.

[illegible]ona Arsenault, 56, minister of [illegible] and forests, is a well-known businessman, author and former newspaper man. Once prominent in the Progressive Conservative party in Quebec, he split with the party during the Second World War and was elected to Parliament in 1945 as an independent. He subsequently joined the Liberals. He represents Matapedia constituency.

Lionel Bertrand, 54, provincial secretary, is publisher of the weekly Voix des Mille-Iles at St. Jerome and secretary of the Association of French - language Weekly Newspapers of Canada. He served as Liberal member of Parliament for Terrebonne from 1940 until 1957 when he resigned for health reasons. He is member for Terrebonne in the legislature.

Alcide Courcy, 45, minister of [illegible]culture and colonization, [illegible]s a degree in agricultural sciences from Quebec's Laval University. He has worked as an agronomist, as director of an experimental farm and also as manager of an agricultural co-operative, all in the Abitibi district of northwestern Quebec. He was first elected to the Quebec legislature in 1956. He is member for Abitibi West.

Gerard Cournoyer, 46, minister of transport and communications, is a lawyer and former member of Parliament. He served in the House of Commons from 1946 until 1952 when he resigned and successfully contested a Quebec provincial election. He was defeated in the 1956 Quebec election. He represents Richelieu constituency.

J. Alphonse Couturier, 57, minister of health, graduated in medicine from Quebec's Laval [illegible]ersity. A practising surgeon, [illegible]has been a member of the Quebec Legislature for Riviere-du-Loup since 1956.

Paul Earl, 56, minister of mines, is a Montreal-born graduate of Britain's Royal Naval College. He is a decorated veteran of naval service during the two world wars and holds the rank of commodore. He has represented Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace in the legislature since 1948.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, 40, minister of youth, is a prominent Montreal-born lawyer who obtained a doctorate in law from Oxford University. He is editor of the weekly l'Echo in Vaudreuil-Soulanges, the constituency he represents in the legislature.

Rene Hamel, 50, minister of labor and of municipal affairs, is a lawyer who majored in political and social sciences at Louvain University in Belgium. He is a former member of Parliament where he served from 1945 until 1949 as a member of the Bloc Populaire. He was first elected to the Quebec Legislature in 1952 as a Liberal and since then has represented the constituency of St. Maurice.

Charles A. Kirkland, 62, minister without portfolio, is a practising doctor and surgeon. He is a veteran member of the legislature, having represented Jacques Cartier constituency continuously since 1939.

Emilien Lafrance, 48, minister of social welfare, is a real estate agent who has worked actively on behalf of labor and social welfare organizations. He has represented Richmond constituency in the legislature since 1952.

Georges Lapalme, 53, attorney-general, is a practising lawyer who headed the Quebec Liberal party from 1952 until 1958 when he resigned. He served in the House of Commons from 1945 until 1950 when he resigned to become provincial leader. He has represented Montreal Outremont in the legislature since 1953.

Gerard D. Levesque, 34, game and fisheries minister, youngest member of the cabinet, is a lawyer and automobile dealer in Paspebiac, Baie des Chaleurs town on the southern coast of Gaspe Peninsula. He was first elected to the legislature for Bonaventure in 1956. Mr. Levesque is a graduate of McGill University's law faculty.

Rene Levesque, 37, minister of public works and of hydraulic resources, is a newcomer to politics, being elected on his first try in Montreal Laurier. He started work as a reporter-announcer at the age of 14. He became a war correspondent for the CBC in Europe between 1943 and 1945 and in Korea in 1951.

Bernard Pinard, 37, roads minister, is a Drummondville lawyer who was first elected Liberal member for Drummond in 1952, defeated in 1956 and elected again last June 22. He is a native of Drummondville and studied at the Universities of Ottawa and of Montreal before being admitted to the Quebec Bar in 1950.

Andre Rousseau, 59, Minister of trade and commerce, is past president of the Quebec Liberal Federation and was elected in l'Islet constituency on his first attempt. A native of St. Lambert, a suburb of Montreal, he now lives in St. Jean-Port-Joli where he owns a metal products factory and holds business interests in Montreal and Quebec City.

U.S. Authorities Voice Hope Of Giving Bomarcs A-Heads

[illegible]ASHINGTON (CP) — United States military and diplomatic authorities expressed hope Tuesday that they can resolve the question of arming Canadian-based Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles with nuclear warheads. The Canadian government has not yet made any decision on acquiring such warheads.

The effectiveness of the Bomarcs, of which Canada is to get two squadrons, will be sharply reduced without the nuclear potential, said Dr. A. H. Flax, chief scientist for the U.S. Air Force.

While the Bomarcs can work with conventional warheads, it would take a "phenomenally larger number" of such weapons to do the job the nuclear weapons are designed to do, he said in an interview.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said that any nuclear weapons obtained for Canadian forces would be under Canadian control [illegible] would be used in Canada [illegible] as the result of a decision by the Canadian government.

Under U.S. law, American nuclear weapons must remain in American custody while stored on foreign soil. However, authorities observed that the U.S. has been able to work out an arrangement with Britain for joint control of American warheads for Thor missiles located on British soil and suggested a similar arrangement may be made with Canada.

Dr. Flax expressed a private opinion that eventually the American law will have to be changed to allow greater flexibility in deployment of nuclear weapons among the Western Allies.

The U.S. plans to deliver the first of the Bomarc-B missiles to Canada in late 1961, to become operational early in 1962. While there is no likelihood of any modification in American laws before a new president is sworn in next January, there still would be plenty of time in 1961 to make amendments before Canada gets the missiles.

Fear Further Violence in Rubber Strike

KITCHENER (CP) — Renewed violence was feared today as a bitter strike of the United Rubber Workers Union (CLC) against the Kaufman Rubber Company moved into its 12th day.

An injunction the company obtained last week limiting pickets to four at each gate terminated today. An extension was to be sought in Toronto.

About 230 of Kaufman's 550 employees entered the plant Tuesday. There was no skirmishing but strikers shouted insults and threats of "wait till Wednesday."

Chief issue in the dispute is lack of a contract. Although it was certified in 1945, the union has never signed a contract with owner A. R. Kaufman, 75.

Mr. Kaufman demands that the union post a $25,000 deposit against damage to his plant during duration of an agreement. He says he sees no good in union security because it amounts to him "doing the union's business for them."

FIRST OFFER IS LAST

He sees no worth in conciliation or bargaining because his first offer is his last. And, he adds, if the workers are dissatisfied they can work elsewhere.

The plant was closed last Thursday following violence by pickets. The union seeks a 15-cent hourly wage increase and a closed shop.

The walkout became a siege of words Tuesday. A union spokesman accused the company of intimidating workers and threatening them with loss of jobs if they did not report to work.

Mr. Kaufman denied the charge. He said the company had phoned some workers, but only those who "we feel are timid and afraid of coming in, and we think it is our privilege."

HINT GENERAL STRIKE

There were murmurs of a general strike in the district to support the rubber workers. Bill Punnett, union field representative, said the labor movement in the area asked him about calling a general strike.

"I don't know how long I can keep them in check," he said.

The strikers settled down for a long battle. Machinery to hand out strike pay went into motion.

The union said it would complain to the Ontario department of labor because the company operated the plant Tuesday with unskilled workers in the power-house where government inspection is strict.

May Remain In Session for Divorce Battle

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament may remain in session after its other business has been cleaned up in order to smash a CCF blockade of divorce cases through a process of attrition, it was reported here Tuesday night.

Robert McCleave (PC — Halifax), chairman of the Commons committee which considers divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland, said Tuesday night petitioners from those provinces "are going to get the relief they asked for."

Quebec and Newfoundland are the only provinces lacking their own divorce courts. The CCF has been blocking the passage of bills in the Commons in an attempt to force Parliament out of the divorce field entirely.

Mr. McCleave said in an interview that if the CCF does not call off its filibuster the Commons will sit for as long as it takes to push the pending cases through. Only 10 bills have passed since March 31. There is a backlog of some 450.

This might take the House "a day, a week, or a month" beyond the time it would otherwise prorogue, the Halifax member said, but as sponsor of the bills he was determined that they would not be defeated through being talked out.

However, he would not say specifically whether an extension of the sitting had been approved by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The House had been expected to rise about July 23.

Mr. McCleave said that Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) and Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) would find it "a little more difficult" to block passage of divorce bills if they had to speak all day every day to accomplish it.

At the end of Tuesday's one-hour sitting—during which the CCF again scored a shutout—Mr. McCleave stomped angrily from the Commons chamber after shouting "Ignorant, rotten savages" in the general direction of the two CCF members.

FAKED DIVORCE SHOW — Joan Johnson, 27-year-old Toronto model and licensed private investigator, told a reporter she is the woman who posed as a professional divorce co-respondent on a coast-to-coast television show. She revealed her identity in a copyright story in the Toronto Telegram after weeks of investigation by the Ontario attorney-general's department. A divorcee herself, Joan insisted the rigged divorce evidence she spoke on the CBC does take place. She had claimed on the program Close-Up, using the name Mercedes Hunter, that she had acted as co-respondent in 120 divorce cases at fees of $100 each. (CP Wirephoto.)

Disciplinary Action Facing CBC if Model's Claim True Divorce Program Was Faked

TORONTO (CP)—A claim by a Toronto model that she faked the role of professional co-respondent in a television interview has raised the possibility of the CBC facing disciplinary action by the Board of Broadcast Governors and a police charge of public mischief.

CBC personnel connected with the show said, however, the woman told the truth in the interview, on the program Close-Up.

Identification of the woman came Tuesday after more than a week of provincial police investigations to trace her as a result of her claims on television that she posed as co-respondent in 120 divorce cases.

Joan Campbell, 27, unmasked by the Toronto Telegram, told police she made up everything she said in the May 26 television program, but insisted her statements were based on experience in working for a private detective agency.

He said the regular practice was "that if there was any doubt as to the seriousness of the occurrence one of the superior officers was asked as to the action that should be taken in dealing with it."

"It was always left to the discretion of the officer to decide the facts of the occurrence," he said.

Deputy Attorney-General William B. Common, whose department instigated the OPP inquiry, said investigations are continuing.

In Ottawa, Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to the House of Commons for the CBC, also promised a thorough check. He said responsible senior officials in Ottawa are convinced of the woman's authenticity.

BBG chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart said action will be taken if the CBC practised deception. Provincial police said the corporation might be charged with public mischief if the program was a hoax.

Ross McLean, producer of the show, said: "I think our co-respondent is either lying about lying, or lying about having told the truth."

Born Joan Deans, the model became Mrs. John Johnson in a teen-age marriage that ended in divorce and now is using the name Campbell.

June Callwood, who conducted the television interview, said the CBC has a declaration from a man that he engaged Miss Campbell as a co-respondent in four divorce cases.

Cyril Verge, head of the detective agency where Miss Campbell said she worked, declined comment on the case.

Asked whether Close-Up would be discontinued if it was proved the program had been rigged, CBC director Charles W. Leeson said this was a matter for management to consider.

"The first thing we have to make certain," said Dr. Stewart, "is that this is the right woman and that she is not telling any lies. Obviously this person is an accomplished liar."

Miss Campbell said Tuesday neither the producer nor the interviewer knew she was not a professional co-respondent. She said she came forward of her own volition when she heard the CBC was looking for a professional co-respondent for a television show. She was paid $150 by Mr. McLean for her appearance.

The model said she signed the receipt with the alias of Mercedes Hunter.

In a copyright story in The Telegram, Miss Campbell was quoted as saying she was sorry she had to expose her part in the show as a hoax because it cast a disparaging light on the program.

Provincial Police Inspector Herbert Purdy, who questioned Miss Campbell for two hours, said he doubted a charge would be laid against her.

Priest Proposes Cigaret Tax To Help Indians

OTTAWA (CP)—A cigaret tax should be levied on Canadian smokers as a long - delayed royalty to Indians for having invented tobacco, it was proposed Tuesday by an Oblate priest who has labored 12 years on behalf of the first citizens of Canada.

The money would be used to finance an Indian Canada Council operated by Indians for Indians on and off reservations under control of Parliament itself.

Rev. Andre Renaud, 40, director general of the Roman Catholic order's Indian and Eskimo welfare commission, sprang the idea at a press conference.

Father Renaud, a cigaret smoker, said the idea came to him suddenly last week as a solution to a major Indian difficulty—that of obtaining financial capital to improve the Indian's lot.

PRINCESS TO SCHOOL

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Mirror says Princess Anne will attend the Southover Manor School for Girls near Lewes, Sussex, this fall. Lewes is eight miles from Brighton on Britain's south coast. Princess Anne, 10 next month, has been taking private lessons at Buckingham Palace for the last four years.

'Self-Maid' Man on The Inside

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A woman from a fashionable section of Dallas telephoned Detective W.S. Biggio.

She was concerned about a maid who had worked for her for three years.

"I want to get her out of jail," she told the officer.

"Lady," replied the detective, "we have arrested your maid. But she turned out to be a man dressed in women's clothing."

The woman said she plans to advertise for a new maid.

Chrysler Head Welcomes Likely Car Firms Probe

WINDSOR (CP) — Ron W. Todgham, president of Canadian Chrysler said Tuesday he welcomes any investigation by the federal government designed to aid the Canadian automotive industry.

He was commenting on favorable reaction by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to an automobile union brief asking an investigation to cure the ills of the industry.

Mr. Todgham said "Such an undertaking is overdue and will receive the fullest co-operation from the manufacturers."

Commenting on the manufacture of small cars in Canada, a move urged in the union brief, Mr. Todgham said small cars cannot be built in Canada at competitive prices.

"It is the current high cost of production which makes it economically impossible to manufacture small cars—as distinguished from compact cars — in the Dominion at prices competitive to the British and European imports."

He said he would be happier if the United Automobile Workers (CLC), which sponsored the brief, would confine itself to supporting the common interests of the industry instead of blaming the manufacturers for "not adapting measures which are completely impractical."

MAJOR OPERATION

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Medical Protective Association suggests surgery on varicose veins is "fraught with danger" and should be classified as major surgery. Dr. T. L. Fisher of Ottawa, association secretary-treasurer, in the July 2 issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, suggests no doctor should undertake surgery of varicose veins unless his knowledge, training and skill is such he can deal safely with all deviations from normal he may encounter.

Federal Cabinet Will Give 'Serious, Immediate Study' To Motor Industry Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet will give "most serious and immediate" study to a United Auto Workers plea for a government inquiry into Canada's troubled automobile industry, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

After hearing a formal brief by the union calling for a royal commission investigation of auto industry problems, the prime minister told 200 union members and officials:

"The suggestion is one which will receive the immediate consideration of my colleagues."

George Burt, UAW director for Canada, later told the union group there is a good chance the government will set up a special inquiry board.

"I'm with you if there's action that can be taken," said Mr. Diefenbaker who spent almost an hour with the group in a crowded committee chamber in the Commons. Two other cabinet ministers—Labor Minister Starr and Revenue Minister Nowlan—stayed on for another hour to hear an array of off-the-cuff speeches about what's wrong with Canada's auto industry.

"Today we're on the brink of doom and we're calling on our government to take action to protect our industry," said Chrysler worker Charles Brooks of Windsor.

Other workers talked about tough times ahead, growing unemployment, rising layoffs, switches in production and the threat to Canadian jobs because of foreign small-car competition.

"If we're out of work, Mr. Starr, it won't be very long before you're out of work too," said Hugh McConville, also from Windsor, to Labor Minister Starr.

They applauded and laughed and left the two-hour meeting with a hunch that the government might set up the royal commission.

In the last few weeks, there has been a steady stream of callers on government leaders — mayors and reeves from auto industry communities, small parts manufacturers and the top presidents of the Canadian car makers, all seeking help for the ailing industry.

The UAW submission suggested that the royal commission look at car imports, where they come from, how much they cost, what they mean to Canada's home industry.

"Perhaps the government should tell the big three (Ford, Chrysler and General Motors) auto manufacturers that if they fail to meet the demand of Canadians for small cars, the government will encourage small car builders to build plants in Canada."

Cuban Diplomat Seeks Asylum

HAVANA (AP)—Jose Miro Cardona, Cuba's ambassador designate to the United States, has resigned and taken asylum in the Argentine Embassy, diplomatic sources said today. He submitted his formal resignation in a letter to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

GET 30 DAYS

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Judge Fred Leblanc Tuesday sentenced 16 Southern University students to 30-day jail sentences for disturbing the peace by sitting down at whites - only lunch counters. The Negro students also drew fines of $100 or 90 days in jail. An appeal will be made.

Group of Eleven To Study U.K. Farm Markets

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario overseas marketing study group which is to visit the United Kingdom this fall will be comprised of 11 members, Agriculture Minister Goodfellow announced Tuesday.

Those representing various commodity groups are:

James Simpson of Barrie, general manager of the First Co-operative Packers, for the meat products industry; C. N. Heath of Tillsonburg, secretary of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Board, and Walter Scott of the federal agriculture experimental station, Harrow, for tobacco; Charlie McNaughton, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Huron, for grain and forage crop seeds; George McLaughlin of Beaverton, for dairy products; Dr. John Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, for fresh, canned and frozen fruit and vegetable products, and Herbert Arbuckle, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, for other interested commodity groups.

The delegation will be headed by Mr. Goodfellow.

Chief objective of the delegation is to inquire into the possibility of increased sale of Ontario agricultural products in the United Kingdom and elsewhere.

Believe Site Of Old Fort Uncovered

TORONTO (CP) — Archaeologists of the Royal Ontario Museum have returned from Fort Albany on James Bay convinced they have uncovered evidence of battles waged at an English fort 250 years ago in the Canadian sub-Arctic.

They believe they have located the site of the fort, built by the Hudson's Bay Company and occupied at different times by British and French troops from the 1680s until 1721.

The archaeologists brought back debris found at Fort Albany, the scene of numerous battles between the British and French from 1686 to 1709. Their finds include cannon balls, musket balls, gun flints and parts of muskets.

Walter Kenyon, assistant curator of ethnology at the museum, said the site is rich in material and a large scale excavation would provide invaluable insight into life at trading posts in the Canadian wilderness during the 17th and 18th centuries. However, there are no plans for further excavation at the site.

BIG SPENDING

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Tourists spent a total of $132 for every man, woman and child in Leamington last year, an Ontario department of travel and publicity official said Tuesday night. James McHattie, director of the development branch, said a Leamington tourist survey conducted last summer shows an estimated $1,100,000 was spent by tourists in the town during the summer season — equivalent to the payroll of an industry employing 310 persons a year.

Find Orillia Picket Injured When Tussling With Police

ORILLIA (CP)—A union official Tuesday night said a picketer was injured in a picket line clash with police Monday at the strikebound Otaco Limited farm machinery plant.

William E. Smith, Orillia, an Otaco employee, was found to have fractured ribs when he reported to a doctor Tuesday morning.

James Robertson, Toronto, area representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) to which the strikers belong, said he didn't appreciate the "man-handling."

Monday's picket line violence flared when police made a path through picketers for a truck leaving the plant with a load of castings. A shoving and pushing match followed.

Shortly after the incident, company owner R. W. Phelps reaffirmed his intention to "sell the assets of the plant and completely close it down."

The plant has been strikebound since June 1. In negotiations before the walkout the union and company were unable to agree on the question of union security, the first of 27 items in dispute.

The union says Otaco wages are 50 cents an hour below those paid by other Orillia industries. The union membership rejected a company offer of a six-cent hourly increase for employees earning less than $1.20 an hour and three cents for those earning more.

Mr. Robertson said he had been told by police chief E. W. McIntyre there would be no man-handling.

Police Chief McIntyre said the police were not strikebreakers and were at the plant to maintain law and order. Guns were unloaded and many officers didn't even carry any, he said. Night sticks, he added, were also left at the police station.

Field Cut to 74

Player Favorite for Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP)—The 100th British open golf tournament starts today and any one of the 74 golf aces entered could take the laurels.

But South Africa's Gary Player has marked himself as a man who may take a lot of beating.

Player, defending champion, showed the way through qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday with rounds of 67 and 68 for an aggregate 135—two strokes ahead of Ireland's Christy O'Connor.

The qualifying rounds cut the field of 387 to 74, lowest since the present qualifying play was established after the Second World War.

Rules state that the field is cut to a maximum of 100 after 36 qualifying holes. Tuesday 74 players had 147 or better. Another 28 had 148 and were automatically eliminated.

The two historic St. Andrews courses, ravaged by a rash of scores in the 60s in Monday's perfect calm, redeemed their reputation Tuesday by a swift change of weather. Scores and hopes were put to route on a wholesale scale as bone-chilling winds and driving rains swept in from the North Sea.

But Player showed his ability to handle the course in fair weather or foul.

Third on the qualifying list behind O'Connor was Fidel Deluca of Argentina with a 139. Norman Drew of Ireland was fourth with 140.

Top American was Gene Sarazen, 58, who shot an even par 72 on the New Course Tuesday after an opening 69 for 141. That put him one stroke ahead of Arnold Palmer, who skyrocketed to a 75 for 142. The U.S. Masters and Open champion was experimenting and playing loosely.

"The round didn't bother me," Palmer said. "I am still looking over the course. It's tomorrow that counts."

Bisons Cut Toronto Lead; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball's oldest minor league—the International — has seen some unusual incidents in its 76 years of existence, and today had two more to add to the list.

The first incident occurred at Buffalo Tuesday night as the second-place Bisons staged a six-run rally in the eighth inning to upend league-leading Toronto 8-2 and cut the Leafs' first-place margin to eight games.

The Bisons stroked eight hits in the game — seven of them doubles — but needed Joe Lonnett's single for the go-ahead run.

At Rochester, Montreal thumped the Red Wings 7-2 with an 11-hit attack, but employed a squeeze bunt by Joe Tanner that scored two runs for what proved to be the winning tallies.

In other games, Richmond edged Miami 10-9 with a four-homer offensive, and Columbus rapped Havana 8-1 for its fifth consecutive victory.

Lonnett cracked the only single in the Buffalo-Toronto contest to break a 2-2 tie, then Jackie Davis and Bobby Morgan built up the lead by driving in two runs each with bases-loaded doubles. Max Surkont picked up the victory in relief. Steve Ridzik, the Leafs' nine-game winner, lost his third.

KEPT WINGS BAFFLED

Rene Valdes spun a six-hitter for the Royals, who have won 10 of their last 13 games, keeping the Wings baffled after Angel Scull gave him a 1-0 lead with a homer off Dick Ricketts' first pitch. Tanner drove in the deciding runs with his bunt in the second inning, scoring men from second and third.

Jim Pisoni hit his second homer of the game off John Anderson (1-5) in the ninth inning for the Richmond victory. Deron Johnson and Ken Hunt also hit for the circuit.

A solo homer by Roman Mejias and a two-run clout by Johnny Powers off Orlando Pena (6-6) gave the Jets a 3-0 lead after three innings and righthander Jim Umbricht (1-1) kept 10 Sugar King hits well scattered.

Musial Out Of All-Stars; Not Surprised

CHICAGO (AP)—Stan Musial, who has appeared in more all-star baseball games (16) than any other player, says he won't be disappointed if he doesn't make it this time.

The all-time great St. Louis Cardinal outfielder-infielder was absent from the 16 players named in the National League voting results for the all-star engagements in Kansas City July 11 and New York July 13. But Walt Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers, who will manage the National Leaguers, will name the remaining members of his 30-man squad Thursday.

"I've had no indication whatsoever that Alston will name me in the group," Musial told The Associated Press Tuesday. "I won't be disappointed if he doesn't. In fact I would be surprised if he did.

"I haven't played too much this season. And besides that, the younger fellows should get the chance. I've been in plenty of them, and, after all, I'm 39 years old you know."

Musial, who has been in every all-star game since 1914 and has hit more homers—five—in them than any other player, is playing better now than he was last year when he was an all-star choice of Milwaukee's Fred Haney.

'Birds' Walker Gets Checkup

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pitcher Jerry Walker, whose ineffectiveness this season has been a major mystery to Baltimore Orioles, flew into Baltimore for a complete physical checkup.

The 21-year-old righthander left his teammates in Boston, where he blew a 6-1 lead in the second game of a doubleheader Monday.

"He's been complaining to me the last two weeks about a shortness of breath," Dr. Irwin Mayer, Orioles physician, said.

Dr. Mayer said Walker has been handicapped since spring training when he suffered from sinus trouble and his present condition is complicated by an allergy.

FRASER HAS HARD TIME

BASTAD, Sweden (AP) — Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser of Australia had trouble advancing in the international tennis tournament here Tuesday.

He won a narrow decision over 44-year-old Swedish veteran Torsten Johansson, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4, to enter the quarter-finals.

The other Australian Wimbledon finalist, Rod Laver, won the first two but lost the third and fourth sets against Sweden's Staffan Stockenberg when their match was suspended because of darkness. The score was 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 1-6.

Pros Pose Problem

Tennis Body Faces Decision

PARIS (AP)—Amateur tennis today arrives at a crossroads in its dealing with the professionals.

The International Lawn Tennis Federation, after staring frostily at Jack Kramer from a distance for years, must decide whether it wants to play with the pros after all. And, if so, on what terms?

The question of open tournaments is on the agenda of the two-day meeting and must face a vote.

Another proposal up for discussion would create a class of "authorized players", a hybrid group who would be permitted to take money and still play with the amateurs. Jean Borotra, France's old-time star, is pushing this idea to get rid of what he calls the hypocrisy of the present situation.

The tennis bigwigs have been informally batting these revolutionary ideas around during the two weeks of the Wimbledon tournament in England. The concensus seems to be that open tournaments of some kind will be admitted on an experimental basis. But the proposal for authorized players seems to be doomed, and it may be withdrawn before a vote if preliminary discussion seems overwhelmingly against it.

FOR FOUR TITLES?

Some of the pre-meeting talk has been that permission would be granted for the big four national championships — Paris, Wimbledon, the Forest Hills in the United States and Australia —to accept professional entries in an open tournament.

Some reluctance may hinge on prize money. Wimbledon is reported firm in its feeling that prestige, plus some modest monetary reward, should be enough for the pros if they are let in.

Kramer, promoter of the professional troupe and president of the Association of Professional Players, has other ideas. He suggests that an offering of some $15,000 in prize money should be about the right amount to make it worth the professionals' time.

Kramer wasn't invited to the federation's meeting. But he'll be available if wanted.

Jones Motors took a 2-0 first-frame lead and never looked back as they edged Ellis Printers Juveniles 4-3 in Commercial play last night.

Genereaux hurled six-hit ball for the winners, fanning five and walking two.

Somy Holoway gave up just three hits on the losers' hilltop but walked eight. The walks and a couple throwing errors led to his downfall. He fanned five.

Genereaux and Vandervoort hit doubles for Jones Motors while Worsley had a single.

Pug Kellar, with a double and single, Holoway, with two singles, topped the losers. Gary Duggan tripled while Paul Zakos doubled.

Jones Motors	200 110 0—	4	3	3
Ellis Printers	010 101 0—	3	6	2

Batteries: Genereaux and Valance; Holoway and Weston.

Youth Accent In Cup Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Three players averaging 21 years of age were named by U.S. officials Tuesday for the American zone first-round Davis Cup matches against Canada at Quebec City July 15-17.

Also named was Bart Bartzen, 33, Dallas southpaw who is the team's assistant captain. He may play but the major portion of the competition against the Canadians is expected to be handled by Barry Mackay, 25, of Dayton, Ohio, and two 19-year-olds from St. Louis, Earl Buchholz and Charles McKinley.

Canada's team is composed of Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Don Fontana of Toronto, Roland Godin of Montreal and Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que.

Dice Throws Move Players In Grotesque Giveaway Game

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There are hundreds of different children's games played on marked boards in which the players move toward the goal of flicking a spinner or tossing dice or picking cars.

Well, CBS has turned this into a grotesque giveaway game in which the contestants themselves move from spot to spot depending on the turn of the dice.

For people who have absolutely nothing else to do with their time, this show will be available every day (10:30 a.m. EDT) starting Monday, July 11. It also has a weekly night time windup each Friday (9 p.m., EDT).

It is called Video Village. It is a place no sane human would risk visiting, let alone inhabiting. The mayor is Jack Narz and he is assisted by Joanne Copeland.

With the opening show last Friday, CBS re-entered the giveaway business it quit when the huge bubble of giveaways burst in scandal. Video Village is allegedly tamper-proof. Besides, the prizes are so trivial — $10 here, $25 there—CBS is certain no one would attempt cheating.

A BIT OF FEAR?

The bizarre and the mysterious have an allure of their own. Witchcraft holds this same fascination. At least, NBC hopes it does, for its second show of Moment of Fear deals with the subject in a story titled, Conjure Wife.

Whether that moment of fear will come alive is conjecture.

In the first show in the new series, The Golden Deed, starring Macdonald Carey, the sense of danger never communicated itself; the moment never really materialized.

Emile the Cat Will Coach Guelph Juniors

GUELPH (CP) — Former National Hockey League goaltender Emile (the Cat) Francis was signed Tuesday to coach Guelph of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

The Guelph franchise was recently purchased by New York Rangers from a group of Guelph men who had operated the team for 12 years. Francis succeeds Eddie Bush, now coach-manager of Hamilton Cubs.

Francis spent several seasons with the Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks and has been playing in the Western League since 1952. This is his first attempt at coaching.

Rangers also announced their executive for the team here. Chief scout Jack Humphreys will be president and Jack Jackson, radio station manager, vice-president. Car dealer Tom Hardy is secretary.

Akins, Rodriguez Meet Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Virgil Akins hits the make - or - break phase of his comeback attempt tonight when he meets Luis Rodriguez, leading welterweight contender.

Akins, 32, of St. Louis has been up and down in more than 12 years of fighting, winning the title, then losing it and a rematch to Don Jordan. He will be a 12-to-5 underdog.

Rodriguez goes into the 10-round match, which will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m., with a 28-0 record. Akins is 51-24-1.

Promoter Bill King said 35 per cent of the gross gate receipts will go to the widow and six children of Rudel Stitch, ranking Louisville welterweight who was crowned a month ago in an unsuccessful attempt to save a friend.

Stitch died the day before he was slated to sign for a bout with Rodriguez here July 24.

Williams' 16th Show

American League All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — American League president Joe Cronin Tuesday announced the 22 players selected by manager Al Lopez to complete the 1960 American League all-star baseball squad.

The eight starters were chosen previously by a poll among all players, managers and coaches in the league. The games will be played in Kansas City July 11 and in New York July 13.

Lopez named pitchers Gary Bell and Dick Stigman of Cleveland; Jim Coates and Whitey Ford of New York; Bud Daley, Kansas City; Chuck Estrada, Baltimore; Frank Lary, Detroit; Bill Monbouquette, Boston; Camilo Pascual, Washington; and Gerry Staley and Early Wynn of Chicago.

Catchers Elston Howard, Yankees, and Sherm Lollar, White Sox, were selected to back up starter Yogi Berra, also of the Yankees.

SUB INFIELDERS

Reserve infielders are Luis Aparicio and Nelson Fox of the White Sox; Vic Power, Indians, and Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile of the Orioles.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox was named to a reserve outfield along with Al Kaline, Tigers, Harvey Kuenn, Indians, and Al Smith, White Sox.

The eight starters named earlier are Berra, Bill Skowron, New York, 1b; Pete Runnels, Boston, 2b; Ron Hansen, Baltimore, ss; Frank Malzone, Boston, 3b; Minnie Minoso, Chicago, lf; Mickey Mantle, New York, cf; and Roger Maris, New York, rf.

This will be Williams's 16th appearance in the mid - summer classic. Berra and Fox will be playing their 13th and 10th all-star games respectively.

Game Postponed

The Belleville and District softball league game, scheduled for the air station last night between Cobourg Merchants and RCAF Flyers was called off, apparently at the last moment.

Four Cobourg players who reside in Belleville and the scorekeeper arrived at the station in time for last night's game only to be told that it had been postponed.

A couple RCAF players nearby did not know which team had asked for the postponement or why.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Time was when an Englishman's reaction upon seeing his first game of baseball this side of the Atlantic was feature copy for American sportswriters and columnists.

They got a tremendous "kick" out of the sometimes quaint sayings of the Marquis of Mucklefinch-on-Rye or the Duchess of Dashboard, some of them true, a lot imaginary.

Such as "Why, that policeman standing behind that man with the bat didn't give him a chance. He told him to go home before he even hit the ball."

Or, "I say, you chaps have made a bally farce out of our good old game of rounders. When we chaps smote the ruddy ball, we ran all the way around the circle. You Americans have men planted at three places to stop them. Bit thick, isn't it, old bean."

Now after years of innocent fun-poking by American scribes at their stateside touring expatriates, the Englishmen, especially the cricket "blokes," have their chance to smile.

Since Ebbet's Field is no more and the beloved Dodgers have become baseball "Angels," a Brooklyn fan decided to vacation in England and during his stay in London took in a cricket match.

Here is his version of it:

"Just came back from a world series game where a guy drove in four runs with a foul tip.

"There was a pitcher named Griffin using a spitball right out in the open and nobody said a word.

"Two characters appeared on the field wearing long white smocks. It turned out they were umpires.

"The catcher stood 30 feet behind the batter and at one point eight of the ten fielders were back there with him. There was nobody in the pitcher's rear except one player in deep left and one in deep right.

"Weirdest game of ball you ever saw. They call it cricket.

"These doings occurred at the Lord's Cricket Ground in the northwest part of the city. It was a test match between England and South Africa. That's test with a capital 'T', because such international romps are the world series of cricket.

"England batted first. Having made 362 runs they decided to pass up their last two put-outs and let South Africa try to catch them.

"It was like, say, the Yankees scored nine runs in their first couple of bats against the White Sox. So Casey Stengel tells the umpires: 'To save time we won't bat any more. We will let the White Sox bat until we have made the regulation 27 put-outs.'

"This pitcher Griffin of South Africa, was moistening his fingers for every delivery. The umpires just looked the other way. But later they spoke to him severely because he sent one down with a snap of the wrist. This is known as throwing, and is illegal.

"The batters were given runs for drives all around the clock, including over their shoulders.

"O'Linn of South Africa foul-tipped one and it rolled to a kind of little board fence known as the 'boundary.'

"This gave him four runs and he didn't even have to run them out.

"When Pee-Wee Reese was playing for the Bums in the good old days before O'Malley sold us out, he used to shop around for good pitches like a fussy old lady picking out a pair of shoes at a rummage sale.

"Pitches Pee-Wee didn't like he simply fouled off, sometimes a dozen or so at a single bat.

"If Pee-Wee had been playing cricket he would have made a hundred runs just waiting around for a pitch that suited him.

"Maybe he should give cricket a try even at this late date. South Africa could use him.

"Then they quit. I figured the game was over, but it must have been the end of the first quarter. Some guy told me play would be resumed later.

"The spectators, or a lot of them, went into a big marquee tent. I figured it was good for a hot dog and a coke, but was stopped by a big lug who wanted to know "Are you a member, suh?'

"I showed him my card of Local 24356784, Brotherhood of Benevolent Backers of the Bums, Greenpernt Branch, but he smiled, fingered a couple of needle-like hairs he wore for a moustache and brushed me off with 'Sorry, suh'."

Allison's Homer Beats Yankees In 10th

Orioles Win Over Red Sox

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Maybe this isn't going to be such a cinch American League pennant race for New York Yankees after all. Not when they use three starting pitchers in one game and get beaten. And not when they lose two games in a row for the first time in more than a month.

The Yankees were held to three hits by Pete Ramos and Chuck Stobbs, blew a 3-0 lead and lost 5-3 in 10 innings to Washington Senators Tuesday night. Art Ditmar, who had won five straight decisions, was tagged for the loss after following Ralph Terry and Bob Turley to the mound.

After dropping only eight of 30 games in June, the Yanks have lost two of five in July. Both losses were to the sixth-place Senators. The New Yorkers lead the second-place Cleveland Indians by only one game.

The third - place Baltimore Orioles beat Boston Red Sox 9-4 in Tuesday's only other scheduled league game.

A two-out single by Reno Bertoia and Bob Allison's 10th homer of the season beat the Yankees and Ditmar (7-4). The Senators scored in each of the last four frames, tying things on Faye Throneberry's pinch single off Turley with two out in the ninth.

Stobbs (6-2) won his third straight game with two perfect innings of relief for his 99th victory in a 14-year career. Only 31, he has lost 122 in that span and hasn't had a winning season since 1953.

All the Yank hits came in the first five innings off Ramos, who gave up a two-run homer in the first by Roger Maris, the major league leader with 26. The Senators' controversial righthander, tagged a spitball pitcher by Baltimore manager Paul Richards and White Sox boss Al Lopez, was handed an automatic $50 fine when he received a beanball warning after hitting Mickey Mantle as he led off the fourth inning.

In the Senators' third, Jose Valdivielso charged Terry with shouts of "duster" and had to be restrained by plate umpire John Flaherty.

Baltimore picked up three unearned runs in the second inning at Boston against loser Tom Brewer (5-7), then clinched it with two runs in the fourth on singles by Marv Breeding, Jackie Brandt, Gene Woodling and Jim Gentile. Brandt was 3-5 and had three runs batted in.

Chuck Estrada (9-4) was the winner. He gave up six hits and struck out seven men, but walked nine and was tagged for two-run homers by Vic Wertz and pinch-hitter Pumpsie Green.

City Commercial Softball Results

Joyce Real Estate took advantage of 12 errors on their way to a 17-6 victory over Circle TV in a Commercial tilt last night.

The winners scored in almost every inning but seven runs in the second wrapped it up early.

Don Smith pitched four-hit ball for the victory. He struck out five and walked five.

McLeod started and Powers took over in the second for Circle. They allowed 10 hits, whiffed four and walked five.

Bob Marner had a [illegible]uble and two singles to spearhead the winners' attack. Denny Farnsworth hit a three-run homer while Don Wood and Lyle Wannamaker had a double and single each. D. Smith and M. Reid added singles.

Ron Archer and Craig had doubles in a losing effort while Ralph Boomhower and Ross Empey singled.

Smoky Burgess Is Suspended

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Catcher Smoky Burgess of Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday was suspended for two days by National League president Warren Giles for a run-in last Saturday with umpire Bill Jakowski.

Burgess missed Tuesday night's game against Milwaukee Braves and will be out for tonight's meeting with the Reds in Cincinnati. He was ejected and fined $50 for a clash with Jakowski over a play at the plate.

He got the thumb for "intentional body contact" in protesting Jakowski's ruling that Los Angeles second baseman Charlie Neal was safe.

It was only the fifth time in 11 years that Burgess was banished from a game.

Russians Ask Thomas How To High Jump

BOSTON (AP) — Clearing a high-jump bar at seven feet or more is commonplace now for John Thomas, Boston University leaper.

Getting a telephone call Tuesday from Moscow was much more exciting. Especially when he was asked how to improve Russian high-jumping.

It gave John a chance to assure a Moscow sports writer that the pulled muscle he suffered last weekend in California was not serious and to suggest more Russian-U.S. track meets as a means of easing the cold war.

It was clearly confusion over what the term "pulled muscle" meant that caused the call from Soviet - Sport, a three-times-weekly paper.

Thomas had set his seven-feet, 3¾-inches record at Stanford, Calif., and decided to try for seven feet, four inches. That was when he strained a muscle high in one leg.

He assured the Moscow caller that it was only a soreness that would go away after a week's rest.

Asked whether he knew any Russian jumpers, Thomas said he did.

"Do you have any suggestion to help them improve their jumping?" the caller asked.

The Boston youth said, "no" because he was not familiar with the Russians' styles.

Then John asked a question about Russian high - jumping this spring and the Moscow writer said one had done seven feet.

RETAINS TITLE

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes, British - born former United States marine, successfully retained his British middleweight boxing crown by stopping Phil Edwards of Wales in the 12th round of a scheduled 15 - round bout Tuesday night. Downes, who weighed 158¾ pounds, to Edwards's 158½, is expected to challenge American Paul Pender for his world title, recognized in New York, Massachusetts, California and Europe.

Rip-N-Rock Tangle With Jumbo, LaRock

Rip Hawk and Rock Hunter apparently believe "the bigger they come, the harder they fall."

Last week they whittled Big Ed. Miller and huge Don Leo Jonathan down to size.

Friday night they take on bigger game.

There's 517 pounds in one chunk — the Mighty Jumbo. There's some steel-muscled lightning in the other, Jim La Rock.

The big clash happens in Memorial Arena Friday. It's the same building. Don't be fooled by the new hair-do, face-lift and interior decor.

The Rip-and-Rock combo are pretty confident after their demolition of the Miller-Jonathan duo last week. The Jumbo? Phooey, he's just another big guy who needs whittling.

But they'd better watch out. This boy La Rock is nobody's fool even if he does lack the beam and beef of Pal Jumbo. It should be quite a brawl.

Then there is the popular Sandy Kovacs tangling with Bob Leipler and Les Lyman meeting Knobby MacDonald in the opener.

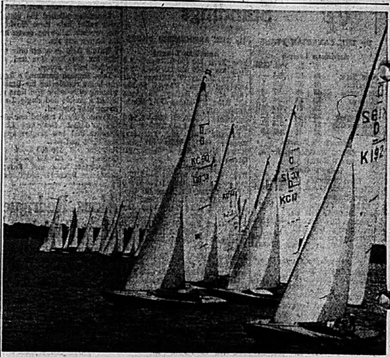
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, blanked Cincinnati Redlegs on four hits for a 2-0 victory.

Hitting: Rocky Nelson, Pittsburgh Pirates, triggered a three-run ninth inning with leadoff homer that broke up a shutout, then beat Milwaukee Braves 5-4 in the 10th inning with a two-out, two-run homer.



Dragon Races Attract 40 Sleek Yachts

Forty sleek Canadian and American yachts will hoist colorful sails this year in the O'Keefe Dragon Trophy races to be held at Clayton, N.Y., near Watertown, July 7-8-9.

The sixth annual international regatta is for the O'Keefe Trophy, emblematic of the Great Lakes championship, and alternates annually between Canada and the United States.

Winner of the Trophy is sent to Europe each year to compete in the world championship Gold Cup races. Since the regatta was inaugurated in 1955, all winners have been Canadians.

Last year, Walter Windeyer of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, skippered his yacht Tip to the title and is at present in Amsterdam, Holland, prepping his craft to sail in this year's world championship, July 5-6-7-8-10.

Windeyer also won the Great Lakes crown the previous year and brought yachting fame to Canada in 1959 by sailing to first place in the Gold Cup. The two-time winner also will represent Canada in the Olympics to be held at Naples, Italy, in late August.

Of the 40 craft competing this year, 23 are from various Canadian centres, and 17 from the United States. Toronto will be represented by nine craft; Montreal, seven; Ottawa, four; Kingston, two; and London, one. U.S. representatives will be: Clayton, nine; Rochester, four; Detroit, one; Buffalo, one; Toledo, one; and Ashtabula, one.

Pirates Shade Braves

Podres 4-Hits Giants In 8-0 Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way the top clubs are using starting pitchers in relief these days, you'd think it was the final week of the pennant race in the National League.

Even the first place Pittsburgh Pirates have fallen into the trend, calling on Bob Friend for a save Tuesday night as they beat Milwaukee 5-4 in 10 innings on Rocky Nelson's second home run for a 4½ - game bulge over the second place Braves.

The Pirates, shut out for eight innings, hadn't called on a starting pitcher in relief all season. But it's nothing new among the Braves or the third place San Francisco Giants.

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Braves has used Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl a total of 11 times, in starts and relief, in the past 13 games. And Mike McCormick, Johnny Antonelli and Jack Sanford have made 11 appearances among them in the Giants' last eight games under Clancy Sheehan.

Ironically, the handling of pitchers was one of the raps against each of the guys Dressen and Sheehan replaced — Fred Haney of the Braves and Bill Rigney of the Giants.

UNEQUAL MATCH

McCormick, making his fourth appearance in six days, was no match Tuesday night for southpaw Johnny Podres, who allowed just four hits as Los Angeles whipped the Giants 8-0. St. Louis defeated Chicago's Cubs 3-2 and Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 2-0 behind a four - hitter by Robin Roberts.

The Pirates cracked Carl Willey's six-hit shutout with three runs in the ninth on Nelson's leadoff homer, a walk and Don Hoak's home run. The Braves then almost won it in their ninth. Del Crandall tied it with a bases-loaded single, but when Eddie Haas tried to score from second on the hit, he was nailed at the plate by Bob Skinner's peg from right field.

Nelson finally beat Joey Jay (2-5) with his fifth home run of the season, coming after Skinner singled past second baseman Al Dark with two out. Friend, who worked eight innings without a decision Monday, saved it for Paul Giel (2-0) getting the last two outs after Hank Aaron reached base when he swung for a third strike on a wild pitch and scored on Joe Adcock's one-out single.

Podres (8-6) struck out seven and walked two while beating the Giants for the sixth time in seven decisions over the past two seasons. He ended Willie Mays' hitting streak at 19 games in this one for a 3-1 record and two shutouts against San Francisco this season. McCormick (9-5) was beaten in the fourth when Junior Gilliam doubled, went to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch — the Dodgers' first run off the Giant left hander in 22 innings this year.

SHEEHAN'S NINTH LOSS

It was the seventh victory in nine games for the fifth - place world champions. And it was the ninth defeat in 15 games for the Giants under "interim" manager Sheehan — who Tuesday was named boss for at least the rest of the season.

An eighth - inning triple by Bill White broke a 2-2 tie for the Cards as they knocked off Don Cardwell (4-6) in their first rematch since he beat them with a no - hitter May 15. Both clubs had five hits this time. Lindy McDaniel (4-3), the loser in the no - hitter, won it with 2 2-3 innings of one hit relief. The Cubs broke through Curt Simmons' two-hit shutout in the sixth on Ernie Banks' 24th homer, with a man on.

Roberts (5-7) walked one, struck out one and retired 19 in order at one stretch while winning his fourth in a row. It was his first shutout of the year, but gave him a career total of 34 that's second only to Spahn's 47 among active NL pitchers. The Phils handed Don Newcombe (3-6) his fifth straight loss when they junked his one - hit shutout in the sixth on Ruben Amaro's single and a double by ex-Red Tony Gonzalez.

Greens Are Spike-Pocked

Gripers Grouse Over 'Open' Links

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The grouchers society is in full swing today, start of the 51st Canadian open golf championship over the suburban St. George's course. The pros aren't enthused about the layout, particularly the state of the greens.

Most of the field of 147 toured the 6,516 - yard, par - 72 course Tuesday and comments were caustic. The gripers preferred to remain anonymous and the general theme was that the lightning-fast spike - pocked greens would make it tough.

"The greens probably won't stand the gaff of all the traffic," observed one pro who carded a three - under - par 69 practice round.

"The late starters will have to give away a couple of strokes," commented another. "The greens are full of spike marks — not good," he added.

Condition of the course shouldn't bother the pros who make this game a year - round business proposition but they still like to complain. Big George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif., was the loudest squawker three years ago at Kitchener and he presented a red face at conclusion of the 72-hole tournament when he stepped up to receive the first-place $3,500 prize money.

The field is probably one of the strongest in the tournament's history. Among the starters are six former winners, including three-time champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and defending champion Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., who turned in a four-under-par 68 Tuesday.

With them are former winners Bayer, Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., 1956 winner; Wes Ellis, Jr. of Aldecress, N.J., titleholder in 1958, and veteran Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who pocketed the first-place money in 1950 and 1951.

The sentimentalists around here favor the 48-year-old Snead to make it a record - equalling four Open titles. He won in 1938, 1940 and 1941 but still has to take one more to match the feat of Leo Diegel of Washington who won in 1924-25 and 1928-29.

OTHER FAVORITES

A couple of Canadian open "bridesmaids" — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., have received strong support as favorites. They tied for second place in the 1959 Open and Finsterwald also was runner-up in 1956, when Sanders took the title.

Others prominently mentioned as possible winners are Cary Middlecoff, the slow - playing Memphis, Tenn. dentist, and Ken Venturi, 29, of Palo Alto, Calif.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, possibly the greatest golfer ever produced in Canada, leads the big Canadian field. He shot a 69 Tuesday.

The field will be reduced to the low 100 and ties after 36 holes and will be trimmed further to the low 60 and ties after 54 holes.

Ford, noted around the big-time circuit for his hurry-up style of play, was in good company when he posted his 68 Tuesday. He played with Moe Norman of Kitchener, the clown prince of Canadian golf who rarely stops to catch his breath. Norman shot an even-par 72.

May Face Suspension

Durelle Failed to Appear

WATERVILLE, Me. (AP) — The chairman of the Maine Boxing Commission said Tuesday night action would be taken against Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., if it turns out he failed to fulfil a contract in not appearing for an Augusta fight Monday night.

James J. McClay Sr., said it made no difference whether the contract was written or verbal.

"If Durelle failed to fulfil his contract we will go along with a suspension until the contract is completed."

Durelle had been billed for a Wheeler of Augusta. Cash refunds were made to most of the 1,500 customers.

McClay also said the promoter and matchmaker broke the state rules whenthey failed to notify the commission three days in advance that a fight was to be held.

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—Lightheavyweight Yvon Durelle's failure to show for a scheduled bout with Paul Wheelock of Augusta disappointed more than 1,500 fans here Monday night.

Russell Bryant, a member of the Maine Boxing Commission, said he telephoned Durelle's home at Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., shortly before the boxing-wrestling show started and was told by Mrs. Durelle: "My husband is downtown."

Bryant did not say what if any action the commission would take.

In Moncton, N.B., Durelle's manager, Chris Shaban, said he had received a telephone call complaining about the boxer's failure to appear for a two-round exhibition. Shaban said that was the first he had heard about the fight.

Durelle was unavailable, but his manager quoted the boxer as saying he was approached about the proposed Augusta match while in Maine last month but had given no definite answer.

YOU CAN'T JUDGE A BOOK BY ITS COVER

And you can't judge a house from the outside. Even Buckingham Palace is an unattractive rectangle of masonry. Call one of our salesmen and see through our wide variety of offerings such as this latest listing at $2,150.00 down - - - 3 large bedrooms, large living room with popular "L" shaped dining room, beautiful tiled bath with vanity and an attached garage. Built of clay brick, this is an outstanding home for the discriminating purchaser, East end location.

ATTRACTIVE SUNKEN GARDEN LOT

This large split-level is situated on one lot in a million. The rear of the lot is sunken in such a way as to make it ideal for a private garden and patio, completely surrounded with beautiful trees. If you want outside living you will love this one. The house is of brick construction featuring a 27' living room, huge kitchen with large eating area, 3 large bedrooms, and a real large tiled bath with vanity. The basement really isn't designed as a bowling alley, it's just a bigger basement that's all. The price is just $14,900.00 and one N.H.A. mortgage. Immediate possession.

ROSEWOOD AVE. 5% MORTGAGE REDUCED TO $14,500.00

This home is one of the most attractive homes we have had to offer for some time. If you want to get away from conventional styled bungalows, see this one. It features 3 bedrooms, modern kitchen, and living room with dining area. Very attractively landscaped, it will afford the purchaser real pride of ownership.

ROOMING HOUSE CHARLES STREET

This lising is sure to satisfy the many inquiries we have had for income property. Handy to hospital, Dundas Street industries, and downtown area. Listed at $12,500.00, your down payment may do.

which a long parade of speakers, largely from government ranks, praised or attacked the bill's provisions, although all came out firmly in favor of the principle of the bill.

Works Minister Walker, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny and Justice Minister Fulton were thrown into the battle together with a procession of back benchers. And on the opposition side, the Liberals called up frontbencher Paul Martin (LEssex East) while the CCF put on three of their eight members.

Prank Results In Wife's Death

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 20-year-old father of two children was charged with second-degree manslaughter Tuesday after sobbing out a story of a holiday prank that ended with the death of his wife.

James C. Batcho was quoted by police as saying he tossed a lighted firecracker under his wife's bed. When his wife, Geraldine, also 20, awakened, Batcho said, a .22-calibre rifle he was holding discharged.

Police said Mrs. Batcho was shot in the head. They said Batcho told them he didn't know the safety catch was off.

The couple's two children, a three-year-old boy and a year-old girl, slept through the shooting.

NEW RED ROCKETS

to sending a man into space.

The Russians previously announced that the rocket they test-fired into the Pacific in January was later used to send their nearly - five - ton space ship manned with a dummy astronaut into orbit May 15.

The target area is a 50,000-square-mile zone about 600 miles south of Johnson Atoll, which the U.S. uses as a naval base. The January target area lay about 150 miles northwest of the current zone, and parts of the two overlap.

Location of the launching sites has not been disclosed. Speculation abroad placed the January launching sites near the Caspian Sea, or about one-third of the way around the earth from the landing area.

The U.S. defence department figured the latest Russian shot travelled about 7,700 miles. A Washington statement said the U.S. calculation was based on the ranges claimed by the Russians in their January tests.

The defence department said two U.S. Navy patrol planes observed vapor trails and saw the rocket hit the water about dawn.

An airline pilot said he saw a bright object that looked like "a very bright star with a halo" about 10 times the size of the moon streaking across the sky just after he left Tokyo.

"I have never seen anything quite so awe-inspiring in all my 35 years of flying," Capt. H. Lanier Turner told reporters in Honolulu.

General Tendencies: So much comes into the open today that you would be wise, even while doing daily tasks and duties, to look into all avenues of expression to make sure you utilize to advantage today's aspects by seeing just how you can better perform the duties and obligations that are yours. See your own sign following for the best use of this influence.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Increase harmony both at home and at place of business now by having serious talks with higher-ups and with closest of kin. You can then inaugurate a more practical system of operation and increase success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Now you can easily understand what your goals are in life and how to achieve them through a far more practical plan of activity. It will be possible to get support from associates with real ease, too.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Better study your plans and financial affairs with an eye toward long periods of time in the future. Find out how others can best assist you, and be sure to work out fine arrangements with associates or clientele, or both.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take time to analyze your true goals at this mid-year term and then be sure to confer with key people so that you can achieve them with dispatch and relative ease. Come to a fine understanding — pledge mutual support.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) — You can eliminate all that needless worry now simply by rolling up your sleeves and doing all that work that awaits you. Don't procastinate any longer. Then tonight it is important you help those who need your assistance badly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Get together with comrades today and have them cooperate with you on certain practical ideas and activities you have in mind. Evening is then fine for recreation, ust as you like it.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Don't remain in a rut today but listen closely to what close ties have to suggest in the way of new and more profitable outlets. It is important you are more broadminded, however, than you have been.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Every opportunity is yours now to please those you love by going along on some business venture or pleasure jaunt that will help you to gain your mutual aims. Stop procrastinating — get on the beam!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) —Important you know ust how much backing or cooperation can be had from higher-ups or friends today. Go to them with your ideas or plans and have a long discussion. Come to some definite understanding.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Take time to think out your most important long-range plans and how to set them into motion. Go into minute detail. Later, confer with a working associate and make good use of his advice and backing.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Ideal day to clear up any errors in your work, get rid of the undesirable and replace with the desirable. Get advice from a co-worker, too. Make excellent long-term arrangements that will bring real success.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It would be wise to establish far better relations with good friends who can be very helpful to you in the future. Though one who monopolizes most of your time now may prove a little difficult, you can handle this real tact.

If your child is born today . . . his, or her, life will be a series of constant changes, so it is important that you teach early not to try to hang on to individuals or things when they no longer can be helpful to his, or her progress. The education must consequently be a practical one so that adustments can be made quickly and easily. Any money inves[illegible] in a business college cours[illegible] will bring excellent benefits. A very interesting chart!

ATOMIC REACTOR — A uranium fuel rod is lowered into the tank of a low-powered nuclear reactor recently completed at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic energy project. Known as ZED-2, the reactor will be used to find the best way to build and arrange fuel rods in atomic generating plants. The aluminum tank is surrounded by a wall of graphite to reduce the escape of neutrons and an outer concrete shield to prevent escape of radiation. (CP Photo)

ZED-2 Helps Scientists Gather Data in Development Of Economic A-Power Plants

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—A $3,000,000 research tool containing enough graphite for 1,000,000,000 lead pencils is expected to give Canadian scientists valuable information in the development of economic atomic power plants.

The tool is a new low-power nuclear reactor soon to be used at this Canadian atomic energy project 130 miles northwest of Ottawa. Construction of the machine, known by the code name ZED-2, has been completed and tests are being conducted preparatory to a test run.

The reactor, which has a height equal to a six-storey building, will be used to find the best way to build and arrange the uranium fuel rods to be used in Canada's first large-scale atomic generating station as well as other nuclear power plants.

Construction of the initial power station at a cost of about $60,000,000 now is in progress on the shore of Lake Huron, nine miles north of Kincardine in Ontario's Bruce County. It is expected to be in operation by late 1964.

KEY TO EFFICIENCY

An expenditure of $3,000,000 on this type of research tool might appear high to the layman. However, officials of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, the crown company directing Canada's atomic energy program, say it is small in relation to the money that will be spent on the Douglas Point plant at Kincardine and on future atomic generating stations.

The amount of energy that can be extracted from uranium fuel—and hence the operating costs of plants—will depend to a large extent on the design and arrangement of the fuel rods. Heat produced by the fuel will turn ordinary water into steam to drive turbines hooked to electric generators.

Dr. David W. Hone of the reactor physics branch at Chalk River said in an interview that the ZED-2 reactor will permit scientists to predict the behavior of fuel rods in a large power plant.

"We'll be able to test in ZED-2 the type of fuel rods we're planning to use in the Kincardine plant."

ALUMINUM TANK

Dr. Hone said it's only logical to have this information "before you invest millions in a big power plant."

"We want to be as sure as possible that the calculations we have made on how the fuel will react in a large power reactor are reasonable. When you plan to spend huge sums on big plants it is only common sense to do as much testing as possible on a small scale."

Dr. Hone also said the ZED-2 reactor will be used to test enriched uranium fuels of the type which would be used in small power plants for the Canadian North.

The heart of the ZED-2 reactor, built by Foster Wheeler Limited of St. Catharines, Ont., is an aluminum tank 10 feet in diameter and 11 feet high. Uranium fuel rods suspended in the tank in heavy water will produce the nuclear energies which will be used to test fuel rods designed for power reactors.

Graphite two feet thick and weighing 70 tons surrounds the tank to reduce the escape of neutrons necessary in the atomic fission process. The graphite wall also is surrounded by a concrete shielding 18 inches thick to prevent the escape of radiation.

The graphite reflector contains 1,277 blocks of this material. They were manufactured in Britain and machined to extreme tolerances.

Each block was wrapped in plastic and packed in a wooden box for shipment to Chalk River. Only one of the blocks was cracked on arrival and a replacement was flown from Britain.

Painstaking care was taken in the assembly at Chalk River of the graphite reflector. Workers changed gloves and coveralls twice a day to ensure that no grease stains, dust or dirt contaminated the graphite and later impaired its ability to reflect neutrons back into the aluminum tank.

A huge polyethylene cover was erected over the area where the graphite installation was made. Only filtered air was allowed to enter the working area.

American Cut Of Sugar Imports Enrages Castro

U.S. Is Considering Follow-up Moves

HAVANA (AP)—The U.S. cut in imports of Cuban sugar sent Fidel Castro into a rage today but the prime minister did not disclose immediately what American property he intends to seize next in retaliation.

Castro appealed to other Latin-American nations to rally behind his "fight against American oligarchy." He told a workers' meeting the cuts ordered by President Eisenhower would not halt his revolution and charged Eisenhower acted in a "moment of hate, degradation, insanity and stupidity."

A giant labor rally has been called for Sunday in the vast plaza before the presidential palace in Havana to demonstrate "the Cuban peoples' unity in the face of Yankee aggression." Castro is expected to use this meeting to dramatize his announcement of how he intends to strike back at the United States with his new power to seize any American property in the "national interest."

Castro appeared at a post-midnight closing session of the Metallurgical Workers Congress only a few hours after Eisenhower had slashed 700,000 tons off Cuba's sugar quota.

Thundering in a hoarse voice, he declared:

"Cuba will show the rest of the exploited Latin-American people that Cuba can march alone—that it is possible to march ahead without you (the United States)."

He asserted the U.S. would gain nothing by cutting Cuba's sugar quota to "ingratiate" herself with other countries.

"At the same time you take away Cuba's quota to give to someone else you are telling them that you want them enslaved and that when they want to be free and defend their interests, you'll take the quota away from them as you did with Cuba."

Despite Castro's appeal for support, Mexico and The Philippines already were casting longing eyes at the opening of the U.S. sugar market. Mexican suppliers said they could fill the entire 700,000 tons of sugar lopped off the Cuban quota and at cheaper prices.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering new moves against Cuba's Castro government to follow up cuts ordered by President Eisenhower in Cuban sugar sales to the U.S.

Eisenhower decreed Wednesday a reduction of 700,000 tons in the Cuba sugar quota, thereby almost eliminating it for the rest of this year. The estimated loss to Cuba in U.S. sugar subsidy is around $35,000,000.

Actually, American authorities said, the cut amounts to 856,000 tons, because the law under which Eisenhower acted also takes from Cuba a 156,000-ton extra quota Cuba would have got under the old law.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson was ordered to buy sugar from other sources to make up the deficit. Officials said there are ample supplies of raw sugar available for purchase, especially in Brazil and The Philippines, and neither a shortage nor increase in price is expected.

IKE RAPS CASTRO

Eisenhower said the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro "has embarked upon a deliberate policy of hostility toward the United States." This made Cuba an unreliable supplier of a major food product especially with Cuba committing "increasing amounts of its sugar crop to trade with the Communist bloc."

The reason given for Eisenhower's action was primarily economic—that is, the uncertainty of the U.S. sugar supply from Cuba. To take such action for a political purpose would constitute an economic sanction which by treaty the United States can take only upon agreement with other American countries.

Such sanctions, however, are considered entirely possible assuming that, as U.S. authorities here expect, Castro continues to follow a course of increasing hostility toward neighboring states.

New moves under consideration at the state department include:

1. A request to other Latin-American countries for concerted action against Castro, perhaps through a meeting of foreign ministers of the Organization of American States.

2. New congressional action on the sugar quota allocation which could have the effect of permanently reducing Cuba's position in the U.S. sugar market.

Indians Report Stall on Claim To Lake Islands

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Indian affairs branch has been acused of stalling three Mississauga Indian bands in their attempts to find out who legally owns about 640 Kawartha Lakes islands.

The federal agency put some of the islands up for sale in 1958. The Curve Lake, Hiawatha and Scugog Lake Indian bands said they would like to keep 78 islands.

NAME RESEARCH HEAD

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Donald H. Laughland, 43, a native of Collingwood, has been appointed director of administration of the agriculture department's research branch, it was announced Wednesday. Acting director since August, 1959, he succeeds S. B. Williams, recently named director-general of the department's administration branch.

May Throw 900 Out of Work

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—Competition from foreign shipbuilders may throw 900 Collingwood shipyards employees out of work when the company's orders are completed next year.

W. A. Webster, assistant general manager of the firm, told a meeting of union officials Wednesday the company has been unable to obtain further work.

Claimant to Panchen Lama's Post Describes Concentration Camp Life

DARJEELING, India (AP)—A grim story of life in a Chinese concentration camp near Lhasa has been told by one of the most important religious figures to escape from Tibet.

He says the thousands of Tibetans in Mahchen Tang concentration camp carry heavy rocks 17 hours a day. They are fed two meals of bad rice, boiled wild roots and sometimes roasted barley that Tibetans used to use only as fodder. Laggards are warned twice and then disappear.

This account is considered here to be authentic. Forced labor camps were opened after the Chinese crushed the Lhasa uprising in March, 1959.

The account came from a possible incarnation of the Panchen Lama, second most important religious figure in Tibet. That Panchen Lama who is a Chinese puppet in Lhasa—now distrusted by his masters and under close guard—has never been accepted by many Tibetans as the true incarnation.

The claimant, born in eastern Tibet 23 years ago, was favored by the Dalai Lama's circle of advisers for selection as the true incarnation but the Chinese seated a more pliable youth.

This claimant was living in Drepung, one of the three great monasteries surrounding Lhasa, when the uprising occurred. Chinese officers arrested him, bound his hands behind his back and paraded him through the Lhasa bazaar.

According to an account in the exiled Tibetans' journal Freedom, he was assigned to carrying heavy rocks for construction of a dam to produce hydro-electric power for Lhasa. In a 17-hour day each man had to carry more than 100 loads about 500 yards.

This man and a companion escaped May 14. They met a monk and the group crossed south Tibet to Bhutan.

The claimant to the Panchen Lama's title is expected to meet the Dalai Lama, who is living in northwest India.

PUT EDUCATION UNDER QUEBEC'S YOUTH MINISTRY

Prompt Action Taken To Revise System

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's new Liberal government, which made education a key issue in campaigning to topple the Union Nationale government before the June 22 election, has announced its first major change in that field.

Premier Jean Lesage's first cabinet meeting since the swearing-in ceremonies Tuesday ran through the day, and into the evening Wednesday. At a supper-time break, Mr. Lesage announced the department of public instruction has been transferred to the department of youth from the jurisdiction of the provincial secretary.

The move put Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, 40, in charge of all phases of Quebec education.

The transfer includes the branches of fine arts, music, post-graduate education and artistic contests. Grants and scholarships come under Mr. Gerin-Lajoie's jurisdiction.

The rapid decision, observers say, indicates the Liberal administration will act quickly to apply its program for eduction.

PLAN BROAD INQUIRY

It includes a royal commission of inquiry into the whole education situation in the province, free schooling at all levels, free school books in all institutions under the jurisdiction of the education department and the creation of a provincial commission on universities to act as official liaison body between universities and the provincial administration.

Another transfer was announced by Mr. Lesage. The provincial tourist bureau and some related branches have been placed under the provincial secretary. The cabinet formerly had jurisdiction. This takes in the provincial publicity bureau.

The rent control board has also been placed under the responsibility of the provincial secretary instead of the cabinet.

NAMED VICE-CHAIRMAN

Attorney-General Georges Lapalme was named vice-chairman of the cabinet, Mr. Lesage announced. This means Mr. Lapalme may preside at cabinet meetings in the absence of the premier. The post was left vacant under the Union Nationale administration.

Mr. Lesage also announced his administration soon will set up two royal commissions of inquiry.

One will investigate the administration of the Union Nationale which ruled the province for 16 years until defeated by the Liberals. The other will look into the sale of the Montreal gas system of the publicly-owned Quebec Hydro Commission to the privately-owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

STORY DENIED

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The transport ministry Wednesday denied a report that an American U-2 plane made a forced landing at Khartoum Airport Saturday. The report had been circulated by Cairo's Middle East News Agency.

SWEET DEMONSTRATION — Students at Woodbury College in Los Angeles assist Iranian-born Dr. Aly Baylor, foreground, chairman of the school's Economic and Marketing department, as the students staged their own version of the 1773 Boston Tea Party by dumping 80 pounds of Cuban sugar in the college fish pond. The students said the demonstration was in protest of what they called Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's "intimidation" of America.

Big Airship Crumples Aloft, One Killed, 17 Feared Lost

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — A huge $12,000,000 airship used for radar patrol crumpled in air on a search mission Wednesday and crashed "like a sagging banana" into the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast.

One airman was killed and 17 are feared lost in the sunken wreckage.

Three men were picked up by fishing boats.

The navy said cause of the crash was a mystery.

One of the survivors said a helium line may have ruptured causing the sausage-like bag to collapse.

The Doris May III reached the scene three minutes after the 400-foot blimp fell limply into the water.

"It looked like a sagging banana, then it crumpled and came down in a hurry," said Frank Mikuletzky, 19, of Barnegat Light, a mate aboard the fishing vessel.

He jumped overboard with a life ring and pulled survivors from the floating wreckage.

The blimp had been searching for the 40-foot sloop Vt. 69, reported missing with a crew or seven or eight on her way home from the Newport, R.I.-to-Bermuda sailboat race last month.

Ironically the yacht was found safe by a navy submarine at almost the same moment the huge blimp radioed the international distress call "May day, may day."

Those were the only words heard from the blimp, one of four of its class and the largest airship in the world.

Grappling efforts are to begin today to retrieve the wreckage which sank in an undetermined depth after bobbing for a time in the ocean swells like a huge silver jelly fish.

A naval board will investigate.

Survivor Joseph Culligan, 20, said he had been sleeping and woke to find the gondola filling with water. "I stood up, picked up a piece of jagged metal, cut a hole in the fabric of the balloon and got into the water."

About ten other men were asleep, he said.

The blimp, which carried eight officers and 13 men, hit the water about 15 miles southeast of Barnegat Inlet and some 115 miles southeast of New York City.

Mayor Will Try To Settle Strike At Rubber Plant

KITCHENER (CP) — Mayor Harry Wambold says he will try to resolve the bitter strike of the United Rubber Workers Union (CLC) against the Kaufman Rubber Company.

The mayor made the statement Wednesday in reply to 150 mothers and wives of the strikers who marched on city hall waving placards. He did not elaborate on steps he planned to take.

All was quiet around the strike-bound plant, scene of violent clashes between pickets and police during the first few days of the walkout that began June 25.

A union spokesman said 227 workers went through the gates. A. R. Kaufman, 75-year-old company owner, said 246 reported for work. The normal working force is 550.

INJUNCTION EXTENDED

Meanwhile, in Toronto, the company obtained a one-week extension of a court injunction limiting pickets to four at each gate. The injunction was expanded to cover the company warehouse in nearby Waterloo, scene of other clashes.

Ontario Supreme Court Justice W. F. Spence adjourned hearings until July 13 on a bid by Mr. Kaufman to extend the injunction.

The adjournment was requested by counsel for the union, who wanted time to study new affidavits and photographs submitted by the company counsel.

Drowned After Fall From Boat

COLLIN'S BAY (CP)—Douglas Duncan, 33, of Kingston was drowned Wednesday night when he fell out of a boat after it struck a rock jetty in a rainstorm at this community 10 miles southwest of Kingston. Ben Wemp, 32, of Collin's Bay, operator of the motorboat, said Duncan was standing in the front of the boat when it struck the unlighted dock.

ITALIAN REDS' RIOTS TURN ROME INTO ARMED CITY

Protest Fascists' Plans to Hold Rally

ROME (AP)—Italy's rioting leftist leadership today threatened to plunge the nation into civil war.

The threat came as police in this ancient capital braced for more leftist-vs.-fascist trouble after a night of rioting in the streets and fist fights in Parliament.

In the worst week of disorders since early post-war days, nearly 500 demonstrators have been injured in fighting from Genoa to Sicily. More than 200 police have been hurt—135 of them in Rome Wednesday night.

Senator Emilio Lussu, a pro-Communist socialist leader, told a tumultuous Senate session that if Premier Fernando Tambroni's Christian Democrat government does not resign it will turn into "a government of civil war."

Even Political Foes Join Chorus Of Praise for Nye Bevan's Genius

LONDON (Reuters) — Friends and political enemies today mourned the death of Aneurin Bevan, the Welsh coal miner whose fiery socialism and silver tongue made him one of Britain's most powerful political leaders.

"Nye" Bevan died Wednesday at 62 after a seven-month illness. The cause of his death was not announced, but several newspapers said it was cancer.

Socialists throughout Europe paid tribute to the deputy leader of Britain's opposition Labor party, its foreign affairs spokesman until he underwent abdominal surgery Dec. 29.

Prime Minister Macmillan joined in lauding the man who once called Britain's Conservative party "a sort of political gigolo kept by the Americans".

Macmillan described Bevan as "a great and courageous fighter for what he believed to be right".

Hugh Gaitskell, who defeated Bevan in the election to succeed Clement Attlee as party leader in 1955, said his former rival was "a man of compelling and magnetic personality, a man who counted—a big man".

Earl Attlee, from whose Labor cabinet Bevan resigned in a heated dispute in 1951, said he had "great admiration and affection for him".

British newspapers of all political shades lauded the burly author of Britain's national health program.

The independent Times said he was "as eruptive and as destructive as a volcano."

"A political genius", said the right wing Daily Express.

"A man of leaping wit and towering personality", said the pro-Labor daily Herald.

Police Revolt, Convicts Escape, Workers Strike

Demand Higher Wages, 'Blacks for Whites'

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — Fresh violence struck the new Congo Republic today on the heels of an army mutiny.

Police revolted against their own officers, prisoners broke out of their cells and demanded amnesties and dock workers roughed up their white employers.

In most outbreaks, the demonstrators were demanding higher wages and replacement of Belgian administrators by Africans.

At Thysville, where Camp Hardy troops mutinied Wednesday, the situation turned critical. The police revolted against their own officers and the local governor appealed to Leopoldville for help in evacuating all white women and children in the town, 60 miles from here.

CALM MUTINEERS

Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu returned here early today after talking to the Camp Hardy mutineers and apparently calming them.

Army troops at Camp Leopoldville, who also mutinied Wednesday, reported for roll call this morning. At both affected camps, the troops apparently were obeying their Belgian officers.

In Stanleyville, capital of the eastern province, convicts broke out of prison today and besieged the provincial assembly building to demand an amnesty.

Police and army forces in Stanleyville remained loyal to the new government and helped restore order.

Canadian Navy May Acquire Atomic Weapons

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian navy in three or four years may have an atomic capability, Defence Minister Pearkes said Wednesday.

He said in the Commons defence committee that he had to be vague on the matter. The navy now had no weapons which could launch atomic warheads.

Mr. Pearkes made the statement after Paul Hellyer (L—Trinity) asked four times whether the navy requires a nuclear capability to keep it effective in future. Mr. Hellyer persisted in his questioning after being ruled out of order twice by committee chairman G. Ernest Halpenny (PC — London) and being told once by Mr. Pearkes that there is no provision in the current defence budget for naval atomic weapons.

Mr. Pearkes also said it is not the policy of the government that Canadian warships be used as launchers for the American Polaris long-range ballistic missile. This means that the RCN will remain a strictly defensive force.

Reuther, Aide Face Charge of Diverting Dues

DETROIT (CP) — President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers (AFL - CIO) and Secretary Treasurer Emil Mazey were charged Wednesday in a federal suit of diverting millions of dollars of dues money.

The suit, brought by two Toledo, Ohio UAW members, asks a court audit of the international union's books.

The bill of complaint by Randolph Gray, 52, former executive board member and financial secretary of Local 12, and Harold Billheimer, 54, a member of Local 773 charges:

The spending of millions of dollars falsely described as expenses when in fact it was used as salary;

The spending of thousands of dollars camoflaged as expenses when in fact it was spent for political purposes;

The use of union funds for illegal purposes;

Expenditures of union funds for political purposes;

The use of union officials and members for political purposes;

The endorsement of political candidates in the name of the international union;

False recording of expenditures of union money;

The creation of second - class union memberships;

Other broad charges are aimed at alleged union misconduct on grievance procedure; collections "under duress and coercion" for unaudited union funds; and maintenance of "political funds" by forced collection from union members.

Gray was fired as financial secretary of Local 12 in 1950 following a feud with a UAW vice-president. He sued for reinstatement, damages, and an accounting of Local 12 finances. The case was dismissed by federal court.

REJECT LETTER

MADRID (Reuters) — Four Roman Catholic prelates Wednesday rejected and deplored a letter sent them in the names of 339 Basque priests protesting against the lack of political liberty in Spain. The prelates said they could not accept such a letter "because of its evident falseness and because of its political character."

ROSICRUCIANS HOLD MEETING

The regular meeting of the Quinte Chapter of the Rosicrucian fraternity AMORC, was held in the Masonic Temple, Tuesday night. The Grand Master's Message for the month, entitled "Decorum and Ethics" was read during the convocation conducted by the Master, Mrs. L. G. Hart.

In this talk, the Grand Master reminded the members of the basic principles of proper conduct within a Rosicrucian Chapter or Lodge.

During the business meeting it was decided to hold the annual picnic at Outlet Provincial Park on August 14th. Mrs. Lois Campbell was appointed to the refreshment committee. The welfare committee reported many requests for aid. Ways and means to increase the membership were discussed and Mr. Ross Lindsay was appointed to act as reporter.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S SUMMER CAMP OPENS

Yesterday saw the opening of a three-week session of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children's Merrywood Camp between Perth and Smiths Falls. Attending the senior boys' camp this year are a number of people from this district including Dale Rump, Donald Allin and Larry Seames of Belleville; Michael Swalle, Gary Brummell and Bobby Towns of Trenton; Robert Atton of Tweed, Larry Pratt of Roblin, and Rexford Guernsey of Picton. On the camp staff is Miss Barbara Robb of Belleville.

The camp is one of five which the Society maintains in Ontario through funds raised by the annual sale of Easter Seals and the support of various service clubs one of which is the local Rotary Club. The camping program is reputed to be the largest in the world for crippled children.

Children home for holidays from Ontario Hospital Schools are welcome to attend.

Early Peas' Yield Average In District

Although the harvest is approximately one week later than in the average years, the yield of early peas in the Belleville area is very good, acording to officials at the Canadian Canners plant at Foxboro.

"The yield is about average, although a week or ten days later than normally", stated the plant manager.

Threshing of peas for the Foxboro plant is being done this year at viners set up on a sideroad west of Foxboro, where viners from the plant proper were moved for this year's operations.

Removal of the viners was one step in the program of the canning factory to keep waste from getting into the river at Foxboro. Aside from the unpleasant odor of aging pea straw, removal of the viners from the plant site will reduce the waste problem and at the same time reduce the attraction for flies.

Last Month's Temperatures Were Average

June temperatures were average for the time of year, the Belleville pump house reported.

The high temperature recorded last month was 82 degrees compared with 90 a year ago. The low was 40, compared with 44 in 1959.

Last month's mean temperature was 63.9 degrees, compared with 66.1 in June, 1959.

The mean maximum temperature last month was 73.9 degrees and the mean minimum was 54, as against last year's recordings of 75.8 and 56.5, respectively.

Rainfall last month totalled 2.23 inches, compared with 1.9 inches in June, 1959.

Recover Three Stolen Autos; Two Arrested

A rash of car thefts in the Trenton, Shannonville and Marysville areas, kept provincial police on the jump last night with officers reporting all three vehicles recovered.

Recovery of one of the vehicles stolen at Marysville resulted in the arrest of two Montreal youths, aged 16 and 20. Provincial police at Cobourg checked the vehicle in a routine manner and when no ownership card could be produced the youths were detained.

Another car was reported stolen from the No. 6 R.D. road near Trenton and was recovered at Shannonville, while a third car stolen at Shannonville was recovered a short time later just east of Shannonville.

Transit Buses Get Overhaul, New Face Lift

Buses of the Belleville Transit Commission are beginning to blossom out in new running colors—orange and beige with black trimming.

Plans of the commission are to paint one bus a week until five have been painted. The commission owns ten buses.

First of the five buses to be painted appeared on the streets this week, operating on the East Hill run. Two others are now in the shop having body work done preparatory to painting.

The color combination for the newly painted buses is orange on the body from the base of the windows down, with the top and upper body painted beige. The wheels are beige, while the trim is black.

Transit Commission chairman Ted Schwab said the commission felt repainting of the buses was good from a pyschological viewpoint while members were also happy to get away from the drab present color of the buses.

In addition to being painted the buses are being put into good mechanical condition at the commission garage. Upholstery is being repaired where required and a program of selling advertising inside the buses is being commenced.

In view of possible replacement of equipment in the future, it was decided to repaint only the five operating buses.

"There is no point at this time in repainting the spares," noted Mr. Schwab.

Extension of the bus service to annexed area is being given every consideration, with the continuation of Victoria Ave. and the repair of West College Street being two determining factors in extension of service along these arteries.

And bus patrons have been very co-operative in adhering to the new "no smoking" regulations put into effect on the city buses.

Plants Announce Vacation Dates

Holiday time is fast approaching for most persons employed in industry in this district. A number of plants will be closing down their operations for the period between the 16th of July and the first of August inclusive with the exception of a skeleton staff. Included in the group are the Bakelite Company of Union Carbide of Canada, the Corbin Lock Division of International Hardware, Deacon Brothers, McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing and Stewart Warner Corporation of Canada.

The production personnel of Mead Johnson of Canada will also have their holidays during this period with the remainder of the staff taking their vacation on the staggered system. A similar situation exists at the Stephens Adamson plant during the first two weeks of August with the office staff on staggered holidays.

At the Corby Distillery plant personnel will be taking their holidays on a two-shift basis between the weeks of July 18th and August 15th inclusive.

Most other industries in the area have a staggered holiday system which operates throughout most of the year. Firms operating with this system include Amplifone (Canada) Ltd., Canada Cement, Deloro Stellite, Northern Electric and Wilson Concrete, the latter firm restricting holidays to seasonal slack periods.

Missing Plane Said Found

TRENTON (CP) — The RCAF said today a small amphibious-type plane, reported missing on a flight over Lake Superior Wednesday night, landed safely today in northern Michigan after refuelling from a fishing boat.

The pilot and owner was identified as W. W. Moffat, 40, of Willowdale, a Toronto suburb. He was accompanied by Clark Tompkins of Fredericton.

Minor Soccer Day Saturday

TRENTON Saturday will be Minor Soccer Day in Trenton. Three games will be played at Trenton High School: Trenton vs Batawa, and RCAF Trenton vs Belleville. The winners of these two games will compete in a play-off.

Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton will officially open the competition.

The team winning the play-off will be allowed to hold the Trenton Kiwanis Club Charity Cup for one year. All players are under the age of 14.

The proceeds from the sale of tickets for the games will go to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Trenton Legion Notes

Members of the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion will attend the zone drumhead service at Bewdley, Sunday. Members of the executive indicated that they are expecting one of the best turnouts that has been seen in recent times. There will be 11 branches participating from the zone in this annual event. Transportation will be available at Branch 110.

A zone peewee baseball tournament will be held at Bayshore ball park, Saturday. Cobourg, Port Hope and Trenton will be taking part in the tournament which is the first of the inter-Legion games to be played this year.

District sports officer William Bates of Bowmanville and zone sports officer William Milne of Trenton will be on hand to officially open the tournament.

Chairman of entertainment, George Ament, reported at the last executive meeting of the branch that the Saturday evening dances were receiving good attendance with sellout crowds on hand by 10 p.m. Mr. Ament also gave a resume of other events tentatively set for this summer.

John Silver, well known Trenton Legionnaire, has been returned to Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Silver, who recently returned home after a long stay in hospital, returned when complications arose.

The only member of the Trenton Legion who is a veteran of Hong Kong, Don Vanclief, is still in Kingston General Hospital. Members were informed that Mr. Vanclief returns home on weekends but is forced to stay in hospital during the week.

Representatives of the bond redemption committee, William McLaren and William Lawson, met with the Board of Trustees June 2 to draw 40 bonds for redemption. Members of the trustees are, James MacDonald, C. V. Graham, Tom Hetherington, Clarence Saylor and James Uttley. All holders have been notified and need only draw the money and interest from the account.

According to the rules set up, Branch 110 must redeem 40 bonds each year on July 1. These commitments were filled again this year and Branch auditor, Norman Banfield, reports that the finances of the Legion are sound.

They Waited Long Enough, It Came!

Everything comes to those that wait!

For two years Fred Hebden and Dave Lunn have been whomping Bud Gill and Jerry O'Connor.

On the golf links, that is.

They did it monotonously, week after week in exhibition rounds.

Then the link's "worms turned."

The other day Bud and Jerry did the "whomping"—to the tune of seven up.

It ended two years of frustrating defeats.

And they tossed salt in the wound.

The match was not exhibition. It eliminated Hebden and Lunn from the club's Men's Two-Ball Tournament.

Plan No Action At Present on Divorce Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—No action is planned at present by the Board of Broadcast Governors in connection with the divorce co-respondent issue.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, BBG chairman, said Wednesday in a statement the board has studied press reports on the matter "but can find no sufficient reason to take any action at this time."

RCAF Wings Plan Picnic

TRENTON — The entertainment committees of 413 and 418 RCAF Associations of Trenton and Belleville have made final arrangements for their annual picnic, which will be held at Cove Beach, near Picton, Sunday.

Signs will be posted along Highway 33 from Trenton to the beach.

Members attending are asked to bring lunch for themselves and their families but there will be free ice cream and drinks for the children.

Prizes, both children's and adults', will be given for the many games planned.

Cross-Canada Survey

Expansion of Big Urban Centres Has Intensified Slum Clearance Projects

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mrs. Lorna Coulson looked cheerfully around her comfortable, bright four-bedroom house.

"This is a nice spot, believe me," she said.

Robert Coulson, his wife and six children live in Phin Park, a non-subsidized municipal housing development in Toronto's east end. They have a two - storey home in a row-house building.

The rooms are light and airy. An electric stove and refrigerator are supplied by the housing authority. A gas furnace provides heat. The rent: $86 a month.

MOVED FROM SLUM

Lawns surrounding the building provide playground area for the children. There are no through streets in the project and traffic hazards are eliminated.

It was vastly different a year ago. Then the Coulsons lived in a dilapidated house in a run-down section of Toronto's Riverdale district. The house was damp: there was nowhere for the children to play.

Mrs. Coulson said she had to tie her smaller children to a fire hydrant to prevent them wandering into the street, a major rush-hour traffic artery.

Trying to obtain decent living quarters for people like the Coulsons is one of the major problems in cities across Canada.

GROWTH PROBLEM

Expansion of the big urban centres has intensified the problem, a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows. Shifts of population and intrusion of factories have caused once-fashionable districts to fall into decay. Houses have become obsolete. Gardens have turned into littered, grimy yards.

With few exceptions, police in blight-affected cities point to juvenile delinquency as a by-product of such run-down surroundings.

"No matter what the city or town, crime is spawned in slum areas" says Police Chief Robert Taft of Winnipeg. "Where you find well-lighted streets, good, decent living accommodations and room for the sun and fresh air to penetrate, you will find your troubles will vanish as fog does in the sun."

Montreal police chief J. Albert Langlois said "we are assuming that better housing conditions will result in the high family morale and security in which crime less often finds a breeding place."

NOT UNANIMOUS

A different view is expressed in Vancouver. Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose, asked if slums breed juvenile delinquency, said: "Not necessarily. We have a lot of juvenile delinquents in some pretty high-class areas."

A major stumbling block to slum clearance is the staggering cost. David B. Mansur, former president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation who has just retired as chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Housing Authority, says: "The cost to clear substandard and slum areas in Canadian cities is around $500,000 an acre and higher if there is a high commercial and industrial content in the area that is to be cleared."

In the last 10 years, 3,350 subsidized rental housing units have been built across Canada under the National Housing Act provision for federal-provincial-municipal cost-sharing of public housing projects. Since 1950, when they were first authorized, 6,550 public housing units have been built but 3,200 of them are "full recovery" projects with rents scaled to recover amortization costs. Phin Park is in this category.

The federal government puts up 75 per cent of the cost of this public housing with the provinces and municipalities sharing the other 25 per cent at varying ratios. The federal government also pays 75 per cent of any rental subsidy.

VANCOUVER PROGRAM

Vancouver has an ambitious redevelopment program in the planning stage. Scheduled for a 20-year period, it involves about 1,000 acres and 20,000 people. Total cost is estimated at $100,000,000. The area extends in a huge ring around the False Creek and False Creek flats district near the downtown business district.

The first stage, just given federal approval, involves 27 acres in blighted pockets where 1,600 people live. Cost of acquiring and clearing the land is $5,250,000 and building of public housing will be $3,400,000. The area to be razed is in the east-end just off Hastings street and construction is expected to begin early next year.

Housing officials in Calgary say the city has no serious problem now but a civic report warns that "a further 25 years could give rise to four or five square miles of slums."

Edmonton civic officials say the problem is not urgent though E. Stewart Bishop, welfare department superintendent, says some "blighted" areas are scattered through the east side of the central area. He adds that there are no specific plans for rehabilitation now because "if we tore down one area, we'd be demolishing some adequate houses."

Regina's substandard housing is on the outer fringes. These areas were annexed in 1951. One relocation project covering 450 acres already has been carried out with federal-provincial aid. It involved removal of 50 properties at a cost of $250,000. A scheme now under study would clear about 350 other homes.

Winnipeg's urban renewal board is preparing for a $10,000,000 plan in two phases. A public housing project of about 68 units would be built to accommodate displaced persons. Public housing would then go up where slum buildings were torn down, providing 495 new units. The city's slums are in the central and north - central sections, mostly near railway yards.

Toronto planners are tackling three projects. Priority goes to the 70 - acre Moss Park area where 5,300 people live just east of the downtown district. A two-year $13,500,000 program will demolish old housing and provide modern homes, parks and institutional buildings.

13,000 PEOPLE

Next in line is Alexandra Park a mile west of downtown with 70 acres and 4,000 people. No time table has been set. Later the city intends to rehabilitate a 150-acre in Riverdale, about a mile east of downtown, where 9,000 people live.

Toronto has almost completed one major project, the Regent Park development in the old Cabbagetown district near the heart of the city. Some 7,500 have been rehoused in subsidized apartment blocks.

"There has been a fantastic drop in crime and in the need for welfare services" in the Regent Park area, says Turner Davis of the city planning authority.

Hamilton is engaged in removing 192 residential and commercial buildings in a 175-acre area where 745 people live. Cost of acquiring property is estimated at $2,000,000. Eventually public low-rental housing will be provided.

POTENTIAL SLUM

At Windsor, Ont., a redevelopment scheme to cost $1,200,000 is in the offing for several city blocks with 100 families. Authorities say it is not a slum clearance project but that the area in five years would develop into a slum.

Housing and welfare authorities in Ottawa say the capital has no actual slums but that pockets of rundown housing exist and one subsidized rental scheme is being considered. Welfare commissioner H. P. Goodfellow says Ottawa needs 200 units to meet the existing shortage.

Under way in Montreal is one of the biggest slum - clearance projects. Known as Les Habitations Jeanne Mance, it covers 19.7 acres of former slums in the east - central sector. When finished, it will comprise 28 apartment blocks facing landscaped parks and squares. Total cost is estimated at $17,000,000.

Of that amount, $7,500,000 has been spent on acquiring and clearing land. The city and federal government are sharing the initial cost equally except that the Quebec government is paying $1,000,000 of the city's share. Cost of new construction is borne 75 per cent by federal funds and 25 per cent by Montreal. The project was begun in 1957 and is to be completed by July, 1961. Of its 796 dwellings, 245 are already occupied.

BIG BLIGHTED AREA

A survey in 1954 designated 13 sectors of Montreal as slum areas. Present estimated population of these derelict districts is 105,000. They are jammed into the old east-central section of downtown Montreal and into the Cote St. Paul section between the Lachine Canal and Verdun.

Quebec City has isolated cases of shoddy and decrepit housing. Council has appointed a committee to study housing as a "first step in a slum - clearance project."

The first major scheme in Saint John, N.B., is to be started this year with razing of 12 blocks of old wooden tenements in the east end. Modern apartment buildings with rents geared to income of residents will replace them. About 500 families will be affected by the 57-acre project with the federal government to bear half the $3,225,328 cost.

Halifax city manager August DeBard says blighted areas exist only in "small pockets of the city," involving between 2,000 and 3,000 people. The city's first housing development was completed seven years ago and 161 units are occupied. Another $5,000,000 project for 300 families at Mulgrave Park on the outskirts is due to be finished by this autumn.

Biggest problem in St. John's, Nfld., is in fringe areas where 10 per cent of the population of 57,000 live in substandard housing. Civic officials say there are some 200 buildings in the city unfit to live in. Officials have expressed hope that quarters at Pepperrell U.S. air force base will become available for temporary housing with the departure of the Americans.

CLEARANCE PROBLEM — High costs of clearing downtown areas—$500,000 an acre in many Canadian cities—is a major stumbling block to slum clearance. Sub-standard Toronto housing is viewed by Controller Mrs. Jean Newman during a tour of a downtown area. The city has rehoused 7,500 persons in one major slum clearance project and a second $13,500,000 program is planned. (CP Photo).

Tyendinaga Reserve Visited By Two Historical Societies

Wednesday was an exciting day for the Hastings County Historical Society. Over forty members and friends of the society, joined by an equal number of enthusiasts from the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, undertook a "pilgrimage" to the Tyendinaga Reserve near Deseronto.

The day began when carloads of "pilgrims" from Napanee, Bath, Belleville, Stirling, Trenton, Melrose, Wellington, and other points in the Quinte district arrived at the Mohawk Council House on the York Road at 2 p.m.

There they were greeted by Mr. Colley, the Indian Agent, who spoke briefly on the administration and education systems on the reserve. Mr. Colley noted that there are about 2,000 members of the Bay of Quinte Band of the Mohawks, although only about 800 of these reside permanently on the reserve. The other 1,200 live elsewhere, but return from time to time and still have their names on the Band's list.

The Tyendinaga Band is unique in Canada in that it has the power to control its own funds. Reserve affairs are handled by a five man council which meets the first Wednesday of every month to transact business.

Judge Gerald F. Smith of Napanee, president of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, thanked Mr. Colley for his introductory remarks and extended appreciation to all those who were contributing of their time and energy to make the tour possible. The president of the Hastings County Historical Society, Mr. Gerald E. Boyce, voiced similar sentiments on behalf of the Hastings group.

Outside the Council House, the tour saw the Deganawedah cairn, which commemorates this great Indian who was one of the founders of the Iroquois Confederacy in the 15th century.

SEE SILVER

The next point of interest to be visited on the reserve was Mr. Robert Hill's home, also the home of Chief John Hill. Here is preserved the Queen Anne silver, which was admired by all. The Hill home, a museum in itself, also contains many other mementos of Mohawk history, including some household articles saved from the home of Oronhyteka before it was demolished. Many pictures and examples of Indian costumes gave the visitors an insight into the past generations of this heroic people.

From the Hill home, the tour proceeded to an old mill at Shannonville where Mr. Amos Brant answered questions concerning the beginnings of Shannonville. He noted that the land on which the village is situated, together with mill privileges, were leased from the Mohawks for 999 years by Warren Noble and Frederick Keeler in the year 1818. It is interesting to note that rental payments are still made annually, Shannonville Canners at present fulfilling the terms of the agreement.

The tour then proceeded to Christ Church where lay reader Clayton John told something of the background of this historic church.

Also visited at Christ Church were the historic plaque honoring Oronhytekah and the Oronyatekah burial plot.

FIRST OF U.E.L.

Next stop on the tour was the cairn erected in 1929 by the Canadian Historic Sites and Monuments Board to commemorate the landing of the Mohawks on May 22, 1784. This is a significant date in Mohawk history and reveals that these people were the first United Empire Loyalists to arrive in this part of Ontario, arriving even before the celebrated VanAlstyne group landed at Adolphustown (June 16, 1784). At the cairn, Mrs. Phyllis Green gave a reading on the landing of the Mohawks and the cairn's history.

Finally on the tour, the pilgrims visited the Sacred Mound on the farm of Mr. Gus Brant, just west of the Deseronto ferry. Phoebe Erskine MacKellar, dramatic recitalist and authority on Indian legends, spoke movingly of the role it is thought this sacred land has played in the story of the Six Nations.

Mr. Andrew Sero then spoke on the significance of this mound. He told of how Dezanawedah had been born at that spot on the Bay of Quinte and how this great Indian leader had left in his stone canoe for the United States, where he assisted Hiawatha to establish the Iroquois Confederacy.

The tour finished at the Sacred Mound, and was followed by a picnic supper on this historic and most attractive piece of land.

Chief organizers of the tour were: Mrs. Norman Hutchinson of Napanee and Phoebe Erskine MacKellar.

Provincial Parks Were Popular Over Holiday

The July 1st holiday weekend saw a record number of visitors enter the Tweed district to enjoy the camping and picnicking facilities of the Provincial Parks located here.

Outlet Park, south of Picton in Prince Edward County, had to turn away over 300 camper families during the weekend. The local tourist establishments in the vicinity of Outlet were filled to capacity and also had to turn people away.

The day-use area of Outlet Park was also well used by picnickers and it is estimated that well over 5,000 people enjoyed the facilities on Friday.

Lake St. Peter Park north of Bancroft had to turn 75 camper families away and the picnicking facilities were well utilized.

Black Lake Park on highway No. 7 just west of Sharbot Lake and Mazinaw Park on Highway 41 at the head of Mazinaw Lake were both used extensively during the weekend.

Mazinaw Park although limited in size is one of the busiest parks in the Province and on the weekend had to turn away 135 campers.

Aussie Leads British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) — Kel Nagle, Australia's Canada Cupper, took the halfway lead in the British open golf tournament today with a brilliant six-under-par 67 for a total of 136, five strokes ahead of the nearest contenders, fellow Aussie Peter Thomson and Arnold Palmer of the United States.

Nagle, who said he benefited from tips from his fellow Canada Cupper, Thomson, had seven one-putt greens and three-putted the 14th for a six.

TOURIST TIP

QUEBEC (CP) — Operators of hotels, tourist homes, restaurants and stores will attract more tourists if they give their establishments distinctively French-Canadian names, suggests Robert Prevost, director of the provincial tourist bureau.

All Too Timid

Lester Pearson, leader of the Liberals, has described Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposed bill of rights as "dry, legal, unexciting" and has voiced criticism of the fact that provincial governments have not been consulted regarding it.

Some things need to be said about a bill of rights.

It is no guarantee that the rights it seeks to preserve will indeed be perpetually protected.

It is only a "scrap of paper" and like other scraps of paper can be disregarded by men with a Hohenzollern mentality.

But for that very reason the fact that it is, in Mr. Pearson's words, "a normal piece of legislation to be passed in a normal way and with normal effect and which could be changed or abrogated by future Parliaments in a normal way" would not be a fatal defect, providing the bill was sweeping enough in its original form.

It does nothing to provide against the infringement of the rights it describes by provincial authorities.

The remedy for this is not to seek the consent of provincial authorities to an extension of the bill's provisions.

It is to impose these provisions on the provincial authorities, by constitutional amendment if necessary.

The Prime Minister has been too timid; Mr. Pearson is but little more brave, and this little is useless.

Unless we have a Federal Government which asserts that, in the provision of certain rights for all Canadians, it will brook no opposition, from any quarter, the bill will be worth no more than the paper on which it is written.

A government too timid to do this, an opposition too timid to demand such action except by consultation with the provinces, are too timid to make the bill any more than an expression of pious hopes.

In the final analysis, the only protection the people have comes from the people, but they might reasonably hope that their elected representatives would stand with them, rather than displaying that reluctance to face a struggle which is the primary threat to all liberties, whether recognized by precedent or by charter, great or small.

The Waiting Waiter

Lawrence Woo is a waiter in an Oakville hotel. Almost certainly this is a deplorable waste of Mr. Woo's talents, for he is the holder of a bachelor of science degree. There are, however, so many other instances of talents being wasted, or utilized in the wrong way, that we should not bother mentioning Mr. Woo were it not for another facet of his career—or lack of it. Mr. Woo, Burmese-born, states that he was rejected by five Canadian universities when he applied to enter their medical schools.

The universities were British Columbia, Manitoba, Ottawa, McGill and Dalhousie. Mr. Woo says they have a quota of two Chinese students a year in their medical courses. Now this needs amplification. If this quota is for students from China, perhaps there exists a case for it. After all, Canadian universities cannot train doctors for all the world. Their first duty is to supply Canada with the physicians and surgeons the country needs. But Mr. Woo, having been refused entry into these universities in spite of his 79 per cent average in graduating as a bachelor of science, is still in Canada, a waiter and perhaps also waiting. Could it be that the quota is applied not with reference to residence but to race? And if so, how far these universities fall short of the standards set for such institutions when the Middle Ages were still in the future.

The declining value of the individual is so widely deplored nowadays that we note a counter trend with particular satisfaction. Cynics used to disparage humanity by declaring that a man was made of 94c worth of common chemicals. The current quotation, computed by Dr. Albert L. Lehninger of the Johns Hopkins school of medicine, with proper attention to inflation, is $5.66. (Milwaukee Journal).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RIGHTFULLY ACCUSED

At one time during the preaching of St. Paul, his enemies dragged him and his associates before the rulers of the city. This was the accusation they made against them: "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also; . . . and these all do contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there is another king, one Jesus" (Acts 17:6-7).

How often it has happened that the opponents of Christianity were absolutely right in the accusations they brought against the faith. Certainly the opponents of Paul were right on this occasion. For he and his associates were indeed turning the world upside down. They were giving people new standards of righteousness. They were opening up to them spiritual power which enabld them to live new and better lives. To the hopeless they were pointing out a future which was full of hope and light.

If our Christianity means anything at all, it means the turning of the world upside down for all of us. If our religion is not doing that very thing, then what we call our religion is a mere intellectual belief, a facade, a bit of sterile nothingness.

And, of course, the Christians say that there is another king, one Jesus. He is above all earthly powers. His kingship is first for all of us who believe in Him and who truly follow Him.

So the opponents of the Christian faith were right. This faith was turning the world upside down and leading men to a supreme allegiance in the King of Kings, one Jesus.

Historic Hastings

History of Melrose

Concluded

By BARBARA WEESE

(Article 124 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society)

Nearing more modern times, a garage was set up on top of the east hill at the old Presbyterian manse. When the house burned a few years later, Mr. Kingston moved away. Comparatively recently a Mr. Cook started a garage where the Methodist church originally stood.

Dr. Lanfer, the second last doctor in Melrose, lived in a brick house across the road from the Presbyterian manse. Dr. Bird was the last doctor in Melrose.

After the township hall was built on the south-west corner about 1850, a bank was opened there. One of the Belleville banks sent men out to Melrose once or twice a week to carry out business.

The first school was built in 1891. This was a log building. Later in 1895 a new school was built directly across the road. Hydro was installed in this new school in 1948, and it is still being used with a present enrollment of about 35.

One project that caused very much excitement in Melrose was the starting of an oil-well in 1905. This well was located north of the cheese factory, but unfortunately nothing came of it.

Many of Melrose's citizens of today can trace their ancestry back to the original settlers, while some of the more prominent citizens and their families of yesteryear have departed for other parts of the country.

Among the old-time families who still live in Melrose are the Englishes, MacFarlanes, McLarens, Badgleys and Demilles.

Some of the more prominent families that have moved away are the Pringles, Simkins, Lanfers and Mundrells, although some of Mr. Mundrell's relatives are still living in Melrose.

Naturally, as the community came to be settled, a cemetery was started. At first some of the families had cemeteries on their farms, but later a community cemetery was started on the south-east corner of the first four corners west of Melrose.

As the community grew and the people came to know each other, community organizations started. The Women's Institute began in 1902 and has remained an influential power in the community. The Women's Missionary Society was also organized for the ladies of the church. The men have their Orange Lodge in Shannonville, while the younger members of the community have a 4-H Club, Hi-C, Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs. These organizations for the younger people have been organized within the last few years.

Now those living in the Melrose community remember with gratitude the fortitude displayed by their ancestors in the face of the hardships of pioneer living. They look to the future with the hope that it will be equally rewarding to them, as they try to live up to the example set for them in the past.

Perfume Way To Man's Heart

Sarnia Observer

North American women have been suffering under a delusion all these years in thinking that the way to a man's heart was through his stomach.

Miss Monique Beaujard, a beautiful girl from Paris, says the pathway is olfactory rather than alimentary.

Almost any man, the Paris lady says, is a pushover for a properly perfumed woman. It might be mentioned here that Miss Beaujard's position as director of a fragrance education program sponsored by a French perfume manufacturer may have some influence on her thinking.

Old-fashioned girls who stalk their men with deep apple pies, juicy roast beef and Irish stew that panic the taste buds, have the wrong approach. But their way is, perhaps made easier by the fact that girls using French perfume are in short supply, or the men they take aim at like the aroma of stew better than the fragrance of roses and violets.

Perfume requires careful handling to bring a man out of the unharnessed wilderness of bachelorhood to where he can be safely led down the aisle to the altar.

"The trouble with most twomen", the beautiful Miss Beaujard explains, "is that they just dab perfume behind their ears" and leave the rest to nature. It will not work. Dabbing the scent behind her ears "doesn't do a thing for her".

Proper technique is to "apply it to the crook of the elbow, at the temples, around the hairline, at the base of the throat, and behind the knees". Dunking the legs, the lady explains, means that "when you walk, the fragrance rises, and that's important".

Capturing a man with the French perfume the lady is selling could be a costly business. The girls who dabbed a dib behind their ears for every outing could get considerable mileage from an ounce. The French way would indicate one must bathe in the stuff. At today's perfume costs no man is worth what it will cost to catch him. Pies, beef, and stew may not smell so exotic but most of the poor working girls will have to keep on cooking them until the price of perfume comes down.

Other perfume hints are to avoid too heavy a scent if the victim takes the huntress out to lunch. Otherwise "the gentleman won't even be able to taste his food". The real hunting scents must be powerful indeed. "Perfume", she concludes, "is a powerful weapon for a woman, and on certain men it has an effect like champagne".

There are also men upon whom women have a champagne effect whether they smell of French perfume, Irish stew or have no smell whatever.

Strictly Personal

Syd Outlines How Skepticism Leads to Faith

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Has any nation ever made war except "for the sake of peace"?

Husbands and wives who kiss each other in public give me the impression that they rarely do so in private.

"Work or school" should be as mandatory for teenagers as "work or starve" is mandatory for grown men; for idleness and boredom are the precipitating causes of juvenile crime.

The person who uses the word "sarcasm" is usually unable to distinguish between a crude insult and a witty riposte. It is one of those words which are an invariable mark of a dull mentality.

Why are so many people perversely proud of the fact that their handwriting is illegible?

We can be as "allergic" to personalities as we can be to foods or pollens — the immense fatigue that overcomes us in the presence of some personalities is almost a chemical reaction beyond our control.

Women are specialists in detecting the unobvious — in being able to see the defects in a man of talent and the hidden merits of a fool.

The most useless articles ever written are those advising the readers not to worry — if the anxiety that causes worry could be dispelled by words alone, our mental hospitals would be vacated in 24 hours.

Skepticism is the first step on the road to faith; the man who has never questioned the fundamentals cannot really grasp them in full belief; this is why converts make the most intelligent and persuasive believers.

Men first have to be disappointed in the great things of life before they can learn the satisfaction that exists in the little things; never to suffer large disappointments is to miss all the substantial pleasures of small consolations.

It may be true, as swindlers insist, that you can't cheat an honest man — but you can persuade him to cheat himself, by playing on his vanity, his ambition, and his self-esteem.

The worst thing about poverty is not economic, but spiritual — its denial of privacy; for when privacy is denied, dignity is denied; and when dignity is denied to one's self, one refuses it to others. This is why poverty in the city is so much more wretched and debasing than in rural regions.

No matter how much hot air one is accused of slinging, there's always a limit to everything. Kinsman Court Miller says he's been accused of shooting plenty of hot air before, but today he is in a quandry and actually stumped. It seems that 'Kin Court' is in charge of the balloon department for the Kinsmen Soap Box Derby next Tuesday and he was handed ten gross of balloons to inflate the best way possible. "Now let me tell you, blowing up 1440 balloons is no small time huff-puff no matter how much hot air comes and goes, and I'm beginning to get suspicious", said Kinsman Miller today.

Dog-catcher Thomas Thorne has reasons to believe that the dogs of Belleville are either acquainted with him or familiar with the coloring of his automobile. "Yesterday afternoon I stopped at the corner of West Moira and Frank Streets and saw only one animal at large. Man Behind Hiking Kings

Chicago Daily News

The two British sergeants who hiked from San Francisco to New York in 66 days, 4 hours and 17 minutes got a well-deserved welcome as heroes when they finished their grind.

Not much has been said, however, about the third sergeant in the team. While Sgts. Patrick Moloney and Melvyn Evans walked, Sgt. Roy Rogers, of Harrow, Middlesex, attended.

Attending, in this case, meant piloting the jeep and trailer that was home on the road for the walkers. Rogers cooked, bought groceries, wrote letters, handled public relations, and cared for the laundry by dashing ahead to find coin-operated machines.

It seems to us that Sgt. Rogers has earned a share of the acclaim, too. He did the work; all the others did was walk.

DEFECT IN DEVELOPING INFANT COMMONEST CAUSE OF MISCARRIAGE

"Dear Dr. Molner: When I was five months pregnant, I had a miscarriage. It is the second one I have had. I am fearful that this may occur again. Can you give me further information? — Mrs. M.B."

Accidental miscarriages are quite common — there are estimates that they occur about once in every 10 pregnancies.

Careful studies show the commonest cause to be some defect in the developing infant which would have made life impossible, or would have resulted in a grossly deformed child. So Nature in her wise but often inscrutable way takes this means of compensating.

This type of cause is especially prevalent when the miscarriage occurs in the first or second month of pregnancy.

After the second month, this same cause prevails in perhaps half the cases of miscarriage. Other than that, the most frequent causes are severe infection in the mother (such as pneumonia, for example) and heart disease. Sometimes a womb which is tilted is the cause.

With miscarriages being as frequent as they are, it is obvious that only a single one by no means indicates that it will be repeated. When there have been two in succession, some chronic cause may be responsible.

If ordinary careful medical observation does not disclose the probable cause, then some more specialized study would seem wise. And in this regard, most of the larger cities have established so-called "fertility clinics", and they may be able to advise you. Either your personal physician or your hospital or the department of health can tell you whether such a clinic is available in your community.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please send literature on locations of resorts that have mineral baths for relief of arthritis. I understand some are very beneficial. What do you think? — Mrs. J. S."

Spas are a form of physiotherapy — hydrotherapy, which may be useful for arthritis. I know that some patients report feeling better. It's my belief that the reasons are:

1. — The heat, from the hot baths, helps. (But you can take hot baths at home.)

2.— The smell makes you think there's something special about the water — and if you expect to feel better, you often do.

3. — The change of scenery gives you something else to think about. It gives you a lift. And along with it, you have to do some moving about. Just moving an arthritic joint helps to keep it from stiffening. I don't mean violent movement, or strenuous, extended effort. So that's another way a trip to a mineral bath can help. I don't favor one place above another, and hence don't distribute literature on any of them.

Note to Mrs. H. R. and her husband: When a person has a serious problem with alcohol (as in the case you've told me about) the only answer is to quit entirely. It may well be that "three or four bottles of beer a week" won't do any harm in themselves, but let's face facts. The three or four become five or six, and then seven or eight, and so on. Alcohol is a subtle antagonist. If it becomes a problem for a person, you can't compromise. Quit completely. It's like letting a camel get his nose in the tent — sooner or later the whole animal is inside.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have read about transplanting the cornea of the eye. How successful are these operations on a percentage basis? If an operation fails, is a second one possible?—P.L."

I don't know the exact percentage, but the rate of success is extremely high. In case of failures, which are rare, the question of whether a second operation is possible depends on the individual circumstances. It certainly is possible in some cases, because it has been done. It's much better, of course, to be successful the first time. The repeat operation is more difficult.

Cherry Pies Are Too Few

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

One of the more disheartening phases of the contemporary culinary situation is the dearth of cherry pies. One cheerfully sings the praises of apple, pumpkin and mince, but a countryman wants cherry pies in season and enough of the fruit canned so that come cold, snowy stretches in January, a hot, fragrant, spicy slice of it will help maintain morale while winter days plod slowly along.

The problem is that robins and other birds also enjoy cherries. They have an uncanny ability to wait until the morning when the boy says, "Mother, I'll pick some cherries today if you'll bake a pie for dinner." When the lad goes to the cherry tree behind the woodshed, he finds that the birds were up early and have harvested all the red nuggets.

A person tries various devices to frighten away the birds.

It is good for man to struggle for his living. One who does not have to work or who has no serious hobby is to be pitied, not envied. A struggle is one way to build character — and character is the backbone of both an individual and society. Therefore, as a builder of it, it might be a good idea for every man to plant a cherry tree and then try to harvest the crop before the birds get to it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ROCK ME IN THE CRADLE

How wonderful is that force which takes our eyelids and gently presses them tightly — to sleep!

Completely lost as we are in a quiet and serene oblivion, while darkness wraps us in its arms, yet are we cared for, watched over, and renewed for the great activities of the coming day.

Mysterious as death must inevitably be, still it can be little more so — nor more wonderful — than is our nightly sleep. Knowing no more about the one than the other, so far as its mysterious elements are concerned, yet do we trust the one and accept the inevitability of the other.

How precious to the weary is the gracious gift of sleep; how full of welcome this drapery of darkness to him who has thought and planned and done his best.

How wise a philosophy — this "early to bed and early to rise!" For sleep, in reality, is a benefactor of power, the "chief nourisher of life."

Tired, worried, disheartened — alone — it is then that sleep creeps in to offer balm and comfort, to reshape in the night that which became ruffled during the day. And, like the new visions that flash into our senses in a glorious country, so do the new days come to us — made fragrant by the touch of night.

"Oh sleep! it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole".

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A crony of mine is on the committee of a charity that was holding a bazaar, garden party, rummage sale and auction combined to raise money for the cause. It was held on the spacious lawns and in the orchard of another member of the committee who lives in one of those pretty hideaways ten miles beyond the farthest suburb. I was invited to come along for the ride.

When we approached the location, we were pleased to see quite a large number of cars parked in the lanes and along the road approaches. In fact, the nearest we could get to park left us a hundred yards of a walk.

"It's a great success," I congratulated my friend.

"I'm not so sure," he said, as we walked.

He was looking at the cars as we passed.

"Too many expensive cars," he said. "Too many wealthy people. I don't mind seeing a few big shots at these sales and auctions. But the majority ought to be in last year's cars, or better still, cars three and four years old."

"What are you getting at?" I scoffed.

"No, it's a fact," said my friend. "Wealthy people are wealthy largely because they know how to hang onto their money. The kind of people you want at these charity bazaars are people who would be wealthy if they only knew how to hang onto their money. Copyright: Canada Wide

LAUREL LODGE MEETS

STIRLING — Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, closed for a recess of two months on Tuesday evening.

Junior Past Noble Grand, Mrs. Marion Carter, gave a concise and interesting report of the recent sessions of Grand Lodge, and thanked the members for her banquet ticket.

Plans were made to have the 40th birthday party of the lodge on the first lodge night in November and it will be in the form of a banquet with a regular lodge meeting afterwards. An afternoon tea and bake sale was also planned for a Saturday afternoon in November.

At the close of the meeting, the officers served light refreshments in the dining hall, and were thanked for their hospitality.

Last Sunday about 40 friends relatives and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Diamond, Harlowe, Ontario, on the occasion of Mr. Diamond's 75th birthday anniversary.

Among those present were his daughters, Mrs. Arthur Brady, Arthur and Nancy; also Miss Donna Turcotte, of Madoc; Mrs. Elmer Adams, Elmer and Elda; Mr. James Sopha, of Belleville, his sister, Mrs. Hurrell Moorcroft, Hurrell and Robert of Queensboro, his brother, Allan and Mrs. Diamond of Niagara Falls; his step-sons and step-daughters; Mr. Aurthur Marshall, and Eileen of Harlowe; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marshall, Belleville; Mrs. Morris Shortt and Morris, Arden; Mrs. William Thieler and Bill Fernleigh; Mrs. Jack Parks, Jack and Bruce of Galt; Mrs. Gerald Arney and Mrs. Paul Perry and sister Geraldine of Cloyne and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clancy of Henderson.

Callers in the afternoon included: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carter, of Harlowe; Rod Webb, M.P., Mrs. Webb, Freddie and friend, Mr. and Mrs. Lougheed of Norwood; and John R. Simmonette, M.P.P., and son, John of Sharbot Lake.

Among the many messages of congratulations, received, included a telegram from Premier Frost, of Ontario, and a letter from John G. Diefenbaker, Prime Minister.

Wedding

BOUNSALL — FRY

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums, lilies and snapdragons flanked the chancel steps and altar of Christ Church, Coleman Street, Belleville, on Saturday, June 25, 1960, at 3.30 p.m. for the marriage of Sandra Jean Fry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fry of RR 4 Belleville, to Mr. Peter Alexander Bounsall of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Bounsall of Haliburton, Ontario. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Eight choir boys sang, "Oh, Perfect Love," and during the service the "Sixty - seventh Psalm." Traditional wedding music was played by the church organist, Mr. John Croyden Withers, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Frank Wilson, of Gardenville, who sang the "Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiantly lovely in a floor - length wedding gown of French taffeta, which featured a chapel train, fitted bodice, with scoop neckline of French lace outlined with seeded pearls and iridescent sequins. Her French lace headdress, encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, held her shoulder - length veil of silk illusion bordered by French lace. She carried a cascade of red Sweetheart roses, white baby chrysanthemums and ferns.

Miss Caroline Payette, of Belleville, was maid of honor, wearing a turquoise-blue lace ballerina - length gown featuring a cummerbund waistline and bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a circlet of nylon in matching color.

Miss Joan McGrimmon, of Belleville, was bridesmaid and Miss Susan Regan, of Belleville, was junior bridesmaid, cousins of the bride, both wore similar styled pink ballerina - length gowns featuring fitted bodices of lace and full skirts of nylon. Their headdresses were circlets of nylon in matching color. All three attendants carried nosegays of contrasting colored baby chrysanthemums and fern centred with pink Sweetheart roses and outlined with white lace nylon tulle.

Mr. Bruce Bounsall, of Lindsay, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Mr. John Neville, of Haliburton, and Mr. Peter Fry, of Belleville, brother of the bride, were ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

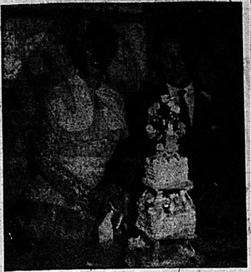
The bride's mother, dressed in beige nylon over silk with contrasting beige accessories with a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, welcomed the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a beige sheath dress topped with a lime green duster of sheer linen with contrasting green and beige accessories with a wristlet of red roses.

The bride's table was appointed with an Irish linen embroidered cloth centred by the wedding cake. The bridal bouquets added a delightful nuptial accent.

For a wedding trip to the Haliburton highlands, the bride chose an orange ice linen suit with white accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bounsall will reside in Oshawa, Ontario.

Guests were present from Panama Canal, Panama; Saskatoon, Sask.; Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston, Haliburton; Lindsay; Glendale; Brighton; Deseronto; Foxboro; Stirling, and Gardenville.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a shower given by Miss Caroline Payette, at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greatrix, of Belleville.



Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James Henry Anderson are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Eastminster United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Stella Joy Louise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson, also of Belleville. (Photo by W. H. Henderson, Toronto, Ontario.)

ANDERSON — SMITH

Pastel - tinted Canterbury bells, delpheniums, orange blossoms and bridal wreath spirea adorned the chancel of Eastminster United Church, Belleville, on Friday, July 1st at 2.00 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding, when Stella Joy Louise Smith, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, became the bride of Thomas James Henry Anderson, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson. The Rev. Alexander McDowell, minister of the church officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the organist, Mr. Harold McNish, who was also soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was most charming in white bridal gown in ballerina length, fashioned with fitted bodice of nylon lace and net over satin accented with a bolero having long sleeves lily-pointed over the wrists. She wore a heart-shaped tiara encrusted with seed pearls and embroidered, shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Beverley Parker, of South Herchimer Avenue, Belleville was her only attendant, gowned in pink nylon over taffeta with embroidered bodice, pink floral hat, white accessories. She carried a bouquet of white and blue carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Donald Anderson, of Belleville, while the guests were ushered by Mr. William Anderson and Mr. Robert Smith, cousin of the bride, both of Belleville.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's home where the bride's table, with its damask cloth, and all-white three - tier wedding cake, flanked by red roses and the bridal bouquets, made a pretty nuptial setting.

Receiving the guests were the bride's mother, wearing a blue sheath with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in lilac-shade lace with nylon white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For the honeymoon to northern points, the bride travelled in a beige and brown ensemble with beige accessories and yellow rose corsage. Before leaving on her wedding trip, the bride presented her bouquet to her 75-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Smith, of Toronto.

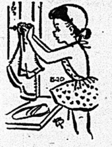
Guests were present from Toronto; Consecon; Foxboro; Weston and Carrying Place.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at a shower given by Mrs. Beverley Parker and also at one held at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Mildred Smith, of Herchimer Avenue, Belleville as well being recipient of gifts from the girls of the Northern Electric staff of which the bride is a member.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a gold locket and the bride's gift to her bridegroom, luggage.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside at Belleville, R. R. 2.

Mother's Helper



TOWELS and cotton swim suits often pick up pesky rust from wire hooks, etc. One way to remove this ultra-stubborn stain: boil the item in a mixture of two tablespoons of cream of tartar to a quart of water. Then, rinse thoroughly. This applies only to fabrics which can stand boiling, of course.

Mary Jukes Tells of Visit With Rebecca Sisler, Sculptor

Editor's Note: Mary Jukes in her column "Once Over Lightly" in the Globe and Mail tells of a visit she made to the home of Miss Rebecca Sisler. Miss Sisler is a former resident of Belleville.

It was noon on a June day and the sleepy sun-warmed silence gave one the impression that the forge in the small village of Terra Cotta in the Caledon Hills had just clanged to a halt. If a horse had looked over its shoulder and blown a muzzle at us, we wouldn't have been surprised.

But the blacksmith's 100-year-old forge is silent. In the old wooden building weathered to a silvery grey, geraniums bloom in a window cut from the maple sidings. Stable doors which once stood open to a busy trade are nailed shut because the forge is now home to one of Canada's youngest sculptors.

Through the gate to a side door, a young girl opened to our knock. "Miss Sisler?" we asked quite sure that this slender, high-school shape, with its small waist and bouncing shoulder-length auburn hair, could not possibly be a sculptor. But it was, and as we stepped into the hall with its pot-bellied stove and painted uneven floor, we caught a glimpse of a country kitchen, where a woman we had yet to meet, Miss Sisler's mother, was finishing a cup of tea.

Steered to the back of the building we found ourselves in the Sislers' living room. In this 25 by 40 feet space, a sandstone fireplace has been built around the old forge and more windows cut to give a view of sweeping green grass which slants down to the Credit River and up the wooded banks on the other side.

Dotting the grass were half-finished pieces of sculpture to be entered in the Canadian Sculptor Society's open air exhibition in Quebec City in August. One is a pieta in marble, Mary with Christ's body after the crucifixion. The second, Adam and Eve emerging from the dust.

In accents suggesting Scottish forebears, although she is fifth generation Canadian, Rebecca Sisler announced she had had her first, off the road, customer that week. A man and his wife had come in to look around, had seen a head she had done of her 4-year-old son, Adam and had taken it away from them.

Adam, son of a marriage that ended in separation, was having his afternoon nap upstairs and when he awoke we were taken aloft to Miss Sisler's workshop, once a storage space for carriages. Here she showed us half-completed objects in oak, ceramics and stone. Carpenter's tools decorated the walls and a kiln seemed at home in the corner.

Later on Miss Sisler and her mother tried to reconcile us to a paradox: A young girl who looks as though she should be preparing for a high school dance, spending from eight to 10 hours a day chipping away at life-sized figures with a dedication usually associated with the more mature.

"But it's what she's always wanted to do," Mrs. Sisler told us. "When my husband died (Rebecca was in her last year at the Toronto Art College) certain members of the family thought she should get a job, and she thought so too."

But two people, her art teacher, Jacobine Jones and her mother, thought otherwise. And when Miss Jones recommended two years at the Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts, Mrs. Sisler scraped up enough money to take them both to Denmark. Heavenly summers were spent roaming through Europe with a group of Danish art students, they both recalled.

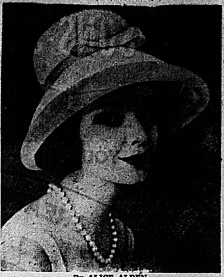
But it all led back to the forge and to Miss Sisler's first important commission, an almost life-size group of mother and two children, done in laminated walnut and delivered to the Toronto Art Gallery last October. "It was exciting, winning this commission the money ($2,000) was pretty nice too," Miss Sisler admits.

Shutting the gate on the old forge sometime later, we asked ourselves why the face of Canadian sculptors should not be as Canadian as a high school girl, and why they should not be dreaming in terms as old as Adam and Eve, and the pieta. Whether they should or should not, they are.

KITTEN RETURNS

WADENA, Sask. (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Salkeld took their daughter's three-months-old kitten to a relative's farm at Churchbridge, 150 miles northeast of here, last summer. The kitten has just returned all by itself. They identified it by a white spot under the chin.

Summer Sunbrella



By ALICE ALDEN

If this summer's sleeveless dresses and simple necklines are to succeed, they must have the balance of large hats, for line as well as drama and flattery. This year, the shape is sunbrella, with a wide-cupped brim to protect the face from the sun. This sunbrella rejoices in a modest price tag, for all its pretty white straw, organza edging and organza bow.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I would like to know the correct procedure for a receiving line. If it is acceptable to have one in the rear of the church immediately after the wedding ceremony, is it necessary to have one where the reception is held? If it is just held in the church, who stands in the line?

Answer: It is very unusual to greet those leaving the church, unless there is to be no reception following the actual ceremony. If there is to be no reception, it is proper that the bride and bridegroom, only, receive the congratulations of the guests as they file out. They usually stand just inside the door leading out of the church, shaking hands with everyone as they pass by. If a reception is to be held, the couple leave the church immediately after the recessional (before the guests leave) and are driven to the place where the celebration is to take place. In this case, the mother of the bride heads the receiving line, then the father and mother of the bridegroom, the father of the bride, the bride and her new husband, and then the bride's attendants. The groomsmen never stand in the line.

Question: A widow is being married again. My question: if you are invited to the reception, but not the ceremony itself, are you expected to send a gift?

Answer: It is entirely up to you. In the "old days," when invited to the reception, a gift was obligatory. Today, it depends upon your relationship with the bride.

Question: We are having quite an argument and hope you can help us settle it! Do you, or do you not, leave the spoon in an iced tea glass while you are drinking? According to one etiquette expert, the spoon should be left in. I say this is wrong. What do you think?

Answer: I am in complete agreement with you. Not only is it awkward, but it is downright stupid to try to drink a tall glass of iced tea with a long-handled spoon poking you in the eye! The thoughtful hostess will always place a saucer under an iced tea glass, rather than a small coaster. Then the spoon is easily dispensed with by placing it on the saucer while drinking. If only the coaster is used, there are two things you may do. One, balance the bowl of the spoon on the coaster. Two, place it across the plate from which you are eating. Both of these solutions are, of course, unsightly and clumsy. Whatever you do, do not put the spoon on the table.

Eggs Can Play An Important Role

By Mary Moore

At a buffet supper at which I was a guest I noticed that everyone selected a devilled egg from an elaborately garnished platter.

Devilled eggs are popular and should not be forgotten when you are planning summer parties.

Eggs are so common we are apt to forget their value as well as their economy. They should be given a bigger role to play in our entertaining menus. One of the poshest hotels in Canada serves, at their Sunday candlelight buffet supper, Eggs in Aspic because of their constant popularity.

EGGS IN ASPIC (for buffet)

6 eggs, poached (medium-done)
2 tablespoons gelatine
2 1/2 cups chicken bouillon (or 2 1/2 cups water to which you have added 1 chicken bouillon cube)
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 stalk celery with leaves, cut up
3-oz. tin liver paste
salt

Soften gelatine in 1 cup of cold water. Combine bouillon, bay leaf, lemon juice, celery and salt in saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Strain and add broth to softened gelatine. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cool mixture for 30 minutes or until syrupy. Pour about 1-2" of gelatine mixture into 6 individual custard cups. Chill for 30 minutes or until gelatine is set. Put 1 tablespoon of liver paste in each cup. Put a poached egg in each cup on top of the liver paste and add the remaining gelatine. Chill for at least 3 hours. Unmould before serving.

EGGS DIVAN

about 3-4 lb. broccoli
Devilled Eggs:
6 hard - cooked eggs
1 2 1-4 oz. can devilled ham
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon grated onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
dash pepper
1 to 2 tablespoons light cream
Sauce:
1 1/2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1/8 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash pepper
3/4 cup milk
1/2 cup grated old cheese

Cook broccoli till just tender. Cut 1/4" slice from one end of each cooked egg; carefully remove yolk. Mash yolks and end slices; add rest of devilled-egg ingredients. Mix well; then use to fill egg whites. Melt butter, stir in flour, mustard, salt, pepper, then milk. Stir and cook until thickened. All cheese; stir until smooth. Arrange broccoli in baking dish. Stand eggs, with stuffed ends up, between and on broccoli pieces. Pour sauce over all. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes or until bubbly.

SCOTCH WOODCOCK

(Sunday breakfast)
12 eggs, lightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1/3 cup skim milk or water
Salt
freshly ground black pepper
6 slices toast
anchovy paste

Beat eggs with salt and pepper until foamy. Add milk. Cook in butter over low heat until the eggs set, stirring gently. Meanwhile spread toast with anchovy paste. Serve eggs on top of toast.

Dinner Menus

Alpha Lambda Holds Year's Final Meeting

Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Sorority held a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Ketcheson, guest speaker, Mrs. Dorothy MacKinnon, home economist, who gave a most interesting address.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Ketcheson and co-hostesses Mrs. E. Brett and Mrs. G. Mutter.

Mrs. W. Simpson was hostess for the meeting when the chapter held its installation of officers. The slate for the coming year is as follows: past president — Mrs. W. Simpson; president — Mrs. H. House; 1st vice-president — Mrs. J. Hayman; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. R. Irvine; recording-secretary — Mrs. R. Hutchinson; corresponding secretary — Miss J. Bronskill; treasurer — Mrs. N. Desmond.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Simpson and co-hostess Mrs. R. Hinchey.

Alpha Lambda concluded its activities for the summer by holding a pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. G. Mutter.

It was with regret that the chapter accepted the resignation of Mrs. Clyye Ryan, who has been director of Alpha Lambda for several years. Mrs. Ryan was presented with an honorary membership, and a token in appreciation of her valuable assistance.

Mrs. D. Chant was also presented with a memento as she is leaving the city to reside in St. Catharines.

Mrs. R. Laughlin and Mrs. J. Snetsinger, will be affiliated with the examplar chapter in the fall.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jim R. — I can't take her nagging.

• • •

Mildred R. — My husband and I are in our early 30's and have five children. Our marriage has been one long misery from the beginning.

At the bottom of it all is Jim's gambling. He has been at it for the past ten years and there's no sign of his turning over a new leaf. He's always promising, but he never does. He claims that he has made more than he has lost and he will present loads of figures to prove it, but all I know is that we have nothing and we're always in debt.

I can't go on this way any longer. I feel like just running away from everything.

• • •

JIM R. — It's just plain silly to talk about my gambling. I don't gamble any more than the next fellow — an occasional bet on the horses or a card game, that's all. And I have had some real winnings.

The real trouble is that Mildred is a nag. She always has been and always will be. She goes all over the place complaining about me — to her family, my family, friends — anyone who'll listen to her.

If Mildred's disgusted with everything, I'm twice as disgusted. I can't take her nagging any more. One of these days I just won't come home at all and then she'll see how she likes it without me.

• • •

The Council: Mildred and Jim seem to be suffering from the same disease — emotional childishness.

Psychologists find that gamblers are nearly all alike at heart. They believe in magic the way children or primitive peoples do. Feeling helpless against the larger forces of life, they set up a mental image of a world in which destiny will work for or against them according to certain mysterious laws. They believe that certain days are "lucky" or certain words or ritualistic actions will put the gods in their favor.

The mature individual accepts the fact that he usually reaps as he sows. Accident occasionally works either for or against him, but these occasions are few. On the whole, he knows he makes any worth-while gains through hard work.

Mildred shows her childishness in another way — a way more natural to women than gambling. She looks for some stronger, probably older person to help her out of her difficulties. She doesn't accept the fact that at the age of 30 only she can help herself to a better life.

Mildred and Jim each have the urge to run away from one another and the life they have created. This is just another bit of childishness. They know, at heart, that they need one another and their family life and they wouldn't be happy any other place.

Mildred and Jim can straighten out their difficulties if they agree to work together like two adults. A budget should be worked out showing where every penny goes. Jim should get a small percentage to use any way he likes. If he wants to gamble with that it should be his privilege.

Mildred should make the effort to be attractive and happy and create a pleasant home atmosphere. She should be aware that her nagging and complaining undermine her husband's self-respect and make him seek pleasure away from home. She can make a better husband of him by being a better wife.

RESCUE THREE

BURLINGTON (CP) — Three teen-aged boys were taken from their makeshift log raft Tuesday half a mile out in Lake Ontario after drifting helplessly for about an hour. The boys, John Watchan, 14, and Terry Gardine, 13, both of Burlington and Bill Roberts, 13, of Roseville, Mich., were brought back to land in a borrowed boat by Wilfred Crowe of Burlington. They had been seen by people on shore.

Arts and Crafts Appreciation Group Meets at Library

The final spring meeting of the Art Appreciation Group of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was held in the auditorium of the Belleville Public Library as guests of Mrs. H. R. Gibson.

Through the kindness of Miss Olive Delaney two films were viewed, "Water-color in Action," and "The Sage of St. Hilaire."

The group later went to the home of Mrs. Gibson on Foster Avenue for coffee.

Several members had the privilege of visiting some American galeries this spring. Mrs. Andrews getting as far south as Florida. They spoke of the pleasure experienced in recognizing and appreciating the canvases that had been studied in the "Seminars."

Congratulations were extended to Mrs. Harold Robbins who had completed the third portrait in a series for St. Michael's parish, and to Mrs. Hugh Murray, who would soon be visiting many European galleries.

Mrs. Lewis Andrews reported that at the district meeting of the East Central Ontario Arts and Crafts Association, it was decided to hold a painting and crafts workshop on Saturday, July 9th at Greenley Farm, on the Stirling - Campbellford highway.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Improvement or perfection. Take your choice, you cannot have both.

A man who picks the perfect world, the perfect community, the perfect arrangement of human life never comes even close. He ends up rebelling against his ideals, bereft of a purpose, morbid and despairing. Often he becomes a rebel without a cause.

Quite another is the man who seeks to improve life in the little, as well as the larger, issues. The world's biggest room — the room for improvement — is always open to him. He faces live options, vital possibilities. He may not be able to perfect the world, but he can still try to change it.

The trouble with many moderns is our faulty idealism. We have grown excited about saving the world, but we have spurned the thought of improving ourselves. We wax enthusiastic over great and massive utopias and have neglected to bother with the means to the ends. After all, we tell ourselves, we can't be interested in details when we are busy with the grand idea and the total hope.

But faith and hope, like charity, must begin at home. One may not necessarily accept the Hindu religion or the orthodoxies of the Christian or Jewish faiths. Yet they have a strength to teach and a power to impart. Their adherents have learned the meaning of personal discipline. Just as the body is built up through physical exercise so the spirit of man requires rigorous attention. Religion thus deals as well as ends, with the self as well as with the world. And what is more: it knows that failure is as important as success. While religion may not supply us with all of the answers to our problems, it does teach us how to look at the problems. And it urges us to bother very much with the details, the means and the methods.

Being concerned with the details, religion helps create in us what we really need — the personal discipline that leads to self-improvement. When we accept the job of improving our own world, we can come to everyone else's world with a little more humility and a lot more perspective. We may then be willing to struggle longer and harder to improve the world, instead of turning our backs upon it when we fail to perfect it.

So, let us teach our hearts the meaning of patience, to struggle and grapple with our lower selves without let-up.

And above all: Each day opens up a new world and gives us a chance at making a new beginning.

Fights New Zealand Prejudice Against Having Women Jurors

By J.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP)—The wife of a Canadian-born university professor chalked up a signal success in a one-woman campaign that startled New Zealand lawyers.

Mrs. Helen Garrett noticed during a visit to Canada with her husband that Canadian women frequently served on juries—which was rare in New Zealand.

When she returned here, she launched a campaign to change the existing practice. In the end, she succeeded in being chosen as the first woman foreman of a jury in New Zealand's history.

Mrs. Garrett, a New Zealander, met her husband J. C. Garrett, a 1937 Rhodes Scholar from Strathmore, Alta., when both were studying at Oxford.

Garrett lectured for a year at the University of Alberta, was for three years acting headmaster of St. Andrew's College at Toronto, and for four years associate professor of English at Trinity College, University of Toronto.

Since 1949, he has been in New Zealand at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, where he is professor of English.

Mrs. Garrett became aroused about jury service when a women's organization investigated the question.

MUST APPLY

Women are not barred from jury service in New Zealand but they must apply to have their names placed on the jury roll and they must be between the ages of 25 and 60.

Men, with certain exemptions, are obliged to serve on juries between the ages of 21 and 65.

In practice, few women applied to put their names on jury rolls, and the few that did met constant frustration. Lawyers, feeling that women jurors would react differently from the all-male juries to which they were accustomed, invariably challenged women when called.

Mrs. Garrett says she just worked up her campaign "over the kitchen sink."

She started a correspondence in the newspapers, arranged a panel discussion on the subject over the radio, wrote an article for a leading periodical.

She called so much attention to the discrimination against women jurors that when she finally volunteered for jury service and was called, the lawyers refrained from challenging her.

FIRST TO SERVE

As a result, she was duly empanelled as the first woman ever to serve on a criminal jury in New Zealand.

On her second case, two days later, she was again empanelled without challenge, and a male juror who had served with her on the previous case nominated her as foreman.

The judge struggled manfully with the unfamiliar phrase "madam foreman" and a juryman at the end of the case made a speech of appreciation, declaring that members had enjoyed being the "first henpecked jury in New Zealand."

Since then, there has been a big increase in volunteers among women to serve on juries. But Mrs. Garrett believes the whole principle is wrong and that women should be liable for service on the same terms as men.

Professor and Mrs. Garrett plan to visit relatives in Canada while on tour next year. They include his brother A. B. Garrett, chief of the Canadian Press bureau at Edmonton, and two sisters, Mrs. Alice Polley of Edmonton and Mrs. E. M. Gillespie of Calgary.

While abroad, Mrs. Garrett proposes to investigate women's jury service in various countries and possibly take the matter farther in New Zealand if conditions have not improved.

W.M.S. Marks Fifty-Ninth Anniversary

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society has just completed 59 years of existence.

In June, 1901, Mrs. Massey, organizer, spent some time with Mrs. Daniel Johnson, and the ladies of the community were canvassed for prospective members. A W.M.S. was organized with 10 charter members, all of whom are now deceased.

Mrs. James Williams served as president for the first 10 years, and Mrs. Allan Bailey and Mrs. John Reid each served a five-year term. In 1935 Mrs. Percy MacMullen began a seven-year-term, and some 15 other ladies have been president throughout the years.

Mrs. Frank Potts was the first secretary and Mrs. Frank Williams was the first treasurer.

This year there are six Life Members and 18 annual members.

In 1941 a 40th anniversary, and in 1946 a 45th anniversary, were celebrated in the church hall. Both celebrations were under the direction of Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

In 1950 25 years of church union was commemorated under the direction of Mrs. Roy Thrasher. The church was filled to capacity and special honors were given to all those who had served as presidents during the years, 1925 to 1950.

At the 50th anniversary held at the church, the pastor, the Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, gave a summary of the history of the 50 years which had been prepared by two presidents.

In 1912 a Methodist Mission Circle was organized with nine girls in the group. Their leader was Mrs. Robert Pounder. The president was Pearl Pounder; the secretary, Florence Montgomery; and the treasurer, Lottie Grace Johnson. The other members were Lenora Williams, Daisy Duval, Anne Atherton, Lulu Johnson, Viola Scott, and Lillian Shore. This group disbanded in 1917 for lack of girls.

At the close of 59 years of missionary endeavor, a high tribute was made to those women who pioneered this organization in 1901. They saw the vision and the need, and throughout the years the Woman's Missionary Society has been one of the greatest organizations in the United Church of Canada.

Through study, prayer, and giving, the pioneer missionary zeal has been a power of strength around the world.

Sunday School Picnic

CENTRE ST. CHURCH

A most delightful outing took place recently when Centre St. Sunday School held its annual picnic at Presqu'ile park. There was a good crowd of children and adults who travelled by chartered bus and cars. All enjoyed the scenic and the bright sunshine and warm breeze made it very cheerful.

After all had enjoyed their dinner a few went in swimming and had a good time. Others thought Lake Ontario water too cold for them but enjoyed themselves other ways.

Following the swim time, races were run with prizes going to the following.

Beginners, all received prizes; girls 6-8: Shelly Jones, Robbin Way, Sall McKay; boys 6-8: Billy Sweet, Robert Pearson, Norman Jones; girls 9-10: Brenda Sweet, Linda Prudden, Cathy Orr; boys 9-10: Jimmy Howe, Kipton Hawley, Joe Schamerhorn; girls 11-12: Marie Sweet, Margaret Stapley, Sharon Schamerhorn; boys 11-12: Jerry Lucas. Leslie Hudgins (only 2 run); girls 12 and over: Sylvia Pearson, Barbara Pearson, Irene Schamerhorn; boys 12 and over: Billy Pearson, Jim Williams (only 2 run).

Wheelbarrow race — boys: Jerry Lucas and Kipton Hawley; girls: Betty Pearson and Linda Stapley; three-legged race — Betty Pearson and Linda Prudden; sack race — boys: Jimmy Howe; girls: Sharon Schamerhorn; ladies' shoe toss furthest distance — Barbara Pearson; shortest distance — Dorothy Schamerhorn; shoe race (get shoes on and done up) — Jerry Lucas (tie shoes), Sharon Schamerhorn (slip on shoes).

Children were all proud of the fine prizes they had won.

A peanut scramble took place and young and old alike all enjoyed it.

The young ones displayed a good ball game. Swimming was also in order. There was free pop, candy and all the ice cream they could eat, in fact they all ate so much they couldn't eat the watermelon, so they served the watermelon to all who cared to go after school Monday at the Sunday School.

Later in the afternoon, supper was served. The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey, who was unable to atend on account of his health was greatly missed. All wish him a speedy recovery.

About six o'clock all retired to the bus and their cars, tired but stated they thought that this was the nicest picnic that they had ever held.

Thanks go to Mr. R. Schamerhorn and Mrs. D. Hudgins and the teachers who helped to make this picnic such a success.

Gor Blimey, Look'oo They're Letting Into Buckingham Palace; Why It's Our Stewie!

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—"Strike me pink," rang out a Cockney voice. "Gor blimey, look 'oo they're letting into the palace. It's our Stewie."

That "Our Stewie" just about sums up how much Britons thought of Winnipeg-born Stewart MacPherson, fast - talking commentator who was a flop in his hometown, made his way to England by cattle train and boat in the 1930s and rose to stardom in English radio.

Now 51, MacPherson is back in the entertainment business after four years as general manager of Winnipeg's city-owned sports facilities. He has been named executive program director of Winnipeg's second television station and will be on at least one show himself.

The episode with the Cockney at Buckingham Palace gates came on his final night in England in 1950 when he was invited to appear before the Royal Family.

DISARMING EGOTIST

"There was a big crowd waiting at the palace gates to see who was going in when I proudly drove up and that Cockney voice split the air. Boy, deflation really set in. I could have crawled under the car hood."

That's quite an admission for the droll, glib MacPherson who once was describd by a London columnist as "the most disarming egotist in captivity."

Success didn't come easily to Stewart MacPherson who was earning as much as $125.000 a year in the late 1940s, free-lancing, writing newspaper columns, endorsing advertisements, emceeing shows at theatres as well as broadcasting.

He couldn't make a dent in the entertainment business or even find a steady job in Winnipeg in the Depression. So he took off with about $8 in his pocket for England, hoping to find a job as a hockey referee or sports writer during the hockey boom there.

SOLD SHOES

He landed on Aug. 1. 1936, found dingy lodgings but no work. With his funds exhausted, he used his last clean shirt to line up, in desperation, a job as a shoe salesman in a shop on Oxford Street for $10 a week and on-per-cent commission. He soon had the highest sales of the entire firm, chiefly because of his quick-fire sales talk.

One of his customers happened to be the wife of former Winnipeg buddy Jack (Jake) Milford, a hocky pro at Wembley Stadium and now general manager of Brandon Wheat Kings junior club. Milford lined up an interviw for MacPherson in Wembley's publicity department. He was hired at $25 a week to write copy.

Flushed with success, he sent for fiancee Emily Comfort. She gave up her nursing career in Winnipeg and they were maried at Wembley.

When word got out that the British Broadcasting Corporation was considering broadcasting hockey games, Stew got his bid in fast. In his trial game he noted that most of the players were from the Winnipeg area. He ad-libbed background on the players, out-talked six rivals and won the job.

RADIO WIT

By the start of the Second World War, he had become Britain's best - known sportscaster, covering hockey, six-day bicycle races, table tennis, boxing and roller skating.

His dry wit was at its best during his boxing broadcasts. A classic example was during the Bruce Woodcock - Freddie Mills fight when he tossed in, "Woodcock is going better now, he's got the wind behind him."

The MacPhersons' first child was born while Stew was broadcasting the world hockey championship in Prague. He got word while he was on the air and, forgetting he was behind a microphone, tossed his papers in the air and shouted to one of the British players: "It's a boy! It's a boy! Gee, what a party we'll throw tonight." He broke off when he saw the horrified look on the engineer's face.

Soon after war broke out, he sent his wife Emily and baby son Murray home to Canada. They were aboard the Athenia which was torpdoed soon after it left. Emily groped her way down two decks of the listing ship, grabbed Murray from his cabin bed and got into a lifeboat. A destroyer picked up survivors 11 hours later.

WORKED ON TRUCK

Stewart decided then to go back to Canada with his family. In 1940 he worked on a gravel truck at Winnipeg and did some radio work but wasn't satisfied. The BBC wanted him back and he went to Africa and Europe as a war correspondent and commentator.

Following another Manitoba vacation in 1949, he returned to Britain with broadcasting plans for the old parlor game of Twenty Questions, styled after an American version he had heard while home. He also was master of ceremonies of a program called Ignorance is Bliss. His breezy ad-libbing helped both shows become hits.

The only time he was stumped was on a program when the object chosen was a brassiere.

"Is it on points?" asked a ration-conscious quizzer.

"Well, er . . ." Stew stammered.

MacPherson had the seal put on his fame when he was sculptured in wax for Madame Tussaud's museum.

HIGH INCOME TAX

He finally decided to leave Britain because "income taxes were taking most of my earnings." He went to Minneapolis and was in charge of special events and news broadcasts for radio and TV at WCCO.

When Winnipeg Enterprises Corporation, operators of the city-owned hockey arena, football and baseball stadiums, offered him the job of general manager, he took it at a salary reported more than $15,000.

Last March he was named program director for the new TV station which will go into operation next fall.

Meanwhile, the BBC has kept him on its string. He took off for England June 13 to do 26 programs for Twenty Questions, most of them on tape. When he returns to Winnipeg, he'll start preparing a Canadian version of the show.

VETERAN BROADCASTER — Stewart MacPherson, a native of Winnipeg who rose to fame in Britain as BBC radio announcer and commentator, has been named executive program director of Winnipeg's second television station which goes on the air this fall. Mr. MacPherson, 51, returned to Winnipeg and for four years has been general manager of the city-owned hockey arena, football and baseball stadiums. He left Winnipeg in 1930, became Britain's best-known sportscaster and during the Second World War was BBC war correspondent. He still travels to England to tape programs for the BBC. (CP Photo).

SUMMER STORMS

Inside the summer cottage, keeping away from fireplaces and stoves, is about the safest place during lightning storms.

ITALIAN REDS'

leaders began to hit every major city in Italy.

Non-Communist unions labelled the strikes political and refused to join them.

Rome looked like an armed camp.

Rome's Chamber of Labor, protesting police action against the Communist-led rioters, called an 11-hour general strike in the capital and surrounding province beginning at 1 p.m.

Police headquarters banned all public meetings in Rome Province in an attempt to forestall rallies planned today by the Fascists in Rome and the Communists in the port city of Civitavecchia north of the capital.

Truckloads of police were stationed on side streets near all strategic squares.

In the bloodiest rioting Rome has had in years, 135 police and 150 demonstrators were injured Wednesday night. More than 50, including two leftist members of parliament, were in hospital. The street battle set off fist fights in the Chamber of Deputies.

HOWLS OF PROTEST

The rioting produced another turbulent parliamentary session today, in the Senate, as Socialists and Communists howled protests against police intervention in the Red-led demonstrations.

Charges by Interior Minister Giuseppe Spataro that the Communist party had planned and provoked the disorders brought a rising, angry clamor from the leftist senators.

The street fighting started in Rome when police tried to break up an estimated 10,000 wartime partisans and their supporters who massed in defiance of a police ban. A Communist-led partisan organization called the rally to protest plans of the Italian Social Movement, Italy's Fascist party, to hold a national congress.

USE CLUBS, HOSES

Fighting raged along a mile-long southern district between the Gate of St. Paul and the Tiber River. Wearing helmets and carrying machine-guns, the police charged with clubs and fire hoses and finally used tear gas. Mounted police brandishing swords and long rubber clubs rushed the mob of rioters, who fought back with stones and fence posts ripped from a children's park.

Order finally was restored after three hours. At least 350 rioters were arrested, police said.

When news of the rioting reached parliament, Communist and Socialist deputies squared off against Christian Democrat supporters of Premier Fernando Tambroni's government. Scuffling went on until after midnight. Briefcases, papers and inkwells flew along with fists amid the din of riot sirens summoning more ushers to restore order. Four deputies required medical attention and six ushers were injured, two severely.

Austrian Tour Tiring Mr. K.; Wife, Associates Worried

"He's trying to do too much," Mrs. Khrushchev told a member of the official party that accompanied the Soviet leader on his 1,000-mile bus tour of Austria. Her face — usueally weathed in a smile — has wrinkled with worry as she confided her anxiety.

The 66-year-old Soviet leader returned to Vienna Wednesday night after cutting short his whirlwind trip through Austria's mountainous countryside.

"I wish I was a healthy as he is," said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko when a reporter asked if Khrushchev was ill.

But the evidence that his family and asociates are anxious about Khrushchev's health is obvious and there seems to be cause for worry.

He is overweight and often out of breath. He overeats. He drives himself relentlessly.

Brushing aside his security men, he appears convinced that he must mingle with crowds. Babies, young children, the aged, storekeepers and workers seems irresistible to him. He knows he is a great showman and as long as there's a photographer or reporters around, he seems unable to relax. And as he drives himself, the faces of his associates display anxiety.

At the end of the day Khrushchev shows fatigue. His face says and his broad shoulders droop.

On at least three occasions at evening's end his speech has been stumbling and he has fumbled for words. For the last two days he's eliminated the morning walks he likes so much.

Trees Killed By Beaver, Rabbits, Mice

TORONTO — Between beaver, rabbits and mice, thousands of trees were destroyed over the past winter, according to officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. The mice were particularly hard on white oak, ash and some other species, girdling the trees and killing off the top growth. The officials believe, however, many can be saved by cutting off the trunks below the girdling and allowing the still-alive roots to send up new growth.

Damage was termed a "tree massacre" in the Larose Forest near Kemptville. Almost 1,200 cords of pulp were cut in the forest during the winter "but the men had to work at a good pace in order not to be surpassed by beavers and rabbits who were gnawing and munching the poplar, spruce and white pine at a drastic rate", the officials reported. "Almost every ditch and creek in Larose Forest was damned by beavers; many cubic feet of poplar were cut down to make a success of the 'Dammed Creek Operation'".

"Rabbits concentrated mostly on pruning all winter and shamed our piece workers as to quantity of trees pruned — Hundreds of thousands of trees were completely destroyed by the rabbits".

Garden shrubs also suffered badly, even in the towns and cities where rabbits and mice seemed to congregate to escape the deep snows.

CCF-er Herridge Attacks Moral Re-Armament Group Hinting It Is Fascist Front

OTTAWA (CP) — The CCF's H. W. Herridge caused a stir in the Commons Wednesday night when he bitterly attacked the Moral Re-Armament movement, implying it is a Fascist front.

The MP for Kootenay West said his party takes vigorous exception to the government's policy of allowing income tax exemptions on contributions to the movement, and demanded that it be reviewed.

He said leaders of various CCF and trade union groups and several other individuals had expressed to him their "increasing concern" about the exemptions.

Mr. Herridge was immediately taken to task by Liberal and Conservative MPs, who characterized MRA as a worthy movement whose only objective is the spiritual uplift of mankind.

Chesley W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) said Mr. Herridge's attack was in line with seven or eight attacks on MRA which he said have appeared in the "Commie" Canadian Tribune.

The flareup came as the House considered estimates of the revenue department, which collects the taxes levied by Parliament.

Mr. Herridge said he had been informed that a recent spate of advertising by MRA in Canadian newspapers cost about $400,000. He placed on the record excerpts from critical letters he had received, as well as the text of a resolution passed by the CCF provincial convention in Alberta, denouncing MRA as the enemy of "peace, tolerance and a just social order".

One letter, from the United Auto Workers political union department in Toronto, cited a story in the New York World Telegrams during the 1930s concerning MRA leader Frank Bulhman. The story quoted Mr. Buchman as saying, according to the UAW letter: "I thank heaven for a man like Adolph Hitler. Through such a man God could control a nation overnight and solve every last bewildering problem. (Social problems) could be solved through a God-controlled Fascist dictatorship."

Mr. Herridge recalled that he asked Dr. Donald Soper, "one of England's most famous preachers," about the MRA movement at a dinner here about a month ago.

"In the most vivid language he told us what he thought of this organization and of the dangers it presented to the Western democratic world. He strongly advised us to do all we could to expose the machinations of this organization."

Wallace Nesbitt, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Green, said he was astonished at Mr. Herridge's "vitriolic" attack and added, "But I suppose that those in this world who do not agree with the precepts of communism and socialism might well come under such attacks."

Mr. Carter said MRA "is not a church and does not profess to be a religion but it does heal mistrust, hates and resentments among the peoples of the world."

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) said he believed a closer examination by members favoring MRA might alter their judgment.

Revenue Minister Nowlan said Mr. Herridge had introduced an extraneous issue into the estimates debate. He said the decision that MRT should be regarded as a charitable organization for purposes of tax exemptions was taken some years ago by a Liberal government. He saw no reason to reverse the decision.

Wednesday was first day the Commons, in its drive to clean up remaining business, has sat through the lunch hour. It was in session from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and again from 8 p.m. to 11.

Asserts Mounties Relegated To Office Typewriter Boys

OTTAWA (CP) — Mervyn Hardie (L — Mackenzie River) complained in the Commons Wednesday that the RCMP in the North are being relegated to "office typewriter boys" by "encroachment" on their duties by northern service officers of the northern affairs department.

"Put the RCMP back to work in the North," the Northwest Territories MP said in arguing that the RCMP had always done an effective job of their police and other duties in isolated northern communities.

He said he understood the northern service officers were to assume all the RCMP responsibilities for native welfare.

Without their dog patrols, trapline visits, enforcement of game laws and welfare efforts, the RCMP would have nothing to do. The result would be a loss of morale that would mean the RCMP might just as well be withdrawn from the North altogether.

Mr. Hardie said it is costly duplication of service to put forestry or game enforcement men into areas where the RCMP could handle such matters.

Mr. Hardie was sharply critical of the northern service officers whose approach seemed to be "to hell with the RCMP" or other experienced northern residents. They were going ahead with all the things that the missionaries, the Hudson's Bay Companymen and RCMP had tried long before and failed in.

He tangled sharply with Justice Minister Fulton over a complaint that on Dominion Day he had met an RCMP man with long northern experience being used to police the spectators at ceremonies on Parliament Hill.

He said surely there were enough recruits "to stand outside the Parliament Buildings as decorations for the tourists or for putting parking tickets on cars on Parliament Hill."

Mr. Fulton replied that it is absurd for Mr. Hardie to suggest such a practice is policy.

Producer Control of Market For Hogs Said Threatened

TORONTO (CP)—Charles McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers Association, said Wednesday producer control of the Ontario hog market is threatened by government officialdom and big meat industry interests.

He told 270 producers at a special association meeting that Ontario farmers will have to decide whether they want "to hand the hog market to the packinghouse industry or to government bureaucrats, or whether they still want to run their own affairs."

The meeting was called to discuss a recent report by a Toronto chartered accountant firm recommending a 10-cent-a-hog reduction to 30 from 40 cents in handling charges paid by farmers to the Ontario Hog Marketing Board. The suggestion was made by Price, Waterhouse and Company, appointed by the government to survey Ontario's hog marketing.

AWKWARD ATTEMPT

David Monieson, lecturer in business administration at the University of Pennsylvania, described appointment of the Toronto accountants as a "bumbling, fumbling awkward attempt" to get rid of the present hog producers' leadership. He is retained by the hog producers board to do market research.

The meeting unanimously passed a resolution in favor of taking steps to set up their own slaughterhouse.

Delegates voted disapproval of the Farm Products Marketing Board intervention. The resolution said that "due to the financial necessities of the marketing operation the hog marketing board would press for an early repeal in the reduction of the service charge."

It also asked that no further action be taken by the FPMB unless such action is first discussed with and recommended by the local board and after approval of producer delegates.

The hog groups said they would have another accounting firm conduct an investigation in to their operations and that a report would be ready in about seven weeks.

Buffalo Police Deny Existence Of Secret Book

BUFFALO (AP) — A Buffalo police captain denied Wednesday the existence of a secret precinct log described by the state investigation commission as one where information withheld from official police reports is noted.

His denial came during a public hearing after commission counsel showed him an apparent reference to such a log—known as the Pittsburgh Book, in a precinct complaint report.

Capt. Leo T. Callahan, commander of the Third Precinct, said he heard of the book only twice, once as a rookie patrolman and again when it was referred to in a questionnaire mailed to the Buffalo police force by the commission last April.

He said he understood it was supposed to contain information not officially recorded, but added that no such book ever existed in his precinct.

The commission, in its fifth day of a scheduled six-day public hearing on Buffalo police effectiveness, has charged the department with laxity and inefficiency in enforcing gambling and vice laws.

House to Decide What to Do About Divorces

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons itself will decide whether to continue its session to clean up non-government legislation after the government's program for the session is complete, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday.

He was asked in the Commons by Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) whether the government intended to hold Parliament in session to overcome a CCF fillibuster against divorce bills, after the regular government work of the session is done.

The divorce bills, some 450 of them, stand on the House's agenda as private members' bills, without government sponsorship. Mr. Howard and some of his CCF colleagues have stalled action on them, insisting each one be dealt with in detail individually.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government wants its legislative program completed first, and the House can then decide whether to complete the balance of its work.

Direct-Winters Strike Settled

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Seven hours after pickets were set up, 22 striking truck drivers and warehousemen went back to work at the Direct-Winters Transport Company depot here Wednesday.

The employees, members of Local 938 of the Teamsters' Union (Ind.), struck to support demands for the rehiring of Jack MacDonald. Strikers said the company acted unjustly in refusing to let MacDonald return to work after a period of illness even though he had a doctor's certificate.

MacDonald has been rehired. A company spokesman said there had been a misunderstanding on a clause in the company-union agreement stating that a man is listed as quitting voluntarily if he is off duty three days without reporting.

Prowling Baltimore's Sewers One Way to Make Extra Buck

BALTIMORE (AP)—The manhole cover moved upward. A pair of grimy hands appeared. Patrolman George Quire blinked.

The hands were followed by a head, then shoulders and then the rest of a man wet from the waist down and his pockets bulging with muddy coins.

"You'd be surprised how much money you can find in the sewers," 34-year-old David Robbins explained Wednesday to the astonished patrolman.

Quire and Sgt. Bernard Mills hustled him to the police station to let him tell his story.

Robbins is a construction worker and sometimes things are slow in the building business.

Four years ago he watched workers clean out a sewer pipe. Their pockets bulged with the money they found.

Robbins decided to go underground. He claims he has made nearly $800 from his unusual occupation.

On good days, especially after a heavy rain, he has found as much as $20 in change washed into the sewers from streets.

"Sometimes," Robbins said, "you find rare old coins worth good money and pieces of jewelry."

His equipment consists of two flashlights, extra batteries and pockets big enough for the pennies, nickles, quarters and other coins he picks up.

Robbins knows Baltimore's downtown sewer system by heart. He's willing to share his knowledge with the city in making repairs.

"In some places," he commented, "it's so bad the sewer is about to cave in."

Robbins hesitated about telling his wife about his off-hours job, but she soon found out.

Was she displeased?

"She liked the extra spending money."

Newfoundland Lumberjacks Will Be Accepted in Legion

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland civilian woodsmen who fought the Second World War with axes and saws have been recognized as veterans by the Canadian Legion, stronghold of the uniformed fighting man in Canada for 37 years.

A Legion official said members of the Newfoundland Overseas Forestry Unit—some 3,100 civilians who used their special talents to aid the British and Scottish forestry industry during the war—now can join any of Newfoundland's 44 Legion branches.

The decision, made at the legion's annual meeting and outlined here today, ends one phase of a 10-year fight by the foresters for recognition of their war services. The other phase is recognition by the federal government.

Representatives of the wartime unit presented a brief to the Commons veterans affairs committee in March, but officials have little hope the government would class the woodsmen as war veterans, making them eligible for such veterans' benefits as pensions, disability allowances and housing loans.

The Legion said it is recognizing the foresters because they went overseas in time of war. It also has recognized other noncombatants, such as members of the Canadian Red Cross, the St. John Ambulance, the merchant navy and war correspondents.

Membership of the Legion now totals 240,000, with 3,918 in Newfoundland.

FIND BODY

LONG POINT (CP)—The body of Charles Beattie, 78, of Hamilton, missing from his daughter's cottage here since last Saturday, was recovered Wednesday after a helicopter spotted it in a marsh. Coroner Dr. C. J. Carnahan of Langdon, vacationing in the area, said there was no evidence of foul play although the area around the dead man was tramp'ed. No cause of death was immediately given.

Buenos Aires To New York In 1925 Auto

NEW YORK (AJ)—John Coleman, a 32-year-old psychology professor from Britain, steered his 35-year-old car into town Wednesday at the end of an 11,000-mile trip and said, "thank the Lord I've arrived."

Coleman's journey started in Buenos Aires last November. He had some odd experiences on the way, but his 1925 Austin let him down only twice—once with a flat tire and once with a wet magneto.

Coleman said he made the trip "for curiosity's sake, but also to see if the old car could still take such a trip."

The only traffic nuisance, Coleman said, occurred just outside of New York, when police ordered him off the New Jersey turnpike for slowing traffic.

Plane Crash Kills Student

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP)—A student pilot was killed and another parachuted to safety when two Sabre jet training planes from the RCAF station here collided 30 miles northeast of Chatham Wednesday.

FO Gary Smith Hanson, 21, of Vancouver, died in the mid-air crash. FO R. C. Webber, 23, of Timmins ejected himself from the other plane and escaped injury. A helicopter picked him up near the spot where he landed.

Both aircraft were student pilot planes on routine training missions.

Jury Requests Police Review Emergency Plan

NORTH BAY (CP)—Orders to police in regard to their conduct in emergencies should be reviewed by provincial police officials, a coroner's jury recommended Wednesday.

The jury, investigating the June 13 drowning of salesman Edward Hyland of Sudbury, said the orders should be reviewed "to prevent any undue criticism of the force in the future." It found Mr. Hyland died by drowning.

Mrs. Gordon Duff, wife of another man who died when a boat containing four men overturned, had charged provincial police waited nearly five hours before sending a boat to the scene.

Provincial ptlice Constable Dominic Gallagher said Tuesday he did not respond to Mrs. Duff's request because he had not been trained to deal with an emergency marine situation. He said he had been ordered not to use the police launch before 8 a.m. Mrs. Duff said she requested the boat at 5:10 a.m.

In Toronto, James Bartlett, deputy provincial police commissioner, said he had never heard of a tim limit being put on use of police launches.

Mr. Duff's body has not been found. Two other men in the mishap swam to safety.

The jury recommended use of life jackets if water conditions are unfavorable, that buoyancy tanks be installed in boats and that cut-away transoms be discouraged. It also suggested a system of boat licences for the entire province.

Denies Knowing Of Move to End Tariff on Papers

OTTAWA (CP)— Revenue Minister Nowlan said Wednesday he had no personal responsibility or knowledge of a government proposal to abolish the 20-per-cent tariff on imported fine papers.

Justice Minister Fulton is reported to have asked the fine papers manufacturers in Canada, some of whom were convicted of combine activities six years ago, why the government should not allow free entry of imported notepapers. The unions of men employed by the companies have protested.

Government and opposition members supported the union complaint in the Commons during study of revenue department appropriations. Mr. Nowlan said he was not sure a decision had been taken.

John Smith PC—Lincoln said that without the tariff fine papers mills in the Niagara Peninsula would be unable to compete with American imports.

W. H. McMillan L—Welland said that because of the threatened removal of tariffs a mill in his area has discontinued plans to enlarge its plant.

TRAIN INJURES BOY

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Campo, 10, lost his right leg below the knee Wednesday after being run over by a freight car while playing with other children in a CPR yard near his home. Police said several youngsters were riding a freight train when the boy jumped from a box car, bumped into a switch upright and rolled under the moving car. The partly-severed leg was amputated in hospital.

Fulton Declares RCMP Probe Reveals Organized Racket In Illegal Entry of Chinese

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP have gathered evidence confirming that an extensive, organized racket in illegal entry of Chinese was operated in Canada, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday.

Reporting to the Commons on a nation-wide investigation, he said "charges most certainly will be laid just as soon as that can be done." He indicated this may take a considerable amount of time because of the job of sifting the evidence in thousands of documents seized in police raids.

Mr. Fulton, speaking as the Commons considered the 1960-61 spending estimates of the RCMP, appealed for more co-operation in the investigation from the Chinese community, repeating the assurance given earlier by Immigration Minister Fairclough that those who entered illegally will not be prosecuted so long as they did not participate in the racket.

He said he is 'unable to say how many illegal entries there were and denied the RCMP found evidence to indicate Communist agents were among the illegal entrants.

Mr. Fulton indicated the racketeers had blackmailed those brought to Canada illegally. He described as "completely unfounded" opposition suggestions that the Hong Kong police used by the RCMP in the investigation acted brutally or improperly or that there had been any irregularity in the RCMP's actions with the exception of one instance.

The exception was in Prince Rupert, B.C., where one of six Chinese interrogated was asked to sign the interrogation sheet setting out the questions and replies given.

At Toronto, Dr. H. W. Lore, spokesman for the Chinese community centre of Ontario, said special agents of the Hong Kong police force in Toronto have become "very polite" since complaints were made to the federal government about rough treatment of Chinese. He said Chinese-Canadians will co-operate with police in tracking down the ring which has been bringing Chinese to Canada illegally "as long as the police are polite and do not overstep their powers."

In a brief to government members recently Chinese Canadians complained of the threatening manner of the Hong Kong police.

2 Korean Policemen to Die For Shooting Demonstrators

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The Seoul District Court today sentenced two former national policemen to death for shooting at student demonstrators during the uprising that overthrew Syngman Rhee's regime.

The two defendants, Chung Wan-jong and Kwon Hi-yong, were the first members of Rhee's police force convicted of indiscriminate shooting against the demonstrators, in April.

Both were charged with murder and attempted murder. A government prosecutor at the opening of the trial June 24 had demanded the death penalty for Chung and life imprisonment for Kwon.

Under South Korean law the death sentence is automatically subject to review by a higher court.

The prosecutor said the two had fired upon unarmed demonstrators, including one young high school student who had already been wounded and was seeking medical treatment.

Three former policemen went on trial on similar charges today.

Many other former police officers, including former national police director Lee Kang-hak, await trial on charges of murder and attempted murder in connection with similar incidents.

Revenue Dept. Reduces Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister Nowlan told the Commons Wednesday that for the second straight year his department has cut costs and increased efficiency while carrying a heavier aa while carrying a heavier wo load.

Introducing the spending estimates of the national revenue department, he said the customs and excise division alone collected $2,152,553,299 last year, up 12.4 per cent from the previous year.

The division's budget is down to $38,596,307 from $39,204,891. Total departmental appropriations are $72,611,847 in the current fiscal year ending next March 31.

Arrest Toronto Man on Charge Of Extortion

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man, charged with attempted extortion following complaints by a supermarket manager, Wednesday was remanded in custody to next Wednesday.

Victor John Joseph Renaud, 27, was arrested Tuesday at gunpoint by detectives posing as senior employees of a Dominion Stores Ltd. supermarket. The branch manager, Jack Wright, told police he received several threatening calls from a man who demanded $100,000 protection money.

FEWER MINES

There were 133 coal mines in operation in Canada in 1959, a reduction of 20 from the preceding year.

Fears Effects Of Duty-Free Border Shops

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was asked Wednesday to go easy on the matter of allowing duty-free shops to operate on the Canadian side of the international border.

W. H. McMillan (L—Welland) said they might take business away from other Canadian stores.

The shops are to sell goods imported to Canada from outside North America. The goods would be kept in bond until their sale to American tourists returning home from Canada. They would bear neither duty nor sales tax.

Approval of the shops was given by the government last year. Mr. McMillan said merchants at Niagara Falls are greatly concerned. Noting that American tourists are allowed to take back only $200 worth of goods duty-free, he expressed fear that much of this amount would be diverted from conventional shops to the duty - free shops.

Revenue Minister Nowlan said the government is watching the development of the duty - free shops closely, but has made no change in existing law to facilitate or encourage them.

The goods displayed in the stores were all properly imported. The buyer ordered on the basis of the goods on the shelves, but the shipments are made from a customs warehouse.

No Russian Oil And Not One Car Sold in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Not a gallon of Russian oil or a single Russian automobile has been imported into Canada for domestic use, Revenue Minister Nowlan said in the Commons Wednesday.

He said there have been official discussions between Russia and Canada on what method would be followed to determine the fair market value of Russian imports but so far no values for duty purposes have been fixed.

Mr. Nowlan also said his department has no power to change the 7½-per-cent excise tax on automobiles, sought by Hubert Badanai (L — Fort William). The revenue department merely collected taxes at the rates set in the budget bills sponsored by Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Badanai said now would be a good time for a new look at the tax in view of the serious competition which Canadian auto manufacturers are facing from abroad. He said that when Mr. Fleming was in opposition in 1955, he advocated elimination of the tax.

EXTINGUISH SHIP BLAZE

2ND OF SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Will Robinson, of Orono, had Thursday dinner with her sister, Mrs. Frank White, and husband.

Miss Gail Ralph and Mrs. Annie Hanley, of Toronto, were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Grace Blackman, son Bill, Dorothy Morris of Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank East, of Cobourg, were present at the combined surprise birthday party for two sisters whose birthdays are just five days apart, Mrs. East and Mrs. W. Hart, on Sunday evening.
Hart on Sunday evening.

On June 23rd at O.S.D. Field Day for Sidney Township schools, Maple Grove School (Hogle's School) won the plaque for one-room schools receiving the most points. Elaine Bush of Hogle's, won a cup for most points for intermediate girls, and Doetje Dejong won 2nd prize.

Several new homes are being started on the west end of the 2nd Concession of Sidney, across from Mr. Frank White's home. Mr. Girdwood Gregory and Mr. Joe Smets started on Tuesday with the bulldozer. Mr. Paul Reid has his new home pretty well along.

The people of this neighborhood wish to extend their sympathy to the family of Mr. Roy Harry in the loss of their father who passed away on Friday afternoon at Port Hope Hospital as the result of an automobile accident.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Waterfall of Stirling, were callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hart on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Porteous, of Cavan, and attended the services at the Bethany United Church also the christening of a granddaughter, Dawn Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold White of Cavan.

Mr. Arnold Meyers, Mr. Barry Powell, of Middleton Park; Mr. Doug and Gerald Weese of Trenton, attended the Camera Club picnic on Sunday at Deer Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bowers, of Belleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bowers, on Sunday afternoon, at supper and for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Roach, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bedson, of Montreal, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Clement.

Mr. James Warner returned to Toronto on Wednesday after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Arnold.

Electronic Brain Digests Data to Help Determine Radiation's Damage to Folks

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Confidential birth, marriage, health and death records of 400,000 Canadians are being processed here by a $300,000 electronic brain to help determine future damage to humans by man-made radiation.

Vital statistics records of the province of British Columbia for the 1946-55 period have been made available to crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Limited for this research project, the first undertaken in the western world.

They were obtained by the biology branch of Atomic Energy of Canada through the B.C. health department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Permission to use the statistics was granted on the strict understanding that non-statistical data contained in them—names of individuals and other information—would not be divulged.

FIND NATURAL RATE

Dr. H. B. Newcombe, head of the biology branch at the Chalk River atomic project, said in an interview that the research program was launched to determine what part of present illnesses and handicaps of hereditary origin have resulted from natural mutations over past generations.

The heritable characteristics of the offspring of humans are de- from cosmic rays and other called genes. If mutations or changes occur to the genes this produces illnesses and handicaps which are passed on to future generations.

About 94 per cent of the changes which take place in the genes arise from natural causes other than radiation. It's estimated that about three per cent are caused by natural radiation from cosmic rays and other sources to which humans always have been subjected, and another three per cent by man-made radiation such as the medical uses of x-rays.

At present other sources of man-made radiation — debris from nuclear bombs and the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes—contribute only about one-twentieth as much as the dose from medical x-rays. But better information on the genetics of human populations is needed in order to assess the results of future exposures to military and peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

MAY SHARPEN EFFECTS

Dr. Newcombe said exposure of humans to man-made radiations may increase the incidence of some of the common hereditary diseases and handicaps including blindness, deafness, malformations and mental defects, but will not cause new kinds to appear.

"This makes it essential to know how much of our present illnesses and handicaps are hereditary — caused by naturally-occurring changes in the genes—if we are to determine future genetic effects of man-made radiation.

"We know already that four of every 100 infants suffer from the more serious hereditary diseases of natural origin at some time in their lives and that these individuals occupy a larger proportion of hospital beds and institutional places than is generally realized."

The probable genetic damage to humans from man-made radiations could be estimated with much greater confidence if scientists knew what part of these present illnesses and handicaps are due to naturally-occurring mutations. It also was important to know to what extent a person, affected by a changed gene inherited from a parent, passes on the defective gene to his offspring.

NEEDS STUDY

"It's not known in any detail why a defective gene remains in the population," Dr. Newcombe said. "Recurrent natural mutations probably play a part but we are not certain how large a part. Until we do know, it will be hard to tell what effect a radiation-induced increase in the mutation rate will have."

He said the research project is expected to give scientists an insight into the roles which natural mutations and natural selection (differences in mortality and fertility) play in determing the present frequencies of hereditary defects.

Once scientists have this knowledge they will be better able to judge the degree to which man-made radiations will increase the incidence of these diseases.

SPECIAL CARDS

The research project involves the use of special punch cards containing information on family history obtained from the vital statistics.

With this information, Dr. Newcombe and his staff can determine whether or not families carrying heritable characteristics such as blindness or mental illnesses contribute more than their share of genes to the next generation. It will be possible for him to look at the reproductive histories of families and to relate these with the occurrence of hereditary diseases in the family.

Dr. Newcombe said that in the future there will be a constant increase in the use of sources of man-made radiation. As a result there was a need for sound judgment concerning the levels of radiation to which humans can justifiably be exposed. Present tentative estimates of the probable harmful effects of radiation needed to be improved by research into fields of uncertainty.

There was no doubt that radiations could cause mutations and that nearly all such genetic changes were harmful.

STUDY RADIATION — Effects of an increase in man-made radiation on future generations are being studied with the aid of this $300,000 electronic computor in operation at Atomic Energy of Canada's plant at Chalk River, Ont. Confidential medical records of 400,000 Canadians are being processed to determine effects of their health from natural mutations during past generations. Scientists hope they will then be able to recognize which mutations are natural and which are caused by exposure to peaceful and military uses of nuclear energy. (CP Photo).

Umpires Get Mechanical Eyes!

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Yankees lost a baseball game to Washington Senators July 4 when Yankee relief pitcher Ryne Duren walked in the winning run in the ninth inning.

The Yankees protested the fourth ball was a bad call, but they couldn't prove it. If it was a strike and an invention of a Long Island engineer was in use, there would have been no argument.

Lloyd F. Knight of Glen Cove, N.Y., has been granted a patent on an automatic umpire with an eye so true on balls and strikes the plate umpire could sit in the stands if he wished and make the calls by watching a monitor.

Briefly, balls and strikes would be determined by using three television cameras—one on each side of the batter and the third as nearly overhead as the rules permit. Only two of the cameras would be used at one time, the overhead camera to determine if the ball went over the plate, and one of the side cameras to determine its height. Which side camera used would be governed by whether the batter was right or left handed.

On any disputed call the umpire could rerun the tape record to settle the argument.

By setting three cameras in the stands at different angles focused radially on each base, the accuracy of calls on base runners could be verified.

The Servo Corp., of New Hyde Park, N.Y., has been assigned the patent, but the equipment is not yet in production, although parts have been tested.

Knight says his intent is not to do away with umpires, whom he regards as a popular baseball fixture, but to make their decisions infallible.

City Commercial Softball Results

Texaco Chiefs took an early lead and cut short a last-frame rally to shade Bishop Seeds 6-5 in a scheduled Commercial tilt last night.

The winners scored three in the third and singles in the first, fourth and fifth frames before Bishops rallied for three in the bottom of the seventh to pull within one run.

Don McLean hurled seven-hit ball, while striking out one and not walking a man, for the Chiefs.

Dave Feeney also gave up seven hits for the losers. He fanned two and walked three.

McLean helped his own cause with a brace of doubles while Clair Hagerman doubled and singled for Texaco, Larry Lougheed had a triple, Ross Ray and Harry DeRushie a single each.

Don Dolan was the only loser with two hits while Jack Calnan and "Midge" Courneyea hit doubles. Rusty Garvin, Reg Williams and Rob Burrows added singles.

Hallam Hurls 3rd No-Hitter

No-hitters are becoming a force of habit with young Billy Hallam of the peewee Tigers.

Hallam came up with his third consecutive no-hitter at the Parkdale field last night as the Tigers scored a 6-0 victory over the Senators.

The Tigers got their pitching ace a pair of runs in the initial frame and that was all he needed. They added singletons in the third and sixth and two in the fifth. Hallam, meanwhile blew third strikes by 12 Senator batters and issued three walks.

David Arthurs was the losing moundsman as the Tigers picked up seven hits.

Robert Parsons and Gary Luces punched out a pair of singles each for the winners. Robin Bateman hit a double, Hallam and Bill Hoard a single each.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The strongest field in the 51-year history of the Canadian open golf championship has rocked the country's richest tournament with the greatest one-round concentration of par-busters. And the loudest explosion belongs to a Canadian who wasn't even mentioned as a possible pace-setter.

The firing started Wednesday when 56 of the field of 153 defied slick, spike-marked greens to give the $27,000 Open a rousing sendoff at the suburban St. George's Club. Leading the unprecedented course - wrecking contingent is Toronto's Al Balding, who has had indifferent luck on the gold trail.

The 36-year-old six-foot-three-inch shotsmith posted a sensational eight-under-par 64 and goes into today's second round with a one stroke lead over Don January, a lean-straw-hatted Texan from Dallas who blew a chance to at least create a tie on the final hole.

Balding now is probably looking over his shoulder for the hoodoo that has hounded him the last three years when he seldom has been able to put together two big rounds. He was the first - round open leader in 1959 with a 66, soared to a second-round 75 and finished the 72-hole tournament in a tie for 30th place, good for $130.

There are a flock of pros, veterans and rookies of the big time, waiting for this to happen. He is under big pressure in his bid to become the first Canadian to win the Open since Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon and Montreal turned the trick against a mediocre field at Vancouver in 1954.

Balding also bettered the competitive course record of 65 set by veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis, Mo., when he won the Canadian Open in 1949. The big Arkansas traveller passed up this tournament.

There are about 30 players within easy striking distance of Balding, a former beer truck driver. And included is another Canadian surprise, 25-year-old Al Johnston from Montreal who shot a 66, "the best round I've ever had."

They also include Paul Harney, Don Whitt, Art Wall Jr., three-time Open winner Sam Snead, Bob Wagner, and Doug Ford, the defending champion.

Besides Balding and Johnston, seven other Canadians broke par. They were little Johnny Henrick of London, Ont., formerly of Hull, Que., who had a 70. At 71 were veteran Stan Leonard, Vancouver; Jerry Kesselring, Kitchener; Bill Mawhinney, Toronto; Rudy Horvath, Windsor; George Knudson, Toronto, formerly of Winnipeg, and amateur star Gary Cowan of Kitchener.

Among those equalling par 72 were amateurs Nick Weslock, Windsor veteran now playing out of Toronto, and 18-year-old Bob Panasiuk, of Windsor, the youngest competitor in the field.

NERVE-WRACKING

Balding, who now takes breathers from the tournament circuit because "it's too nerve-wracking," played St. George's 35-37 par 72 layout as if he owned it.

Brilliantly accurate off the tee and on the fairway, Al stormed over the front nine in five-under par 30 and came home in 34.

He posted an eagle and seven birdies. He was one-over-par on only one hole, the 13th, which he three-putted.

South Hastings Baseball League

Latta scored two runs in the top of the seventh to pull out a 6-6 tie with Read in a South Hastings baseball fixture that was called because of darkness last night.

Percy Milligan pitched for the hometown Read crew, allowing 16 hits. Cronkwright, with help from Reid in the sixth, gave up 10 hits on the Latta rubber.

Cronkwright clubbed two doubles and two singles, Reid a double and two singles and Buskard three singles for Latta. Frank Ray and Ross Parks had two hits apiece, Don Harrison and Howie Weeks one each.

Ken Brennan hit a brace of doubles for Read while H. McMechan had a double and single. John Shannon and Carl McMechan two singles each. Tom Callery doubled and Jerry Brennan singled.

CANADIAN NINTH

BISLEY, England (CP)—Maj. R. W. Hampton of Alliston, Ont., scored 172 points out of a possible 200 to take ninth place Wednesday in the Queen Mary service rifle competition. He was fifth with 364 points in the service rifle championship aggregate based on the early matches of the meeting.

DUCATS FOR BLOOD

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross has launched a major drive in the Montreal area to collect 10,000 pints of blood within the next two months. For each pint of blood, donors will receive a free ticket to a baseball game between Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs Aug. 26.

UNDERWATER CHANNEL TRY

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Jane Baldasare, 25, flew in from the United States Wednesday for an English Channel swim with a difference. She is going to try to cross the channel water in a form-fitting rubber suit equipped with oxygen tanks. The try will be made from the French side some time in August.

Has Two-Stroke Cushion

Vicenzo Tops British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP)—A big-hitting Argentine pro well acquainted with the world's top golf courses carried a two-stroke cushion into the second round of the British open golf tournament today.

Roberto de Vicenzo, 36-year-old Buenos Aires native who now plays out of Mexico, blistered the St. Andrews Old Course with a six-under-par 67 Wednesday in the opening round of the 72-hole event.

That was just one stroke away from the course record set in qualifying rounds two days before by Britain's Peter Alliss.

"I'm hitting the ball a long, long way," de Vicenzo explained. "I've been driving as far as 300 yards and that helps a lot on this long course."

This is de Vicenzo's seventh try for the British Open title. He finished third in 1948 and 1949 and was second in 1950. His biggest pro victory was in the last all - American championship in 1957.

COUNTRYMAN SECOND

Another Argentine, Fidel de Luca, was tied for second with Australian Kel Nagle at 69 after Wednesday's first round.

The tournament favorites, Arnold Palmer of the United States, Gary Player of South Africa and Peter Thomson of Australia, were close behind.

Palmer, aiming for the British title to go with his U.S. Open and Masters championships, had a 70 and Player, the defending champion, and Thomson, 72s.

De Vicenzo was first out Wednesday, gaining some advantage over those who teed off after a cold wind swept mist and drizzle over the historic course.

He handled the first nine in 32, holing a 25-yard chip shot at the fourth for a birdie 3.

One of the sentimental favorites, 58-year-old Gene Sarazen of the United States, blew up Wednesday.

The aging pro, who took this championship 28 years ago, had led the U.S. group in qualifying rounds but took a whopping 8 on the tricky 17th and promptly withdrew, observing: "My feet were too heavy."

EVEN-MONEY CHOICE

YONKERS (AP)—Adios Butler was an even-money favorite Wednesday for the $25,000 All-American Pace at Yonkers Raceway tonight. The one-mile race drew a seven-horse field and Adios Butler, who equalled the 1:58 4-5 track record in his last start, drew the No. 3 post position.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This year, someone has said or written, is the Year of the Great Comebacks. He could add the Great Rumors, too.

The biggest comeback of the year unquestionably is that of Floyd Patterson, who left-hooked the heavyweight crown off the curly noggin of Swede Ingomar Johansson, dislocating one of the famous dimples in the process.

The rumor from Sweden is the once famous Swedish Punch has lost its kick, the Hammer of Thor is nothing but a tack-driver and the national faithful is wondering Wodinell Ingo will do the next time out.

If you believe the handouts that reach sports desks practically every morning this is the year of the Great Comback of erstwhile, non-successful football organizations.

Every post-dawning brings the startling announcements either through the mail or via their favorite dailies, that one team or the other, or both, have signed Joe Knobbleknees, star half-back of Nicked Thumb High or Ignatz (Crazy Ankles) Hipswinger, all-hemisphere tackle from Totem Pole University.

If this keeps up, some of these years these clubs are going to come up with football teams.

Then there is the third great comeback of venerable Archie Moore, the world light heavyweight champion. This is said to be the finest "return" of Archie's long and colorful career.

Twice before he came back to Canada. The first reappearance was the second phase of "Operation Painless Extraction" by which Moore removed another load of Canadian "lettuce" for transplanting in his Jack Benny vaults. This followed the year of the "Great Stinkaroo" featuring Moore, somebody by the name of James J. Parker, and a ringside crew of sportswriters garbed in night-blooming monkey jackets.

The second phase was the "Yvon Durelle Show", an eight-act ring drama in which the "villain" almost got his comeuppance in the first scene, figured he could finally clobber the local hero—and got up and did it.

The third phase was a re-run of this drama. And again the "bad guy" beat the "good guy." This time the "villain" foreclosed the mortgage early, loaded the good Canadian loot into a couple of suitcases, and as the band played "California, Here I Come," took off for Florida's biggest competition in the orange market.

As was noted, August 8 should see Archie's greatest "comeback." He meets the European light-heavy champion, Erich Schoeppner in a title bout in Toronto. The only difference we can see is that Archie will bring three suitcases instead of two.

Locally, Bob Temple stars in the biggest comeback role when he arrives from Austria with a beautiful bride.

Umpires' Association president Al Kelleher is reported making a comeback with his "Singing Six Sunspots." The rumor is they're warbling quietly among themselves. And they might make the Ed Sullivan show. After all, why shouldn't they? You don't have to be funny. Wayne and Shuster did it.

Then there is the "Ole Bearcat" Al Adams, and "Lum" Carson.

Now, here's a couple of erstwhile star flingers who were supposedly washed up, wrapped up and consigned to the Hall of Has-Beens. For the past few seasons they have plyaed their softball on the third row back of the Point Anne or CNRA Park bleachers.

Then somebody told 'em they had tired blood. So they took a few shots of "Hamitol" or "Damitol" and what happened. The rubber in their arms was not dead—just dormant. It came to life.

Lum went to the "Cleaners"—the ball team, that is—and the "Ole Bearcat" stretched his claws and found there was life in the old paw yet. He joined the Bobcats and has done so well he's wondering if his birth certificate has a misprint.

The way they're going, and with Pat Maracle still chuckin' away right merrily—who knows?—some day the league may field a team of Satchel Paiges.

Marlene Won't Defend Title

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit, Canadian ladies' golf champion, will not defend her title in this year's Canadian women's open and closed championships at the Riverside Golf and Country Club Aug. 4-13, it was announced Wednesday.

"Marlene is expecting a baby," tournament secretary Mrs. Hugh Gregory said. "However we are hoping that her absence will prove a big incentive for the young golfers across Canada."

One of the first of 25 entries received so far came from an eight-handicap golfer, Mrs. H. Remer, a member of the Dupont industrial family of Delaware.

The 15 Canadian entries have, so far, been limited to the west coast and Ontario.

Minor Baseball

The Cardinals edged the Dodgers 3-1 in a Peewee league pitching duel at Queen Elizabeth school grounds last night.

Wayne McTaggart of the Cards allowed just two hits and struck out 10 while Doug Parker on the Dodger hilltop gave up three hits adn whiffed five.

Kevin Allen won the game for the Cards in the third frame wtih a two-run single to open the scoring. The clubs traded single markers in the fourth.

Other Cardinal hits were a double by Steve Beare and a single by Greg Michaud.

Hannah and Lessells each had one base hit for the Dodgers.

Detroit Decision Gives Daley Dozen

Bumps Bengals With 6-Hitter

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Southpaw Bud Daley, who won 16 with seventh place Kansas City in his first full season last year, figured he still had to win respect from American League hitters.

That was four months ago, in spring training.

Now he's won respect and just about everything else in sight—still pitching for the seventh place A's but leading the majors with 12 victories and a cinch to be the starting pitcher in Monday's all-star game.

Daley (12-4) made it a dozen with a six-hitter for a 6-4 decision over Detroit Wednesday night. It was the A's 10th victory in 34 games since June 1, and Daley has won six of them. He has also won three of their four in the last 14 games.

GOOD NIGHT FOR LEFTIES

It was a pretty fair night for southpaws all around. Whitey Ford won his third in a row as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 5-2 and regained a two-game lead over Cleveland while dropping the third place Orioles three games behind. The Chicago White Sox ended the Indians' winning string at five with a 7-5 decision on Roy Sievers' two-run homer in the ninth.

And Washington whipped Boston 4-0 as Jack Kralick became the first lefty to shut out the Red Sox at Fenway Park since Herb Score did it for Cleveland on May 18, 1955.

Jerry Lumpe's second RBI double broke a 4-4 tie for the A's in the eighth, and he came home with the clincher on a wild pitch by Frank Lary (6-9). Daley, winning 11 of his last 13 decisions, gave up a three-run homer by Al Kaline in the sixth. The Tigers' other run was unearned.

The Yankees, beaten on one hit when they last faced Skinny Brown, handed the Oriole righthander his third defeat in 10 decisions with a two-run eighth. A walk and Mickey Mantle's triple scored the winning run, and Roger Maris, who hit his 27th home run in the third inning, then followed with a single. Clete Boyer added a solo homer in the ninth—No. 21 for the Yankees in the last 10 games, one shy of the AL record for that span. It also gave the Yanks 100 or more homers for the 16th consecutive year.

YANKS AND BIRDS EVEN

Ford (5-5) had a two-hit shutout for six innings and finished with a seven-hitter as the Yankees squared their season record with the Birds at 6-6. Four of the Orioles' hits were for extra-bases, one a ninth-inning homer by Brooks Robinson.

Sievers' 11th homer followed a leadoff walk by losing reliever Larry Locke (1-1), who also gave up a tying homer by Gene Freese in the eighth. Gerry Staley (9-3) won it with four innings of two-hit shutout relief after the Indians chased Early Wynn in a five-run fourth triggered by Woodie Held's two-on homer.

Kralick (4-0) blanked the Red Sox with a four-hitter on his second major league start. He walked two, fanned six. The Nats got their four in the first inning, scoring the first two on bases loaded walks by Jerry Casale (2-8), who lost his eighth in a row. Jose Valdivielso singled home the other two off reliever Tom Sturdivant.

Havana Franchise

May Switch to Jersey City

BUFFALO (AP) — A long-rumored move of the International League's Havana franchise to Jersey City may be only a few days away, it was reported Wednesday. And it may be a prelude to a new major league plan.

Cincinnati may force the Havana franchise shift because of its talent investment in the Sugar Kings' roster, says The Evening News.

"If the Continental League folds up," Kritzer quoted an unnamed source as saying, "there will be an immediate move from within the International League to go major league. It may be some months before the organizers are willing to show their identities, but let it be said they have not only the know-how but the where-with-all, too."

The inference was that there are two factions within the International League. One, presumably, is headed by League president Frank Shaughnessy and Frank Horton of Rochester, the league's executive vice-president. It is the "stand-pat" faction.

The other apparently has Buffalo and Toronto as its nucleus with others, yet unnamed, willing to give a whirl to the major league notion.

Normie Kwong Hangs up Gear

EDMONTON (CP) — Fullback Normie Kwong, one of Canada's best Canadian football players, has decided to retire after failing to reach a contract agreement with Edmonton Eskimos, his employer for nine seasons.

Retirement of the 30-year-old China Clipper was announced Wednesday by Gordon Wynn, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club.

Edmonton has exercised its option on his playing services for the 1960 season, meaning he is Eskimo property. Technically, he is on the club's suspended list.

Kwong started his pro career with Calgary Stampeders in 1948 when the stamps won the Grey Cup. He spent three seasons with Calgary before being traded to Edmonton. He helped Eskimos win the Grey Cup in 1954, 55 and 56.

Last year Kwong requested a trade to British Columbia Lions but Edmonton and B.C. couldn't come to an agreement. The club fined him $100 a day for each day he was unsigned and the fine reached $2,300 before Kwong came to terms.

The fullback was named Canada's athlete of the year in 1955. He holds the all-time rushing mark for Canadian football with 8,267 yards to his credit since 1951. Kwong now lives in Vancouver where he owns a car-wash service.

Dodgers Blank Giants

Skinner Grand-Slam Powers Bucs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

When the other contenders start getting beaten on three-run homers by pitchers, it's time to start getting excited about Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League race.

And the time is now.

Gene Conley, former Milwaukee Braves righthander, tagged a two-out homer with two men on that gave Philadelphia Phillies an 8-5, 10-inning victory over the second-place Braves Wednesday night. And Stan Williams of Los Angeles Dodgers belted a three-run shot while blanking the third-place San Francisco Giants 10-0 on three hits.

The Pirates have a 5½-game lead at the top of the league. They made it with a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati Redlegs, breaking up Bob Purkey's two-hit shutout in a five-run eighth inning capped by Bob Skinner's inside-the-park grand-slam home run.

25TH HOMER

The last-place Chicago Cubs, with Ernie Banks hitting his 25th home run of the season and George Altman driving in six runs with two homers, whipped St. Louis Cardinals 10-1. The loss dropped the Cards to fifth place while the Dodgers, 8½ games back, moved into fourth spot with their eighth victory in 10 games.

Conley (5-4), who also pitched two perfect innings of relief for the victory, hung the Braves' third straight defeat on reliever Don McMahon (2-6) with his second home run in the majors. It came after Joe Morgan opened the 10th with a double and McMahon intentionally walked Cal Neeman with two out to get to Conley.

Tony Gonzalez also homered for the Phils. The Braves, who pulled off the league's first triple play in two seasons, got a homer from Joe Adcock, but blew a 5-4 lead behind reliever Ron Piche.

Williams (8-2) cracked his second major league home run in the fourth inning for a 4-0 lead against loser Bill O'Dell (3-8). The big righthander didn't walk a man, struck out seven and retired the last 11 in order while facing 29 men for his first shutout since 1958.

GET 13 HITS

Frank Howard also hit a three-run homer and Norm Sherry blasted one with one on for the Dodgers, who had 13 hits. It was the second straight shutout for the Giants, scoreless in 28 innings.

Purkey (8-4), who had won three games in a row, forced in Pittsburgh's tying run with a bases-loaded walk. Then Skinner hit a liner to left field and scooted home as Wally Post missed a shoestring catch.

Tom Cheney (1-1) got his first major league victory. Gus B and Ed Bailey homered for the Reds'runs.

Banks' three-run homer was the clincher for the Cubs in the second inning against Bob Gibson (1-2). Altman's three-run homers came off Ed Bauta, who was making his major league debut. Glen Hobbie (8-10) was the winner, blanking the Cards on four hits until Bill White homered in the eighth.

Back in Second Place

Bobcats Shut Out Deseronto

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bobcats moved back into second place in the Belleville and District softball league standing last night with a convincing 11-0 triumph over the Deseronto Athletics in an eight-inning affair.

The 'Cats got four-hit pitching from Bobby Green, another perfect fielding performance and a 13-hit attack to move within four points of the league leading Trenton squad. Trenton will play host to the Bobcats tonight at 8.30.

Pat Maracle held the homesters to a single run in the first, and two in the third, until the late innings. Three in the sixth and five in the seventh sewed it up before plate umpire Don Thomas called it for darkness after 7 1-2 frames.

Green spaced four hits on the winners' mound. He struck out five but kept himself in hot water with eight walks.

Maracle also struck out five for Deseronto. He handed out five free passes to first and hit two other batters but was very effective until tiring in the later innings.

An erorr, walk, hit-by-pitch and Cousins' fly got the opening-frame marker. A wild pitch and Hayden's single chased two home in the third after a walk, Cousins' single and a hit batter.

Floyd Crawford clouted his second home run in as many games after Little's base hit in the sixth. Doug Hull bunted safely, two walks filled the sacks and Cousins' fly plated another for a 6-0 lead.

Denny Hayden led off the seventh with a long homer over the right fielder's head. Crawford, Hull and Cousins hit singles and Batchelor a double to make it 11-0.

Deseronto came close in the first two frames but could not solve Green's slants with men on base. A walk and single in the first put two on while two walks and a base hit in the second had the sacks full. Green bore down both times as he did in the eighth after walking two. A sharp double play by Hull, Crawford and Hayden helped him in the seventh.

Pat Maracle had a double for the Athletics while singles went to Reg Garrison, Bud Green, and Randy Brant.

Floyd Crawford and Denny Hayden with a home run and single each paced the Bobcat crew at the plate. Doug Hull, Earl Cousins and Gary Little had two singles each while John Batchelor, Bert Faulkner and Green had the other safeties.

Royals Sweep 4 From Wings; Leafs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals, in the lower regions of the International League all season, are making a determined bid to get into the first division and the playoffs.

Wednesday night the Royals, winners of 11 of their last 14 games, almost blew a 5-0 lead against Rochester before winning 6-4 for a sweep of the four game series with the Red Wings. The Royals are now only 2½ games behind fourth-place Havana, and only two behind the fifth place Wings.

Havana snapped a three-game losing streak and Columbus' five-game winning skien with a 3-2 victory Wednesday night while front-running Toronto regained its nine-game lead over Buffalo with a 6-1 decision over the Bisons. Richmond defeated Miami 4-1.

Rochester chased Montreal starter Ralph Mauriello in the seventh with two straight walks, and touched relievers Bill Kunkel and Ron Perranowski for a walk and two singles for three runs. Nels Chittum finally put out the fire. Mauriello was the winner for a 2-0 record while young Ray Washburn lost.

CUELLAR'S FIFTH WIN

Mike Cuellar threw a six-hitter at Columbus for his fifth win in eight starts. Ray Shearer's single drove in the tying run in the eighth for Havana and Rogelio Alvarez singled home the clincher a minute later. Al Jackson (5-6) was the loser.

Jack Kubiszyn, a Buffalo high school product, haunted the home town fans as he belted two home runs good for three Toronto runs off loser Hank Mason. Buffalo got only two hits off winner Bob (Riverboat) Smith and reliever Frank Funk, but had many opportunities to score from 10 walks and a hit batsman by Smith.

Richmond got its boost from Bill Stafford, who drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double and held Miami to only four hits. He struck out nine and walked one in getting his seventh victory. Ken Hunt's 11th homer drove in the other Vees' run. Rodolfo Arias was the loser.

Members Crush Press Gang

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker got two "hits," Lester Pearson struck out and George Hees homered as members of Parliament crushed the press gallery 16-4 in the annual softball fiasco.

Mr. Diefenbaker's appearance was brief. He hit both balls lobbed to him to open the game.

Liberal Leader Pearson, once a semi-professional, actually played briefly but struck out.

PORT CREDIT (CP) — The league-leading Port Credit Sailors beat Brampton Excelsiors 10-6 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game Wednesday night.

Brian Ahern scored two goals for Port Credit. Singles were picked up by Chub Brown, Jake Rawson, Bruce Sears, Ray Shipway, Florie Tomchishen, Moreley Kells and brothers Pete and Larry Ruse.

Tennis Turns Thumbs Down On Pro Deal

PARIS (AP) — The International Lawn Tennis Federation has turned thumbs down on proposals to open up a limited number of tournaments to professions—at least for the time being.

The idea of open tournaments was beaten by smaller nations. It failed by five votes in a 134-75 tally to gain the required two-thirds majority.

Officials reported that the United States, Britain, Australia, France and Italy all had voted in favor.

Jack Kramer, professional tennis promoter who had hoped to move his troupe into the big national championships, said:

"I notice that the leading tennis nations voted for it. Coming from a democratic nation, I'll just have to accept the verdict, but I'll try to show them they're wrong."

A French proposal for a category of authorized players, who could accept money officially yet retain their amateur status, was referred to a special committee. It will come up with recommendations in 1962.

Jean Borotra, an old French tennis star who still plays in a few tournaments, was elected president.

Walter Alston Picks

National League All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers today filled out the National League all - star games roster and it included the veteran Stan Musial.

Alston also named a staff of 10 pitchers for the two games with the American League all-stars to be played at Kansas City next Monday and at New York Wednesday.

The pitchers Alston selected: Bob Buhl of Milwaukee Braves, Elroy Face, Bob Friend and Vernon Law of Pittsburgh Pirates, Bill Henry of Cincinnati Redlegs, Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel of St. Louis Cardinals, Mike McCormick of San Francisco Giants and Johnny Podres and Stan Williams of the Dodgers.

SENTIMENTAL CHOICE

It was both sentiment and respect for Musial's hitting ability that led to his selection, although the Cardinal veteran, nearing the end of a brilliant career, has played in only 53 games this year.

"Sure, sentiment entered into it," said Alston.

"But, he added: "Musial is the kind of a man I'd like to have around if a situation develops in the ball game where a big hit could win the game. Stan is hitting again and is capable of winning the game for us with a timely blow in the right spot."

Musial is hitting .281 with 39 hits in 139 times at bat. He has batted in 19 runs.

BACKED PLAYERS' PICKS

Players picked the starting lineups, excluding pitchers, for the games and Alston went along with them by naming all of the second choices to the squad.

To supplement the starters, Alston named Smokey Burgess of Pittsburgh and Ed Bailey of Cincinnati as catchers; Ken Boyer and Bill White of St. Louis, Dick Groat of Pittsburgh, Norm Larker and Charlie Neal of Los Angeles, and Tony Taylor of Philadelphia Phillies, infielders; Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, Vada Pinson of Cincinnati and Musial as outfielders.

The National League's starting lineup will have Del Crandall of Milwaukee, catcher; Joe Adcock, Milwaukee, first base; Bill Mazeroski, Pittsburgh, second base; Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs, shortstop; Ed Mathews, Milwaukee, third base; and Hank Aaron, Milwaukee, Willie Mays, San Francisco, and Bob Skinner, Pittsburgh, outfielders.

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Naming of Craig Barracks

PICTON — In an impressive ceremony, attended by many leaders in military life, the new barracks area at Camp Picton was named "Craig Barracks," in honor of Col. C. S. Craig, DSO, OBE, MC, deceased.

Ceremonies included the unveiling of a stone cairn with suitable inscriptions.

About 400 guests were present when Major General H. A. Sparling, CBE, DSO, CD accompanied by Mrs. C. S. Craig, inspected the guard of honor. Lt. Col. T. Moore, CD, OC Camp Picton, opened the ceremonies and Mrs. Craig unveiled the cairn, followed by a fanfare of trumpets. Major Gen. Sparling spoke briefly and Mrs. Craig was presented with a bouquet by the Junior Gunner, Camp Picton, Gunner R. J. Leyte.

The guests attending included Mrs. C. S. Craig, widow of Col. C. S. Craig; Major General H. A. Sparling, CBE, DSO, CD, General Officer Commanding Central Command; Brigadier P. A. S. Todd, CBE, DSO, ED, CD, Honorary Colonel Commandant of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery; Major General A. E. Potts, CBE, ED, of Kingston; Major General W. H. P. Elkins, CB, CBE, DSO of Kingston; Brigadier D. Storms of Richmond Hill, former commandants of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (Anti-Aircraft), former Commanding Officers of the 1st light Anti-Aircraft Regiment Royal Canadian Artillery and serving and retired officers, NCOs and men of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, as well as many old friends of Colonel and Mrs. C. S. Craig from Toronto, Ottawa, Cobourg, Kingston, Picton and other areas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at both the officers' mess and sergeants' mess, RCSA (AA) Camp Picton.

The late Colonel Charles Stuart Craig, DSO, OBE, MC, was born in Cobourg, Ontario, on January 1, 1892. He enlisted in the 14th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery as a lieutenant on the 1st of October, 1911. He proceeded overseas with the 1st Brigade Canadian Field Artillery on September 23, 1914. On the 9th of June 1915 he was wounded in action, and again severely wounded on the 15th of June 1915. For most distinguished action and gallantry on the 15th of June, 1915, using an 18 pounder gun in the trenches with great effect, destroying 40 yards of enemy parapet, two machine guns and a stretch of 75 yards of wire entanglement, he was awarded the Military Cross.

On his return to duty he was promoted to the rank of captain. After serving as aide-de-camp to the Officer Commanding Artillery, he was promoted to the rank of major to command the 30th Battery, 8th Army Field Brigade, Canadian Army Field Artillery on the 12th of July, 1917.

For outstanding gallantry and devotion to duty during his command of 30th Battery, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

Colonel Craig returned to Canada 27th March, 1919. He was appointed to the permanent active militia on April 1, 1920. After attending an Anti-Aircraft Instructors' Course in England in 1936 he was posted to Halifax as an instructor in gunnery. He was appointed Commanding Officer of the first Canadian Anti-Aircraft Artillery unit—4 Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, formed in 1937 at Kingston, Ontario. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in April 1938 and was appointed Officer Commanding District Establishment Royal Canadian Artillery in Halifax.

OPENED PICTON RANGES

During his period of command of 4 Anti-Aircraft Battery Royal Canadian Artillery, Colonel Craig brought his unit to Picton Camp and opened up the first Anti-Aircraft Artillery practice camp in Canada at Point Petre, Prince Edward County. During this period Colonel Craig made many friends in the Picton area. The practice camp he established in 1938 is still in existence at this date.

On September 13, 1939, Colonel Craig was appointed to Command Halifax Fortress and promoted to the rank of Colonel. On June 16, 1946, the late Colonel Craig retired to reside in Cobourg until the time of his passing in September 1953.

In addition to the Distinguished Service Order and Military Cross, Colonel Craig was mentioned in dispatches on two occasions and was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Order of the British Empire.

'Miss Supertest' In Picton On July 20

PICTON—Miss Supertest III, Canadian defender of the Harmsworth Trophy on Picton Bay, August 19-20-22, will arrive in Picton on July 20, according to an announcement made today by R. W. Hart, Commodore of the Prince Edward Yacht Club, and chairman of the Harmsworth committee.

Driver Bob Hayward is bringing the champion craft to try out the course on the Long Reach, east of Picton and iron out any kinks, Mr. Hart stated he had been informed. It is expected the famed craft will be here a week, and longer, if weather necessitates. The Yacht Club members are rushing launching facilities to completion for this visit.

Mr. Hart stated that many reports of high admissions to be charged at the race of Miss Supertest against three U.S. challengers, are not true. Admission for adults is one dollar. With a five dollar membership, a driver with car can attend all three days and has have parking space as well. All facilities necessary for handling a great crowd are being arranged, he stated.

AT THE McCARTHY AND BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN THEATRES Charles Herbert and Murvyn Vye indulge in some swordplay. Charles plays the role of a young lad who finds himself aboard Blackbeard's pirate ship, and Vye plays Blackbeard. "The Boy and the Pirates," a United Artists release in Eastman Color and Perceptovision, will open starting tomorrow at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. 2nd action-packed new feature is "Outlaw's Son," with Dane Clark and Lori Nelson.

AT THE PARK — Charles Chaplin carries out his comic antics even amidst the mud of France's trenches in the First World War. "Shoulder Arms" is one of three Chaplin comedies that make up "The Chaplin Revue" which will open tonight at the air conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program, in Cinemascope and Technicolor, "The Last of the Fast Guns," starring Jock Mahcney, Gilbert Roland and Linda Cristal.

AT THE BELLE — Jane Fonda, making film debut, and Anthony Perkins, star in Joshua Logan's "Tall Story," from Warner Bros. The film version of the bright Broadway comedy also stars Ray Walston, Marc Connelly, Anne Jackson and Murray Hamilton, and is playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — One of the most remarkable fillies ever bred in Canada scored the 19th victory of her career Wednesday as she captured the $8,500 Nassau Stakes at New Woodbine Park. Four - year - old Wonder Where, owned by Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, has started in 32 races and only once has failed to earn part of the purse.

She defeated Yummy Mummy by a length and one half. Priority Miss finished third.

Irish Luck

TORONTO (CP) — Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., was the only golfer in the Canadian Open to make money Wednesday. Playing in the first round of the 72-hole $27,000 tournament, he picked up a Canadian dollar bill on the 17th fairway.

H. Thommen of Switzerlnd, president of the Federation International Football Association.

Sport in Brief

SHELVED BY LOST NAIL

BOSTON (AP) — Righthanded pitcher Dave Hillman has been put on the Boston Red Sox disabled list. He lost the nail on his right forefinger when he tried to bunt against knuckleball artist Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore Orioles Monday. He may be out the rest of the season. The Sox are bringing up righthander Earl Wilson from Minnepolis.

STILL UNBEATEN

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Unbeaten Luis Rodriguez protected his perfect record Wednesdy night by winning unanimous decision over former welterweight champion Virgil Akins. Rodriguez, the top challenger for the title, was in trouble only in the third round when he stopped a hard right. Akins spent the other seven rounds backing away from the 23-year-old Cuban.

UNDAUNTED BY QUAKES

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Jorge Alessandri reaffirmed Wednesdy that Chile will stage the 1962 World Cup soccer tournament despite the erthquakes which devastted the southern part of the country in May. "Chile will fulfill its legitimte aspirations," Alessandri wrote A.

She's Pretty, Wise and Witty Liked by Sinatra, Presley

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Juliet Prowse, born in Bombay and brought up in South Africa, has managed to beguile both Frank Sinatra and Elvis Presley. Meet her and you see why.

She is 23, but wise and witty. She has a pretty face and a dancer's frame. Although she has been in the United States only 18 months, she can speak the idiom equally well with Presley's mountain boys and Sinatra's hep crowd.

To use Frank's phrase, she's a gasser.

Producers and critics seem to think so, too. She drew raves for her work in her first Hollywood film Can-Can.

She did enough to win the lead opposite Elvis in his comeback film, G. I. Blues. Inevitably, his interest became more than professional and they did some dating during the film. This was while Sinatra, who had been escorting her regularly, was on a trip to the Orient.

When the three met afterwards on the set of G. I. Blues, it was a tribute to her diplomatic skill that she managed to avoid a clash between the two singers. She is able to juggle both dates without conflict. Until lately, everybody considered her Frank's girl.

"I'm not going steady," she said. "I see Frank quite a bit. . . I've also had dates with Elvis."

After All, What Difference? You Can Always Turn Dial

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—After the turmoil of political convention coverage ends, NBC executives will sit down with Frank Blair and thrash out this problem:

Should a newscaster also appear in TV commercials?

Blair, who does the newscasting for Today, has been in several huddles with network executives and there were rumors that some of the talk was tough.

"It wasn't, and isn't," Blair says.

The network got worried about the situation because it was thought the public might have some doubts about newscasts done by a man who also acts as spokesman for advertisers. NBC sent a memo to chieftains and upper echelon talent which said, in substance, cut out any activity that could be interpreted as a conflict of interest.

MANY CLIENTS

Blair, sometimes referred to as th millionaire announcer ("Not true," he says, "the government gets most of it") has been busy as spokesman for four advertisers other than those on the Today show.

There was a question of whether this association with commercials hurt his image as a newscaster.

"I've never got any condemnation from the public about commercials," says Blair. "It would be interesting to know what the public attitude is."

Blair says he has been careful about choosing clients, adding "I wouldn't do a commercial for anything I didn't feel was dignified and that I wouldn't buy. I don't think doing commercials reflects upon my status as a newscaster. But the question is, what is in the public mind?"

That remarkably zany man with the moustache, Ernie Kovacs, (10:30 p.m.—ABC) is scheduled to vanish Thursday, Aug. 4, for the summer. In the time slot will be — guess what?—silent movies.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, July 8

General tendencies: Today's full moon brings some quick action where all kinds of conditions from the past are concerned, especially as stated for your own sign following. Make sure that you do attend to all unfinished business and wind up new deals and arrangements that you want to be in effect for a considerable period of time to come.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Much activity in the business world will bring excellent benefits today, plus added prestige. Increase good will, which is very important at this time. Get together with higher - ups in P.M. for recreation.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A fine day to go on a trip or look into new outlets, or to make definite plans for the future. At any rate, get out of that dull routine. Look into your paper for ideas and plan your vacation wisely, with an eye to cost.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Endeavor to come to a better understanding with creditors or with whomever you have contractual relations. Be sure you handle all tax, security, private obligations wisely. P.M. reach greater rapport with loved one.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — It is possible now to know what your relative position is with all persons vital to your welfare at this time. Make any changes that you deem necessary. Entertain associates in P.M. and gain needed prestige, good will.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Much can be accomplished by laboring diligently now and fine new contacts can also be made. Be sure you get an early start. Co-workers will co-operate with you and if you are specific with your views and ideas, this can be a very fruitful day.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— You arise feeling very happy and are able to go after what you most desire and meet with success. An especially fine day for shopping, too. P. M. make it a point to go out and have fun at favorite hobbies.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Get your immediate surroundings in better order now. Add articles of charm and comfort. Then put that constructive idea to work that will bring you a greater income in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — The very articles you need can be found quite easily today, if you get an early start looking for them. Then look into more effective ways to operate so that associates can also benefit. Be alert, keen.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is possible now to find more efficient methods of operating so that you can realize a far greater income, and very likely a real abundance. P. M. take treatments to improve health — knees, throat, especially.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure you dress nicely in A. M. Then off to confer with associates or customers and make real progress in all business affairs. Be specific, come to perfect understanding. P. M. fine for social pleasures.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — By analyzing the most fundamental affairs of your life today, you will be able to adjust them to your best advantage. Don't neglect to show gratitude to those who are loyal to you and help them to advance, also.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — By getting together with intimates, you will be able to work together or make constructive plans for a more successful future. Then go out together in the evening and make every effort to be charming and fun to be with.

If your child is born today ... there will be much energy in this nature, and if you give as fine a practical and spiritual education as possible, the success here will be quite remarkable, especially where business is concerned. New methods will also be found that will benefit humanity, so you must early teach to be ethical above all things. Then the fine promise in this chart can be realized fully.

Tired, Rundown; Limbs, Joints Sore, Painful

Also Suffered Daily With Indigestion. Says He Got First Real Relief by Taking Syntona.

Many people who suffered from Faulty Digestion, Backache, Rheumatic Pains, and rundown conditions tell of the grand relief they got by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound.

"Gave Quick Relief"

Mr. Ovide Beauvais, 315 McKinley Street, Sarnia, Ontario, said in a recent report:

"I had rheumatic pains for years in my limbs, joints and muscles. They were stiff, sore and painful. Also, my digestion was very bad. I was troubled with gas, indigestion, and would belch up hot, sour liquids after almost every meal. Often I couldn't get my proper sleep and I was always feeling tired.

"I read about Syntona helping so many people and decided to try it. Before the first bottle was finished I felt better, so I kept on taking it and now I enjoy relief from the rheumatic pains, my digestion is good. I eat better and feel like a different person.

Why not let this great herbal medicine help you, too? It is pleasant to take and results are really surprising.

Syntona is sold and recommended by Dolan The Druggist.

8 Sons Buy Shares in Farm To Solve Manpower Shortage

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Frank Cook solved the manpower shortage on his dairy farm: He had nine sons and sold eight of them shares in the business.

In 1929 Frank and his wife purchased a 39 - quart milk route. Since then they have expanded the business to 4,500 quarts a day and added a farm of 150 purebred Guernseys.

The business is run as a limited company with Mr. Cook as president and his wife as vice-president. Between them the couple hold 104 of the company's 200 shares. Eight of their sons, all working hands in the dairy business, are members of the board of directors.

As each son became of age, he was given 12 shares, valued at $100 each and a down payment on a home. In most cases this meant buying an adjoining house and property and adding it to the main farm.

Each son receives a weekly salary, all the farm produce he needs and a share of the profits. Last year the bonus came to $2,000 ech.

Each son has a specific job. The eldest, Frank, 46, is the herdsman, Ken, 37, and Steve, 2C, manage the dairy, and Hugh, 35 is bookkeeper. Arnold, 34, Neil, 28, Joe, 23, and Bill, 22, operate milk routes as does a grandson, Frank Jr.

The ninth son, Robert, lives in Truro and works as a salesman for a dairy mix company. He says the family business is one of his best customers.

No Nudes Bad 'Nudes' For Academy

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Six nude girl models went on strike for more pay right smack in the middle of final exams at Turin's art academy.

The models were posed. The students were plying pencils and brushes. Professors and examination commissioners were quietly walking around, looking.

Suddenly, the models broke their poses and began dressing. One of them said:

"Our pay is miserable. We don't get enough to buy a dress in six months."

"You don't need dresses," a student commented.

The academy's president promised to consider the models' demand that their pay be increased to 90 cents an hour from 56 cents.

The models then slipped out of their clothes and the examination continued.

CONGO GOVT. MAKES PEACE WITH REBELS

Italy Will Use Power To Halt Violence

Premier Accuses Reds Of Inciting Strikes

ROME (AP) — Italy' pro-Western government today threatened tougher police action unless the Communists halt a wave of violence that has claimed seven lives and injured hundreds.

Premier Fernando Tambroni accused the Reds of using anti-fascism as a front for an attempt to seize power and he warned the government would do its "full duty" to restore order.

The Communist-led Confederation of Labor (CGIL) called a nation-wide 10-hour general strike this afternoon in protest against "police brutality." Non-Communist unions charged the CGIL with striking for "political motives" and said they would ignore the call.

A Red-called walkout flopped in Rome Thursday. But in the Red belt around Reggio Emilia, Bologna and Modena it brought commercial and industrial activity to a standstill.

FIVE KILLED

The wave of rioting, in which more than 500 demonstrators and 200 policemen have been hurt began two weeks ago and reached its bloodiest pitch in street fighting Thursday in the northern industrial city of Reggio Emilia. Five rioters were killed and one policeman was critically wounded in an exchange of gunfire in that Red stronghold. About 20 others were injured.

Police said they fired machine-guns into the air after the demonstrators used firearms. Authorities said about 2,000 die-hard demonstrators fought from behind barricades and on rooftops, hurling stones and homemade garoline bombs.

Fists flew again in Parliament Thursday night when word reached the capitol of the new violence and deaths in Regio Emilia.

Communist and Fascist deputies shouted "murderers, assassins" at each other. But extra ushers on duty prevented a repetition of Wednesday night's free-for-all, when four legislators required medical attention.

SHOCKS CHAMBER

Tambroni, who is ruling at the head of a shaky stopgap regime, shocked the Chamber of Deputies into silence when he charged "The government can prove that the Communist party is conducting a pre-planned action, both in the national and international fields, aimed at subverting order and democracy."

The Communists and leftists have insisted their demonstrations were aimed at the Fascists.

Leftist booing and shouts interrupted Interior Minister Giuseppe Spataro as he accused the Communists of using the Fascists as a pretext for staging disorders. Spataro reminded parliament that the Olympic Games are opening in Rome in less than two months.

BBG Example Of Principles In Rights Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night that the principles embodied in his bill of rights were reflected in the government's decision to establish an independent board to regulate broadcasting in Canada.

He told the Commons that the rights and freedoms defined in the bill are "the essence of legislation, past, present and future." Parliaments of the future would be unable to deny these rights and freedoms to anyone.

(Government legislation in the Act of 1958 established the Board of Broadcast Governors as an independent regulatory body for all Canadian broadcasting.)

Cuba Rejects Protests of Property Grabs

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba Thursday night rejected British and American protests against seizure of the British-Dutch Shell refinery and the American-owned Esso and Texaco oil refineries.

In separate notes to Ambassadors Stanley Fordham of Britain and Philip Bonsal of the United States, the Cuban foreign ministry defended the takeover as legal.

Fidel Castro's government charged the foreign oil companies were trying to "return Cuba to colonial dependence on foreign economic interests."

All three refineries had refused to process Soviet crude oil acquired by Cuba under its sugar-for-oil barter agreement with Moscow. The companies said they could not desert their traditional sources of supply in Venezuela.

Boy, 9, Drives Mother, Sister To Safety

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—A nine-year-old boy drove his mother and sister to safety in a truck Thursday before a spreading [illegible] fire destroyed his home.

Paul Spicer of Westbank, 10 miles southeast of here, had never driven before but managed to start a half-ton pickup truck and drive away with Mrs. John Spicer and his four-year-old sister.

NEW CONSTITUTION

PRAGUE (Reuters) — The Czech Communist party Thursday unanimously approved a new "socialist" constitution which gives the Czech republic a new name—the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic. The state emblem of a yellow lion on a red shield will be replaced by a yellow lion on a red five-pointed star.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies were clear in most of Ontario Thursday night and temperatures fell to near 55 though the Muskoka and Haliburton areas dropped to the mid-40s. Showers occurring in most of the Timmins-Kapuskasing and White River regions during the night by morning had moved into the Kirkland Lake, Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions. There is a steady warming trend.

DIVORCE TWINS READY TO LIFT THEIR BLOCKADE

Will End Filibuster If Rules Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — The CCF's divorce twins — Frank Howard and Arnold Peters—are ready to lift their blockade against the 450-odd divorce bills in the Commons under certain circumstances.

Mr. Howard, member for Skeena who has alternated with Mr. Peters, MP for Timiskaming, in delaying passage of the bills, said in an interview that the blockade will be lifted if an effort is made to keep Parliament in session only to handle divorces.

He said the proposal offered the government previously for ending their delaying tactics still stands. They have urged the government to enable federal courts to handle Quebec and Newfoundland divorces—where there are no provincial divorce courts—or at least to undertake a study of ways of relieving Parliament of this job.

The government could prorogue Parliament as soon as all government legislation is disposed of, leaving the divorce bills unpassed. But to keep Parliament in session to deal only with divorce bills would require a change in the rules.

If a rule change isn't made and Parliament continues to sit after government business is cleared from the order paper, Mr. Howard said he and Mr. Peters are prepared to continue their filibuster on divorce.

As the rules now stand, divorce bills then would be debated for a full day on Mondays and for an hour on Tuesdays and Fridays. Other days would be given to non-government bills affecting the public generally and to motions sponsored by MPs anxious to get debate on any public question.

To give divorce bills precedence in debate on days other than Mondays would require a motion to suspend the rules or a request for unanimous consent.

The motion would be debatable and afford Mr. Howard and Mr. Peters a chance to outline their alternatives to the present method of handling Quebec and Newfoundland divorces.

Mr. Howard said that once such a motion was adopted there would be no further delaying action.

However, he said he would refuse consent to a request to give divorce bills precedence through the non-debatable device of asking for unanimous consent of the Commons.

While there still is government legislation on the order paper, Mr. Howard said, the delaying action will continue.

Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax), chairman of the Commons private bills committee and nominal sponsor of the divorce bills, has said he believes Parliament will continue sitting to deal with divorce bills after all government legislation has been passed.

He also said a debatable motion to suspend the rules and put divorce bills ahead of the remaining non-government legislation is a reasonable compromise.

Pearson Bubbles With Enthusiasm Over Liberal Gains in Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester B. Pearson Thursday night bubbled over Liberal party gains in Canada and called for a party drive "from the ground up" to win the next federal election.

"The Tory government has lost a lot of ground in this country," the national Liberal leader said on the CBC's free-time political program, The Nation's Business.

"It now is up to us who are Liberals to show that we are qualified to occupy that ground—to show that we have both the policies and the people to replace the present ineffective and fumbling government when the time comes for another election."

He twitted the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties for exulting over what they "rather foolishly" thought was the virtual disappearance tf the Liberal party from the Canadian political scene.

"They were celebrating too soon," said Mr. Pearson, pointing to Liberal victories in Quebec and New Brunswick provincial elections and a Gallup poll showing a drop in Conservative support and an increase in Liberal backing.

"If I may break into baseball talk, in two of these elections—Quebec and New Brunswick—the Liberals won with home runs, and in one—Saskatchewan—the Tories struck out," said the former semi-professional baseball player.

He said the Liberal party must and will create new ideas and new policies for peace, freedom and work platform for election time.

He pointed to a conference on national problems to be held at Queen's University, Kingston, Sept. 6-10 to discuss problems facing Canada — unemployment, defence, external affairs, social security and others.

This conference will set the stage for the Ottawa rally Jan. 9-11 next year of "all liberally-minded Canadians" to formulate the party's policies.

The statements were included in a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mexico Solidly Behind Cuba Says Govt. Party Spokesman

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A congressional spokesman for the ruling political party says Mexico is solidly backing the Cuban people against the United States. Senators and deputies gave him rousing cheers.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was silent on the statement made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the permanent commission of Congress.

Sources close to the president said they felt the statement represented the view of a spokesman for the legislative branch and not the executive, which is responsible for Mexico's foreign policy under the constituton. But his speech was billed as an explanation of the basic policies of Lopez Mateos' government, and it seemed most unlikely he would have spoken without consulting government officials.

Sanchez Piedras told a congressional caucus "it appears that our northern neighbor (the United States) is closing the doors of its friendship and understanding in the face of the yearnings of the Cuban people to live in liberty and economic independence."

"We, the representatives of the people of Mexico, repeat to the Cuban people our same attitude of solidarity and we wish to tell them that we are certain that their right to live in social justice and economic liberty will have to prevail in this continent in the hope of peace and reciprocal friendship."

The congressional leader said he was speaking for the party of revolutionary groups, which has an overwhelming majority in congress and runs almost all phases of Mexican political life.

Sanchez Piedras' statement was certain to find no favor with Mexico's sugar industry, which hopes to supply the United States between 175,000 and 200,000 tons of the 700,000 tons of sugar President Eisenhower cut from Cuba's quota for 1960. Mexico's sales to the United States now amount to about 62,000 tons a year, and are at the world price, without the subsidy of two cents a pound the United States pays Cuba.

'Frightening' Jump in Jobless In U.S. Has Occurred--Meany

LOS ANGELES (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany predicted to Democratic convention platform drafters today that government unemployment figures will show a "frightening" jump of nearly 1,000,000 during June.

This increase, he said, would be the largest May-to-June jump in the jobless total since the end of the war.

Urging government policies keyed to stimulating greater economic growth, Meany said the United States is on the road to stagnation, not to growth.

Other sources indicated they expect the jobless figure will jump from 3,500,000 to 4,500,000 and the unemployment rate to soar to about 5½ per cent of the American work force.

Meany's criticism of present economic conditions was made in testimony for a convention resolutions committee which has indicated it will endorse a plank promising to stimulate the economy.

In similar testimony before the committee Thursday, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers said economic policies of the Eisenhower administration have slowed industrial growth to a point where the future of the U.S. is threatened by a more rapid Communist expansion in this area.

Meany's unemployment forecast and warnings of possible further downturns took platform attention for the time being from a potentially explosive tussle over a civil rights plank.

Nearly 40 witnesses appeared before the drafters Thursday to demand that the party pledge itself to use of full powers of the federal government — legislative and executive as well as the courts — to eliminate racial discrimination in schools, employment, housing and other fields of life.

This demand brought a warning from Senator Spessard L. Holland of Florida that a plank of this nature would drive many southerners from the party.

President David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers Union joined Meany in expressing concern over unemployment.

"The steel industry," McDonald said, "is in a depression. Nearly half of its capacity lies dormant. It is expected to fall even more. . . . It is rightfully said that as steel goes, so goes the nation. It is indeed a barometer of our entire economy."

Combines Hearing Enlivened By Fast-Talking Professor

OTTAWA (CP)—A fast-talking professor who describes himself as a legal theoretician and has a flair for political infighting has become the star witness of the Commons banking committee in its study of government amendments to the Combines Investigation Act.

Professor Maxwell Cohen, 49-year-old acting dean of law at McGill University, enlivened the committee Thursday after weeks of dreary hearings featuring arguments among its MP members with little attention for the witnesses.

He appeared at his own request.

With a torrent of words which left Hansard shorthand reporters throwing up their hands in frustration at the speed, he gave the committee a 90-minute dissertation on the development of anti-trust law since the 16th century.

He said he strongly supported the idea that when an anti-trust suit is launched the courts should have power to order dissolution of a combine.

But this may not be within the constitutional power of Parliament, he suggested.

He said the courts would only be able to order dissolution of a merger or combine after proper hearing, and then would have a final say when they completed the anti-trust case.

Mr. Cohen said Parliament should go easy on major changes in anti-combines law at this time.

"Problems in the Canadian economy are quite different from what they were a few years ago."

He cited unemployment with a rising national income, international competition for markets, and economic relations with the United States complicated by defence.

Board Begins Railway Dispute Solution Quest

MONTREAL (CP) — A three-man conciliation board today began the thankless task of seeking an acceptable solution to Canada's largest labor dispute—the contract disagreement between the railways and their 120,000 non-operating employees.

Before beginning their study of about 1,500,000 words of testimony given before the board during 25 days of public hearings which ended Thursday, the conciliators were to meet privately today with four or five representatives from each side of the dispute.

The board's report is expected to be presented to the minister of labor within a month. It will not be binding on either side.

At issue is the union demand for a 25 cents-an-hour increase over their present average hourly wage of $1.77, with the increase spread over a two-year contract.

The railways contend the non-ops — all those employees performing off-train tasks—are already adequately paid and that they cannot afford any wage-increase, much less the $65,000,000 annually they estimate the demands would cost.

REFUSE REQUEST

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) The government announced today that the Congo Republic has turned down a South African request to maintain consulates in the newly-independent state.

Heavily-Armed Soldiers Halt Terrified Whites; Foil Plot On Premier's Life

Lumumba Says Group of Europeans Who Plotted Assassination Arrested

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (Reuters)—Mutinying army troops today wrested a promise from Premier Patrice Lumumba's government to dismiss all white officers.

Lumumba's office announced the new policy, which could open the way to a quick settlement to an army mutiny. The mutiny led early today to hundreds of Europeans—mostly Belgians — fleeing this former Belgian colony for Brazzaville, capital of the former French colony which lies across the Congo River.

The question of white officers was a key factor in sparking the mutiny.

The statement also said a "group of Europeans" who tried to assassinate the premier has been arrested.

IN CONTROL

Lumumba appeared firmly in control at the end of the day, ending fears of a full revolution in the Congo, which gained independence from Belgium June 30.

The statement climaxed a day of conflicting reports about a new army mutiny or revolution in the new republic.

The troops began the mutiny Tuesday in an effort to get rid of their white Belgian officers.

According to today's agreement, a Congolese general will head the army and Lumumba will be defence minister.

After negotiating with the rebels, Lumumba called a cabinet meeting where it was agreed to accept the terms and form a national Congolese Army.

Tough, heavily-armed Congolese troops today halted panic-stricken white residents from leaving Leopoldville, capital of the new Congo Republic.

With fixed bayonets, they blocked the road to the airport and stopped ferryboats after hundreds of Europeans had fled in the early hours across the river to Brazzaville.

The troops also moved into the international telephone exchange and cut off most communications with the outside world.

The white residents were trying to flee from this country to avoid being arrested.

Baron Jean van den Bosch, Belgian ambassador in the Congo, tried to warn all Belgian women and children by radio to evacuate Leopoldville. By mid-morning, his warning had not been broadcast.

Some Ferryboats which had already started across the river were forced back by the Congolese troops.

A crowd of Negroes gathered at the port hurled insults at the stranded women and children. They shouted to the troops: "Arrest them, arrest them."

The panic among Europeans began when reports circulated that a revolution had broken out among the Congo Negroes. Some Belgians fled across the river and others sought refuge in the Belgian Embassy.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (CP) — Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens said two companies of troops would be sent to the Congo today to reinforce Belgian Army units already there.

Eyskens made the announcement after an hour-long cabinet session.

The troops to be sent will be drafted from Belgian units stationed in West Germany.

Some 2,000 Belgian paratroopers remained in the Congo after it was granted independence a week ago.

Eyskens said that according to messages received from the Belgian Embassy radio in Leopoldville there were no reports of casualties.

NEGOTIATE WITH REBELS

The embassy reported that President Joseph Kasavubu was negotiating with the mutineers and that there was a "lull" in the situation.

"All possible measures" have been taken for the protection and repatriation of Europeans, the embassy said.

The companies, each consisting of 120 men, will join four other companies of Belgian troops stationed in the Congo. The men were to leave later today.

Belgium retained the right to base troops in the Congo after independence June 30.

ARMY MUTINIES

Eyskens said the embassy reported about 1,300 Belgians had fled to Brazzaville in the face of army mutiny and reported revolution in the newly-independent state.

Other reports put the number of fleeing Europeans as high as 6,000.

The Belgian State Radio broadcast a report by its correspondent from Brazzaville across the Congo River in the former French Congo. It said there was "mad panic ending in an exodus" in Leopoldville, capital of the Congo Republic.

Earlier today, the radio announced Negro soldiers had seized full control of Leopoldville.

ARREST OFFICERS

A Belgian radio correspondent said Leopoldville is completely in the hands of mutineering soldiers who were hunting out their former Belgian officers and arresting them.

He said about 6,000 Belgians fled by ferry to Brazzaville before the ferry link was cut. The correspondent, Rene Duval, said a soldier stood with a bayonet at his back during the broadcast.

ALLOWED TO LEAVE

The Belgian radio reported that Congolese Army troops controlled Leopoldville, capital of the new African nation which Belgium freed last week, but that the troops were allowing Belgians to leave unmolested after checking their identity papers.

In an earlier broadcast, the Belgian radio said that the native population was driving all white settlers out of the lower Congo region around Leopoldville, but the Belgian government's report indicated this was overdrawn.

A government spokesman, in contact with the Belgian representative in Leopoldville, said just before noon that there still was panic in the Congo capital.

NEED TRAINED MEN

There was no immediate report on the role being played by the new Congo government, led by Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu. Both had made repeated appeals to the Belgian settlers, asking them to stay and help the republic, which is pitifully short of trained administrators and educated personnel.

Thugs Try to Smash Montreal Cafe, Believed Part of Extortion Ring

MONTREAL (CP)—Four hoodlums tried to wreck the Vieux Moulin cafe early today in the latest of a series of night-club troubles police believe to be linked with an extortion ring.

The four raided the Sherbrooke Street night spot about 4 a.m. today and started breaking furniture, police said.

They fled when police arrived but one man, 25 years old, was caught and held for questioning. No one was injured.

Thursday night, police cracked down hard on nightclub racketeers and stepped up a drive to hunt out bank robbery suspects, but their series of raids proved fruitless.

City and provincial police raided four hangouts in the north and east ends but managed to pick up only one robbery suspect, who was later released.

On tough St. Laurent Boulevard, police kept a sharp eye on the hodge-podge of night clubs, cabarets, taversn and cafes for more of the disturbances that have left more than a dozen persons injured in recent weeks.

William Fitzpatrick, assistant chief of detectives, urged club owners and employees to join in exposing members of a protection racket gang that has been causing most of the trouble.

First sign of open trouble in this area came June 30 when five hoodlums barged into the Canasta Cafe and began arguing with two waiters. One waiter was knifed and a s3cond shot in the abdomen. A third man also was shot.

Three men have been charged in connection with the fracas and one is to appear in court today.

Wednesday night, shortly after a group of club owners and waiters threatened to expose the extortionists, the east-end Champlain Club was raided by 15 hoodlums. The ensuing uproar left four persons injured and the club damaged.

However, police described the attack as purely coincidental to the protection racket.

Inspector Russell Senecal, assistant chief of detectives, said the Champlain Cafe raid was by "a bunch of punks who probably had nothing better to do."

MR. K. THREATENS PEACE TREATY WITH E. GERMANY

If West Germans Meet in Berlin

VIENNA, Austria (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev threatened today that Communist countries might sign a peace treaty with East Germany in September if the West German parliament meets in West Berlin at that time, as planned.

Khrushchev made his announcement at a press conference here shortly before he was to fly home to Moscow at the end of his nine-day state visit to this neutral country.

The Kremlin chief said he had information from West Germany that "they are thinking of holding a meeting of the West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament)" in West Berlin in September.

He called this "a provocative idea" and added that he and Communist East German Premier Otto Grotewohl "would consider whether it would be possible at the same time as the Bundestag is meeting in West Berlin to arrange the signing of a peace treaty with the (East) German Democratic Republic."

Khrushchev said this would place the access routes to West Berlin under East German control, adding the West German legislators would have to apply to East Germany for visas to return home.

A meeting of West Germany's Bundestag (lower house of parliament) has been suggested for West Berlin in the fall.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAD THREE CALLS

The local fire department had three calls this morning. Starting off at 1.30 a.m. a call came in from the residence of Hans Vos of Plainfield. Firemen answering the alarm found a short circuit in a radio power cord.

No damage reported however.

The second call of the morning occurred at 4.46 o'clock, in Corbyville when a fire broke out in an automobile belonging to a Ron Sharpe and driven by Mr. D. Carruthers. Some damage was sustained before the fire was extinguished.

At 10.56 a.m. the department sent a truck to put out a rubbish fire at the city dump.

ALL QUIET ON POLICE FRONT

All was quiet on the police front Thursday night, city and provincial police reported today.

OPP investigated a minor accident at Foxboro, but there were no injuries.

OPP are investigating the finding of a rusty submachine gun in the Trent River at Frankford. The weapon was found by 16-year-old Keith Lomas.

TV Values Scarce

Even though this might be called the "off-season" for television sales, there are indications that manufacturers' stocks of this year's models are getting low. This will mean that when the new 1961 models come on the market this fall, this year's TV sets will likely be scarce, and consequently there will not be the usual reduction in prices.

In anticipation of this shortage, Booth Radio and Television Ltd. made a large purchase of this year's models. Since these sets were bought at a special, big-volume price, Booth's are putting them on the market earlier than usual and are offering much more trade-in allowance for your old set.

If you are even considering a new television set, you will be money ahead if you trade now. Drop in to Booth Radio and Television Limited, 170 Front Street. (Opposite City Hall).

Tyendinaga Agent Moved

In a general Dominion - wide shuffle which has seen approximately 90 of the 97 Indian Agents in Canada transferred to different headquarters, Mr. Donald Cassie of Deseronto has gone to Muncey, Ontario.

Mr. Cassie has been succeeded by Mr. Morley McCracken, who comes to Deseronto and the Mohawk Indian Reservation from Muncey.

Mr. Cassie was Indian agent at Deseronto for 11½ years.

For Mr. McCracken the transfer to Deseronto has resulted in his picking up familiar ties in that for some years prior to 1939 he had been Indian agent for the Mohawk Reserve in Tyendinaga.

4-H Members Make Tour of Hastings County

Over one hundred and fifty 4-H members representing both the agricultural and homemaking clubs of Hastings County visited several places of interest in their own county. This tour was organized and conducted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the local 4-H Club leaders.

Each year the 4-H members take an educational tour to some point of interest, such as the St. Lawrence Seaway, Thousand Islands, Ottawa, or the Ontario Agricultural College; but this year they decided to learn more about their own county. Thus, early on June 28, the 4-H members from North Hastings and from South Hastings met at Madoc to start on what proved to be one of the best tours.

The first place of interest that the members saw was the Marmoraton Mines at Marmora. Here they saw how the iron ore is mined from the huge open pits; heard how it is processed and had the various equipment explained to them. Possibly what impressed many was the enormous piles of rock that has to be removed in the process.

Bata Shoe Company proved to be all that the group had expected. The friendly hospitality with which they were greeted was obvious throughout the plant. Little did the group realize how many different processes are being carried on in the factory. The tour of Batawa made each more aware of how much more beautiful a place can be when all co-operate.

The Trenton Air Station was viewed with great interest. For many it was the first time to be in any aeroplane and having the transport plane explained to them was a highlight for all. Here they also saw a demonstration on how manoeuvrable a helicopter can be.

The last place to tour was the Dominion Science Service Entomology Laboratory at Belleville. Here they saw how various tests are being performed and how many insects can be and are beneficial.

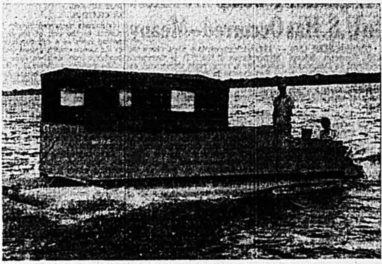
VACATION HOME . . . for two weeks the house-float shown above, is home for the Sutherland family of Peterborough. This is their second summer of "house-floating" and it will not be their last.



ON THE WATER . . . Above the "house-float" may be seen at speed on the Bay of Quinte. Powered by a 40-horsepower Evinrude engine it is capable of speeds up to 20 miles an hour through almost any kind of water.

Peterborough Pair's Unusual House Boat Pays Visit Here

Anyone casually wandering about the harbor during the past couple of days may have noticed a rather unusual looking craft tied up alongside the Government Dock. Eight feet wide by 28-feet long, the craft looked much like a overgrown matchbox set on two pontoons. The forward portion was covered by canvas which added to the blunt appearance.

Awkward though the craft may appear at first sight it seems that it is a very seaworthy unit and the comments of its owners, Dave and Peggy Sutherland of Peterborough, give much credit to it. Taking a two-week vacation to the Thousand Islands, the Sutherlands, including daughter Patty Ann, age 12, and son Jon, age three years, are living aboard this craft which is known as a "House Float" built by the Russell-Hipwell firm of Owen Sound.

The craft draws but eight inches of water and, with a 40-horsepower Evinrude outboard motor cruises at 12 to 13 miles an hour with a top speed of aproximately 20 miles an hour, sufficient to tow a water-skier. It is extremely stable in rough water and the Sutherlands crossed Rice Lake last Sunday when the weather was brisk enough to keep all other craft in harbor.

AMPLE LIVING SPACE

The 24-by-8-foot deck allows ample living space for the family of four. Even when space is allotted for a cold -storage chest, a fresh water chest, a two-burner stove, three sun lounges, two deck chairs, a chemical closet and sundry gear such as sleeping bags, there is still plenty of room for moving about. The forward part of the craft has a canvass canopy covering and eight-by-ten-foot area of the deck. It is adjustable in height and may be left up, allowing a person to walk upright under it, or it may be lowered to allow the skipper to look over it in rough weather.

Apart from the above the only other equipment carried is a spare 10-horsepower Evinrude the necessary safety equipment, and three five-gallon gas tanks. The tanks allow for about 7½ hours' cruising time.

Following a brief stop-over in this city, which is Mrs. Sutherland's home town and Mr. Sutherland's former residence when he was with radio station CJBQ, the family headed east yesterday afternoon bound for such ports as Kingston, Gananoque, Alexandria Bay and Clayton, N.Y. They expect to be returning about this time next week and will carry on home to Peterborough via the Trent Canal system.

Keep Pets Away From Bug Sprays Says Council

MONTREAL (CP) — Summer cottagers should keep their pets away from sprays used to kill mosquitoes, says the Canadian Council for Animals' Welfare.

In a statement issued to coincide with the beginning of the vacation season, it says:

"Bushes and grass along roads in the country are being sprayed at night to kill mosquitoes. Any small animal caught sleeping in the grass at the time of spraying is liable to die after terrible convulsions."

The council also appeals to vacationers not to abandon pets.

"Should you not be able to find somebody you trust to take care of it, the only humane treatment is to accompany the pet to a reliable veterinarian and have it painlessly destroyed by hypodermic shot. . . .

"Please do not adopt a pet animal in the country for which you cannot provide in your own home when returning to the city. An animal once adopted should become a permanent member of the family for all of its life."

Grass Tetany Reported In Ontario Herds

TORONTO — An "alarming" number of Ontario herds have reported outbreaks of grass tetany this year, warns Dr. D. C. Blood, scientist at the Ontario Veterinary College.

The disease, sometimes called grass staggers, has been reported mainly from dairy herds with a high number of newly freshened cows.

A shortage of magnesium in the blood causes grass tetany. And apparently the shortage can be influenced by three types of pasture: a high grass mixture; green oat pasture, hay or silage; and pastures that have been heavily fertilized with nitrogen, especially pastures treated with ammonia fertilizers.

"Pastures with a high proportion of grasses have been the main offender this year," said Dr. Blood when contacted at his O.V.C. laboratory. "Grasses contain a different kind of protein than legumes; it releases high rates of ammonia when acted upon by rumen bacteria. In some way the ammonia inhibits magnesium uptake into the blood."

"Pastures that have been heavily fertilized with nitrogen can cause a blood magnesium deficiency in the same way."

Green oats cause a magnesium shortage differently, said the scientist. They contain a high amount of potassium that when eaten in fairly large quantities, apparently slows up magnesium utilization.

"Cows that have been fresh for one or two months are most susceptible to the disease; their intake is higher than other cattle. But heifers, dry cows, and steers can also be affected," he said.

Look for animals that stagger, are balky, fall down or bellow. Some animals exhibit these symptoms for days before entering a convulsion and dying. Others, said Dr. Blood, might go into a severe convulsion and die within ten minutes of showing.

"Control is easy," says the veterinarian. "Feed 2 ounces of magnesium oxide (2 heaped tablespoons) per day per animal. Mix it in the concentrate. Contact your veterinarian if you are suspicious of grass tetany; he will give a preventive injection, or treat affected animals."

Pasture practices should be watched on cold, wet "English-type" springs like this one, suggests Dr. Blood. Keep a little dry hay available in the pastures at all times.

O.A.C. field crosps spokesmen, who were contacted about the outbreak suggest that farmers watch animals on all-grass pastures closely. Take them off if grass staggers show up.

RCAF Veteran Dies in Toronto

Squadron Leader Leonard John Dyte, who retired from the RCAF shortly after the Second World War, died at Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto, it was learned Thursday night.

He was to be buried today at Barrie.

Sqdn. Ldr. Dyte entered the RCAF from the Army in the 1920s as a sergeant - major and drill instructor at Camp Borden, Ont. He was one of the most familiar drill instructors in the early years of the RCAF. The recreation hall at RCAF Station Camp Borden was named after him.

He was well known to many serving and retired RCAF officers in the Quinte district.

Bearers were K. R. Vivian, Gerald Dafoe, Lorne Maracle, Morris Brant, Carman Brant and Alvin McKenzie.

Interment was in Riverview Cemetery, Shannonville.

JOHN O'GORMAN

A well-known resident of Belleville for many years, John O'Gorman, 10 West Moira St., died Thursday in Belleville General Hospital. He was 56 and had been in ill health for three weeks.

Mr. O'Gorman, a bachelor, leaves no known relatives. Born at Dublin, Ireland, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William O'Gorman, he was for many years associated with the Department of Internal Revenue, Income Tax Division, Belleville.

He enlisted in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in September, 1939, and served overseas for five years.

Mr. O'Gorman attended St. Michael's Church and was a member of the church choir.

Resting at the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien, the funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. GEORGE E. FOSTER

A native of the state of Virginia, Mrs. Nancy Catherine Foster, Albert St. Belleville, died Thursday in Panda Villa Rest Home, Trenton, at the age of 90 years. She had resided at the rest home for the past six weeks and had been in failing health for a number of years.

Widow of George E. Foster, who died in 1957, Mrs. Foster was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robinson.

She leaves one son, Earl of Syracuse, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. J. Brockman, Claremont, West Va. and Mrs. F. Boulden of West Virginia; and two brothers, Gordon and Robert Robinson of West Virginia.

Mrs. Foster was a member of Bridge St. United Church.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, 68 North Front St.; the funeral notice appears elsewhere in this edition.

City Commercial Softball Results

Belle Cleaners increased their first-place margin last night with a 14-3 victory over Ellis Printers.

The clubs were even in the hit department with six apiece but eight Ellis errors and seven walks helped the Cleaners to the lopsided victory.

Lum Carson pitched the victory, a five-hitter, while fanning two and walking three.

Larry McMaster started for the losers. He whiffed three and walked seven before Sonny Holoway took over in the fifth. Holoway fanned two and walked none while allowing only one hit over the remainder.

John Casey paced the winners with a double and two singles. Potter had a triple, Whiting and Brooks a single each.

Pete Weston collected two of the losers' hits. Cliff McGrimmon and Jim Ellis had triples and Gary Duggan a single.

The juveniles have scheduled a practice for Prince Charles schoolgrounds Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

IN MEMORIAM

FRIZZONE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Florence May Frizzone, who passed away eleven years this 8th day of July, 1949.

Our mother had a nice way, a pleasant smile,
Helping others she had no guile;
She was generous, kind and true,
On earth she never left anyone blue.
Her helping hands did their best,
Grant her, Jesus, heavenly rest.

—Ever remembered by son Charles and wife Emily Frizzone.

ROSS. — In loving memory of my dear husband, John Albert Ross, who passed away July 8th, 1954.

Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.

—Wife Nellie.

ROSS. — In loving memory of a dear dad, John A. Ross, who passed away July 8th, 1954.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Carol [illegible] son-in-law Ron.

NEHRU WARNS

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru warned in a radio broadcast Thursday night a threatened wages strike by 2,000,000 government employees next week would sabotage the efforts of a "country in travail" when it faced serious problems on the border with Tibet. He said the strike could lead to a weakening of India's defence and economy.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Butcher cattle traded actively this week at prices 25 cents to as much as 50 cents per hundredweight higher at the Ontario public stockyards.

The general quality was good with a sprinkling of grass cattle starting to show up. Cow prices opened on a 50 higher basis but closed on an easier note.

Replacement cattle traded on a seasonal demand while bulls were steady. Veal calf prices were uneven with runner calves selling under pressure.

Hog prices were steady to 50 cents per hundredweight higher over last week's close and sows were $1 higher. Lamb prices were generally unchanged.

Cattle receipts, estimated at 6,200, were some 300 head more than last week and comparable to the same week in 1959. Receipts from Western Canada were nearly double those of last week at 510 and included some fat cattle. Western stock calves totalled 93 head.

Shipments to Eastern Canada slaughterers were the same as last week at three loads and there were no exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 24-25 with odd sales to 25.50; good 23-24; medium 21.50-22; common 18-21; good heifers 21.50-22 and an odd choice to 22.50; medium 20-21; common 17-20; choice fed yearlings 23-24.50 with odd tops to 25; good 22-23; good cows 17-17.50; medium 16-17; common 15-16; canner and cutters 12-14; good heavy bologna bulls 18-18.50; common and medium light bulls 15-17.50.

Replacement cattle: Good handyweight stockers mostly 23-24 with sales to 25; stock calves to 26.50; common and medium ranged from 18-22.

Calves: Good vealers closed at 27-30 with choice at 30-32.50; medium 24-27; common 21-24; boners 12-20.

Hogs Grade A closed at 26; heavy sows 20; lights 22; stags 13 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good lambs 26 on a careful sort; buck lambs discounted $1 per hundredweight; common and medium lambs, including heavies 21-24; sheep 4-10 according to quality.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 29-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Pound sterling $2.75½, down 9-16.

Induct Rev. M. McFarlane As Minister at Tabernacle

Close to 100 members of the congregation and visitors attended the induction of Rev. Morgan McFarlane, B.A., as minister of Tabernacle United Church.

The induction service, held last night at Tabernacle United Church, Church Street, was carried out by Rev. Harry M. Davis, minister of Bridge St. United Church and chairman of the Belleville Presbytery. He was assisted by Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, D.D., of Albert College.

Among those in attendance were Mr. McFarlane's wife, two of his six children, Margaret and Marilyn, and two of his three brothers, who are also ministers.

Mrs. Barkley presided at the organ during the service, which opened with the organ prelude, "Open Thou the Holy Portals."

The call to worship was given by Mr. Davis, followed by the invocation and "The Lord's Prayer." The hymn, "Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens," was sung by the congregation.

Dr. MacKenzie read the Scripture, taken from 1st Peter, 5: 1-4, and John 21: 15-17.

The choir sang as an anthem "O Praise the Lord." This was followed by prayer by Mr. Davis, asking God's blessing on "this servant whom we are welcoming into this charge."

In a brief address, Rev. H. M. Davis welcomed the visitors, in particular Rev. R. D. MacLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, and Mrs. MacLean. He also extended a special welcome to Mr. McFarlane and family on behalf of the Belleville Presbytery and also to his two brothers.

The offering, to be used for Presbytery purposes, was dedicated by Mr. Davis. The offertory organ selection was "Seek Thou the Lord." The congregation then sang the hymn, "Come Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove."

In a solemn ceremony carried out by Mr. Davis, Mr. McFarlane was officially inducted as minister of Tabernacle United Church. The recording steward, Howard Lord, gave the consent of the congregation.

DR. MacKENZIE SPEAKS

Rev. A. E. MacKenzie gave the charge to the minister and the people.

In his address, Dr. MacKenzie outlined the duties and responsibilities of the minister and his congregation. He stressed a minister must make his ministry a means of "awakening the careless, strengthening the faithful, comforting the afflicted, and saving souls." In outlining the many facets of a minister's calling, he said he must also be an administrator, a Christian educator, and a representative of his church in community and ecumenical affairs.

Dr. MacKenzie particularly stressed the importance of preaching and admonished ministers to "preach truth (as found in the Gospel) in love." He said faith in Christ is an "anchor" in a world of insecurity, fear, and chaos, and ministers should instill that faith in their congregation by making their sermons a source of inspiration.

In his charge to the congregation, Dr. MacKenzie said it is the duty of each member to "recognize and assume responsibility for bringing in the Kingdom of God on earth today," through fellowship in the church, community, and the world. They should also uphold and co-operate with the minister in the work God has called upon him to do, he said.

"The most important part of a minister's calling is his relationship with his congregation—there must be a basic core of co-operation," he said. "United, there is no limit to what can be accomplished."

Following prayer, Dr. MacKenzie accompanied Mr. McFarlane to the pulpit. The congregation sang the hymn "Pour Out Thy Spirit from on High." This was followed by benediction given by Mr. McFarlane. The service ended with the organ postlude, "Marche Romaine."

RECEPTION HELD

A reception was held in the church basement for Mr. McFarlane, Mrs. McFarlane, and daughters.

Brief addresses of welcome were given by Howard Lord, Rev. H. M. Davis on behalf of the Belleville Presbytery, and Rev. R. D. MacLean on behalf of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Mr. McFarlane expressed his gratitude, and that of his wife and family to the members of Tabernacle United Church for their heartfelt welcome, to the community, and to the ministers who attended and participated in his induction.

Refreshments were served by members of the Comrade Club under the direction of the president, Mrs. Evan Barlow.

Race Prices Not Exorbitant Says Official

PICTON (Special) — Reports circulating in the Bay of Quinte district that spectators at the Harmsworth Trophy races will be charged exorbitant admission fees by Prince Edward Yacht Club are false R. W. Hart, yacht club Commodore, stated yesterday.

"The public can view these races from selected areas overlooking the course for a general admission price of $1 per adult, with children free. Reserved car parking locations in the same areas are available to the purchasers of $5 tickets which admit car and driver each day of the event. The $5 tickets assure motorists of a parking spot for the possible three days of the races.

"The Prince Edward Harmsworth regatta committee has leased a number of choice locations where public address commentary, food and other services will be available. These areas will be clearly marked by signs, commencing at intersections of Highway No. 2 and 401", Mr. Hart continued. The commodore also pointed out that those who plan to attend the big event should endeavor to secure their admissions in advance so that no mistake would be made in purchasing unauthorized tickets.

The Harmsworth Trophy International speed boat races for 1960 will be held on the Long Reach of the Bay of Quinte over a 2½-mile water course paralleling Highway No. 41 approximately eight miles north of Picton. Races will be held at 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19th and Saturday, Aug. 20th. If a third race is necessary it will be held on Monday August 22.

Ghost From The Past

Nikita Khrushchev, says the Associated Press, "has raised the spectre of a new anschluss."

Could any phrase convey so vividly the difference between today's world and that in which many of us lived a quarter of a century ago?

Probably half of those who read that phrase had no idea what it meant. Of this number, at least half had a valid excuse. They are not old enough to remember the days when anschluss was the key to the world's future, when the question of whether Germany and Austria should unite was dynamite.

Hitler had his way and brought German-speaking Austria under his rule. There were many who felt considerable sympathy for the supporters of anschluss. It was, it was argued, a natural development, uniting people of one tongue and similar traditions.

Today we are a little more wary of the theory that a common language indicates common aims. The Spanish-speaking countries of South America cling to their separate nationalisms. Canada and the United States are willing to share much, but not the same government. The difference between the Germans and the Austrians, particularly between the Prussians and the Austrians, is probably as great, or greater, than the differences between the inhabitants of the various South American republics, or between citizens of the U.S. and Canadians.

But there is another factor that makes anschluss an outdated word in today's world. In Hitler's day there were those who opposed such a union not because it would bring the Austrians under a fascist regime but because, they argued, it would create too powerful a nation in the heart of Europe, disturbing the balance of power.

Khrushchev may rail against anschluss today, and would almost certainly react violently to any effort to achieve such a union, but can we really believe he would fear such a nation? A half dozen more hydrogen bombs and it would be broken. And, by the same token, a Germany without Austria is just as capable of destroying Russia as Germany united with Austria would be. The power to annihilate an enemy nation, though greatly limited in fact, has been vastly widened in theory. It is not the size of the foe, nor even the number of nuclear weapons it possesses, but merely the fact that it possesses an adequate number of such weapons, which makes it formidable.

Anschluss as a political threat is as dead as the Charleston as a country club dance.

Does It Matter?

The Toronto Telegram claims to have identified the woman who appeared on a CBC TV show claiming to be a professional co-respondent in divorce cases. It further claims that she says she made up the story, that she was gratifying a yen to be an actress.

Ross McLean, producer of the program, says that it is difficult to know "whether the co-respondent is telling the truth about having lied or now is lying about having told the truth."

We don't see that it really matters. The fact that there are women who will play the role of co-respondent for a fee is something almost everybody knows but few can prove—like the fact that the world is round or that the moon is not made of green cheese.

We recall a gifted colleague describing the circumstances of his own divorce. "My wife told me she could not put up with my drinking any longer and wanted a divorce," he related. "I said 'It's not so simple; you have no grounds.' She replied 'Humph, the people you run around with you shouldn't have any trouble finding somebody!' Well, I asked around and found somebody who would be co-respondent for a fee."

The present divorce laws are held in approximately the same state of respect as was prohibition. And for the same reason. They are out of tune with the convictions of many people.

Railroads are having trouble making the cost of passenger services meet income but they aren't doing badly when it comes to hauling freight. A Wabash freight left Windsor for eastern points with 125 cars. Six diesel powered locomotive units were needed to pull the cars. (Windsor Star).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

EDUCATION

Recently I heard a college president speaking about the fine education which his institution could give to young men and women. I was tempted to stand up and contradict him. He had told a lie: his college cannot "give" anyone an education. No college can.

Education is like character: it cannot be given, it can only be gotten. No parent or teacher who thinks that he is giving someone an education ever made a greater mistake. The opportunity for education can be given, but not the education itself. That has to be gotten or acquired by the person being conducted. No one else can do it for him.

Education is not a passive process. A very young child learns about the world around him just by being in it; but the older he gets and the more complex knowledge he needs, the more he must put into the process himself. No student learns a difficult subject merely by being exposed to it. He must reach out and take it, study it, absorb it, master it, and make it his own.

Real education means real work. It is often pleasant work, sometimes inspiring work, but it is work. Any student who hopes to become educated needs to face this fact and buckle down.

Cabbies of the World

By Barry Bingham in the Louisville Courier-Journal

One day recently there was an even worse than usual traffic jam in Paris. Horns honked frantically, drivers cursed volubly, policemen perspired desperately.

What had happened? The trouble was traced to a hall where 2,000 taxi drivers were holding a protest meeting. As a gesture of disdain, they had left their cabs parked in all the surrounding streets, there to compound the usual rush hour congestion.

The drivers in their leather jackets, their rakish berets and their peaked caps, with their Gaullois cigarets pasted to their lips, moved the rafters with their rage. The object of their wrath was the municipal council of Paris. That body had passed a new regulation designed to add 2,000 cabs to the old Paris quota of 12,500 and to regulate business hours in the confines of orderly shifts.

The drivers seethed with scorn. Regarding their jobs as a form of highway adventure, as well as a way to make a living, they feel only contempt for the dullness of an eight hour day.

• • •

The voice of the taxi driver is heard in the land, at least in what are called the "civilized" countries. That voice, in fact, carries further than would be expected from the number of cab drivers found in the total population. The man behind the taxi wheel actually speaks for his country, at least to the ears of foreigners.

In the great cities of the world, taxi drivers are a race apart. They establish in the minds of tourists the character of Paris, London and New York, for they are the people visitors see first and most frequently. In smaller communities they are more like the rest of the population, yet they still have a special spark of color.

• • •

Paris taxis and their drivers are an essential part of the urban landscape. Gershwin's "An American in Paris" features the shrill little taxi horns, and their jangling note can stir nostalgia in any traveller who ever saw the Champs Elysees.

Paris cabs are of many models, and so are their drivers. Some of the taxis are new. Others are in the category of sacred antiques, which must surely have helped to ferry reserve troops to the front and save Paris at the Battle of the Marne in 1914.

But all Paris taxi men are alike in one respect: They share the nature of Jehu, who the Bible tells us drove "furiously". Yet traffic accidents in Paris are less frequent in proportion to the number of vehicles than in New York. Where everybody drives at the same made pace, there is a curious element of conformity.

• • •

The Paris cabby tends to be debonair, cynical and fiercely independent. He dwells in a little cloud of garlic and red wine. Confronted with what he regards as an inadequate tip, he can put up a show of scorn that would rival the greatest actor at the Comedie Francaise.

Sometimes his message would seem to be blunted by the fact that his American passenger cannot understand a word of his very special French lingo. But even then he can express more contempt by the mere lifting of his shoulders than an ordinary man can put across in a thousand harsh words.

Paris taxi pilots are nothing if not human and they are apt to soften toward a young couple blatantly in love. They will roll a bold and appreciative eye at an attractive woman. All the same, most of them are solid family men, whose recreations are limited to an evening drink at the corner bistro.

Despite their wicked glances, they seldom present problems to lone young ladies. And though they may look like brigands, they have more the air than the habits of highwaymen. They are almost never involved in criminal charges.

• • •

The London cabby, by contrast, inspires a quite unreasoned degree of confidence. His conversation tends to be philosophical. Some of it, in richest Cockney, is just as unintelligible to the visiting American as the sibilant torrent of his Gallic confrere, but the tone of voice is dignified and soothing. Not all London cabbies are old, but they universally create a grandfather image.

The impression the London driver makes is no doubt due in large part to the appearance of his vehicle. No cabs in the world are so trustworthy and so matronly in their looks as those of London. They positively waddle. Their horns hoot gently instead of screeching. They have a remarkable facility for turning on a dime (or a shilling).

This manoeuvrability and the skill of their drivers was amply demonstrated in wartime London. In the midst of a blackout city, the taxis threaded their way through a maze of streets at exactly the same measured gait they maintain in peaceful daylight.

It is reported that London cabs are now being sold in the United States. Some 50 of them are said to be rolling along the streets of Detroit, New York, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

• • •

The cab drivers of New York are self-conscious "characters". Like their vehicles, they are sharp, bold and brassy. Their speech may be hard to follow, too, with its resonant echoes of Brooklyn, but they are ready to express their views on virtually all subjects.

They especially favor conversation while whizzing through heavy traffic. In order to make a telling point, they must often turn right around and face their nervous fare. An effort by the passenger to command silence in the interest of safety can be a fatal mistake. Hell hath no fury like a Manhattan cab driver scorned and he can express his rage in a maniacal burst of speed.

The New York taxi driver is for some reason considered an oracle, especially on matters political. The businessman from Louisville or Omaha or Oshkosh comes home from a trip to Manhattan and announces that Zilch is a dead certainty to win the next election. Pressed for the source of his information, he will reply with confidence: "Why, all the New York taxi drivers say so."

Dr. Gallup presumably does not poll these modern charioteers exclusively in preparing his figures on public opinion. They impress their views deeply on the public, all the same. The best way for a candidate to create a psychology of victory might be to bribe a flock of cab drivers to proclaim his certain success. The taxicab could easily become the bandwagon of a presidential campaign.

Reporters Tend To Over-Play Petite Blondes

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It was refreshing to read recently that a "mysterious brunette" was being sought in connection with a forgery case. I was getting tired of the standard "blonde sweetie" in daily journalism.

As a former reporter, I am keenly aware of the flexible degress of "blondeness" in such stories. Any woman whose hair is a slight shade lighter than dark brown automatically becomes a "blonde."

If she is dark-haired, such coloration is rarely mentioned, unless her whereabouts are unknown — and then, of course, we have the "mysterious brunette."

• • •

Chalk it up to gallantry if you will, but almost any small and thin woman in the public prints is "petite." A large and angular female is "junoesque." And a woman who is plump to the point of over-ripeness is designated as "curvaceous."

Standards of feminine beauty are incredibly amiable in the journalistic canon. Any woman who does not positively resemble a turkey is "attractive" or "comely," if she is involved in a court case. And any woman whose dimensions are somewhat more appealing than those of a packing crate is called "shapely."

This flexibility, I have found, extends from the esthetic to the economic sphere. On many papers, any house with two bedrooms is considered manorial. A "swank" apartment in town is one for which the tenants pay $50 a month more rent than the reporter who is writing the story.

• • •

Journalism has a tendency — commendable or ludicrous, as you may happen to regard it — to upgrade the financial and social positions of headline figures, as well as their physical charms. The word "society" has become a sour joke in social circles (outside of Boston), since anyone without a prison record can win the coveted designation by little more than giving an elaborate party for some worthy charity.

You may be sure, for instance, that anybody who lives in a tall apartment building with a canopy and a doorman will be described as occupying "posh quarters," even if his apartment is a one-room cage with deficient ventilation and ceilings that would compel a rabbit to lower his ears.

As for "wealthy" in a news story — that carries about the same weight as "comely" in the field of looks. If the motor company hasn't repossessed the car, and the mortgage company has not foreclosed yet — you, my friend, are wealthy.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 8th., 1940.

Belleville welcomes the Canadian Bandmasters' Association now in session here. Bands have a place in the world of mankind and nothing can take their place. In the human heart is the love for music and band music is of a class that everyone likes to hear. Citizens of Belleville have shown through all the years a deep love for bands and band music, for this city has had many bands which have brought distinction to the city. All classes of music and all groups of musicians play their part in the development of the community and a nation. In these war days everyone realizes what martial music means. That is the privilege of bandsmen to furnish the people. Belleville has been signally honored to be selected as the seat of the annual convention, as several other larger cities were seeking the right to honor the Association. The convention will terminate on Sunday with a mammoth band concert at Victoria Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walters visited friends in Ottawa on Monday.

Misses Elizabeth and Barbara Easton and Robert Michaud have returned home after spending a few days in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carre, Dundas Street and Aircraftsman Henry Carre of R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, son of Harry Carre, Esq., of Ottawa were guests of the Misses Miller at Glen Miller for the holiday.

Plumbers Get Flying Pay

Montreal Star

A Vancouver judge is examining a plumbers' arbitration award to see if he has power to set it aside. It is an odd award. It gives plumbers living in Dawson Creek, B.C., air fare and travelling time pay from Vancouver, 500 miles away, when they neither fly nor travel. It gives them $5 a day living allowance on the assumption that they live in Vancouver and work in Dawson Creek in their own homes.

Mr. Justice Wilson should examine this award more closely. He'll probably find that it gives the plumbers air fare to go back to Vancouver for their forgotten tools.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME OLDER PEOPLE GROW CARELESS ABOUT BATHING

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write something for older folks about the importance of bathing?

"My mother-in-law makes her home with us, and she refuses to bathe. She reads your column every day and perhaps an article on this subject would help. — M. N. D."

Sometimes older people grow careless about bathing. In fact, they fairly often do.

It's not too bad an idea to establish some sort of a schedule of baths and at the appropriate time, say "Mother, shall I draw your bath for you now?"

Varying degrees of hints work with some people; with others, hints are a waste of breath and you have to come out and say what you mean.

Sometimes you can bring home a bottle of deodorant and say, "I thought you might like to try that". A deodorant won't do all the work, of course, but it will help. And it will indicate the need for more baths. (Or, if you want to be still more gentle about it, you can say, "I've been using this kind of deodorant. Would you like to try it, too?")

You can make a point of asking for bath robe, night clothes, and underclothes at more frequent intervals, for washing. If you receive a reply of "Oh, they don't need washing", you can say, "Well, they are picking up odor, so let's not take chances".

I guess sometimes you have to come out with the facts without much subtlety, but it depends on the amount of frankness which happens to bless your family.

Remember this, however. Old joints sometimes get arthritic and stiff. Older people may worry about slipping in the tub, or losing their balance. Offer to help them.

These handrails that clamp to the edge of the tub are a help. So are non-slip rubber mats in tubs. And here's still another idea: put a stool, or kitchen chair in the tub (if you have a shower) so an oldster can take a shower sitting down. Sometimes older people skip bathing, not because they don't want to bathe, but because they are apprehensive about slipping and falling.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done about a growth on my elbow? It's smaller than a golf ball, doesn't hurt, and feels soft like there could be water in it. Will soaking it in epsom salts help? — L. P."

Sir, let's face it. You can't tell what to do about it until you find out what it is! If it is a lipoma (common fatty tumor) soaking it won't help. Nor will soaking solve the problem if it happens to be a swollen bursa —which is not too uncommon, and may be painless even though bursitis so often hurts. The gist of my advice is simply this: Doctors are people who are trained to identify bumps and other abnormal conditions.

Mrs. B. G.: The best I can say is that, on the basis of everything I have learned, heard from reliable sources, or observed, there isn't anything we can do to influence whether a child will be a boy or a girl. Theories? Yes, lots of them. Facts? Few!

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee Ill., requesting a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids", enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Cadillacs Need Break

New York Times

"The law, in its majestic equality, forbids the rich as well as the poor to sleep under bridges, to beg in the streets, and to steal bread." — Anatole France.

Personal experience is an indispensable guide to sound legislation. Joseph T. Sharkey, City Council majority leader and long a foe of discrimination, has introduced a proposed law making it "unlawful for any licensee (garage) to refuse for parking or storage any passenger automobile regardless of size." Mr. Sharkey, when wearing another hat, is chairman of the Kings County Democratic Committee and enjoys the homely comfort of a Cadillac limousine with chauffeur, a car 20.4 feet long by 79.9 inches wide, owned by the committee. Mr. Sharkey has twice suffered the indignity of being refused garage parking space because his car is not compact enough.

Naturally, the leader was upset by this bias. The Democratic party is the party of the rich as well as the poor. There must be room for Cadillacs in it. We had been under the impression that official and political cars never parked except in front of the Biltmore, the Roosevelt or a fire hydrant, but Mr. Sharkey's experience disproves this base accumption.

This is an issue of democracy that, as we are fond of saying, transcends partisan politics. The bill has been appropriately referred to the General Welfare Committee. It should be passed by the Council with resounding unanimity. Surely Stanley Isaacs, the lone Republican, will not oppose twenty - four Democrats on this matter of high principle. After all, minorities have their rights, even when they drive up in a Cadillac.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CARRY ON!

There are times with us all, when we feel we just can't go on a foot further. Then is the time for decisions. If we start by adding up our blessings we get a fine start. There are those all around us who are worse off than we are ourselves, If we only knew. Banking courage is like banking money — even at that it brings a greater enrichment.

You can't buy happiness. It has to be earned, and you earn it by distributing it.

To the discouraged I would say: Carry on. Armor yourself with patience. Look to the dawn, and its superb promises. Carry on — and on. Every footfall may become the echo of hope — just a breath's foot ahead. Don't turn back. Learn from the past, but do not allow it to keep tripping you up!

Carry on, and do so with zest and gladness. The dark days only "make a call!" What we want most in life is something to even out our courage, and keep us on the right path, never doubting, never losing each opportunity to improve our spot in life. To carry on means that you must be brave. The great of this earth have made carrying on their guiding star.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

According to the traffic experts, something around ninety per cent of us who dwell in cities go to work the 260 working days of our year by exactly the same route, day in day out, year after year. Whether we go by bus, tram or motor car, we follow the identical path.

"In fact," says a traffic engineer," more and more city people know less and less about their home town than they know about strange cities 500 miles away that they visit for a week once in their life time."

Very few of us are what might be called home-town tourists. Except for city salesmen and others whose business takes them about the city, most of us confine our travels within our native town to visiting friends and relations in a few prescribed places. And we always go there by the same familiar route. Now and again, for the heck of it, we might venture to visit some new shopping plaza on the other side of town that we had seen written up in the papers. But it is with a sense of uneasiness not experienced even when we explore a whole province to the east or west of us that we negotiate the strange streets of our home town.

No: we have certain places we go downtown, certain neighborhood stores, a path to church, a path to the dentist's, and a path to get out of town.

We are villagers, living in a great conglomeration on villages known as a city. Copyright: Canada Wide

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE

The annual Cub and Scout family night was a very happy and pleasant affair, almost a family reunion.

Chairman Fred Furmidge made a brief address of welcome and, with the singing of "The Queen", the program was on its way. Special guests, who devote many hours to this important business of Scouting were introduced: Mrs. Eleanor Blaker, president of the District Boy Scouts Auxiliary, who has been responsible for the formation of many of our auxiliaries; John Middleton, Cubmaster, who with his assistants, produced a Cub pack from zero to a full sized pack of efficient and enthusiastic Cubs in one year, an achievement to be proud of; Scoutmaster Stan Kerr has maintained an active proficient troop for many years without a Cub pack for replacements, an almost impossible task; Mrs. Fred Furmidge, president of Boy Scouts' Auxiliary, and her ladies are doing a magnificent job for the Cubs and Scouts.

MISS RUSH GUEST OF HONOR

Miss E. Louise Rush, Scoutmaster of Cannifton Boy Scouts 50 years ago and school teacher, took us back to the early days of Cannifton, a most, interesting and entertaining address full of amusing anecdotes. As she talked, the struggles and hardships of those days were brought and, with Miss Rush, were relived some of those experiences, so ably and vividly described. The Cubs particularly liked the stories of the students who attended the little red school house. Prompted by Miss Rush, a lively discussion took place between the students of those far-off days, recalling events and happy days spent together. Among those present were May Palmer, Mrs. Annie DeMille, Beatrice Rowlands, Mrs. Cole, Roy Pound, Harry Pound, Doug Brenton, Flossie Lawrence.

Two former Scouts, Sam Palmer and Bob Turner, contributed to the friendly badinage and for a time the older ones became young again, much to the delight of the Scouts and Cubs amazed at these solid citizens proving that children hadn't changed their habits over the years.

Historically, Cannifton is quite important. Miss Rush related how 150 years ago some of the Empire Loyalists settled there. She mentioned names of the earlier settlers, Reed, Caverley, Badgeley, Wright, Fairman, Longwell, Stevens, Thrasher, Chisholm, Brenton, Lazier and Canniff.

Proud names recalling memories of hardship and toil. We owe much to these families.

Addressing the boys, Miss Rush told them that the good training they get from their leaders will stand them in good stead in later years. She told of the recent rescue of nine-year-old Walter Sidos of Flin Flon, Man., who, because he obeyed his father and his instructions received in the Cub pack, is alive and well today.

Miss Rush is a very gracious lady who has dedicated herself to the advancement of children's education and happiness. She still teaches Sunday school and we can only say we are sorry she doesn't live here now. Her free and easy manner of speaking and her evident pleasure in entertaining us endeared her to us all. We sincerely hope her visits will be repeated. She is always sure of a hearty welcome in Cannifton.

TOUR OF EUROPE

Mrs. Doug Dunning showed us many beautiful slides of Sweden, Holland and Denmark. Her running commentary kept us all so interested that we were still wanting more after all the slides were finished. It was the next best thing to an actual trip. Mrs. Dunning has a unique manner of being able to take her listeners with her to these wonderful places. We visited many towns and villages with the Dunning family and shared with them all the amusing, and some not so amusing, things that happened to them. Erecting a tent during a rainstorm, for instance, which in retrospect is funny. Cannifton boys know all about this particular problem.

MISS RUSH LIFE MEMBER

Scoutmaster Stan Kerr presented Miss Rush with a plaque on which was mounted a number of Boy Scout emblems and announced this Miss Rush has been made a Life Member of the Cannifton-Corbyville Boy Scout group. We hope Scouter Rush will keep with pride the plaid neckerchief of the group. Mrs. Fred Furmidge gave Miss Rush a Boy Scout brooch and expressed the hope that these small gifts would serve as a memento of her visit and remind her of our sincere thanks.

The chairman, in closing, said how grateful we were to Mrs. Dunning and Miss Rush for making this family social an evening to remember and talk about.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Furmidge and her ladies, which were appreciated very much and made a fitting ending to a wonderful evening.

Squadron of Cree Indians Among 250 Air Cadets At RCAF Station Trenton

TRENTON—Air Cadet camps at Station Trenton this summer include some of Canada's first citizens, a squadron of full-blooded Cree Indians from Moose Factory.

Trenton is the farthest south most of the boys have ever travelled. Right now they are a little awed by their new and strange surroundings.

Some of the boys had never been on a train before. Others had never seen television. Airplanes were more familiar although a flight in an Air Transport Command Dakota was a new experience for many. Even the rolling countryside of the Trenton area is different from their northern home.

According to Moose Factory spokesmen, the younger generation is losing the knowledge of the old Cree ways, of native folk and bush lore. However these boys are all competent trappers, fishermen and hunters, crafts that are stressed in the residential schools they attend.

Unlike many of their Southern companions, who have ready access to cars, the Cree cadets are accustomed to walking and running long distances. As a result, the strenuous cadet program is much easier on them than on some of their fellow cadets.

The boys from Moose Factory are good athletes and are enjoying the cadet sports program particularly. Although some of the games are completely new to them, instructors are amazed at how proficient they become so quickly.

The civilian instructors who accompanied the boys are both Cree Indians. One of the instructors, G. G. Faries, was the chief of the band after the Second World War.

The air cadet movement in Moose Factory began two years ago under the direction of F/L Wheatly, who had previously commanded an Indian squadron in Prince Albert.

BIG CAMP

More than 250 Air Cadets arrived at RCAF Station Trenton on July 3 for summer training. The cadets came from as widely separated area as Stratford in Southern Ontario and Moose Factory on the cost of Hudson Bay.

The 25 Air Cadet officers and civilian instructors, who accompanied the boys to camp, have a busy and varied program slated for the campers.

The training program is designed to develop physical fitness, mental alertness and good discipline in these young Canadians. In accordance with this, an extensive sports program including swimming, water safety and organized team activities has been scheduled to be carried out by trained instructors. Under canvas classes in cadet leadership, general service knowledge, armament and other optional subjects are being taught. Discipline on and off the drill square will be stressed at all times.

To supplement this program, tours of 6 Repair Depot and other local interest spots have been planned. Afternoons at the beach, movies and fre time in their own canteen provide relaxation for the busy cadets.

Wing Commander A. Allan of Weston is commanding the two-month camp. Altogether, approximately 1,200 cadets will take part in summer training at Trenton this year.

Still No Word On 2 Missing Trenton Girls

TRENTON — The parents of Dianne Emerson, 14, and Linda Coon, 15, have as yet received no word of their whereabouts.

The girls have been missing since June 25, when they left a baby-sitting job to attend a movie.

Teenage friends of the girls say they were members of a "Hate the Parents" club.

Mrs. N. E. Coon, mother of one of the missing girls, said that she could not understand why Linda would deliberately stay away from home. She said her daughter had been under a doctor's care for a goitre ailment and that she had left at home pills which she should take every day.

"I would not entirely discount the theory that some of Linda's and Dianne's friends know where they are," said Mrs. Coon. "Children can do cruel things without realizing the consequences."

Missing Teens Toll Now Numbers Four

TRENTON—Two more members of Trenton's teen-aged population have been reported missing from their homes.

Joan Virgilio, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Virgilio, Carrying Place Road, has been missing from her home since Monday when she went to a movie with a girl friend.

She was described as being five-foot-seven, 135 pounds, brown eyed, long red curly hair and freckled. When last seen she was wearing a pink summer dress, pink sweater, and carrying a white purse.

The other missing girl has not been identified.

This brings to four the number of girls reported missing from their homes in Trenton over the past few weeks. They are all members of a teen-aged club known as the "Hate the Parents Club."

7 Boys Apply For Training

TRENTON — Ben Kroeze, chairman of a special committee set up to study a government - sponsored apprenticeship scheme for boys over 16 years of age who have passed Grade 8 and who do not intend to continue with their academic education, reports that seven boys have applied for the training and that three of them have been placed with local employers.

The boys have been asked to contact Dennis Atkins, Trenton's probation officer, at 74 Elgin St., or Douglas Whitley, at 89½ Dundas St., West, to arrange an appointment for themselves and their parents to be interviewed by members of the committee. Parental interest is stressed.

The committee will hold a meeting in August when an official of the provincial government will discuss the apprenticeship scheme in detail. Boys who have indicated an interest in the scheme, their parents and several employers from the town will be asked to attend this meeting.

Rathbun Bus Will Carry Kids To Kingston

TRENTON — At a special meeting Wednesday of the Board of Education members decided to engage the Rathbun Bus Company to transport students to and from the secondary students' summer school at Kingston, daily from July 11 to Aug. 19 at a daily cost of $43.

The school, designed to provide teaching experience to secondary school teachers and to provide students who have failed in one or two subjects with a means of passing these subjects through examinations held at the end of the course, has been over-subscribed by students wishing to attend.

Accommodation had been arranged for 300 students from Trenton, Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and other Quinte district points. More than 500 students have applied. Now the principals of the various schools involved are busy eliminating students who failed in more than three subjects or who had not failed in any subject, but who were desirous of brushing up on weak subjects.

Thirty-seven students have applied to attend the course from Trenton High School, but of these, only 20 will be allowed to go

Eisenhower Signs Huge Defence Bill

Bata Shoe Co. Host to Fifty RCAF Officers

BATAWA— Neighborliness was the keynote Thursday when 50 officers from RCAF Station Trenton toured the Bata Shoe Company plant and spent a social evening at Batawa.

Many of the guests were surprised at the complex machinery used in the plant and at the diversified industry within the plant, a method used to ensure peak employment during off-seasons.

Guest speaker Group Captain J. J. Edwards, Chief Staff Officer (Operations) of Air Transport Command Headquarters was introduced by Bata public relations director Arthur Duncan.

In his remraks, Group Capt. Edwards thanked Dr. C. K. Hertz, Bata managing director, for the tour.

"I have passed your plant many times, and had no idea what went on behind those walls", he said.

"After seeing your plant I wouldn't be at all surprised to see our new F-104 jet fighter turn out with rubber boots".

He said teamwork was a part of neighborliness, "and teamwork is an attribute of both Bata and the RCAF. I'm sure now that both our teams have an idea what the other is doing".

In his talk the group captain referred to the officers present, and stated that he was speaking on behalf of group Captain T. A. Spruston of 6 Repair Depot, and Station Trenton as well as Air Transport Command.

"We even have a representative of Training Command among our group in the person of Wing Commander Swerdfager of the training standards establishment. He remained at Trenton to plague ATC's existence", he concluded with humor.

Promote Six Officers of 426 Transport Sqdn.

TRENTON — Promotions were announced recently for six RCAF Station Trenton officers employed with 426 Transport Squadron and 4 Operational Training Unit.

Receiving his squadron leader rank was S/L A. Martin, chief ground instructor at 4 OTU. S/L Martin lives with his family in Belleville and is scheduled to serve a tour with the United Nations Truce Commission in Indo-China at the end of July.

Included in the promotion list were, Flight Lieutenant Howie Turner and Flight Lieutenant Miles Gorden of 4 OTU.

Three officers from 426 Squadron were promoted to the rank of flight lieutenant. These included F/L Y. J. Lavigne, F/L J. W. Hastie and F/L C. W. Feagan.

Also receiving his flight Lieutenant rank was F/L Terry O'Hagan who was formerly mobile support equipment Officer at Station Trenton and who has since been transferred to RCAF Station, Goose Bay, Labrador.

Cadets Coming

TRENTON — Twenty-six Air Cadets from the western states will arrive in Trenton July 21 for a three-day visit to the town and the RCAF station. The boys will be accompanied by two officers.

The cadets must be billeted in private homes and anyone who could offer sleeping accommodation for one or two boys is asked to contact Ted Kinsella or Ian Darling.

Last year Trenton played host to a similar group of cadets.

Douglas Whitley Elected President of Trenton C of C

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Douglas Whitley was elected president, Ben Kroeze, vice-president and H. B. Smith, secretary-manager.

Mr. Whitley said he would accept the obligation for one year only as he felt that "new blood should be introduced into the executive" after this period. It was decided that Mr. Smith would assume the duties of treasurer, automatically.

Now that the Chamber has permanent directors and a permament slate of officers, a charter or "certification" will be sought from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that funds, the property of the former Trenton Chamber, will be made available to the reformed Chamber.

Directors present at the special meeting were D. Whitley, B. Kroeze, Ian Darling, Archie McNeil, Ben Minard, Ted Kinsella, W/C F. Craig, and H. B. Smith, who has acted in the capacity of provisional manager since the Chamber was formed earlier this year.

It was decided to approach council with the request that attractive signs be placed at the entrances to the town. Signs formerly placed at both entrances had been removed at the request of the department of highways as they were too close to the road. It was also decided to ask the department to place signs in localities east and west of the town, pointing out that a scenic route ran through the town.

After a prolonged discussion, the directors and officers voted to ask council "to subsidize the Weaver Ambulance Service to the extent of $1,800 for the remainder of 1960, or to provide the town with an ambulance service after Aug. 1 when Mr. Weaver has signified that he will no longer supply this service."

Mr. Weaver who said he has run the service for a number of years at a loss, told council two weeks ago that he would not supply the service after Aug. 1.

ASKED FOR HELP

In the spring, he had asked council to subsidize his operations, but had received no satisfactory reply. In the notification that services would be suspended, Mr. Weaver said that his auditor's report indicated that he had lost $3,600 last year on the ambulance operation.

"If this service leaves the community and there is a loss of human life over the lack of an ambulance, there will be a great hue and cry from Trenton people," said Mr. Whitley. "It's ridiculous for a town of this size to be without an ambulance service."

Mr. Whitley also introduced a motion for the consideration of the directors to the effect that council be asked to expedite a redevelopment program within the confines of the town's boundaries rather than consider expansion by annexation, with the accompanying expenditure.

Mr. Whitley said that the tax load in the community was not equitable. He said that the few owning homes in the higher assessment bracket bore the load of the many in the lower assessment bracket. He thought council should appoint a committee to study every available method of raising sub-standard housing to a higher assessment category.

W/C Craig said that Trenton was losing a large number of residents to Belleville because they could not find suitable accommodation in town. He felt that when annexation took place, revenue went up and that a big investment in housing developments would pay off in big revenue.

The directors finally passed the resolution to ask council to appoint a committee to study the feasibility of redevelopment within the town.

WANT YACHT BASIN

Council will also be asked to appoint a committee to meet with Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., to discuss a government grant of $50,000 for the development of parks area, with a view to instigating action on a yacht basin area in the east part of town. The yacht basin has been provided for in the town's official plan.

Members of the press were asked to "play up" the fact that some merchants in the town are placing garbage and old cardboard boxes at the rear of their premises, creating fire hazards. Mr. Whitley said that a serious fire could have developed this week when old boxes at the rear of a business block on Dundas St., East, were ignited by children.

The directors stressed that garbage should be placed in metal containers, and that cardboard boxes should be tied securely and piled neatly.

Lloyd Seeley asked that the department of transport be contacted and asked to place a sign on the town bridge informing boaters that it is illegal to travel more than six miles an hour in the river above the bridge. Archie McNeil said he would be responsible for contacting the proper authorities to have signs placed on both sides of the bridge.

WEDDINGS

MADIGAN — ALEXANDER

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized recently in Christ Church, Belleville, when the Reverend E. P. Smith, assistant rector of the church, united in marriage Lois Allen Alexander, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eber Arnold Alexander, to Eugene Herman Madigan, of Parry Sound, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Madigan. Tall standards of white chrysanthemums, mingled with pink carnations and ferns, adorned the sanctuary, and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Rita Vincent, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Arnold Ronald Alexander, the bride was radiant in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net panels over taffeta, featuring a bouffant skirt with tiered back of nylon net with lace edging. The fitted bodice was of lace with scalloped edge trimmed with seed pearls and sequins, having a set-in yoke of net accented by a tiny Peter Pan collar of lace, and long, lily-pointed sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of nylon net was caught to a Juliet cap encrusted with sequins and lace flowers, and she carried a bouquet of red roses, in cascade style, with rosebud-knotted streamers of white satin ribbon. White satin slippers and tiny pearl earrings completed her nuptial costume.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mavis Seeney of Belleville, sister of the bride, was gowned in street-length powder-blue lace with scoop neckline, fitted bodice, three-quarter sleeves, and full skirt of chiffon over taffeta. She wore a matching picture hat with white accessories, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, encircled with white and pink 'mums, tied with long white satin streamers.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Irene Draycott, of Parry Sound, and Mrs. Marion Watkinson, of Long Branch, Ontario, sisters of the bridegroom, were gowned alike, one in pink, and the other in yellow chiffon over taffeta with fitted bodices, having scoop necklines outlined with shirring. Their full skirts were in street-length complemented with waist bows. Matching picture hats, white shoes and gloves, and cascade bouquets of pink roses, encircled whit white and blue button 'mums and tied with long, white satin streamers, completed their costumes.

The little flower girl, Rhonda Alexander of Belleville, niece of the bride, was dainty and demure in her pale green organdy over taffeta, with white, floral headband, and carrying a basket of pink roses and white button 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Ronald James Seeney, of Belleville, while Messrs. Marvin Watkinson of Long Branch, and Wade Hayes of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the parish hall of Christ Church, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a blue and white flowered gown, white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a green and white flowered gown with white accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by pink and white candles, and the bridal bouquets. Other spring flowers adorned the hall.

For the wedding trip to Watertown, Rochester, Niagara Falls and Long Branch, the bride chose a blue silk sheath in floral design with powder-blue duster, navy and white accessories, and corsage of white roses.

Guests attended from Long Branch, Parry Sound, Consecon and Belleville.

The bride was previously honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Jackson, Belleville, with Mrs. Phyllis Jackson and Mrs. Wade Hays as co-hostesses. Also at a shower held by the International Hardware office employees at the Tweedsmuir Hotel when a mixmaster, cut glass fruit bowl and cake plate were presented to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Madigan will reside at 118-A Dundas St. West, Belleville.

BATEMAN — MARR

Lovely tall white standards of pink and white peonies mingled with orange blossoms adorned the chancel in Wesley United Church, Elmira, on Saturday, June 25th, for a wedding of wide interest, when Sheila Wade Marr, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Marr, of Mount Royal, Quebec, became the bride of Dr. Charles Robert Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Bateman, of Belleville. The Rev. Donald M. Badger, pastor of the church, officiated in this, the first marriage in the new church.

The wedding music was provided by the church organist, with Mr. Ian Marr, brother of the bride, as soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a formal bridal gown of snowy Alencon lace and organza accented with a pale blue sash crossing in front and extending into draped paniers at the back. The molded bodice featured a scalloped neckline and short puffed sleeves complemented by short white gloves. The gracefully full floor-length skirt cascaded into a chapel train. Her circular veil of tulle illusion was caught to a small crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Ian Marr, of Kitchener, was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and the bridesmaids were, Miss Ann Bateman, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Margaret Linneborn, of Toronto. Both attendants were gowned alike in romance blue silk organza designed with draped bodices having portrait necklines and short sleeves. The circular skirts were embroidered in a dainty floral pattern. Matching picture hats trimmed with velvet and Colonial bouquets of pink chrysanthemums and white feathered carnations completed their ensembles.

Mr. Ted Ritcey, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. John Bateman, of Belleville brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Ian Marr, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Walper Hotel, for approximately 200 guests. Later, Dr. and Mrs. Bateman left via air for Bermuda. They will reside in Toronto upon their return.

Among those who entertained the bride before her marriage were: Mrs. M. F. Anderson of Montreal, who was hostess for a luncheon and shower and Mrs. Graham Clark of Toronto, who also entertained at a shower. The bride was also the honored guest at luncheons held by the members of her bridge club and by Mrs. J. A. Martin and Mrs. Wilson Martin, of Kitchener. Mrs. M. H. Hudspeth and Mrs. J. W. Symons of Kitchener were hostesses for a tea and shower Mr. and Mrs. J. C. E. Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kendall, of Elmira, held a reception and dinner party, and Mrs. A. C. Carbert; Mrs. J. T. McCullough, Mrs. F. C. Forwell; Mrs. A. B. Quennell, and Mrs. A. H. Zillax, all of Elmira, at a luncheon shower. Mrs. C. R. Howey and Mrs. W. M. Easton, entertained at an evening party and shower, while Miss Mary Anne Lowe, of Elmira, was hostess for a luncheon, with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baetz, of Kitchener, also arranging one.

Guests attended from New York City; Connecticut; Arizona and Toronto; Montreal.

The bride is a graduate of the Toronto General Hospital and the bridegroom is a graduate in medicine from the University of Toronto.

Sheila defeated two other finalists to win top honors and has signed a seven-year contract to do high-fashion modelling. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Owen, Big Island. (Hodgson, Picton).

Over 80 Guests Present At the Keller 'Open House'

BONARLAW — The "Open House" held for Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keller, R. R. 1, Bonarlaw on Sunday, July 3rd was a complete surprise. Over 80 people paid their respects to them and enjoyed their hospitality. Sandwiches and cookies were made by the women of Stanwood Community Church, assorted melon balls and strawberries, tastefully arranged with mint in open halves of watermelon were furnished by Jo[illegible]e Keller.

Wedding cake, mints and nuts completed the "goodies" served to all who came. Mrs. C. Redden and Mrs. M. Petherick poured coffee and tea for the guests.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Petherick, the senior guests of the party; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McComb, of Ottawa and Mr. and Mrs. Webb Blake, nephew and niece of Mr. Keller.

Other relatives attending were: Nellie Tinney, Nell Miller, Grace Keller, Mrs. Sanford Keller and daughters, Marie Keller and Betty Brown, all cousins of Mr. Keller.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellibee, Dr. and Mrs. George Stirnad and Frank Morek, all of Cleveland, Ohio; Albert Johnson and Ray Dean of Akron, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Blair and Mr. and Mrs. John Palermo, Sr., of Alliance, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stark of Niagara Falls, N.Y. and Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Roy of Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller have two sons, Don Keller of Belleville and Bill Keller at home.

Part of the entertainment of the afternoon was provided by organ music. This was made possible by Mr. and Mrs. Newton Dort, of Eastlake, Ohio, Mrs. Dort is the program director of station W.N.O.B. — F.M. (107.9) who brought her own Hammond organ and concert Leslie speaker to make the afternoon complete for the Kellers who are fond of music.

Mrs. Donald Keller was in charge of the guest book and also assisted in serving.

All joined in wishing the very best to a fine couple.

Lazier Cup Won by Hilda Dolan

Hilda Dolan won the Lazier Cup at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, defeating Doris Bradford in the final round.

It was the winner's first trophy of her golfing career.

Billie Taylor and Jack Partridge won first low net in a novelty two-ball tournament. Doris Hogle and Ray Nolan were second.

Dolly Diamond and Dr. McCorquodale took the consolation on a "draw" decision after tying with Helen Lee and Harold Henricks.

The mixed 18-hole two-ball tournament for the Belvedere Trophy will be played on Sunday.

SUGGESTS REMEDY

OSHAWA (CP) — Lewd and immoral literature is increasing, Pastor Lester M. Mohns told delegates Thursday at the Ontario-Quebec conference of the Seventh Day Adventists. He recommended Christian literature for establishment and maintenance of good character traits, especially in the young and added: "The leadership of teachers, parents and the church could be more effective in overcoming the problems of obscenity than could the courts."

K.'s Daughter Wears Low-Cut Cocktail Dress

VIENNA (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's daughter made Soviet fashion history Thursday night by attending a diplomatic reception in a low-cut cocktail dress.

Russian women traditionally do not go in for plunging necklines and Elena Khrushchev, 23, a chemist, had been one of the plainer females in the Soviet delegation visiting Austria with the Russian leader.

Elena's heels had been low. Her dresses had fallen well below the knee and her necklines had been severely prim.

But not now. Her dress Thursday night was flowered silk, drawn in at the waist with a broad white belt and it snuggled just at the middle of her knees. And in front the dress was slashed so low that it revealed deep cleavage.

To heighten her style, she earlier went to the beauty shop and had her hair fixed in a new way. She wore bangs and at her ears were real diamond earrings. Around her slim throat she wore a three-strand necklace of what looked like imitation pearls.

25 Attend Shower for July Bride

STIRLING — Mrs. Dorothy Green entertained 25 guests on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Shirley Baker, a July bride.

A program of readings and music was enjoyed. Mrs. Ralph Utman conducted the singsong. Miss Diane McAdam played a piano solo and Miss Beverly Green sang a solo. Miss Olive Sharpe and Mrs. Keith Tweedy were in charge of the contests.

Shirley received a lovely array of china cups and saucers, cake plates and such, and several pieces of glassware.

She expressed her thanks for the party and gifts.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments and the group enjoyed a social half hour.

GIRL GUIDE and BROWNIE NEWS

The Guides and Brownies of Point Anne recently held their closing meeting at the Parish Hall in the form of "Open House" for their parents and friends. Special guests for the evening were: Division Commissioner Mrs. D. Stewart and District Commissioner, Mrs. H. Floyd.

With the Brownies in their Fairy Ring to open the program, Brown Owl, Mrs. C. Fremming, presented Service Stars to five Brownies: Barbara Jacob, Pamela Akey, Gloria Green, Judy Carter and Marilyn Campbell.

Three new Sixers, Nancy Branigan, Brenda Ethier and Ruth Lloyd were invested and presented with their stripes.

BARS PRESENTED

The Brownies then formed an archway and the Brown Owl, assisted by Tawny Owl, Mrs. J. Campbell, presented the following Golden Bar badges: Lynn Maher, Jeanne Bradshaw, Debbie Branigan, Louise Callaghan, Dianne Flesch, Vicki Sedore and Brenda Colden.

FLYING UP CEREMONY

The highlight of the evening was the Flying Up Ceremony when five Brownies, Barbara Jacob, Pamela Akey, Gloria Green, Judy Carter and Marilyn Campbell "flew up" to Guides in the first such ceremony held in Point Anne.

The second half of the program was in charge of the Point Anne Guide Company under the direction of the captain, Mrs. L. Horwood and Lieut., Mrs. J. Juby. A special prize for the Patrol which earned the most points throughout the year was presented to the Kingfisher Patrol by Mrs. H. Floyd. Members of this patrol are: Dorothy Jacob, P.L. Penny Hart, Mary Jane Weese, Brenda Maracle and Sharon Murphy.

Proficiency badges were awarded to the following girls by Mrs. D. Stewart: second class badge: Shelda Derushie, Linda Maracle; cooks badge: Judy Hull, Nancy Fraser; needlewoman badge: Janice File; dancer badge: Carolyn Chisholm; home nurse badge: Janice File, Mary Jane Weese, Judy Hull, Patsy Clea Dorothy Jacob, Suzanne Insley, Peggy Hull; reader badge: Peggy Hull, Janice File, Dorothy Jacob; Hull, Dorothy Jacob, Janice File, thrift badge: Judy Hull, Peggy Carolyn Chisholm, Suzanne Insley, Shelda Derushie, Linda Fraser, Nancy Fraser, Penny Hart; laundress badge: Peggy Hull, Mary Jane Weese, Judy Hull.

Special awards were made by the Captain to three guides, Linda Fraser, Mary Jane Weese, and Sharon Murphy, who had perfect attendance records.

Nancy Fraser presented Suzanne Insley with a Guide ring on behalf of the Company as she is moving to Trenton.

A cheque was given to the two commissioners present as Point Anne's contribution to the Area Camp Fund.

FLAG DRILL

The Guides performed a Flag Drill in which they formed the flags of England, Ir[illegible]land and Scotland and the[illegible] combined them all to form the Union Jack.

To conclude the evening, two skits were performed, the Kingfisher Patrol doing a hilarious imitation of various recording stars and the Pansy Patrol doing a clever take-off of the television show "Treasure Hunt."

"Taps" brought a most successful evening to a close.

THE CABBIES TAKE THE STAND-

We all comment at times on what we think of those who drive us in taxi cabs. Usually these comments are far from complimentary. After all, there are two sides to every story. So I have made a survey on my own by asking questions of numerous and sundry cab drivers. The following answers are their side of the picture!

Without exception, all the drivers with whom I have talked have headed their list with the person who slams the door so hard that the window is cracked or broken. Aside from the time lost having it repaired, the insurance company is usually not responsible in this case. Most offenders go blithely on their way, making no offer to pay for the damage done.

The person who does not know the exact address of the place to which he is going. He thinks it's just a few blocks away. Twelve blocks and twenty minutes later, he discovers it's in the opposite direction.

The person who has no change other than a twenty dollar bill, and becomes highly incensed when the driver insists upon going to the nearest store to get it changed rather than "put it on the cuff."

The passenger who reads his morning newspaper and, when he alights, leaves paper spread all over the seat and floor. This same person is apt to be the smoker who puts ashes every place but in the container supplied for that purpose. Another thoughtless habit that will not endear you to your cab driver is borrowing his matches, then promptly putting them in your pocket.

The doting parent who allows Junior to climb all over the upholstery with muddy feet will definitely not be popular with the driver!

One type of passenger "that is always with us," according to the cab driver, is the one who is not happy unless he kicks about the charges. Even if it is a set price, he will argue just the same. This is usually the person who tips a nickel, and that in an ungracious manner.

Another universal peeve can be explained more fully by the following little story: The other evening I had been standing in the pouring rain trying to flag a taxi. At long last one came by, and I stepped out to get into the cab only to be practically bowled over by an excited gentleman (?) who plumped himself into the cab first. The driver firmly informed him that the cab was mine. After an argument based on possession being nine points of the law, and the driver's refusal to take him anyplace, the gentleman (?) grudgingly gave up. My driver fumed all the way to my destination. He said that what had just occurred happened over and over again, the result being time lost in argument, ruffled tempers, etc. To be honest, he said this rudeness was more apparent among my own sex! As he expressed it, "They'l fight to the last ditch, holding up both traffic and me."

After all, perhaps we passengers ignore the fact that cab drivers are human, too, and deserving of courtesy and thoughtfulness.

Question: If a husband and wife receive an invitation to a wedding, addressed just to Mr. and Mrs., is it proper to take the children along? We have two, aged seven and ten. They have never been to a wedding, and we would like to take them. What do you think?

Answer: No! A thousand times No! In the first place, the children were not invited. In the second, as I have said many times before, small children do not belong at weddings! By all means leave them home.

Bride-to-Be Feted With Useful Gifts

WEST HUNTINGDON — On Friday evening Donna and Sharon Hammond held a miscellaneous shower party for Miss Norma Lott, bride-to-be.

Miss Sharon Hammond was in charge of the evening's program, which started with a hearty singsong. Miss Lois Elliott gave an accordion solo; Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth contributed a reading, also Mrs. Grant Richardson. The Hammond girls and Lois Elliott as a trio, favored with a song. Miss Bernice McCurdy put on two contests and Mrs. Volney Richardson read the special address.

Miss Lott was presented with a shower of useful gifts for which she voiced her appreciation.

Lunch was served. There were 30 ladies in attendance.

Twin Babies Receive Rite Of Baptism

MELROSE — On June 19th, the Rev. Alexander McDowell, of Eastminster Church, Belleville, occupied the pulpit in Melrose United Church and administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper and conducted a baptismal service.

The twins of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Latchford (nee Betty Milligan) were christened, William Glen and Gloria.

Present at this service were the great-grandmother, Mrs. William McLaren, the grandmother, Mrs. Carman Milligan and the parents, making four generations on Mrs. Latchford's side of the family.

The blessing of the minister and the best wishes of the congregation were extended to the proud parents and the lovely babies.

Mr. and Mrs. Latchford have an older child, who was christened at the same church under similar circumstances.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLaren entertained the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sills, Miss Phyllis Sills, Mr. and Mrs. Don Sills and family, all of Roslin, and Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Sills, of West Huntingdon, Sunday, June 19th, the occasion being the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sills.

Agricultural Society Holds Gala Event

STIRLING — Stirling Agricultural Society held a gala event Friday evening in the large display building at the Fairgrounds. Over 300 attended.

As it was the occasion of Canada's 93rd birthday, July 1st, the centre of the building from west to east was decorated with strings of flags. A large truck was also decorated and the platform of the truck contained seating arrangements for Ted Curl and his Curl Men from Kingston who provided dance music from nine to 12 p.m.

The lady directors decorated their booth with red, white and blue crepe paper. They sold hotdogs, coffee and ice cold drinks.

The event was a distinct success and the Fair Board is thankful for the patronage of many people in the area, as well as guests from other points.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Emily S. — It's so hard to help Estelle.

Estelle J. — She thinks any slob is good enough for me.

• • •

Emily S. — I am 24 and have been happily married for the past three years. There are hardly any problems in my life, but I am worried about my sister Estelle, who is nearly 30 and still single.

I'd like to help Estelle meet someone nice — but she is so difficult! She takes offence at the least thing. Once we invited her over to meet a very nice friend of my husband's. But he called at the last minute to say an emergency had arisen and he couldn't make it. Estelle was furious and turned him down when he called her later for a date.

Estelle says she doesn't want any help from me, but I can't see where she's doing so well on her own. She hasn't many dates and is getting old-maidish in her ways.

• • •

Estelle J. — My dear little sister doesn't seem to understand that I have my feelings — even if I am single, I'm not ready to go out with just anyone in order to have a date. I'd rather not go out than go with some of the slobs Emily and my brother-in-law think are good enough for me.

The man who skipped out because of an "emergency" had backed out on previous occasions when he was supposed to meet me. Then this emergency he called about was just ridiculous — something about a sick uncle! I don't have to take that kind of thing.

People seem to think because you're single you are just gasping for marriage on any terms. That certainly isn't the case with me!

• • •

The Council: Estelle's reactions are quite extreme and unfortunely she is too blinded by the wrong kind of emotion to see how irrational they are.

If she tried to think the situation through logically she would recognize that her sister and brother-in-law would not want to introduce her to any unworthy men. Their ideas about people could be different from Estelle's, but that should give her no cause to feel offended. They are not telling her to marry the men they introduce — merely to meet them and socialize in a civilized manner.

If Estelle were less immersed in her own hurt feelings, she would be in a better position to understand those of others. The young man who "backed out" of a meeting with her on three occasions is probably very shy. Apparently, he finally mustered courage to call her and ask for a date. A warm, friendly response might have led to a pleasant evening, one more acquaintance — and possibly a deeper relationship.

A single woman of 30 tends to think of herself as a rejected person and sometimes takes refuge in aggressive and self-destructive pride. Yet such a woman has probably rejected and hurt the feelings of many men in the course of her life. Estelle should learn to think more of others. Then she will learn to enjoy the company of men and be less quick to give them a low rating.

Teacher, Pupils, Mothers Enjoy Picnic Dinner

WEST HUNTINGDON — A enjoyable picnic dinner was held at the West Huntingdon School.

The teacher, Mrs. Chambers and the mothers served hotdogs, drinks, cup cakes and ice cream.

After dinner, races and games were conducted as follows: grade 1 races: Cheryl Haggerty, James Fargey.

Visitors — Freddy Sills, Ivan Cooke.

Grade 2 — Leatha Martin, Jack Sills.

Grade 3 — Gordon Sills, Mary Ann Pollock.

Grade 4 — Hugh Wilson, Jack Donnan.

Women's Activities

HOLY TRINITY W..G.

The regular meeting of the Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, was held recently at the home of Mrs. A. Spencer with 19 members present and three visitors.

Mrs. M. Frayne presided at the piano. Psalm 114 and 115 were read responsively, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. B. Cook gave a report of the flower fund and birthday offerings. Mrs. S. Fitzgerald won the flower fund contest. Mrs. A. McBride gave her birhday offering.

A presentation of gifts was made to Mrs. Bessie Topping and Mrs. Marjorie Frayne from the Guild, as they are leaving the district.

The strawberry and ice cream tea which was held on June 29 was a great success. A gratifying amount was received.

Miss Grace Cox thanked the hostess for a delicious lunch and hospitality.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . I use a lot of your recipes. I had a recipe from your column three summers ago — it was called Tomato Chutney. It had tomatoes, apples and onions but I don't know just what the other things are — the sugar, vinegar and spices. I lost my recipe and sure would like to get it. I was at a friend's house and had a very nice pickle. It was a tomato sauce and had corn in it. I wondered if you had one like that . . . Mrs. A. C.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Chilled Fruit Juice; Broiled Fillets of Lake Trout or Haddock; Lemon Butter; Broiled Crumbed Tomatoes; Cottage-Fried Potatoes; Cantaloupe with Strawberry Ice Cream; Coffee.

ANSWER:

I hope the two recipes which follow fill the bill.

TOMATO-APPLE CHUTNEY:

4 lbs. ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped, 2 green sweet peppers, minced, 2 red sweet peppers, minced, 2 cups unpeeled green apples, cored and diced, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup chopped onions, 1 1-2 cups vinegar, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 1-2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-2 teaspoon ground allspice, 1-2 stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole cloves (tie with stick cinnamon in cloth bag).

FAREWELL MESSAGE

JOHNSTOWN — A good number were present on Sunday morning at 10.15 a.m. when the Rev. G. A. Puttenham delivered his farewell address to the Johnstown congregation.

He based his message on "Being a Good Witness", and asked that the congregation give the new minister, the Rev. Brian Thrasher, the same co-operation it had always given him. He also stated he was sorry that Johnstown had been separated from Grace Church while he was minister there. Johnstown Church had been a charge of Grace Church, Trenton since 1884). As far as is known Mr. Thrasher will be holding his first service at Johnstown on August 7th.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. At the close of church, Miss Marion Bush presented Mr. Puttenham with a lovely desk set on behalf of the Johnstown Sunday School, to show its appreciation for his help, in the Sunday School in past years as a wonderful Bible Class teacher.

There will be no church or Sunday School at Johnstown Church through July.

Dawson City Hopes to Stage 1962 Gold Rush Festival

By ATHOL RETALLACK
Canadian Press Correspondent

DAWSON CITY, Yukon (CP)— Dawson City has set a goal of $50,000 as a start toward financing the Gold Rush Festival scheduled for 1962.

Tom Patterson, founder of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, addressed two meetings in this northern community, 1,150 miles northwest of Edmonton, to help drum up interest in the festival which will relive the wild gold rush days of 1898.

Mr. Patterson, president of the newly-formed Canadian Theatrical Exchange Limited, said the federal government has allocated funds to restore the old auditorium in Dawson City and a steamboat in Whitehorse, 275 miles south.

Work will begin on both projects this year, he said. It is hoped the sternwheel river boat will be brought to Dawson City to stay as a tourist attraction.

TOP NAME STARS

Accompanying Mr. Patterson was Ben Edwards, Broadway theatrical designer. They looked over the auditorium and the town generally and said they found them suitable and adaptable for a festival.

Mr. Patterson said the productions, re-creating the atmosphere of the Gold Rush era with top name stars in the auditorium, would be the focal point of the festival.

But, he added, the festival would bring about other developments such as special tours and art exhibits.

The festival would be scheduled for four weeks, starting in mid-July with the climax to coincide with the Discovery Day celebrations Aug. 17.

"The name, Dawson City, alone is a big attraction," said Mr. Patterson.

There is professional and governmental interest in the festival, he said, and now it is up to Dawson City itself to incorporate the Dawson City Gold Rush Festival Foundation to raise about $50,000.

After this is done, he said, various companies, foundations and individuals who have already shown their interest in developing Canadian arts will subscribe the remaining $100,000 to launch the festival.

Sunday School Lesson

When Justice Needs a Friend

By ROY L. SMITH

There come times in the life of every nation, and every community, when justice needs a friend. Under such circumstances the forces of religion are under a solemn obligation to speak up, or sacrifice their claims to being the defenders of good morals.

INTEGRITY UNDERMINED

The rock base of the strength of any nation is the moral character of its citizenry. When the people are corrupted the doom of the nation is in sight.

The prophet Amos—one of the truly great ones in the history of the Hebrews—was a country man whose keen eyes could see the deteriorated life of the nation.

Extravagance, cupidity, sexual immorality, drunkenness, and callousness had sapped the nation's strength to the point that it was face to face with doom. At the same moment the national coffers were full, trade was good, the services at the sanctuaries were brilliant and dramatic and public confidence was at high tide.

It was the custom of the times for those who had something to say to the people to take up their position at the gate of the city and harangue the crowds. In the absence of newspapers, radio, or other means of public communication, their approach was direct and personal. The prophet Amos, being profoundly convinced that a terrible doom awaited the state because it had fostered injustice, accepted the responsibility of the hour and took the stump as the champion of justice.

JUSTICE AND MORALS

Acording to the thinking of the times, religion had nothing whatever to do with justice. If the chants were recited correctly, if the sacrifices on the altars were without blemish, if the ritual was properly observed, that was all religion demanded of the people.

Amos created a sensation when he demanded that justice be done the poor, that the bribing of judges should cease, and that the land holdings of widows should be protected. When he insisted that the priests of religion should stand as defenders of the poor it sounded like a revolutionary doctrine.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 10: "Amos Demands Social Justice", Amos 2:6-8; 5; 8:4-6.

Two hundred years ago a famous Englishman is reported to have exclaimed, "It has come to a pretty pass when religion is allowed to interfere with a man's private life!"

It has required thousands of years for perfecting the alliance of religion and justice and there are those even yet who insist that the Church must not "interfere in business or politics". If the prophet Amos were to come to life in this generation, however, he would very probably preach some of the same sermons for which he was blacklisted nearly three thousand years ago.

JUSTICE—NATIONAL STRENGTH

The strength of any nation — its ability to withstand crises—consists of a blend of many moral quantities. Evil, whether it takes the form of economic instability, intellectual dishonesty, or moral flabbiness, is a process which saps the strength of any people.

No nation can practise injustice without sapping its own strength.

One of the greatest weaknesses of Russia at this stage of world history is the fact that she must rely upon allies such as Hungary and Poland that have suffered injustices at her hand. One of the greatest weaknesses of the United States is that fact that she has millions of people who have long been treated as though they were second class citizens.

Lloyd-George once said, at a critical moment in the course of World War I, that England was worse betrayed by a London slum than by any regiment on the field that might desert its post.

The defenders of justice constitute the surest defences of any nation.

HAPPY AT HOME — Patrick Charlie, a Stahlo Indian of Yale, B.C., has a railway pass to go anywhere in Canada but says there's no place he wants to go. Patrick, born in 1880 before the railway came to his Fraser Canyon hamlet, joined the CPR as a section hand at the age of nine. The town, a thriving community 100 years ago, was the gateway to the fabled wealth of the Cariboo and the head of navigation on the Fraser River. (CP Photo).

Yale-Born Patrick Charlie, Dignified Stahlo Indian, Is Link With Storied Past

YALE, B.C. (CP) — Patrick Charlie, a dignified Stahlo Indian with a character-lined face, was born in Yale in 1880, before the railway came.

Living with his wife in a little white cottage, he represents one of the links with the storied past of what now is a sleepy little hamlet nestled at the bottom of the Fraser Canyon 75 miles northeast of Vancouver.

At the age of nine—"I must have been big for my age"—Patrick Charlie was working as a section hand for 95 cents a day as the Canadian Pacific Railway pushed its way through the canyon to forge a cross-country link.

When he retired from the CPR he was given a pass. "I could go anywhere in Canada. But I don't use it. There's no place outside Yale that I want to go."

EXCITING PAST

Like other old-timers, he is satisfied to live with memories of more exciting days.

One hundred years ago Yale was the gateway to the fabled wealth of the Cariboo, the terminus of navigation on the Fraser River, a roaring little town with scores of saloons and outfitting houses and a new church.

There is nothing left now of the saloons and commercial houses except a few stone foundations on Front Street, but the little Church of St. John the Divine, built in 1859 and the oldest on the B.C. mainland, has survived. It was restored recently.

There have been two railway booms—first when the CPR came through in the 1880s and again when the Canadian National Railways cut through the canyon in 1911-12.

VICE-REGAL GIFT

Another who remembers the old times is Mrs. Ellen Barry, daughter of Ned Stout, Indian fighter and prospector who lived to be nearly 100. In her little cottage near the railway tracks she prizes a ring of pure Fraser River gold given to her by her father and a worn book entitled "Papa's Little Daughter," with the inscription: "To Miss Mary Stout. From the Governor-General and the Princess, Yale, B.C., 1882."

The governor-general was the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess, Queen Victoria's daughter, Princess Louise.

Mrs. Barry's son, Ed, is Yale's postmaster, magistrate, storekeeper and church warden, and lives in the house where he was born. The house was built in the 1880s.

Mrs. Barry and Mrs. Clara Clare are "old girls" of All Hallows in the West, once a girls' school where many prominent British Columbia families sent their daughters.

The school, too, is gone but its former students have not forgotten the work of the Sisters of the Community of All Hallows. Early in June the Lord Bishop of New Westminster, Rt. Rev. Godfrey Gower, dedicated in the little church a brass plaque, the gift of the "old girls" to the sisters.

Commons Votes Unanimously In Support of Principle of Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, by a vote of 183 to 0, approved Thursday night the principle of a Canadian bill of rights.

Every member of the House present — Conservative, Liberal and CCF — stood up and was counted as Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cherished measure sailed through second reading after 3½ days of intense debate. The galleries were filled.

The vote came after a two-hour speech by Mr. Diefenbaker, his second of the debate, in which he replied to opposition criticisms of the bill and offered to establish a committee next session to examine the War Measures Act.

This was a partial concession to Opposition Leader Pearson, who had demanded that curbs on the extraordinary powers given the government under the War Measures Act be written into the bill of rights.

Mr. Pearson called for an outright statutory declaration that no government can deprive a Canadian of his citizenship, or exile him, even in wartime.

ASKS GUARANTEE

He also called for a guarantee that the government cannot detain a person under the War Measures Act for more than a few weeks without bringing him before a Superior Court judge and making a prima facie case that his detention is necessary to the security of Canada. If such a case is not established the man would be set free.

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed that the War Measures Act has been found to contain provisions "that ought to be ameliorated in the interests of the individual while at the same time maintaining the security of the state."

Immediately after the bill of rights was given second reading, Mr. Diefenbaker moved that it be referred to a special 15-member committee for study.

The vote, being unanimous, was not an entirely accurate reflection of the temper of the debate, which was vigorous from the outset and produced its share of fireworks.

The opposition attacked the bill mainly on grounds that the government should have canvassed the provinces in an attempt to obtain agreement on an amendment to the British North America Act guaranteeing individual rights.

ATTACKS BILL

At the afternoon sitting Thursday, J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) described the bill as "anemic," "harmless," and "thin gruel." It can't do any real injury", he said, but as a constitutional amendment it could become "real porridge."

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said nothing new or effective will be achieved unless the bill's jurisdiction is extended to the provinces. Both federal and provincial levels of government had to be restrained if the act were to work.

Mr. Diefenbaker's lengthy speech was punctuated by desk-thumping applause by Conservative MPs. After he concluded, his supporters cheered and thumped their desks for nearly a minute.

The prime minister said the bill will not do everything he would have liked to see done.

"However, it is a major step forward in that henceforth Canadians will know that their national rights cannot be disregarded, that the government will have before it an unmistakable and clear declaration that it must at all times preserve and maintain the freedoms in the legislation that it brings before Parliament. . . ."

TO THE COURTS

Mr. Diefenbaker said bluntly there are in existence statutes which have the effect of denying certain judicial rights. The bill would encourage "an attitude towards interpretation" by the courts in dealing with federal legislation past, present and future.

At present, even if Parliament did something they considered improper, the courts had "no recourse but to follow the legislative enactment."

"This bill will be a backdrop against which the actions of the future will be played and consideration of the great range of matters coming before Parliament will take place.

"With the knowledge and will of Parliament what legislation is passed shall fit and be consonant with the great objectives of a free society as set forth in this bill of rights."

Dealing with opposition arguments that the government should have sought the agreement of the provinces on a constitutional amendment, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"Having regard to the experience of the past and the natural attitude of the provinces which have certain rights under the constitution, they still say 'Do not do anything until you are able to secure a constitutional amendment.' That argument answers itself."

Answering opposition objections that the bill, as an act of Parliament, could be repealed, the prime minister said none of the great charters of freedom adopted by the British Parliament has ever been repealed.

If the bill is passed, Parliament would no longer be able to pass laws, by simple declaration of emergency, vesting extraordinary powers in the executive or interfering with the rights of the provinces.

Sleepwalking Wife Saves Him From Army

DONCASTER, England (AP)—Barrie Hansford has won a reprieve from the British army because his wife walks in her sleep.

Attractive 20-year-old Mrs. Hansford had recently been taking an unconscious stroll out in the street in her pyjamas almost every night. Hansford has to bring her back.

Her doctor enlisted the aid of the Member of Parliament for their district. The MP took the matter up with national service officials, who agreed to indefinitely defer drafting Hansford, who is 21.

"Sleepwalking runs in my family," said Mrs. Hansford. "My mother does it, and I have an eight-year-old brother who even sings in his sleep."

Coney Island Acquires Whale From Canada

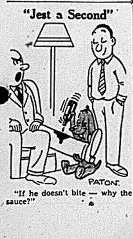
NEW YORK (CP)—The lights were turned out Thursday night in a 30-foot aquarium pool to give a lady whale from Canada a beauty rest before she faces an expected huge weekend crowd at the Coney Island Aquarium.

Aquarium director Christopher W. Coates paid a group of five Maritimers $4,000 today for the Beluga whale captured Sunday from the Kildare River near Alberton, P.E.I.

As yet unnamed, the 1,800-pound, 10-foot-11-inch mammal is one of three in captivity in the U.S. A native of arctic waters, she was thought to have got lost and moved into the Kildare River early this spring when the water level was high.

Diefenbaker Prepared to Welcome 'Decorative Preamble' to His Bill

"Jest a Second"



"If he doesn't bite — why the sauce?"

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday night he has no objection to a "decorative" preamble being added to his bill of rights. The day of preambles is pretty well past, he said in the Commons, but he would welcome those with the power of language and imagery to provide the kind of challenging words that opposition speakers had said should be inserted in the bill.

"This bill contains the working sections," he said, emphasizing the word working. "I have no objection to a decorative (emphasizing decorative) preamble."

If some MP could produce a declaration or preamble that would have the results and effects suggested, "such a preamble covering a declaration of fundamental freedoms would certainly not be turned down."

Girl, 11, Routs Burglar With Blows and Shots

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A burglar made the mistake of trying to rob Linda Vallar's home Wednesday.

When he started inside, she picked up a pick-axe handle from a table and rapped him on the shins. She dropped the weapon and ran upstairs to get her brother's pistol. As the burglar came up the stairway, she fired three blank cartridge shots at him.

The burglar had enough. He fled into the nearby woods, limping from the pick-axe handle blows.

Linda is 11 years old.

Lakes Shippers May Renew Pleas On Coastal Trade

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette says Great Lakes shipping interests—driven by competition from low-cost British freighters—may be about to call for reopening of the controversial coastal trade question.

The question was studied by the Spence royal commission in 1957, mainly as a result of complaints that British ships were cutting into Canadian shipping business.

Lakes shippers say foreign competition, as well as a general lack of demand for iron ore and grain, are contributing to a poor season. Some of the medium-sized 15,000-ton ships have been laid up for three weeks, it was reported.

Ira C. McEwen, Montreal manager of N. M. Paterson and Sons Limited, one of the largest lakes operators, said the answer to the stiff competition "is not the distasteful antidote of government subsidies or unemployment benefits but proper laws that protect our own coasts."

Shippers favor Canada's withdrawal from a 1931 treaty by which Commonwealth shippers are allowed in the Canadian coastal trade in return for seldom-exercised reciprocal rights. New Zealand and Australia are no longer partners in the scheme.

PLANES TO THULE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force decided Thursday to send a dozen jet fighters back to the big Arctic base at Thule, Greenland, from which it removed all interceptors only four months ago. The sudden about-face may have been the result of protests made by Gen. Laurence Kuter, chief of the North American Defence Command.

Propose All Farm Imports By Common Market Nations Be Controlled by Licensing

LONDON (CP)—The European Economic Community has proposed agricultural policy changes which, if adopted, will have the effect of insulating almost completely Common Market farmers from the rigors of international trade.

The modifications of earlier policy proposals call for a licensing system to control stringently all imports from outside countries and provides payment of guaranteed prices throughout the year to all farm producers. The internal price levels are expected to be well above those of international trade.

These measures, suggested Thursday, may create new headaches for the world's grain exporting nations. The Common Market countries are among Canada's best markets and there is a fear that if the internal prices are set too high, community farmers may be encouraged to over-produce.

The council is the ultimate authority of the trading bloc formed by Germany, France, Italy and the Benelux countries. The executive feels strongly that achievement of a common market in agriculture should not be delayed past June 30, 1967.

Earlier this month, it was learned that Canada and some of her sister nations in the Commonwealth plan to challenge the legality of part of the proposals at a fall meeting to be held under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

This week a group of high-level officials from exporting nations, including Canada, wound up a tour of capitals of the community's members and its Brussels headquarters in a bid to get the six to be more liberal in their grain-trading policies.

Govt. Likely to Set Aside More Funds for New Houses

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is likely to set aside more funds than previously planned for direct home-building loans and to raise the $5,000 income limitation on them, informed sources said Thursday.

The anticipated result of such a step would be to stimulate fall and winter housing construction, providing greater employment in the construction industry and industries serving it.

For several months, the government has limited its direct loans through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to prospective home owners with annual incomes of $5,000 or less.

The stated objects of this policy were to ensure that more federal housing money went into construction for low-income groups and less to speculative building for which housing authorities contend demand has slackened since last year.

In announcing the 1960 direct-lending policy some months ago, Works Minister Walker, who is responsible for administering the government's housing policy, indicated that about $175,000,000 would be available for direct lending, down sharply from the $350,000,000 committed by CMHC last year.

Reliable sources said it is likely that the government will increase the direct-lending funds to $200,000,000 or more.

At the same time, the $5,000 limitation is likely to be increased to $7,000 or $7,600 depending on the number of children in the family of the prospective home owner applying for a government loan, these sources said.

EDMONTON (CP) — House builders are being used by the federal government as a "tool" to create jobs when unemployment mounts, Graham Lount, first vice-president of the National House Builders Association, said Thursday.

The Winnipeg contractor told a press conference reports the federal government may release as much as $2000,000,000 for direct home building loans indicate Ottawa is worried about the employment situation.

Mr. Lount, here for a mid-year directors meeting, said Ottawa appears ready to use the house building industry to "pick up the slack" in employment.

C. C. Holmes of Toronto, association president, said the house building industry in Canada could never be stable while the government turned the flow of mortgage money "off and on like a kitchen tap."

House builders were operating at 20 per cent of capacity, and the resulting inefficiency meant only increased costs.

Mr. Holmes said the number of homes built in the first five months of 1960 is down 39 per cent from the same period in 1959, and NHA-built homes have been cut by 68 per cent.

He said the NHBA wants the federal government to gradually withdraw from direct lending for house building, but still to guarantee loans so that private lenders will be lured back into the field.

Liberals Oppose Move to Retire All Judges at 75

OTTAWA (CP) — Growing resentment was expressed Thursday by Liberal senators over a government proposal to ask the United Kingdom Parliament to write into the British North America Act a compulsory retirement age of 75 for judges of provincial superior, county and district courts.

Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L — British Columbia) moved that approval of the proposal be delayed until the Supreme Court of Canada decides whether the Canadian Parliament itself has this power.

The motion received the support of Liberal Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald, and Liberal Senators William M. Wall and Thomas Crerar of Manitoba and Senator J. G. Turgeon of British Columbia.

Senator Farris submitted his proposal in the form of a resolution. However, Speaker Mark Drouin said he doubted that Senator Farris could submit a resolution when the chamber was discussing a government motion to ask the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the BNA Act.

Government Leader Walter Aseltine said that Senator Farris had not made a proper amendment to the government motion. Speaker Drouin said he had the same view but would defer decision until the Senate sits again Tuesday.

COMMONS APPROVED

A motion in the same wording as that before the Senate has already been approved by the Commons. Senate legal authorities said that if the Senat amended the motion this would have the effect of killing the measure for this session.

Senator Farris said that as a constitutional lawyer he has confidence that Parliament has jurisdiction to change the constitution in any matter that does not affect the provinces.

If Parliament had this power, it would be a retrograde step to ask the British Parliament to do it.

"We will be going back to colonialism," he said.

Three Lutheran Churches Merge

REGINA (CP) — Three Lutheran churches merged Thursday to form the biggest Lutheran church in Western Canada.

The Canadian district of the American Lutheran Church displaced separate organizations of Canada district of the American Lutheran Church, the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church.

On the third ballot Rev. Karl Holfeld of Regina, president of the old Canada district for 12 years, was elected president of the new organization. He is the son of a Dafoe, Sask., farmer.

Combined membership of the new church is about 60,000.

Dr. Holfeld said earlier this week "the basic idea is that Lutherans who come from many lands and speak a babel of tongues are finding in each other a common faith."

The organization will have headquarters in Saskatoon but will not start to function until Jan. 1 next year. Meanwhile, officials of the old units will keep them running.

The constitution of the new body was adopted Thursday.

Charge Army Is Not Getting Modern Weapons

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, said Thursday it is "shocking" that army requirements for new weapons and equipment have not been met.

Chesley W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) tossed his Second World War army helmet onto the table of the Commons defence committee to emphasize Mr. Hellyer's point.

Mr. Carter demanded to know whether any consideration was being given to provision of a new helmet for the infantry.

Defence Minister Pearkes said the army has an adequate supply of helmets and there was no plan to get a new one this year. The helmet displayed by Mr. Carter had been "very satisfactory in the last war."

Mr. Hellyer, former associate defence minister and MP for Toronto Trinity, said all the committee is told is that various items of equipment are under consideration.

Quebec's Minister of Labor Prides Himself on Ability To Win Accords in Disputes

QUEBEC (CP)—Rene Hamel, Quebec's new labor minister, is a chunky, graying man of 50 who prides himself on his ability to make management and labor see eye to eye.

"I have always endeavoured to find a basis of agreement that was fair to employers and employees alike in any negotiations I have taken a part in," says Mr. Hamel.

Mr. Hamel, a lawyer, has had long experience on Quebec's three-man conciliation boards, known as arbitration boards although their decisions are not binding.

He assesses himself as a man with a capacity for getting along, for compromise and for finding common grounds of agreement in employer-employee relations.

Mr. Hamel, 16th child in a family of 17 raised in the lumbering and paper mill town of Grand'mere, learned compromise early.

He put it to good use as an ambitious student beset by money shortages and as a politician with nationalist ideals but fully aware political success lay only in the ranks of established parties.

After finishing his primary education in 1929 he went to work for Consolidated Paper Corporation Limited at Shawinigan, now his hometown, and worked as a messenger boy, clerk and newsprint inspector.

After private studies he entered the seminary at Trois-Rivieres and enrolled in the law faculty of Laval University in 1934.

Along the way one politician who gave him a financial hand—$25—was the late Premier Maurice Duplessis.

In 1937 he won the Governor General's gold medal for turning out the best paper in his law graduating examinations. Then he successfully applied for a scholarship to take up postgraduate studies at the University of Louvain in Belgium where he graduated in economics and political science.

During the Second World War he was caught up in the anti-conscription movement of the Bloc Populaire party, joined it in 1942 and was a candidate in the 1944 provincial election. He lost his deposit. The following year he made a bid in the federal election and won.

In 1949, when the next federal election came around, the Bloc Populaire had fallen apart as a party.

Premier Jean Lesage, then a Liberal Commons member, approached Mr. Hamel and asked him to run as a Liberal.

Mr. Hamel insisted on running as an Independent and was defeated. He went back to law practice, became legal adviser to the Catholic unions and counsel for the town of Shawinigan.

In 1952 he was again approached to run as a Liberal candidate in the provincial election.

He ran and defeated one of Mr. Duplessis' cabinet ministers, in a riding for which Mr. Duplessis' father had once been the member for 15 years.

The late Union Nationale chief never forgave Mr. Hamel for this humiliation.

In the legislature Mr. Duplessis and Mr. Hamel reacted to each other as cat to dog. When Mr. Duplessis recalled his $25 donation, Mr. Hamel called a page boy, gave him $50 and ordered him to publicly pay back the premier. Mr. Duplessis flushed, said he would have some masses sung with the money.

In the 1956 election, in spite of all-out Union Nationale efforts, Mr. Hamel was returned to the legislature.

Mr. Hamel said Thursday he has never played politics in labor affairs. When he discussed labor in the legislature he avoided political elements.

He said he is still a nationalist but he is not to be confused with persons who wish to separate Quebec from the rest of Canada.

"I have never asked for anything for Quebec's French-speaking people that I was not ready to grant the English-speaking element."

Canadian and U.S. Ministers Will Wrestle With Nuclear Weapons Problem Once More

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian and American cabinet ministers likely will come to grips again next week with the so-far-insoluble problem of provision of American nuclear warheads for Canadian forces, informants said Thursday.

The Canada-United States cabinet defence committee will meet here Tuesday and Wednesday to go into all aspects of North American defence.

The Canadian ministers are Defence Minister Pearkes, External Affairs Minister Green, Finance Minister Fleming, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and Associate Defence Minister Sevigny.

The American cabinet members are Defence Secretary Thomas Gates, State Secretary Christian Herter and Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have modified his position on nuclear warheads. Until recently, he had insisted on "Canadian control" of American warheads in Canada but this week he said he is in favor of "joint" Canada-U.S. control.

It remains to be seen whether joint control can be worked out in view of the American law which says that U.S. nuclear warheads must remain under American control. This has been modified in the case of the United Kingdom but only because Britain itself has nuclear weapons.

As matters stand now, Canada is unlikely to acquire nuclear warheads for its forces in this country, reliable sources said earlier this week.

The cabinet has not yet decided, in fact, whether they should be acquired. A decision may depend on bargaining over the control aspect with American cabinet ministers next week.

Production schedules for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile probably will be taken up by the committee. Congress recently approved funds for about 10 Bomarc bases, including two in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker has said that "The Bomarc to be effective would require nuclear warheads."

Calgary Man Makes His Own Hovercraft at Cost of $350

CALGARY (CP) — A Calgary man says he has designed and built a hovercraft capable of travelling in any direction over land or water.

A. J. Froehler, 37, a repairs supervisor for an airline company, said he completed the craft in less than three months after a fellow employee challenged his ability to make such an air-car.

Mr. Froehler said he has made several sorties with his craft at up to 30 m.p.h., "cushioned" above the ground about six to 10 inches by downward blasts of air.

Cost of the vehicle apart from labor is estimated at about $350.

Mr. Froehler said he thinks the craft has definite commercial possibilities, "especially as a river, swamp and snow vehicle."

PIONEER CHURCH

St. John's Church at Lunenburg, N.S., was founded by royal charter in 1754.

Cottage Sites Are in Demand

TORONTO (CP) — Sales of Crown land for cottage sites are booming this year although prices have increased 66 per cent over last year.

The lands and forests department reported Thursday that its new over-the-counter system of land sales which went into effect June 13 is expected to sustain the cottage boom. Last year there were 2,418 sales.

The new process allows the purchaser to get his lot within minutes after he has selected and paid for it.

Lots are roughly 150 by 200 feet with a standard cost of $2.50 per front foot and a charge of $150 to cover survey costs. Minimum purchase price is $400.

Crews Try Out At St. Kitts

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Sixteen young athletes are to compete here Saturday for the right to represent Canada in next month's Olympic rowing in Italy.

Three crews meet in the fours while four scullers are to compete in the singles. There will be no trial for eights as the University of British Columbia team already has qualified in a special row-over against the stopwatch.

The UBC eight, with cox and two spares, leave only four places to be chosen for Canada's 15-man rowing contingent by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

The two trials will be part of a 16-race Central Association Rowing Association regatta program over a mile-and-550-yard distance at the Henley course here.

Fours will race Saturday and a CCAO selection committee will decide winners in the light of times and style as compared with their international competition.

Hitting — Bob Skinner, Pittsburgh Pirates, cracked a two-run, two-out double in the ninth for all three RBI in 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Pitching — Warren Spahn, Braves, ended Milwaukee's losing string at three with five-hit 2-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phils, walking just one and striking out 10.

EHL MEETS

NEW YORK (AP)—New managements for Eastern Hockey League clubs at Philadelphia and Charlotte, N.C., were approved Thursday as league officials drew up a 64-game schedule for each of the eight clubs at the annual summer meeting. Play will begin Oct. 21 and will end on March 5.

Bud Dudley, former director of Athletics at Villanova, is president of the new Philadelphia organization. C. O. Chesley, formerly assistant director of Athletics at Pennsylvania, was named general manager.

Paul Buck, director of the Charlotte Coliseum, takes over the Carolina club and will serve as general manager.

New York, May Not See National Club

NEW YORK (AP)—The World-Telegram in a story by Joe King says there has been a dramatic switch of opinion in the National League pointing to the return of a National League team to New York City.

Such a return has been predicted by The Associated Press since the major league meetings last December.

New York lost the Giants to San Francisco and Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles after the 1957 season.

New York would regain a team, if it happens, through expansion of the National League to 10 teams.

The World - Telegram quotes Warren Giles, president of the National League, in discussing the May meeting of major league owners, as saying "my feeling was that only two of the eight members were strongly opposed to a 10-club league. Four members were outright for expansion, and I classed two as lukewarm, as tending toward a no but willing to be persuaded to a yes."

A unanimous vote is needed for any expansion.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — Welland Canal, heavily favored by the crowd of 6,454 won the featured Lethbridge Plate on a foul at New Woodbine park Thursday. Welland Canal finished second, a length behind Hooker, but the stewards ruled that Hooker had impeded Welland Canal twice in the run through the home stretch.

Welland Canal, ridden by Avelino Gomez, was awarded first place and paid $3 to win. Hooker, ridden by Pat Remillard was placed second and Professor Ted finished a distant third.

Cards Sign Canadian Youth

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—John Macdonald, 18, a left - handed pitcher from nearby Merritton, has been signed by St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, it was announced Thursday.

A graduate of Merritton High School, Macdonald now plays with Merritton Juniors. He was spotted by St. Louis scout Barney Smith who said the youngster probably will play next season with Keokuk, Iowa, of the Midwest League or Daytona of the Florida State League.

Macdonald was first noticed by the Cardinals at a try-out camp last summer in Hamilton. Los Angeles Dodgers had Macdonald working out with Montreal Royals last summer, and New York Yankees had him at a try-out camp in Gowanda, N.Y.

Macdonald has a 4-0 record with the Merritton Minor Baseball Association and in 1959 had a record of 13-4.

Cino Doesn't Fiddle When Playing Ball

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—When little Gino Agresti is charming concert audiences with his violin, you'd never dream that he was an outstanding fireball pitcher in baseball.

If he's not giving concerts or taking lessons, Gino, 12, hurls in the Florida Little Major League. He has five straight no - hit games this season and has struck out 88 batters in 33 innings.

Team manager Al Lafferty says Gino's success is in the fastball. Lafferty had so much trouble finding anyone to catch for Gino that he finally gave the job to his son.

COWBOY STEVE

BY BOB HESKETH

Stout Steve Owen of the Argonauts, has spent a lifetime at football but had never seen it till he was 16.

Steve was brought up in Oklahoma Indian territory. One day he came across a group playing in a field.

The coach appraised Steve who was a svelte 220 pounds and asked him if he had ever carried a football. Steve said no.

"Let's see you run down to them posts at the end of the field." Steve took off. Tacklers bounced off him as he ran the distance still on his feet.

"O.K.," said the coach as Steve jogged back, marvelling at the simplicity of the game. "Now let's see you do it without your spurs on!"

'Diagnosis Unknown' Show Got Away to Bad Beginning

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first moments of Diagnosis: Unknown it became clear that the mystery was off to a bad start.

The victim, an artist's model, is strangled. The audience sees only her hands and lower part of the body. The hands claw at the bed clothes. If the victim had acted like any normal person being suffocated, those hands would have been pushing off the murderer. And his face might have borne scratch marks. As Sherlock Holmes would say, "Elementary, my dear Watson."

But then there would have been no contrived story to occupy one hour of the time CBS regularly allots to Garry Moore (10 p.m., EDT Tuesday).

Instead of a sleuth with a pistol, Diagnosis:

HEP AND JIVEY

Unknown features a central character who is a pathologist named Dr. Coffee. His top talk and beard peg him as a graduate beatnik.

Naturally, he has a lab technician who is pretty and just as jivey.

In fact, there is no end to jiveyness in this bunch, considering that the other two lab regulars are a teen-age test tube washer and a man from India (who is hep with Far East flavor.)

The law is represented by a police lieutenant who also digs far out talk. The murder was about as mystifying as a cup of custard.

Wants Chuvalo For Cleroux

QUEBEC (CP) — Fight promoter Eddie Quinn said Thursday he is negotiating for an Aug. 17 Canadian heavyweight title bout between champion George Chuvalo of Toronto and No. 1 contender Robert Cleroux of Montreal.

The fight would be held at Montreal's Delorimier Stadium.

Quinn said there is a good possibility the fight will be staged providing Cleroux doesn't get hurt in his July 27 bout against Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex., in Montreal. Harris is ranked ninth among world title contenders by the National Boxing Association and 10th by Ring Magazine.

Glamor in Politics

Mrs. Peter Lawford Sister To Senator John Kennedy

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leave it to California to provide a touch of glamor amid the 4,518 delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention.

One of the members of Governor Edmund Brown's delegation bears two famous names. In the political crowd, she's Patricia Kennedy. To Hollywood, she's Mrs. Peter Lawford.

With typical Kennedy smoothness, she has managed to juggle the twin careers of being sister to a presidential aspirant and wife of a movie star.

Her brother, Senator John F. Kennedy, is due to arrive Saturday and she expects to see a great deal of him.

Politics is a family passion with the Kennedys and Pat admitted she enjoys it as much as anyone.

"Of course, all of us have been interested in Jack's career, and have worked for him ever since he started running for Congress in 1946," she said.

PERSONAL TOUCH

"We go around to women's groups and make speeches and answer questions. It seems to be pretty successful. People like that personal touch with a member of the candidate's family."

What does her husband think of her campaigning?

"He enjoys it," she said. "He campaigns very well himself. I keep telling him he should run for office."

The Lawfords have a son, Christopher, 5, and two daughters, Sydney, 3½, and Victoria, 1½.

Wants Career as an Actress Because It Is Good for Her

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why should one of the richest women in the United States want a career as an actress?

"Because I love it," says Dina Merrill. "Because it's a challenge. Because I think it's good for me and good for my family."

Dina's father is E. F. Hutton. Her mother is Mrs. Merriweather Post of the cereal family. Her husband is industrialist Stanley Rumbough, Jr.

MOTHER OF THREE

The fact is that she is as enthusiastic about her career as any struggling starlet. And she has been parlaying one important film after another—from Operation Petticoat to The Sundowners to Butterfield 8. Now she's here to play Burt Lancaster's wife in A Matter of Conviction.

Dina is the mother of three growing youngsters. Asked how an international film schedule fitted in with home life, she said: "Surprisingly well. If it didn't, I wouldn't do acting. But I've been lucky. Even though I've had to come out here and go to Key West and Australia for pictures, I've never had any really long absences from home.

"I think it's good for all of us. I think families should take vacations from each other now and then. Absence does make the heart grow fonder. When I come back, my children appreciate me more."

AT THE PARK — Charles Chaplin in "A Dog's Life," has only a stray pup for a friend, but remains undaunted. The picture makes up one of three side-splitting comedies to be seen in "The Chaplin Revue" showing today and Saturday at the air-conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program in Technicolor, "The Last of the Fast Guns," starring Jock Mahoney, Gilbert Roland and Linda Cristal. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Steve Reeves as "The Giant of Marathon," Mylene Demongeot, cast of thousands, in color and Dyalscope 2.40, 7.40, 9.45.

AT THE PARK — In Technicolor: "Last of the Fast Guns," Jock Mahoney, Gilbert Roland, Linda Cristal: 7.00 - 10.35; "The Chaplin Revue," Charles Chaplin: 8.40.

AT THE McCARTHY — "The Boy and the Pirates," Cinemascope and Color, Charles Herbert, Susan Gordon, 2 p.m., 7 p.m., 9.35. "Outlaw's Son," Dane Clark, Lori Nelson, 3.28, 8.28.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — (Show starts at dusk) "The Boy and the Pirates," Cinemascope and Color, Charles Herbert, Susan Gordon. "Outlaw's Son," Dane Clark, Lori Nelson.

AT QUINTE DRIVE-IN THEATRE — "Torpedo Run" with Glenn Ford and Ernest Borgnine; "The Mountain" with Spencer Tracy and Robert Wagner.

Rocky Will Comment on TV; Train Fighter

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Marciano still leaves the door to a ring comeback ajar, but the chances of his edging his way through it are becoming slimmer and slimmer.

The undefeated and retired heavyweight champion has two new projects to keep him occupied. One of them promises a steady income and the other is a gamble with only his time at stake.

Marciano said Thursday he will be the commentator on a television show next fall which will show films of the greatest fights in Madison Square Garden in the last 15 years.

There will be 39 half - hour shows starting in October, with Rocky himself appearing in eight of them. He is part owner of the production and will have a name personality as guest on each program.

His other current interest is a young Pennsylvania farmer who wants to be a fighter.

"His name is Ray Hackencheck, and he's from Portland, Pa.," Marciano says. "He's only had three amateur fights, and overwhelmed his opposition. He's the strongest fellow I ever saw. Breaks two-by-fours with his bare hands.

"He's about six feet tall and weighs 200, and has determination. I'm getting Charley Goldman, my old trainer, to work with him, and we'll see how he develops."

SCOTTISH FOXES

WICK, Scotland (CP) — A total of 215 foxes and 67 cubs were killed in Caithness and Sutherland in the 12 months ended March 31. Bounties of 10 shillings for each fox, and five shillings for cubs, amounted to just over £124.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Pretty fair, pretty fair," mused the grey-haired gentleman, "but it is not as good as it used to be."

We were sitting in Jack Dickens' redecorated mausoleum and sports memorial which has had at least twenty years removed with a new face lift, a lot of internal disorders cured and a general overhaul.

The hard-seated, brick and steel old lady which has seen over three decades of hockey wars, wrestling embroglios, and a hundred and one various forms of entertainment from Guy Lombardo, Gracie Fields, George Formby to Hackasack Hank and his Hungry Hog-Callers, Fiddling Freddie and his Five Fingers and whatnot, looks like a year-scarred old dowager after a five-hour seance in a beauty parlor, a steam bath and a gymnasium.

The "joint is jumping" with new decor. The magic of paint and color has wrought wonders with the heretofore old-age pension look of the building.

The Dickensian artistic taste is toned with common sense. There is nothing flamboyant about the job. The colors are bright and the combinations eye-pleasing. Practically everything has fallen victim to the magic of pigment and brush. Even the staid solid steel girders are glistening in new aluminum coats.

Now if some geni would pop out of an Aladdin's Lamp and offer three wishes, they'd be—for next winter's pleasant evenings—a "fifty-fifty" hockey club, upholstered seats and air-conditioning.

There's no law against dreaming, is there?

But the grey-haired gentleman was not referring to the butterfly which has emerged from the old Market Street chrysales.

He was watching the Rip-n-Rock duo manhandle a big chunk of man called Ed Miller, while partner John Leo Jonathan watched from the sidelines.

"Takes four to do what two did a lot better years ago," was his comment. "Back in the old days no wrestler wanted someone to spell him for a minute or so. He stayed in there and gave it and took it until he won or was beaten."

"I suppose it's show business," he grudgingly admitted. "But they didn't need any gimmicks, freaks, semi-circuses, or vaudeville shows to make a wrestling show a success then."

He tossed back a leonine head and laughed.

"What would the fans of my day—and a lot of them are here tonight—think of Gorgeous John Katan wearing a gold wig and tossing bobby pins at the fans. Or Beauteous Bunny Dunlop (he was streamlined then) wearing a golden robe with a purple Tunney coat-of-arms, and having a valet disinfect the area. Or an Earl McCready strutting in like a half-juiced peacock, wearing a Hawaaian sarong and attended by a half-dozen hula girls?"

"And you don't see that old-school bloke Fred Atkins, who is still in there, coming in like an Indian maharajah, preceded by a couple of elephants and fan-waving Hindoos."

"No, sirree," he mused. "Those were the good old days. The Katan's, the McCready's, Masked Marvels, Jack Claybournes, Doc Halls, Fred Atkins, Lord Laytons, Whipper Watsons, and later the younger buckaroos who are now at the top, were always good for fine entertainment."

There was a roar from the crowd. The Rock-n-Rips had just taken Big Ed Miller apart—and forgot to re-assemble him—and were strutting to the dressing room.

"This is good entertainment," said the grey-haired gentleman, "and as long as it amuses and entertains the crowd that is all that matters. Why even I will be back next week."

He will likely be there tonight when Rip-n-Rock take on the Mighty Jumbo and newcomer sensation Jack LaRock. The Hawk-Hunter combo is establishing quite a name for itself in Toronto and other wrestling centres and so far they have met with phenomenal success with their rough and tough tactics.

They met and defeated the Jumbo and another partner on another occasion here—and it proved quite a tussle. Whittling down 517 pounds of rassle meat to your size is no mean feat, but the R-n-R's say it can be done—and they can do it. Tonight tells the story.

TIP WELL DOWN

MUIDEN, The Netherlands (CP)—Tip, Canada's world title defending dragon class yacht, finished 21st Thursday in a field of 36 boats from 12 countries in the third day of the five-day Gold Cup dragon races for the 1960 world championship. Skippered by Walter Windeyer of Toronto, Tip took 16th and ninth positions in the first two races.

'Adios Butler' Ups Winnings

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Adios Butler has again demonstrated why he is considered the best pacer in training and perhaps the greatest ever in harness racing.

The four-year-old son of Adios-Debby Hanover, recently purchased for a record $600,000, easily won the $25,000 All-America Pace in 1:59 1-5 at Yonkers Raceway before 30,168 fans Thursday night.

It was the fifth victory in six starts this year for the Butler. The $12,500 purse boosted his all-time earnings for only 15 starts to $203,083.

Chisox Stop Indians Cold; Yankees Win

Sweep Series At Cleveland

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

It's getting so everyone apparently has forgotten Billy Pierce except the Cleveland Indians, who wish they could.

The Chicago White Sox southpaw was overlooked as a starting pitcher in last fall's world series and passed over by his own manager, Al Lopez, when the American League's all-star staff was named. But he's been a one-man roadblock to Indian pennant hopes.

He beat the second-place Indians for the fifth straight time in a 9-3 decision Thursday night that gave the White Sox a sweep of a two-game series at Cleveland. The defending champs, in fourth place, now have taken six of 10 from the Tribe this season, and Pierce has won four of them.

THREE GAMES BACK

Cleveland now is three games behind the first-place New York Yankees, who swept a two-game set at Baltimore by beating the third-place Orioles 6-3.

Detroit defeated Kansas City 6-3, and Washington split a twi-night pair at Boston. The Senators won 6-5, then lost 4-2.

Pierce (7-4) gave up seven hits, one a homer by Jim Piersall, he won his fourth of the last six games and has won seven of eight from the Indians in the past two seasons.

Al Smith, who was 4-for-4, and Gene Freese each homered and drove in three runs for the White Sox in a 13-hit attack. Jim Perry (9-4) lost.

A two-run seventh inning, triggered by Clete Boyer's homer, brought the Yankees from behind against loser Milt Pappas (7-6). New York was blanked on one hit until the fifth, when pinch hitter Bob Cerv socked a two-run homer. Winner Duke Maas (1-1) and Bobby Shantz shut out the Birds on four hits over the last five innings in relief of Bob Turley.

FIVE-RUN THIRD

The Tigers scored five in the third inning and sent Don Larsen (0-6) to his 11th straight loss. The big righthander, the only perfect game pitcher in world series history, has not one complete game in 15 tries, eight this year. Lefthander Don Mossi (6-6) won.

The Senators made it four in a row in the opener in a two-run seventh. Billy Gardner's triple scored the clincher. Camilo Pascual (8-5) won it with Hal Woodeshick's relief help. Frank Sullivan (3-10) was the loser.

Billy Muffett (1-1) making only his seventh start in the majors and first since 1956, pitched a four-hitter for the Red Sox in the nightcap for his first AL victory. He retired 18 of the last 19. Willie Tasby, who beat Bill Fischer (3-5) with a two-run single in the fourth.

Cubans Split With Columbus; Marlins Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings were stripped of their Cuban home Thursday but it didn't seem to upset them in International League action.

Shortly after league officials decided to switch the Havana franchise to another city, the Sugar Kings clashed with seventh-place Jets in a doubleheader at Columbus. The fourth-place Cubans lost the first game 3-2, then took the nightcap 11 with a five-run ninth inning.

The third-place Richmond Virginians nipped last-place Miami Marlins 4-3 in 10 innings in the only other league action.

CARDENAS SHINES

Leo Cardenas led the nightcap assault at Columbus with a double, three singles and four runs batted in. Reliever Raul Sanchez was the winner and Don Williams lost.

In the scheduled seven-inning homer, Columbus used a hit batsman, singles by Tom Burgess, Pidge Browne and Dick Gray plus a walk with the bases loaded in the eighth to hand Howie Nunn his first loss in five decisions. Don Dobrino was the winner.

Two wild throws in the 10th inning enabled Jack Reed to score Richmond's winning run from first base. He had opened the bottom of the 10th with a single and after one out, stole second, continued to third when the throw went into centre field and scored when the return relay went into the Miami dugout.

Pirate Slugger Does It Again

There's No Patch On Skinner's Eye

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have begun to look like world champions again, but they still have a long way to go to catch Pittsburgh's plucky and persistent Pirates in the National League race.

The Dodgers, who trail by 8½ games, moved within a half-game of third place San Francisco by whipping Chicago Cubs 7-3 Thursday night for their ninth victory in 11 games and fourth in a row.

But the Pirates put away their fourth consecutive success when Bob Skinner, who drove in all their runs, cracked a two-out, two-run double in the ninth inning that beat Cincinnati 3-2. It was Pittsburgh's 11th last-inning victory and pushed the Bucs 19 games over .500.

It also retained their 5½-game spread over Milwaukee's second place Braves, who defeated Philadelphia 2-0 as Hank Aaron backed Warren Spahn's five-hitter with a home run and sacrifice fly.

St. Louis rapped San Francisco 7-3.

DRYSDALE HITS STRIDE

Right-hander Don Drysdale, after winning just two in 13 tries for the Dodgers over more than two months, now has won his last two starts for a 6-10 record. He allowed eight hits and walked four, but struck out eight and blanked the Cubs after George Altman hit his third home run in as many at-bats in the second inning. That's the only run Dodger pitching has allowed in 27 innings.

Duke Snider drove in three runs and tagged reliever Seth Morehead for his first homer off a lefty since 1956. His two-run triple—a high fly that was lost in the twi-light at the Coliseum—clinched it for the Dodgers as they scored three in the first off Mark Freeman (3-4).

The Pirates trailed 2-1 with two out and no one on base in the ninth at Cincinnati. Bill Mazeroski got them rolling with a single, his third hit, off reliever Jim Brosnan. Smoky Burgess, just back from a two-day suspension, followed with a pinch single off loser Bill Henry (1-4), who then gave up Skinner's winner.

Mazeroski doubled and tied it 1-1 in the fifth when he scored as Skinner, who beat the Reds with an eighth-inning grandslam Wednesday, hit into a force out. Wilmer Mizell (5-5) was the winner, allowing four hits, one Frank Robinson's solo homer. Elroy Face wrapped it up in the ninth, allowing the Reds' fifth hit as they lost their fourth in a row.

NOT ALL-STAR, BUT STAR

Spahn (8-5), left off the all-star staff, gained his 275th victory and 48th shutout—both all-time highs among NL southpaws—while walking just one and striking out 10, five in the first two innings. Lee Walls, who had two hits, and Bobby Del Greco singled with none out in the ninth for the Phils. But after Spahn gave up a walk that loaded the bases with one out, Bobby Gene Smith hit into a doubleplay.

Billy Bruton's double and a single by Del Crandall set up Aaron's sacrifice fly in the first inning against Chris Short (4-5). Aaron hit his 23rd home run in the sixth as the Braves ended their loss string at three with their third victory in 10 games.

A two-run single by Stan Musial won it for the Cards in the third against Sam Jones (10-8). Larry Jackson (10-8), who had lost three straight after winning eight in a row, beat the Giants for the fourth time. He allowed nine hits, one a homer by Orlando Cepeda. The Giants scored their first run in 31 innings in the third.

South Hastings Baseball League

The Cannifton Clippers exploded for five runs in the top of the ninth inning to pull out a 9-5 victory over Foxboro Little Giants in a South Hastings tilt the other evening.

Foxboro held a 5-3 lead after three frames but Cannifton got one in the seventh and were sparked in the last-frame rally by John "Shaker" Baker's three-run triple.

Masterson threw five-hit ball for Cannifton while "Soup" Campbell hurled well for Foxboro until the ninth when Jerry Mann came in during the rally. They gave up six hits.

Baker had three Cannifton safeties while Forsythe got a pair and Oliver one.

Ralph Plane had a couple for Foxboro with the others going to Ron Dulmage, Bill Charlton and Bellanger.

Outboards At Consecon On Sunday

The Picton and Toronto Outfirst Canadian Boating Federaboard Clubs are sponsoring the tion sanctioned regatta to be held in this area in ten years at North Bay, Consecon, on Sunday.

Approximately 100 boats are expected to participate in the regatta on Sunday afternoon beginning at 1.00 p.m. North Bay is situated 15 miles south of Trenton on highway number 33.

Championship drivers from the United States and Canada will be among the competitors taking part. Seven classes will be held with the drivers battling for cash awards.

A Picton spokesman said yesterday that a large crowd is expected to attend the races. He said that the CBF-sanctioned races were popular here some years ago and now making a comeback in the area.

Nagle Close Second

Vicenzo Retains Open Lead

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP)—A couple of golfers with unorthodox methods in their background led the field into today's third round of the British open golf championships.

Maintaining his two-stroke lead in the 72-hole event was Roberto De Vicenzo, 37-year-old native of Argentina now playing out of Mexico. Oldtimers recalled that when he started on the United States tour he used to put the ball down on the ground without a tee and belt it with a brassie.

"That's correct," Roberto confirmed. "Now I can afford to buy tees."

De Vicenzo scored his second five-under par 67 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 134—the lowest halfway score in the British Open since 1934. His nearest rival, Australian Kel Nagle, also had a 67 for a total of 136.

Nagle, reigning Australian champion, started his golf career by whacking at a ball with a twisted tree root on his father's farm in New South Wales. He hasn't stopped swinging since.

A total of 47 players—38 pros and nine amateurs—managed a score of 149 or better Thursday to qualify for the last two rounds.

Arnold Palmer, the U.S. Open champion, fired a 71 for a 141 total. He was tied at third with Peter Thomson of Australia, four-time winner of the British Open, and Spaniard Sebastien Miguel.

Gary Player of South Africa, the defending champion, had a 73 for a 143 total and a share of eighth place.

De Vicenzo might have threatened the course record with a little better putting. He had 33 putts and missed two from four feet.

By contrast, Nagle, 39, not only didn't miss a fairway, but had no more trouble on the greens.

"If the boys are missing their putts, it's not the fault of the greens," he said. "They're great."

City Commercial Softball Results

Circle TV exploded for 14 hits on their way to a 12-2 victory over Jones' Motors in Commercial softball action last night.

Laurie Davis spearheaded the Circle attack by clouting a pair of home runs, a double and a single. Ronnie Archer contributed a double and two singles, Bill Trumpour a home run and Ross Empey two singles.

Hunter Has 4-Hitter

Bobcats Defeat Trenton 10-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats chalked up their most important win of the season last night, a 10-2 victory over Trenton Halloran's that moved them into a commanding position in the B. and D. league pennant race.

Trenton holds the top spot with nine wins, one tie and three losses. The 'Cats, with two games in hand, have won eight, lost two and tied one for 17 points to Trenton's 19. The clubs hook up in a postponed game at Belleville's CNRA Park Wednesday.

Belleville opened the scoring in the first and never looked back as Howie Cole had a bad night on the Trenton mound. He lasted four innings plus, gave up eight runs on seven hits, walked six and fanned one. Ron Wannamaker finished with two runs on four hits fanning two and walking none.

Bobby Hunter ran his record to 4-0 with a neat four-hit performance. He struck out five and passed one. The walk was his third in four complete games.

Bert Faulkner pulled into a tie in the league home run race with Trenton's Don Cole by smashing his third and fourth of the year, both off Wannamaker with the sacks empty in the sixth and eighth innings.

Hunter, John Batchelor, Denny Hayden and Earl Cousins also had two hits apiece for the winners while Floyd Crawford got the other. Seven Trenton errors, four off singles that were booted around in the outfield, helped the cause too.

Bob Burns accounted for one Trenton run with a homer in the sixth while the other came on two errors in the fifth. Roger Drake had a double and single while Doug Alexander bagged the other Trenton safety.

Batchelor's single drove in the winners' lead run after Cole had walked a pair to start the game. Base hits by Hayden, Hunter and Crawford looked after two runs in the second inning while three errors and hits by Batchelor and Hayden got another two in the third.

Three straight walks after two were out, Cousins' solid base knock and an error on the same play brought home a trio in the fourth. Cole departed after walking Hayden to open the fifth frame.

Wannamaker, with better control, had little trouble except for Faulkner's two circuit clouts, but Hunter's steady hurling never gave the Halloran crew a chance to get back into the game.

SOLUNAR TABLES
by John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The following chart is for the periods from Saturday, July 9, to Sunday, July 17.

All times are Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Sow Thistles May Take Over Farm Areas

There are three varieties of sow-thistle in Ontario which have originated from Europe sow thistle (Sonchus arvensis but the perennial or creeping L) is the most prolific, says the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. This weed grows under a wide variety of soil conditions but thrives best in the moist fertile soils from grain fields, waste ground, and roadsides.

Perennial Sow Thistle is a vigorous, deep - rooted weed containing a milky juice, spreading by seeds and by fleshy, horizontal, easily broken roots that bear new buds at frequent intervals. The bright orange and yellow flowers found on the erect 2 - to - 5 - feet - high stems are about 1-1½ inches in diameter. Perennial sow thistle may be easily distinguished from the annual sow thistle by its creeping roots, larger flower heads, and by the predominate sticky hairs on the bracts of the flower head.

Good after - harvest cultivation with a cultivator or springtooth harrow is the best approach to eradication. The underground root stalks must be lifted out of the soil and allowed to dry. The use of a disc harrow is not recommended because it cuts the roots up and each small piece will spread and re-infest the field. Before the advent of selective weed killers a good cultivation practice was: "Plow in July, when it's hot and dry".

The use of 2,4-D at rates of 8 oz. of active acid per acre when spraying cereals and corn will only kill the tops and prevent seed formation. To kill the roots, from 10 to 16 oz. of 2,4-D active acid is recommended on the infested areas only, and repeated treatments will probably be necessary. Application of 2,4-DB in corn and cereals at 20 to 24 ob. of active acid per acre is showing great promise in killing both roots and tops of this noxious weed, with no crop injury.

TORONTO (CP)—Art Wall Jr., a machine-like professional from Pocono Manor, Pa., was the man to watch today as a reduced field headed into the third round of the $27,000 Canadian open golf championship.

The slim, 36 - year - old shotmaker with a reputation of improving under pressure, fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday to seize the lead at the halfway mark in the 72-hole tournament with a 36-hole 133.

One shot back at 134 were Toronto's gangling Al Balding, the surprise first-round leader with a brilliant 64 who fell off to a 70 Thursday, and Tommy Jacobs from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., who tacked a brilliant 65 on to his opening 69.

QUICK SWITCH

But it was Wall, easy-going off the course but grimly efficient when the game starts, who was the player to fear in this 51st Open at the 35-37 par-72 St. George's Club layout.

Golf's leading money winner and Masters champion last year summed it up:

"When you're in front the other fellas have to catch you."

A total of 105 players—99 pros and six amateurs—survived the second-round cut. A score of 149 or better was required. The field will be further reduced to the low 60 and ties for Saturday's showdown round.

Fifty-three shooters broke par Thursday including former U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt, who was all alone at 135. And still very much in contention with 136 were five other Americans—Jay Hebert, Bob Goalby, Paul Harney, Gene Littler and Sam Snead, the 48-year-old veteran who won the Open in 1938-40-41.

Snead carded a 69 and blew a chance to tie for the lead when he took a three-over-par seven on the fourth hole when he hooked his tee shot out of bounds.

Wall, putting for six birdies while going one-over-par on only one hole, toured the front in in two-under-par 33 and came home in three-under 34.

He started his birdie string on the second hole, a par-four, by sinking a 35-footer and followed with a 15-foot birdie putt on the ninth. He two - putted the 11th from 20 feet for a birdie four, dropped a 12-footer for a birdie three on the 15th and closed with short putts for birdie fours on the 17th, and 18th.

The 16th was the only hole where Wall went over regulation figures when he took a four after chipping out of a sand trap and missing a five-foot putt.

Balding, who flopped in last year's open after leading in the first round, admitted he was hard-pressed to get his 70.

ADMITS LUCK

"I was lucky," said the two-time Canadian PGA champion. "I could just as easily have had an 80 the way I was spraying some of my shots. But I was getting home with some good putts and that made up for it."

Al had six birdies to offset three holes on which he went one-over-par.

He birdied the fifth with a 30-foot putt, had another birdie on the ninth when his 15-footer for an eagle rimmed the cup; dropped a 10-foot putt for another birdie on the 14th; birdied the 17th by rolling in a 17-footer and two-putted from 40 feet for a birdie on the 18th.

Balding hit sand traps on the third and sixth holes to go one-over-par each time and was one-over on the 13th, two - putting from eight feet.

Don January, of Dallas, Tex., in second place with a 65 in the first round, blew as cold as his name Thursday by shooting a 77 to fall nine strokes off the pace at 142.

Whom Do You Suppose Is Boxer of Month?

NEW YORK (AP) — To nobody's surprise, Floyd Patterson was named "fighter of the month" by Ring magazine in its semi-monthly ratings, announced today.

The heavyweight champion's unparalleled feat of regaining the title made him a natural for the nomination. Ingemar Johansson, dethroned by Patterson, was dropped to the No. 4 spot among the challengers, with massive Sonny Liston in the No. 1 spot, Zora Folley second and Eddie Machen third.

Carl (Bobo) Olson of Portland, Ore., former middleweight champion, moved into the top 10 in the light-heavyweight ranks by upsetting Mike Holt of South Africa. Bobo is ranked No. 7, and Holt dropped to sixth from third. Willie Pastrano of Miami went to No. 4 from No. 8 and Chic Calderwood of Scotland to No. 3 from No. 4.

National Boxing Association world champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, still is rated No. 1 challenger in the middleweight class as a result of his second decisive victory over Carmen Basilio. Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., is recognized by Ring, New York, Massachusetts and the European Federation as the titleholder.

Benny Paret took over the welterweight crown through his victory over Don Jordan, the defeat dropping Jordan to third place behind challengers Luis Rodriguez of Cuba and Fredrico Thompson of Argentina.

Will Compete In Gymnastics

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-four senior male and female gymnasts will compete for three places on Canada's Olympic gymnastic team in the Canadian gymnastic championships and Olympic trials here today and Saturday.

There will also be 52 competitors in the junior (18 and under) division Canadian championships. Competitors will come from Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Saskatchewan.

Stars competing in the meet include Mrs. Ernestine Russell Carter of the Windsor Gym Club, Canadian women's gymnastic champion for six years, United States champion in 1955, 1956, 1958 and 1959 and a member of Canada's 1956 Olympic team.

Franchise Shifted

Sugar Kings Out of Cuba

MONTREAL (CP) — Havana Sugar Kings of the International League have been ordered to play their baseball outside of Cuba.

League president Frank Shaughnessy announced Thursday night the Cuban franchise is being shifted "for the protection of the players."

A decision was expected today on the future home of the baseball team.

It is expected the team will play mostly at Jersey City, N.J., for the rest of the schedule.

Mr. Shaughnessy said the shift will probably be made sometime next week.

The move cuts the class AAA International League down to two nations — Canada and the United States.

Told that Bobby Muduro, owner of the Sugar Kings, had denied knowing of the shift, Shaughnessy said: "Maduro probably won't like it but it's in his interest. We just want to make sure everyone is safe."

POLITICS PLAY PART

The political situation in Cuba, particularly the wave of anti-Americanism by Premier Fidel Castro's regime, was cited as the reason for the move.

The Sugar Kings have a working agreement with Cincinnati Reds of the National League and many of their players are U.S. citizens.

"We have to protect our players and the only way to do it is to get them out of there," Shaughnessy said.

Shaughnessy was instrumental in getting Havana to join the International League in 1954 and the city has always been one of the league's best for attendance and interest.

Shaughnessy said he will have to talk to Sugar King officials to work out details of a shift.

"I'll have to ask them where they want to go," he said.

It is expected the team will play home games at Jersey City, Cincinnati, and other U.S. cities, but mostly at Jersey City.

CANADIAN TEAM WINS

BISLEY, England (Reuters)—A Canadian Army rifle team won the Hamilton Leigh Challenge Cup Thursday, sending down 15 snap shooting targets in 47.4 seconds after covering an obstacle course. Members of the team all were from the Black Watch Regiment.

American Yachts Lead Field In Dragon Class

CLAYTON, N.Y. (CP)—American craft made a fine opening showing in overall points during the first day of the three - day dragon-class trophy races for the Great Lakes championship.

The sleek yacht Sea Hawk, skippered by J.W. Moran of the Bayview Yacht Club, Detroit, sailed to fourth and second positions in the first two races Thursday of the five-race series. She accumulated a first overall total of 66 points.

The first position, combined with a fifth overall placing of Yankee Doodle, at 58¼ points, gives the U.S. its best start in the races since the series was inaugurated in 1955.

Yankee Doodle had Walter Swindenen of Toledo, Ohio, at her helm.

Second was Arnold Massey of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto, sailing Tomahawk to 62¼ points. Tomahawk is the sole Canadian-built dragon in the races. Most of the craft are constructed in Europe. Quebec yachts were third and fourth.

Winner of the series each year also earns the right to compete in the world championship Gold Cup races in Europe. At present, Walter Windeyer of the RCYC is defending the world's crown in Holland.

The first race Thursday was run on a modified gold cup course while the second was on a windward-leeward course. The final is Saturday.

Jimmy Foxx Broke Again

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, member of baseball's Hall of Fame who earned $250,000 during his playing days, applied for Illinois unemployment compensation Wednesday.

"I figure I'm all through with the restaurant," Foxx, 52, said.

He referred to his job as manager of the Jimmy Foxx restaurant in Galesburg. Its owners, Nunzio and Tony Mangieri and Joe Donato, ofered him the job as manager a year ago after learning the former home run star was in financial straits.

"It just didn't work out," was the only comment by the owners, who failed to renew Foxx's contract which expired June 1.
